FREEDOM CALL SOUNDED

Cause Of Negro Must Prevail

If black militants are successful in their drive for equality, "for the first time this will be the land of the free."

The audience, black and white, had gathered to observe the close of Negro History Week with a program of songs, dancing and talks, sponsored by the Marin Art and Culture Club.

Black and whites have to respect each other and white men have to realize that "black men, red men and yellow and brown men are basically human beings," Taliaferro asserted. "White people and black people are people."

White people have got to understand why the black militants "are here," he said.

They are seeking redress of gievances from the establishment as George Washington sought redress from King George III, Taliaferro contended.

However, he said, their grievances are more serious than those against the king.

Black people live an unequal existence, and it has to stop, Taliaferro said.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People tried to get the Constitution enforced and failed, he said. Then there were demonstrations, and a few restaurants and movies were integrated. Then there was rioting and "we're still not free. What is it going to take to bring about freedom, equality and justice?" he asked. "I don't know. Everything has been tried."

This country "has never had a president to uphold the Constitution of the United States," Taliaferro charged. Neither has any governor, any mayor, or

GRAND JURY REPORT

County Workers' Vacations Ripped

The Marin County 1968 Grand Jury, sharply criticizing the board of supervisors for granting county employees three weeks vacation after one year of employment, has urged the supervisors to countermand that policy.

"This committee attempted on several occasions to meet with the board of supervisors for enlightenment and understanding of the plan," the grand jury's county offices committee said in the jury's final report Friday, but, "unfortunately, the board declined to discuss the situation with us."

The three-week vacation was approved, 3-2, by the supervisors last July. Only two of the present supervisors were on the board at that time, with William A. Gnoss voting for the policy and John F. McInnis voting against it.

The old policy gave employees two weeks after the first year, three after five years, and four after 15 years. The new policy also provides four weeks after 10 years.

The grand jury committee figured the cost to the taxpayers of the new policy at $138,580 during the current fiscal year. Former Supervisor Peter H. Behr, who voted for the new policy, estimated at the time that it would cost $41,000, and his figure was not challenged in July.

"As the total of county employment increases, it follows that the amount will be successively larger," warned the grand jury committee. "Over and beyond the county costs generated by this plan," it added, "would be those, through the precedent set, that would have to be borne by the various incorporated areas in the county as well as private enterprises."

The committee noted it was requested to investigate the vacation benefit by numerous businessmen and chambers of commerce.

The committee also urged that the 1969 grand jury, appointed Friday, have the collective bargaining agreement between the county and Social Workers Union Local 535, which sparked the new vacation policy "carefully checked by qualified labor relations experts immediately. Negotiations are now in process," it noted, "and we feel that the county has placed itself in an area in which they are not informed."

These experts also should check the county's salary ordinance, the committee said.

"We would sincerely hope that the board of supervisors, on the basis of the above evaluation, seriously consider re-negotiation this coming year in order to be guided to a firmer attitude on a vacation policy more in line with general practice," the committee concluded.

The criticism of the vacation policy was paralleled by criticism of the county planning and probation departments, reported Saturday in the Independent-Journal.

Among its comments on other departments and offices were:

AUDITOR-CONTROLLER — "Our auditor-controller, Michael Mitchell, is expertly and efficiently carrying out the duties of his office and the grand jury feels that this effort deserves the recognition and praise of the people of the County of Marin."

WELFARE — The grand jury commended the Department of Public Social Services, which handles welfare programs, for reducing auditing errors, but the jury's audit and finance committee "strongly recommended that a representative of the auditor-controller's office be

Aquanaut Dies At Long Beach

Death Halts Sea Test

LONG BEACH (AP) — A U.S. aquanaut died of a heart attack today while checking air leaks on the Sealab 3,610 feet below the surface of the sea, the Navy said today. It suspended diving operations and ordered the undersea habitat brought to the surface.

The victim was Berry L. Cannon, 33, an electronics engineer from Panama City, Fla. The Navy said the experiment would be suspended until an autopsy was performed to determine what caused the heart attack.

The Navy blamed the death, first since the Sealab underwater exploration program began in 1964, on "cardiac arrest."

Cannon was one of four divers who went down early today to investigate air leaks from the 57x12-foot Sealab 3 on the floor of the ocean about a mile off San Clemente Island. They made the trip in a pressurized Personnel Transfer Capsule lowered by cable from the USS Elk River.

SWIMMING OVER

The Navy said Cannon left the capsule and was swimming over to the habitat when stricken. He was returned to the capsule by a companion diver and was immediately lifted to the surface and transferred to a decompression chamber on the deck of the ship.

"First examination of Cannon's diving equipment after return to the surface indicated it was working normally," a spokesman said. "It was also operating normally when he left the diving capsule.

The leak was similar to a minor one in Sealab 2, in which three teams of 10 men spent 15-day periods 205 feet under the surface off La Jolla, Calif. In Sealab 1, four men lived 11 days at a depth of 193 feet off Bermuda in 1964.

In preparation for today's descent, the men of Sealab 3 arranged to spend 24 hours inside two compression chambers aboard the surface support ship, the USS Elk River. The pressure was increased gradually to equal that on the ocean floor.

BOX-LIKE HOME

Their box-like home for 12 days was lowered to the ocean bottom near offshore San Clemente Island. The habitat was pressurized at 19 times normal —about 270 pounds per square inch—just enough to keep it from flooding. The men thus can swim in and out of the diving bells and the habitat without using hatches.

The men are the first of five teams who will spend two months in all, living and working, in 47-degree water under such pressure.

Polls To Be Open 7 A.M. To 8 P.M.

Voters in the San Rafael Elementary School District will go to the polls tomorrow to decide on a $2.1 million bond proposal.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The county elections department has reported 16,332 voters are eligible to cast ballots in tomorrow's election, which the San Rafael Board of Education has estimated will add not more than 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate.

The bonds would provide funds for construction of a new middle school in Glenwood and the modernization of Laurel Dell, West End and Santa Venetia schools.

In addition, improvements and correction of safety hazards are planned at Bahia Vista, Davidson, Gallinas, Hartzell, MacPhail, Short and Sun Valley schools.

There is not only a building program but an educational concept involved in the bond issue. That is, if the bonds are passed, there will be three middle schools — schools in which sixth, seventh and eighth graders are grouped together.

Davidson Junior High School would become a middle school; Santa Venetia Middle School has been operating under this system since 1966 and there would be the proposed new school—Glenwood.

The bond proposal envisions relocation of sixth grades at the new Glenwood school to free classrooms at Bahia Vista, Coleman, Glenwood, Laurel Dell Intermediate, San Pedro, Sun Valley and West End schools.

The new middle school, ultimately to handle 900 students, is estimated to cost about $1.9 million, with $428,000 from present bond funds being used in addition to the financing that would be voted tomorrow.

Improvements at other schools are to cost near $600,000.

The Glenwood Middle School plant would contain a resource center including library, surrounded by five classroom buildings which would house 130 pupils each; a gymnasium, a special classroom, an athletic

Bombers Up At End Of Truce

SAIGON (AP) — The thunder of bombs from U.S. B52 bombers reverberated throughout Saigon tonight as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces resumed offensive operations after a 24-hour truce for the start of the lunar new year.

Allied infantrymen resumed some 60 operations they had interrupted briefly for the new year festival known as Tet, and U.S. warplanes went back into action. The aim was to maintain pressure on Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces so they could not repeat the Tet offensive hich gave the allies such a setback last February.

The allied truce ended at 6 p.m. Saigon time, and 22 minutes later waves of B52s were dropping tons of explosives only 31 miles north of Saigon on the fringes of Communist War Zone D. Seven miles west of the capital, smaller American fighter-bombers attacked a Viet Cong bunker complex.

In the central highlands, American artillery opened fire on enemy troop concentrations near Kontum City 45 seconds after the truce ended.

Military spokesmen said the allies would ignore the rest of the seven-day Viet Cong ceasefire, which runs until 7 a.m. Saturday, just as they ignored the first 35 hours of it.

U.S. headquarters said the enemy violated its own ceasefire and the period of allied truce with at least 170 attacks during the 53 hours from 7 a.m. Saturday until noon today.

Headquarters reported that 128 of these incidents occurred during the first 18 hours of the allied truce, including an attempt early today by hundreds of North Vietnamese to overrun a U.S. Marine artillery base near the Laotian border.

During the allied truce, U.S. headquarters said, eight Americans were killed and 71 wounded, while American forces killed at least 96 of the enemy and captured seven.

A witness who stopped a moment later found Mrs. Lanning body pinned under the car apparently lifeless.

Mrs. Ehrmantraut's sister-in-law, Viola P. Tickle, 30, of 18 Wilson Street, Petaluma, was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of being drunk in public, and posted $35 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Mrs. Lanning, wife of M/Sgt. Carl A. Lanning Jr., was walking home when she was killed, the coroner's office said. Her death is the third traffic fatality in Marin County this year. There were none by this date last year.

Mrs. Lanning is also survived by three daughters, Deborah, Donita and Dierdra. She was a native of New York and had lived eight years in California and three years in Marin. Funeral is pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Chant In Madison: Back Black Demands

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Several hundred protesting University of Wisconsin students poured into an administration and class building today chanting, "support the black demands, support the black demands."

The students entered Bascom Hall and surged through hallways calling for support for black student demands.

National guardsmen were still on the 33,000-student campus but a peaceful weekend had encouraged Gov. Warren P. Knowles to forecast imminent withdrawal of the troops.

The governor expressed his hope for an early withdrawal during a visit yesterday to an armory where some of the troops were stationed after students began a classroom boycott a week ago in support of Negro demands.

"We've got to maintain law and order, or our democracy will be gone," the Republican governor said.

An estimated 27 persons were taken into custody last week during brief clashes with police and guardsmen. There were few injuries, and demonstration leaders continually urged protesters to avoid conflicts with the officers.

The demonstrations and picketing began with Negroes demanding an autonomous department of Negro affairs, special curriculum and full student control over hiring of instructors for Negro courses.

A Plea Of Celibacy By Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI warned today that priests who want to marry or enter into other aspects of ordinary human life have fallen into a "very grave error" that can paralyze the priestly vocation.

The Pope delivered his warning in a speech to Rome Lenten preachers. It came as pressures for ending priestly celibacy are mounting in various parts of the world, especially Holland, and have even reached in to Italy in recent weeks.

The Pope made clear he was not concerned only with the celibacy question, but with the broader problem of priests seeking to take up a life like other men as a means of making contact with modern society.

"Let's be careful," he said. "This desire to insert the priest into society...is good. But from the generous proposal of escaping from the shell of a crystalized and privileged condition, one can fall into a very grave error which can paralyze the priestly vocation ...and can demolish in one blow the edifice of priestly service."

The Pope said that Christ "wants us in the world, but not of the world."

He warned against "wanting to make of the priest a man like any other, in clothing, in profane profession, in attendance at public entertainments, in worldly experience, in social and political activity and in the formation of a family of his own with the abdication of the sacred celibacy."

The Pope also warned against against authority in the church, reforms in the church and rebel priests who demand structural reforms in the church and rebel against authority in the church.

Strikers Go To Classes At San Francisco State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)—Striking students and professors attended classes at the opening of San Francisco State College's spring semester today to circumvent an enrollment check system instituted by acting president S. I. Hayakawa.

A handful of teachers picketed at the main campus entrance while most of the 250 striking professors met with their students to keep their courses from being dropped by the administration.

Striking students also went to class to guarantee their status under a registration card system initiated by Hayakawa. The cards must be signed by both student and teacher on the first day of class.

"Our members shall establish their classes by meeting the first (and only the first) section of each course," said a leaflet handed out by members of the striking American Federation of Teachers.

The violence-ridden school reopened after a two-week break with its administration building battered by a bomb-blast and Hayakawa vowing students and faculty will be "protected by whatever means necessary."

Militant student disrupted at least one class by refusing to let the teacher speak. About 30 of the 100 students in a class taught by John Bunzel read "Quotations from Chairman Mao" and yelled for 20 minutes until he gave up and left the room.

The political scientist has been a special target of militants since he publicly criticized

HIT ENROLLMENT CHECK

Strikers Go To Classes At San Francisco State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Striking students and professors attended classes at the opening of San Francisco State College's spring semester today to circumvent an enrollment check system instituted by acting president S. I. Hayakawa.

A handful of teachers picketed at the main campus entrance while most of the 250 striking professors met with their students to keep their courses from being dropped by the administration.

Striking students also went to class to guarantee their status under a registration card system initiated by Hayakawa. The cards must be signed by both student and teacher on the first day of class.

"Our members shall establish their classes by meeting the first (and only the first) section of each course," said a leaflet handed out by members of the striking American Federation of Teachers.

The violence-ridden school reopened after a two-week break with its administration building battered by a bomb-blast and Hayakawa vowing students and faculty will be "protected by whatever means necessary."

Militant student disrupted at least one class by refusing to let the teacher speak. About 30 of the 100 students in a class taught by John Bunzel read "Quotations from Chairman Mao" and yelled for 20 minutes until he gave up and left the room.

The political scientist has been a special target of militants since he publicly criticized

Farmer Sees Funding To Slum Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Farmer, highest ranking Negro appointee of President Nixon, says he has "every expectation" the Republican administration will support a "black capitalism" proposal being pushed by the Congress of Racial Equality.

Farmer, founder, and longtime director of CORE, will become assistant secretary for administration in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare about April 1.

He said yesterday he expects the administration to back proposed legislation which would cost an estimated $1 billion a year for the first two years. It would set up a national Community Development Bank to back loans for slum redevelopment.

Farmer said he had not discussed specifics with the President but "I do know his thinking and support of economic development of the black community."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

After U.S. Aid

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — After getting a measure of support from France, Biafra is going after the diplomatic jackpot — backing from the United States.

The accession of the Nixon administration, a sharp increase in private and government relief aid from the United States for refugees and visits by U.S. congressmen have given the Biafrans the idea that the time is ripe for wooing Washington.

The Biafrans were pleased by the visit of the first offiicial U.S. congressional delegation to go to both sides in the Nigerian civil war. The delegation, headed by Rep. Charles C. Diggs,Jr., D-Mich, left Saturday night after a two-day visit.

Labels Outlawed

LONDON (AP) — British servicemen assigned to the Middle East will be told to cut "Jewish labels" from their clothing, the Ministry of Defense announced today.

"Arabs are likely to confiscate the clothing if they see the tags," a spokesman said. "A simple matter like a soldier hanging up in public a shirt or jacket with a brand label of a Jewish firm could cause trouble."

"We do not want to inflame the political situation in Arab countries in any way," an army spokesman said.

Warns Of Violence

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Zakir Husain today warned India of the danger of violence "from certain extremist political groups which seek to change the social and political structure by armed insurrection."

In a state of the union message to a meeting of both houses of Parliment which began a three-month budget session, Husain said, "The doctrines propounded by these groups are clearly subversive and area detrimental to orderly government and progress."

Husain apparently was refering to Maoist sects and parochial organizations such as the Shiv Sena in Bombay.

12,401 Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More people lost their lives in earthquakes around the world last year than in any year since 1960, according to the National Earthquake Information Center. The center said 20 quakes in 13 foreign countries took 12,401 lives.

Changes Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Honey Fritz and the Patrick J. are now the Julie and the Patricia. President Nixon announced the name changes for the two presidential yachts during the weekend. The old names were given the cabin cruisers by President Kennedy, in honor of his grandfathers. Nixon decided to rename the boats after his daughters.

Rembrandt Stolen

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — A Rembrandt and two other paintings worth an estimated $250,000 were stolen from the Cumberland House art exhibition during the weekend.

Officials discovered the theft when they opened the gallery today. The paintings had been removed from their frames.

The Rembrandt, part of a touring exhibition, is the portrait 'An Old Man Wearing Black." The other pictures stolen were Corot's "Aux Bords de la Riviere" and a painting of the school of Frans Van Mieris.

Borman In Spain

Soon after his arrival from Rome with his family, Borman came to the Plaza Colon to place a wreath at the towering statue of Christopher Columbus, or Cristobal Colon in Spanish.

On hand to greet the American good-will ambassador was Cristobal Colon de Carvajaly Maroto, 17th Duke of Veragua and hereditary Admiral of the Ocean Sea. The title was created in 1537 for Diego Columbus, the explorer's son.

More Firing Claimed By Tuna Boat Owner

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The skipper of the U. S. tuna boat San Juan, one of five tuna vessels fired on Friday by Peruvian gunboats, says he believes shots were fired at him in the harbor at Salinas, Ecuador, as he returned to his vessel aboard an auxiliary craft.

The captain, Vernon Bowman, co-owner of the San Juan, said by radio yesterday he had gone ashore to get clearance for his ship and that, in the presence of two unidentified U.S. representatives, had been told by Salinas port officials he had clearance to leave the harbor.

When the American authorities left, Bowman said he was told he would not be allowed to lift anchor or be allowed to use radio contact with anyone, according to August Felando, manager of the American Tuna Boat Association. Felando said Bowman talked with him by radio.

As he was proceeding to the San Juan aboard a small whaling boat, Bowman said, there were two large splashes near his craft. He said he did not hear cannon fire because of high wind.

Once aboard the San Juan, Bowman pulled anchor and sped to sea, leaving the boat's official documents ashore.

The U.S. State Department had received clearance from Ecuador for the San Juan to enter the port, Felando said.

In Washington, the State Department said it had its consul in Guayaquil looking into the situation.

In the episode Friday 23 miles off the coast of Peru, one of the tuna boats, the Mariner, was captured and taken to the port of Talara, where it was released after the captain paid a $2,000 fine.

John Verissimo, regular captain of the San Juan, had reported by radio-telephone that, after putting men aboard the Mariner, the gunboat "fired more than 50 shots at us. They tried to board us from the stern, but I outmaneuvered them."

The State Department protested to Peru's ambassador in Washington. On Saturday, Peru ordered its ambassador home from Washington for consultations and also recalled its ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Israeli Jets Knock Out Arab Posts

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets flew over Jordan again today to knock out Arab guerrilla positions that fired bazookas on an Israeli patrol in the southern Beisan Valley, an army spokesman said.

The spokesman said Israeli ground troops returned the fire and "a few planes were called in." There were no Israeli casualties. It was the second time in less than a week that Israeli planes attacked guerrilla positions inside Jordan.

The army also said 16 persons were injured in several explosions yesterday inside Israeli-occupied territory.

Eight Arab civilians were wounded when their car was hit by a grenade aimed at an Israeli military truck in Nablus. Twelve persons were arrested.

Three Arab youths were wounded while examining a piece of iron tubing that exploded, and four Israeli soldiers and a civilian were injured when Israeli army vehicles touched off two mines in the Negev desert.

Chinese Interrupt Hong Kong Cruise

HONG KONG (AP) — A flotilla of Hong Kong yachts was warned not to sail to Macao on a holiday cruise for the Chinese new year. Now the Chinese Reds are believed to have three of the yachts and 15 of the holidayers, including four Americans.

Sources at Hong Kong's Royal Yacht Club said the yachtsmen had been told the cruise "was not a good thing at this particular time." And an official of the Hong Kong Marine Department said only one of the six yachts had cleared its plans with the department.

Two Dutch news photographers sailing one of the yachts that got to Macao said a Chinese army officer who boarded their boat let them go when he saw they were Dutch, were wearing high-neck Mao jackets and had a portrait of Mao Tse-tung hanging in the yacht's lounge.

"I see we are friends," the officer told the Dutchmen in English, then apologized and pinned Mao badges on their jackets.

One of the Dutchmen, Ed Van Kan, said the boarding party came from a gunboat which was later joined by four armed junks.

The yacht club sources said previous holiday cruises to Macao had gone off without incident. But the sailors this year were warned of the strained relations between Peking and the Hong Kong government because of the imprisonment of Communists held responsible for the 1965 anti-British campaign of violence in the colony.

The Portuguese colony of Macao is 40 miles across the mouth of the Pearl River estuary from Hong Kong and on an island just off the Chinese mainland. China claims a 12-mile limit to its territorial waters, and the sea route between the two colonies thus lies in Chinese waters, but ferries sail regularly along the route without interference.

The six yachts set out Saturday, anchored for the night off an island midway between Hong Kong and Macao, and resumed the voyage yesterday. Then they became separated in thick fog. Only three of the yachts, the Nordica, Tolo and Koala, reached the Portuguese colony.

There are more than 18,000 miles of road in Alabama.

Watts Group Still Digging Out White Homeowners

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Weeks after hillside homes were hit by floods and mudslides, a group of Negro volunteers still quietly works to help the white homeowners dig out.

The Negroes call it a "Hands Across the Country" campaign. There is no cost to the owners of the damaged property.

The Watts Labor Community Action Committee provided the 50 workers, who are paid $1.40 an hour by a federal grant. Normally, they work on improvement projects in their own neighborhoods.

"We saw here the means to use our muscle to show the community appreciation for some of the things they have done for us," said Ted Watkins, coordinator of the project.

More than 4,500 man-hours have been spent since last month by workers in exclusive Mandeville and Benedict canyons.

"They did an amazing amount of work while they were here," said one resident, whose basement was flooded with mud and debris. "They're doing a magnificent job of helping people."

"I think what those men are doing is a wonderful thing to break down a lot of prejudices," said one elderly lady whose home was made livable again by the workers.

"They don't know me from Adam."

Napa and Sonoma valleys: Increasing cloudiness, leading to a chance of showers this afternoon and tonight; clearing Tuesday; high both days 60; low tonight 45; southerly winds 10-20 m.p.h.

Southern California: Increasing clouds today; showers likely west portion tonight and Tuesday and few showers in deserts Tuesday; gusty winds late today and Tuesday; cooler Tuesday.

Jet Returned After Payment

MIAMI (AP) — A Venezuelan airliner hijacked to Cuba last week has returned to Venezuela after payment of $31,466.80 to Cuba for expenses incurred, Havana radio said today.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said Cuban investigation showed that "the Aeropostal lines plane which landed in Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 11 was diverted from its route by three Venezuelan guerrillas."

Cuba delayed the plane's return until Venezuela sent another to supply fuel for it. Last December, Venezuela seized a Cuban fishing vessel, the Alecrin, claiming it was supplying help to Castroite anti-government guerrillas. The Alecrin later was released.

Senator To Speak On Foreign Policy

"Needed, a New Foreign Policy for the United States," is the subject of a talk to be given by Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) at 8:15 p.m. Friday, in the Fine Arts Building, College of Marin, Kentfield.

Church served nine years on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands will host a dinner for the senator, a conservationist, and Marin County conservationists prior to the lecture.

California Man Follows Doctors' Advice For Treating Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Millbrae, Cal. Mr. C. H. Wahl of Millbrae reports: "I'm 68 years old and been suffering from hemorrhoids. I asked several doctors about it. They said I should continue using Preparation H which I had started to use. I'm very grateful for Preparation H. It has such a soothing effect and it certainly relieved my pain."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Closed Session Set On County Employees

Marin supervisors will huddle in closed session tomorrow with the county team that is negotiating new contracts with the Marin County Employees Association and other bargaining units.

The county negotiating team, comprised of County Administrator, Alan Bruce, County Counsel, Douglas Maloney, and Personnel Director Robert Elliott, will report on bargaining progress with the employee groups. The supervisors, who have voted to hold the tax rate at the present $2.27 per $100 of assessed valuation, will instruct the team on how firm a stand it should take in the negotiations.

Following the closed meeting, at 9 a.m., supervisors are scheduled to convene at 10:45 a.m. in regular session.

An offer to swap $800,000 worth of land north of the Civic Center for the San Rafael Courthouse will be discussed and John H. Atkinson, director of communications, will ask for reorganization of his staff to make his department function more efficiently.

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council will seek an additional $15,000 from reserve funds to continue its present program to April 1, while Austin J. Thompson, director of the Human Rights Department, will ask for approval of an application for federal funds to hire two persons to help administer fair employment practices legislation.

County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema wants permission to apply for federal aid to build the Novato Branch Library. Federal funds would cover $186,570 of the $574,000 cost.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost will recommend award of a contract to extend the runway and install lighting at Gnoss Field to Brownely Co. of San Rafael, which sumitted a low bid of $103,746.

Several planning and zoning hearings are set for the afternoon.

Tennessee is known as the hardwood flooring center of the United States.

In this tire-squealing, torque-out world, is there a place for an automobile that can stop heroically?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

At a traffic light, a number of sleek, snarling domestic cars can blast ahead of the sedate Mercedes-Benz 250 pictured at right.

So be it, say Mercedes-Benz engineers. So be it, say Mercedes-Benz 250 owners.

The 250 comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. No domestic sedan does. Something to stop and think about.

A question of emphasis

It's not that the Mercedes-Benz engineers don't know how to build a potent motor car.

Their 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL, for example, recently appraised by Road and Track as "merely the greatest sedan in the world," is the fastest series production sedan ever made.

But that exuberant machine is intended for the autobahns, and other wide open spaces, where high speed driving is relatively safe. And it sells to a rather rarefied clientele at a rather rarefied $14,450*.

For their bread-and-butter models in the $4,500 to $10,000 range—cars for everyday people in everyday traffic—Mercedes-Benz engineers take a much more pragmatic view. Stubbornly refusing to sacrifice a driver's pocketbook to his libido, they insist on striking a sane balance between engine size and fuel economy.

Result: the new 250 is endowed with a 6-cylinder, overhead-cam, 7-main-bearing gem of a powerplant. It can hurtle this 3,000 pound Mercedes-Benz along indefinitely at the highest posted speeds in America—with energy in reserve. Yet fuel consumption rivals that of the lowliest domestic compacts.

Turnabout

The owner of a Mercedes-Benz 250, on the other hand, can confidently challenge the driver of any domestic sedan to a stoplight duel—at stopping.

Why do experts rate discs superior to conventional drum brakes?

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather driving when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in one smoking panic stop after another at extreme speeds—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus to resist fading or lock-up, the most common types of brake failure.

Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. In a Mercedes-Benz, they are.

One-upmanship

As you might expect, the Mercedes-Benz 250 also handles and corners better than all domestic sedans—even the newest 1969 "dreamboats" to roll off the assembly line.

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of conventional cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension, plus anti-sway bars front and rear. The result is leech-like roadability—even on rutted and potholed gravel lanes.

There is no sloppy play in the steering, either. You are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car reacts instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners. Quite a distinction.

The pinnacle of safety

Of all the world's motor cars, concluded Car and Driver magazine after roadtesting the new 250, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

This sober judgment is based in part on the remarkable responsiveness of the 250, its almost uncanny ability to evade blundering motorists.

But it reflects, too, the extraordinary measures Mercedes-Benz engineers have taken to provide protective packaging for passengers if the worst happens—measures that go beyond the letter of U.S. safety regulations.

The 250's entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"My car was wrecked," reported a Mercedes-Benz owner after a serious head-on collision, "but thanks to Mercedes-Benz safety engineering, I escaped with my life."

Flat-out in comfort

The 250 is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Probing with stethoscopes, engineers tracked down and winnowed out irksome harmonic vibrations in the bodywork and drive train. "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," observed a journalist after test runs on a racing circuit.

Slip into the seat of a 250. It reclines—for catnaps. Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Nudge the door closed. A satisfying "ka-chunk."

Born to last

Your 250 is built with uncompromising care to make it a durable investment, too. It is not bolted into being, like an ordinary car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car at the factory. The insides of the hubcaps are coated.

Even the lines are designed for durability. Mercedes-Benz scorns planned obsolescence, and deliberately gives all its motor cars the same classic look, free of faddish touches that can readily betray age—and erode your investment.

(Sidelight: While this similarity between Mercedes-Benz models and vintages is a boon to the owner of a 250, it may be a hazard to some drivers. Consider the traffic-light dragster who guns his engine at a "250"—only to writhe in the ignominy of having taunted a 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL instead.)

If you think the 250 sounds like an unconventional car, you're right. It is. Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

280SE Sedan—the most roadworthy car you can buy in the luxury class, fuel-injection engine, $6,577*.

220 Diesel—the only diesel Mercedes-Benz makes, gives small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

Grand Jury Rips Employees' Vacations

placed in the department." The auditor-controller is fiscally responsible for the department, "but in fact has very little control," the committee noted. "A firm of efficiency experts should be hired to study the time and motions and work flow of the department," it said.

NEW CAREERS AND FAIR-MARIN — The grand jury's county offices committee strongly urged that the 1969 grand jury investigate both the New Careers Program, which is to train minority workers for county jobs, and Fair-Marin, which is to administer the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium and the county fairgrounds, now under construction at the Civic Center.

PURCHASING — The county's purchasing department should not attempt to carry a full line of small office supplies, but instead permit individual offices to continue to order their own supplies. Terming the present system "very logical and efficient," the county offices committee said central purchasing of small supplies would be "clumsy, expensive and time consuming." Bids for services should go to Marin firms if the difference in bids "is small," it added.

RECORDER — Noting that the 1967 grand jury said this department was overstaffed, the offices committee said its staff now is justified because the department now collects the federal property transfer tax.

PERSONNEL OFFICE — "This office (should) be given its own identity as an independent department," the offices committee concluded, and complete personnel records should be kept both in the employing department and the personnel office.

HEALTH — The board of supervisors should act promptly on the Brown-Caldwell plan for county-wide waste disposal, the grand jury's health, welfare and hospital committee said.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE — A proposed central file system so all police chiefs in the county and the sheriff's office can have a record of all arrests was endorsed by the law enforcement committee, which also recommended that a chemist or criminologist be hired for the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau to eliminate the need to send work to San Francisco aboratories. The committee said a fund should be set up for the bureau so it always would have money to make "buys" of drugs. It commended Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for "carrying out his duties with the utmost efficiency."

BRIDGE DISTRICT — A 1968 bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to add elected officials to the board of directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and to spell out requirements for competitive bidding, probably "will restore confidence" in the district and "alleviate much of the adverse criticism prevalent during the past few years," the grand jury's municipalities, districts and commissions committee reported.

FIRE DEPARTMENT — A county service area should be formed to provide structural fire protection to Santa Venetia, the Civic Center, Rafael Meadows and Los Ranchitos; Bayside Acres and the golf tract either should annex to San Rafael or form a fire district or county service area for structural fire protection.

PUBLIC WORKS —The county's corporation yards at Mill Valley and Greenbrae should be sold because cities around both have expanded, and the yards no longer are needed, the public works committee said.

Austin W. Little of San Rafael, foreman of the grand jury, also suggested in a cover letter that changes be made in the grand jury system "if it is to accomplish the kind of service for which it was established."

The terms of the 19 jurors should be staggered "so that there is a continuing program," he said, and "instructional seminar" for jury members should be held by the presiding judge of the Superior Court. Jurors should be selected at the beginning of January so they can get to work early enough on the county budget, and a paid secretary should be assigned to the jury.

"Like most grand juries, we discover that about the time we have adequate background and constructive ideas, our term of office is completed," said Little.

Unless these improvements are made, he said, the effectiveness of the grand jury system "will steadily decrease."

political leader at any level upheld the Constitution, he said. "We have never been under a system of law and order."

The program's first speaker, Mrs. Mary Adebonojo of San Anselmo, history teacher at Dominican College of San Rafael, stressed that black history began long before slaves were brought to the United states.

She told of social organization in West Africa in the 16th Century, noting that there was intellectual and cultural life and opportunity for education there.

The Marin City Community Choir directed by Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God, sang several selections, and was joined by the audience in "Lift Every Voice," and the closing "We Shall Overcome."

The Margot Jones Dance Group, a lively group of youngsters, performed several numbers including African and modern soul dances.

Alma Wells and Beverly Barnes were vocal soloists while pianist Wyna Brown and organist George M. Duke provided accompaniment.

Mrs. Beatrice L. Duke, club founder, explained that the purpose of the club is to promote participation of youth in the arts and that scholarships are awarded to high school graduates from Marin City.

There was an exhibit of art works by local artists in the center lounge.

Werber, Friend Plead Innocent To Drug Counts

Entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber and his friend Judith Anne Sloper appeared in Marin Superior Court today, holding hands, to enter pleas of innocent to charges they possessed and grew marijuana at their DeSilva Island home.

A one week jury trial for the pair and two other defendants was set by Judge Harold J. Haley for the week of June 23.

The other two charged in the case, Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo, also pleaded innocent today to marijuana possession.

Customs and narcotics agents arrested the four on Oct. 14 after 258 pounds of marijuana was left in the garage of the Werber home on Richardson Bay by Stanley Mulligan and Charles Barrett, owners of Latitude 38 in Sausalito.

Werber, Barrett and Mulligan also face federal charges of conspiracy to import marijuana.

the University of Notre Dame, at South Bend, Ind., threw down the gauntlet to "anyone or any group that substitutes force for rational persuasion, be it violent or non-violent."

Anybody who tries to disrupt the normal activities of the university. Father Hesburgh said, "will be given 15 minutes of meditation to cease and desist."

"They will be told that they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what is proper here," he said. "If they do not, within that time period, cease and desist, they will be asked for their identity cards."

Any student whose card is picked up "will be suspended from this (university) community as not understanding what this community is," the Notre Dame president said. He said anybody who doesn't produce an I.D. card will be considered an outsider and charged with trespass.

Notre Dame has been relatively free of student protests. Students skirmished briefly last week with civil authorities who confiscated a movie being shown during a symposium on pornography. The film had been banned by Father Hesburgh. There was no property damage.

At Durham, N.C., Duke University has announced settlement with Negro students of a dispute that touched off campus disorders last week. A university official said the student protestors "didn't win any concessions."

Council Minus Candidates For Three Vacancies

With the deadline for filing only three days away, vacancies on the San Rafael City Council remain without candidates.

Expiring are the terms of Mayor C. Paul Bettini, Councilman Harry A. Barbier and Fred C. Robbins Jr., who was appointed to replace Louis H. Baar when he became a county supervisor.

Two persons have filed for two slots on the San Rafael Board of Education, but one of them has indicated he may decide not to run.

Lawrence I. Kramer, present chairman of the board of education, has filed for re-election, and Paul L. Jones, who was appointed to the school board in 1967 filed, but said he felt he had not been able to devote enough time to the post. "I would be happy to have someone else take the job," he said.

Candidates must file nomination papers signed by not less than five nor more than 10 voters by noon Thursday at the city clerk's office at city hall to qualify for the ballot.

Three Persons Shaken Up In Two Accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents yesterday in Novato, according to Novato police.

Arthur E. Bick and his wife, Susan C. Bick, both 24, of 777 McClary Road, Novato, sufered face and knee cuts when their motorcycle overturned at 12:10 p.m. Bick, the driver, said that they were turning from Highway 101 onto Atherton Avenue when the motorcycle slipped in the gravel.

Both were treated at Novato General Hospital.

Oliver A. Wallace, 56, of 677 Cherry Street, Novato, was treated for a cut nose at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, base officials reported.

Wallace was turning from Chase Street onto Cherry Street at 2:50 p.m. when his foot hit the accelerator instead of the brake and his car lurched forward, hitting a wall in front of the home of Mrs. Frances Farrell of 700 Chase Street, police reported.

the black nationalist philosophy of many of the strikers. The tires on his car were recently slashed.

Leaders of both the Black Students Union and Third World Liberation Front were among those in the classroom. Members of the police tactical squad watched from behind curtains in the small auditorium, but did not interfere. Students spotted them and began to shout "pig" and making oinking sounds.

Off campus, the state attorney general's office went to court seeking to have the student government removed from office and its funds placed into the control of a receiver. The suit charged misuse of funds by the Associated Students.

Hayakawa said yesterday's predawn blast was "characteristic of the neo-Fascist methods used by some of the radical elements around here."

The explosion, which could be heard for several miles, shattered 18 windows around the main entrance of the campus administration building and injured a campus policeman.

The bombing was the second in four days at the college and the latest in a series of violent incidents since the BSU called a strike Nov. 6 to back demands for an autonomous black studies program.

Mrs. Gareiss died Friday after a fall at a local convalescent hospital. Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan said Mrs. Gareiss died of natural causes.

A native of New York, she had been a resident of Marin for 20 years. She was the widow of Frank C. Gareiss.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Keaton Mortuary, San Rafael. Memorial contributions may be made to the donor's favorite charity.

Sabella Kidnap Hearing Held

Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22, were arraigned today in Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella on Nov. 24.

Stathos is also charged with the Oct. 28 robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in Larkspur.

A third defendant in the Sabella case, Walter John Hoefler, 26, pleaded guilty to lesser charges and was sentenced to a prison term to run concurrently with one he received from a robbery conviction in Sonoma County.

Both the defendants are in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Club Will Ask Funds For Trip

The Sausalito School District board tonight will consider a request by the Spanish Club at Martin Luther King School for assistance in its trip to Mexico this usmmer.

The club will ask the district to furnish a bus and driver and pay for fuel and oil for the trip.

Grand Jury Rips Employees' Vacations

placed in the department." The auditor-controller is fiscally responsible for the department, "but in fact has very little control," the committee noted. "A firm of efficiency experts should be hired to study the time and motions and work flow of the department," it said.

NEW CAREERS AND FAIR-MARIN — The grand jury's county offices committee strongly urged that the 1969 grand jury investigate both the New Careers Program, which is to train minority workers for county jobs, and Fair-Marin, which is to administer the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium and the county fairgrounds, now under construction at the Civic Center.

PURCHASING — The county's purchasing department should not attempt to carry a full line of small office supplies, but instead permit individual offices to continue to order their own supplies. Terming the present system "very logical and efficient," the county offices committee said central purchasing of small supplies would be "clumsy, expensive and time consuming." Bids for services should go to Marin firms if the difference in bids "is small," it added.

RECORDER — Noting that the 1967 grand jury said this department was overstaffed, the offices committee said its staff now is justified because the department now collects the federal property transfer tax.

PERSONNEL OFFICE — "This office (should) be given its own identity as an independent department," the offices committee concluded, and complete personnel records should be kept both in the employing department and the personnel office.

HEALTH — The board of supervisors should act promptly on the Brown-Caldwell plan for county-wide waste disposal, the grand jury's health, welfare and hospital committee said.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE — A proposed central file system so all police chiefs in the county and the sheriff's office can have a record of all arrests was endorsed by the law enforcement committee, which also recommended that a chemist or criminologist be hired for the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau to eliminate the need to send work to San Francisco aboratories. The committee said a fund should be set up for the bureau so it always would have money to make "buys" of drugs. It commended Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for "carrying out his duties with the utmost efficiency."

BRIDGE DISTRICT — A 1968 bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to add elected officials to the board of directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and to spell out requirements for competitive bidding, probably "will restore confidence" in the district and "alleviate much of the adverse criticism prevalent during the past few years," the grand jury's municipalities, districts and commissions committee reported.

FIRE DEPARTMENT — A county service area should be formed to provide structural fire protection to Santa Venetia, the Civic Center, Rafael Meadows and Los Ranchitos; Bayside Acres and the golf tract either should annex to San Rafael or form a fire district or county service area for structural fire protection.

PUBLIC WORKS —The county's corporation yards at Mill Valley and Greenbrae should be sold because cities around both have expanded, and the yards no longer are needed, the public works committee said.

Austin W. Little of San Rafael, foreman of the grand jury, also suggested in a cover letter that changes be made in the grand jury system "if it is to accomplish the kind of service for which it was established."

The terms of the 19 jurors should be staggered "so that there is a continuing program," he said, and "instructional seminar" for jury members should be held by the presiding judge of the Superior Court. Jurors should be selected at the beginning of January so they can get to work early enough on the county budget, and a paid secretary should be assigned to the jury.

"Like most grand juries, we discover that about the time we have adequate background and constructive ideas, our term of office is completed," said Little.

Unless these improvements are made, he said, the effectiveness of the grand jury system "will steadily decrease."

Council Minus Candidates For Three Vacancies

With the deadline for filing only three days away, vacancies on the San Rafael City Council remain without candidates.

Expiring are the terms of Mayor C. Paul Bettini, Councilman Harry A. Barbier and Fred C. Robbins Jr., who was appointed to replace Louis H. Baar when he became a county supervisor.

Two persons have filed for two slots on the San Rafael Board of Education, but one of them has indicated he may decide not to run.

Lawrence I. Kramer, present chairman of the board of education, has filed for re-election, and Paul L. Jones, who was appointed to the school board in 1967 filed, but said he felt he had not been able to devote enough time to the post. "I would be happy to have someone else take the job," he said.

Candidates must file nomination papers signed by not less than five nor more than 10 voters by noon Thursday at the city clerk's office at city hall to qualify for the ballot.

Three Persons Shaken Up In Two Accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents yesterday in Novato, according to Novato police.

Arthur E. Bick and his wife, Susan C. Bick, both 24, of 777 McClary Road, Novato, sufered face and knee cuts when their motorcycle overturned at 12:10 p.m. Bick, the driver, said that they were turning from Highway 101 onto Atherton Avenue when the motorcycle slipped in the gravel.

Both were treated at Novato General Hospital.

Oliver A. Wallace, 56, of 677 Cherry Street, Novato, was treated for a cut nose at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, base officials reported.

Wallace was turning from Chase Street onto Cherry Street at 2:50 p.m. when his foot hit the accelerator instead of the brake and his car lurched forward, hitting a wall in front of the home of Mrs. Frances Farrell of 700 Chase Street, police reported.

the black nationalist philosophy of many of the strikers. The tires on his car were recently slashed.

Leaders of both the Black Students Union and Third World Liberation Front were among those in the classroom. Members of the police tactical squad watched from behind curtains in the small auditorium, but did not interfere. Students spotted them and began to shout "pig" and making oinking sounds.

Off campus, the state attorney general's office went to court seeking to have the student government removed from office and its funds placed into the control of a receiver. The suit charged misuse of funds by the Associated Students.

Hayakawa said yesterday's predawn blast was "characteristic of the neo-Fascist methods used by some of the radical elements around here."

The explosion, which could be heard for several miles, shattered 18 windows around the main entrance of the campus administration building and injured a campus policeman.

The bombing was the second in four days at the college and the latest in a series of violent incidents since the BSU called a strike Nov. 6 to back demands for an autonomous black studies program.

Jury Trial Set

Jury trial for Leonard Paul Jason, 41, of San Francisco, accused of stealing a car in Larkspur Nov. 28 was set today to open tomorrow in Marin Superior Court.

OBITUARIES

Rites Set For Mrs. McGlothlin

Funeral for Mrs. Dorothy A. McGlothlin, 63, Fairfax city treasurer, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Mrs. McGlothlin, widow of Lloyd McGlothlin, died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She had been a senior clerk in the county assessor's office until she became ill.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. McGlothlin had been a resident of Fairfax for 34 years. She lived at 150 Meernaa Avenue.

The was first elected city treasurer in 1956 and was serving her fourth term. She had been employed by Marin County on a full-time basis since 1952 after serving three years as a part-time worker.

Mrs. McGlothlin also had worked for the Southern Pacific Co. from 1924 through 1932, for the H. P. Garin Co. in San Francisco, 1933-35, and part time for the City of Fairfax, 1947-52.

The was a past president of Fairfax Parlor 225, Native Daughters of the Golden West, a past president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fairfax Fire Department, a past president and life member of the Fairfax Central School Parent-Teacher Association and treasurer of the Fairfax Youth Activities Council.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Linda L. Miller of San Jose, and a son, Bruce D. McGlothlin of Chicago, Ill., and nine grandchildren.

Memorial services will be conducted at 8 p.m. today at the Chapel of the Hills by Fairfax Parlor 225, NDGW. Inurnment will be private.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Sabella Kidnap Hearing Held

Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22, were arraigned today in Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella on Nov. 24.

Stathos is also charged with the Oct. 28 robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in Larkspur.

A third defendant in the Sabella case, Walter John Hoefler, 26, pleaded guilty to lesser charges and was sentenced to a prison term to run concurrently with one he received from a robbery conviction in Sonoma County.

Both the defendants are in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Club Will Ask Funds For Trip

The Sausalito School District board tonight will consider a request by the Spanish Club at Martin Luther King School for assistance in its trip to Mexico this usmmer.

The club will ask the district to furnish a bus and driver and pay for fuel and oil for the trip.

The board will meet at 7:30 p.m. in the district office, 630 Nevada Street.

Santa Venetian Injured In Wreck

Robert James Stein, 23, of Battery C, 2nd Battalion 531st Artillery, Santa Venetia, suffered a scalp cut when his car veered off Highway 101, about one mile south of the Sonoma County line, at 4:35 p.m. Saturday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Stein's car went off the roadway into a ditch about four feet deep, officers said. He said he would seek his own medical care and was not hospitalized.

Warrant Issued In Marijuana Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued today by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for Michael Louis Brandt, 22, of Novato, who failed to appear in Marin Superior Court.

WILLIAM MORGANTINI

Requiem Mass for William Morgantini, 55, of Sonoma, formerly of San Rafael, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Francis Solano Church in Sonoma with burial in the church cemetery.

Morgantini died Saturday in a Santa Rosa hospital following a long illness.

Morgantini grew up in San Rafael and operated a restaurant in Marin until moving to Sonoma 19 years ago. For the past 19 years, he owned and operated the Sonoma Grove Restaurant in Sonoma.

He was a member of the native Sons of the Golden West, Sonoma Parlor, and the Elks Lodge in Sonoma.

Survivors are his wife, Dorothy Morgantini; two sons, Bill Morgantini of Glen Ellen and Robert Morgantini of Sonoma; and a grandson.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today at Duggan's Mission Chapel, Sonoma.

MRS. GAREISS

Requiem Mass for Mrs. Lillian M. Gareiss, 74, of 1000 C Street, San Rafael, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Mrs. Gareiss died Friday after a fall at a local convalescent hospital. Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan said Mrs. Gareiss died of natural causes.

A native of New York, she had been a resident of Marin for 20 years. She was the widow of Frank C. Gareiss.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence Mauderer of Boca Raton, Fla.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Keaton Mortuary, San Rafael. Memorial contributions may be made to the donor's favorite charity.

WILLARD JANSSEN

Memorial service for Willard D. (Jess) Janssen, long-time Marin County resident and a member of the Lagunitas school board, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the San Geronimo Community Presbyterian Church, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Nicasio Road.

Janssen, 43, died Saturday of a heart attack. He lived at 125 Meadow Way in San Geronimo.

A native of Nebraska, Janssen spent most of his life in California, the last 15 years in Marin County where he was a general contractor. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Janssen is survived by his wife, Jacqueline, of San Geronimo; three sons, Lawrence of Portland, Ore.; Martin, on leave from the Army in Vietnam, and Jess D. of the family home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Janssen of Colma; three brothers, Llewellyn, of Fairfield, Vaughn, of San Francisco, and Leon, of San Carlos, and a sister, Glea Ann Janssen of Colma.

The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund.

LAURENCE SYMMES

Laurence M. Symmes of New York, father of Laurence M. Symmes Jr. and Jean Symmes Barnard, both of Mill Valley, died yesterday at Mrs. Barnard's home at the close of a 10-day visit.

Symmes, 82, died apparently of a heart attack as he was preparing to return to New York this morning for a business appointment, according to the Marin County Coroner's Office. An autopsy report is pending.

Born in Winchester, Mass., Symmes graduated from Dartmouth College in 1908 and joined the New York firm of P. W. Brooks and Co. as an investment banker. He was active in the firm, and its successor, Blair and Co. of New York and San Francisco, until his death.

In 1912 he married Dorothy Boericke of Mill Valley, daughter of an early Mill Valley family.

He had been a member of the board of trustees of Hackley School in Tarryton, N.Y., since 1941 and was the board president for the past 10 years. He was also a member of the Long Island College Hospital board of regents, treasurer of the First Unitarian Church in Brooklyn, and a member of the Lawyers Club and Dartmouth Club, both in New York.

He is survived by his wife, Dorothy B. Symmes of Scarsdale, N.Y.; his son and daughter; a sister, Elizabeth Keyes of Winchester, Mass.; a brother, Russell Symmes of Florida; eight grandchildren and one great-grandson.

Funeral will be at 2 p.m. Wetdnesday at the Swedenborgian Church in San Francisco. Burial will be private. Friends may call at the Russell and Gooch Funeral Chapels in Mill Valley until noon Wednesday.

Four Youths Are Nabbed In Marijuana Probe

Four Marin youths were arrested by Tiburon police yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession after neighbors complained of a loud party in the teen-agers' Hilarita Housing Development apartment at 2:30 a.m.

John Randolph Arbuckle, 18, and Stephen John Papas, 18, both of apartment J56, Hilarita, and Reade Backer, 18, of no known address, were held on suspicion of marijuana possession, maintaining a place for smoking marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The minor, a 17-year-old Kentfield boy, was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall for investigation of marijuana possession and curfew violations.

Arbuckle and Papas were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $625 bail and Backer was released to the custody of his parents. The three were to appear at 2 p.m. today in Marin Municipal Court for arraignment.

State Charges Kirby Company With Fraud

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state attorney general accused the makers and sellers of Kirby vacuum cleaners of fraud today and filed a $2 million-plus law suit to "end this swindle throughout the state."

The civil suit, filed in Sacramento Superior Court, is against the Scott & Fetzer Co. of Cleveland, Ohio and its 89 California distributors of Kirby vacuum cleaners.

The firm and its salesmen were accused of using fraudulent sales talks to sell the cleaners.

"This vacuum cleaner operation has been one of the most persistent problems in the consumer fraud area," Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said in a prepared statement. "We hope that this action will end this swindle throughout the state."

The suit seeks $2 million in damages and civil penalties of $2,500 for each alleged false sales representation made during the past year.

Lynch also asked the court "to enjoin the defendants from further fraudulent activities."

The suit contends that the Cleveland firm directed the "malicious, oppressive and fraudulent" selling practices of Kirby cleaners in California.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said an investigation had been going on "for some time" in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Mateo, Sacramento and several other counties.

In the suit, the attorney general said the firm and its representatives made these misleading statements to customers:

Told them they had been selected as a winner in a $1,000 contest "when there is no contest."

Claimed salesmen were "demonstrators" and not salesmen.

Claimed salesmen were competing against each other in sales contests.

Heart Patient's Progress Normal

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University Hospital's latest heart transplant, patient 55-year-old insurance broker Douglas Allan Sr. of Menlo Park was reported recovering normally early today — more than 24 hours after surgery was completed.

Allan's new heart came from an anonymous donor who died at noon Saturday of a brain injury.

Dr. Norman Shumway headed the surgical team which performed the 12th such transplant at the hospital, one patient having received two new hearts.

A hospital spokesman said Allan was in satisfactory condition and making usual progress.

Five Stanford heart transplant recipients are living.

Marin Rates High At Model U.N.

Three Marin high schools rated among the top 10 at the Model United Nations held at the University of California at Berkeley Thursday through Saturday.

Selected from among high schools from throughout Northern California were San Rafael, Terra Linda and Sir Francis Drake high schools.

San Rafael High School, attending the Model U.N. for the first time, represented the West African nation of Sierra Leone and focused its efforts on humanitarianism, according to the delegation's adviser Virginia Franklin.

A resolution offered by the San Rafael delegation was among those accepted by the general assembly. It called for technical and humanitarian aid to victims on both sides of the Biafran-Nigerian war, Mrs. Franklin said.

Delegates from San Rafael were Steve Bacon, chairman, Jeff Godwin, Jon Marlowe, Reagon Wilson and Lee Harris.

Terra Linda High School represented Japan in the Model U.N. Delegates were Ken Downs, chairman, Victor Klebanoff, Robyn Goff, Janice Grau, Kathy Madden and Andy Bollen. Albert Gautraud was adviser to the Terra Linda group.

Drake High School's delegation represented Haiti.

Park, Rec Panel Session Canceled

Due to lack of business, the regular meeting of the Novato Parks and Recreation Advisory Commission scheduled for 8 p.m. today, has been canceled, according to Edward W. Adams, parks and recreation director.

The next meeting of the commission will be at 8 p.m., March 3 at the Novato Community House.

Elections will be held today and tomorrow for sophomore class president. Candidates are Kirk Pessner, William Challander, Scott Winston, Sue Foley and Jon Broderick.

Double-Faced Signs Policy Cleared Up

The size of a double-faced free-standing sign should be calculated on the measurement of one side only, Marin County Planning commissioners decided tentatively today.

The decision was made as the planning commissioners launched into the tedious job of pouring through a lengthy new ordinance on signs paragraph-by-paragraph.

At present, a double-faced sign is calculated as double the size of the structure. For example, if a sign is 12 square feet on one side, it would be a 24-square foot sign if the other side also carries a message.

"Why penalize a double-faced sign?" asked Commissioner Walter F. Freitas. "You see only one side at a time."

Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. agreed.

Chairman Hugh Dougherty asked the planning director to draft wording in the new sign ordinance that would change the method of calculating a double-faced sign.

Ben R. Farlatti, spokesman for the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, argued that larger signs should be allowed for apartments and similar uses.

The new ordinance would allow a six-foot sign for apartments, 12-foot signs for cemeteries, country clubs, dog kennels, golf courses, riding academies, tennis courts and similar uses. Thirty-six foot signs would be allowed for institutions of an educational, religious, charitable or civic nature; hospitals, rest homes and similar uses.

Farlatti argued that free-standing signs should be allowed for the above uses. He also declared he would settle for 24-foot sign for all of them, instead of 12 for some and 36 for others.

Planning commissioners decided that free-standing signs should be permitted, but the size was still unresolved at the time commissioners took the mid-morning coffee break.

Gun Threat Is Reported After Driving Incident

Petaluma police have reported that a young man threatened a Petaluma resident with a gun after a driving incident on Highway 101 late Friday night.

James Filshie of 1141 Ramona Lane, told police he left Highway 101 at the Washington Street interchange around midnight Friday and pulled into the parking lot of the Petaluma Inn on South McDowell Boulevard.

Filshie said a car parked beside him and the driver began an argument, saying Filshie had cut in front of him on the freeway. As the argument grew heated, Filshie was getting out of his car when the other man drew a handgun from the car seat and waved it at him.

He said when he reached into the car to grab the gun the man drove away and was last seen heading south on Lakeville Highway. Filshie said the man was betwee 18 and 26 years old and driving a white 1956 Chevrolet.

Four Youths Are Nabbed In Marijuana Probe

Four Marin youths were arrested by Tiburon police yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession after neighbors complained of a loud party in the teen-agers' Hilarita Housing Development apartment at 2:30 a.m.

John Randolph Arbuckle, 18, and Stephen John Papas, 18, both of apartment J56, Hilarita, and Reade Backer, 18, of no known address, were held on suspicion of marijuana possession, maintaining a place for smoking marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The minor, a 17-year-old Kentfield boy, was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall for investigation of marijuana possession and curfew violations.

Arbuckle and Papas were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $625 bail and Backer was released to the custody of his parents. The three were to appear at 2 p.m. today in Marin Municipal Court for arraignment.

State Charges Kirby Company With Fraud

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state attorney general accused the makers and sellers of Kirby vacuum cleaners of fraud today and filed a $2 million-plus law suit to "end this swindle throughout the state."

The civil suit, filed in Sacramento Superior Court, is against the Scott & Fetzer Co. of Cleveland, Ohio and its 89 California distributors of Kirby vacuum cleaners.

The firm and its salesmen were accused of using fraudulent sales talks to sell the cleaners.

"This vacuum cleaner operation has been one of the most persistent problems in the consumer fraud area," Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said in a prepared statement. "We hope that this action will end this swindle throughout the state."

The suit seeks $2 million in damages and civil penalties of $2,500 for each alleged false sales representation made during the past year.

Lynch also asked the court "to enjoin the defendants from further fraudulent activities."

The suit contends that the Cleveland firm directed the "malicious, oppressive and fraudulent" selling practices of Kirby cleaners in California.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said an investigation had been going on "for some time" in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Mateo, Sacramento and several other counties.

In the suit, the attorney general said the firm and its representatives made these misleading statements to customers:

Told them they had been selected as a winner in a $1,000 contest "when there is no contest."

Claimed salesmen were "demonstrators" and not salesmen.

Claimed salesmen were competing against each other in sales contests.

Sold used machines as new machines.

Advertised Kirby cleaners at very low prices "which they did not intend to honor."

The suit further said the manufacturer furnishes its outlets "with manuals instructing the distributors in these misleading sales practices."

Former FBI Agent Refuses To Answer Plot Question

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Justice Department was thrust into Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today when a witness, a former FBI agent, refused to say when he started working on the investigation of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

"I think that question is outside the purview of the authority granted me," said Regis L. Kennedy when asked if he had been engaged in the assassination investigation from the start.

Kennedy said he was authorized to testify about his investigation regarding Dean Andrews, a one-time Jefferson Parish assistant district attorney convicted of perjury during Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's two-year assassination probe.

James L. Alcock, head of the prosecution in Shaw's trial, said that question and several others were referred to the Justice Department in Washington during a long telephone conversation.

For the first time during the nine days of testimony, Garrison took a direct hand in the questioning handling the interrogation of William E. Newman Jr., a Dallas electrical contractor. Newman testified he was in Dallas' Dealey Plaza when the President was shot Nov. 22, 1963—and that the shots appeared to come from behind him, from the so-called grassy knoll area.

The retired FBI agent, a big white-haired man, was called to the stand after Newman. Kennedy said he went to a hospital to interview Andrews on Nov. 25, 1963, after getting a telephone call from him.

A recess was called when Kennedy balked at this question from Alcock: "Prior to interviewing Dean Andrews, were you personally engaged in the investigation of President Kennedy's assassination?"

The trial, beset by sickness and Mardi Gras, lagged behind schedule today. The prosecution abruptly delayed calling former Texas Gov. John Connally and his wife—and left it uncertain whether they would testify at all.

Anvil Stolen

A 75-pound anvil was stolen from the driveway of Ernie Pierard of 26 Belle Avenue, San Anselmo, Pierard reported to police yesterday.

Three Juveniles Booked On Drugs

Three juveniles from the preplacement center at Marin Juvenile Hall Saturday night were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of possession of marijuana and booked into Juvenile Hall, Novato police reported.

The three were jaywalking at 10:15 p.m. on Novato Boulevard near Tamalpais Avenue when police stopped them. One of them dropped cigarette papers which smelled of marijuana, according to police. At the police station, another dropped a plastic bag with two cigarettes of a substance thought to be marijuana, police reported. As they would not admit who owned the cigarettes, police cited all three.

For the first time during the nine days of testimony, Garrison took a direct hand in the questioning handling the interrogation of William E. Newman Jr., a Dallas electrical contractor. Newman testified he was in Dallas' Dealey Plaza when the President was shot Nov. 22, 1963—and that the shots appeared to come from behind him, from the so-called grassy knoll area.

The retired FBI agent, a big white-haired man, was called to the stand after Newman. Kennedy said he went to a hospital to interview Andrews on Nov. 25, 1963, after getting a telephone call from him.

A recess was called when Kennedy balked at this question from Alcock: "Prior to interviewing Dean Andrews, were you personally engaged in the investigation of President Kennedy's assassination?"

The trial, beset by sickness and Mardi Gras, lagged behind schedule today. The prosecution abruptly delayed calling former Texas Gov. John Connally and his wife—and left it uncertain whether they would testify at all.

Anvil Stolen

A 75-pound anvil was stolen from the driveway of Ernie Pierard of 26 Belle Avenue, San Anselmo, Pierard reported to police yesterday.

Three Juveniles Booked On Drugs

Three juveniles from the preplacement center at Marin Juvenile Hall Saturday night were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of possession of marijuana and booked into Juvenile Hall, Novato police reported.

The three were jaywalking at 10:15 p.m. on Novato Boulevard near Tamalpais Avenue when police stopped them. One of them dropped cigarette papers which smelled of marijuana, according to police. At the police station, another dropped a plastic bag with two cigarettes of a substance thought to be marijuana, police reported. As they would not admit who owned the cigarettes, police cited all three.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Buck White' Alive With Today's Issues

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — "Big Time Buck White" was born in the ghetto of Watts, moved on to New York to be hailed as a savage attack on the white man, and is now being presented at the Committee Theater, 836 Montgomery Street, as an exciting and sometimes violent musical.

A good portion of its savagery has disappeared, for a number reasons. For one thing, composer Oscar Brown, Jr., strives to mightily for rhymes instead of following the lead of today's popular music writers and allowing words to tell a story without traditional verse.

Also, the tendency of the rowdy gang on stage to break into song sets up a Brechtian type of alienation, always reminding us that we are in a theater, and thus keeping us from full involvement.

The play is similar to the revolutionary classic, "Waiting For Lefty" except that Lefty never arrived and Big Time, a black power leader does. While waiting for his arrival, his henchmen, members of BAD (Beautiful Alleuiah Days) a "poverty gig" surviving on federal funds. The henchmen are a group of typical opportunists, ready to change their vote for a buck.

During the play's first half these characters squabble, gossip and continually caricature the white man's stereotype of the black. Interjected are such barbs as "We're gonna put you on the white list!."

In the second half, Big Time arrives and the play becomes serious with Big Time revealing that he is the one member of BAD, who is truly sincere in his desire for complete black freedom.

Big Time's dialogue makes it plain the seriousness of his intent. Thus Whitey in the audience becomes uncomfortably aware of his part in the evening's proceedings and from then on is never allowed to forget who he is.

Questions from the audience are invited, but the performance I saw only brought forth the planted ones. There were no spontaneous questions, which could change the whole feeling of the show by challenging the actors to uphold their thesis against white attack.

Staged by Brown and Jean Pace, the show moves at top speed, with half a dozen highly talented performers keeping it that way. Brown's music is good, aside from my objection to the rhyming attempts. Several numbers are outstanding. "Money, Money," "Chains," and "That's All Over Now" are all combinations of exciting melody and meaningful words.

In the latter song, Big Black, the conga drummer who plays Buck White, sings "We don't care no more/And we don't scare no more/We're not turnin' back!" With glasses and a fez, Big Black uses his full voice and drumming ability to project a larger than life character who is tender, yet implacable.

Ted Lange, seen with the New Shakespeare Co. as Romeo, comes on as the funniest thing we've seen in a long time with his ingratiating study of Weasel, the little man with big money in his jeans. He also dances with delightful abandon. Backing up his comedic talent are Herschel Burton as the faggot, the Hunter, Bill Parish as Jive and James Garrison as Honey Man.

Anthony Williams, with ACT last season, is magnificently tense as Rubber Band, moving with the sinuous grace of a leather-clad panther. Miss Pace's costumes are colorfully correct.

Phil Moore III at the organ and percussionist Andre Fischer are on top of the action throughout, sparking Brown's music.

"Big Time Buck White" is a great evening of theater, but unless it is presented to audiences of antagonists, I doubt it will do much to change the world. It is being presented Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at 7 and 10:30 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m.

GEORGE J. CORLETT
Wins National Honor

Cadet Gets Top Honors As Officer

George J. Corlett, a senior at the San Rafael Military Academy, has won the Legion of Valor Bronze Star, awarded to the 12 top Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets in the nation.

Corlett, of Boise, Idaho, is a cadet lieutenant colonel and commander of the Corps of Cadets. He was presented the award by retired Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson at a parade in his honor at the school.

The academy also announced the promotions of these cadets:

Stuart Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Howard Good, 243 Poplar Drive, Kentfield, and Tom Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Herold, 26 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmp to lieutenant; Steven Appleby, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Appleby, 51 McNear Drive, San Rafael, to first sergeant; David Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Marshall, 1 Orchard Way, Kentfield, to sergeant first class; Dean Edouarde, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edouarde, 9 Santa Lucia Place, Tiburon, to sergeant, and Charles Kilian, son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Charles J. Kilian, 30 Grande Vista, Novato, to corporal.

Attorney Drafts Charter Ballot

City Atty. David Menary Jr. will present necessary resolutions to the San Rafael City Council 8 p.m. today at city hall for placing charter changes on the ballot for the April 15 election.

The first four charter amendments A, B, C, and D, would make the offices of city clerk, city attorney, chief of police and city treasurer appointive rather than elective.

The council will also discuss the acquisition of property for $2,500 at 2nd and Irwin streets for a pumping station site.

MUSIC REVIEW

String Bass Adds Color To Marin Arts Quartet

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A program of technically challenging works in three very different styles was beautifully performed yesterday by the Marin Arts Quartet and guest artist in the second concert of its current series at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The unusual feature of this concert was that string bassist Carl Modell joined the quartet — violinists Charles Meacham and Michael Erling, violinist Elizabeth Bell and cellist Jean Mitchell — in two quintets. This was something new for most chamber music lovers, since not much chamber music includes the string bass.

The treee works performed were the Quintet No. 2 for String Quarter and String Bass in contemporary idiom by Milhaud; Quarter in D Minor, Opus 76, No. 2, by Haydn, a masterpiece of classical style, and Dvorak's scintillating Quintet in G Major, Opus 77 that glows with romantic fervor, though it has structural solidity.

Of the three works the most nearly perfect realization for me was the Haydn quartet, from the composer's period of supreme mastery, in which all four voices were smoothly functioning in close rapport.

A change in the usual seating of the two low voices was somewhat puzzling. The viola in previous concerts has been in the chair to the right in front of the cello, and this I felt was good since the viola does not have a strong sonority as the cello and Miss Bell is not of extroverted temperament insistent on full equality for the viola.

In the quintets, the cello in front may have served the purpose of avoiding too close duplication of low sound with the string bass, especially in the Dvorak quintet.

In the opening Milhaud quintet, I was very much aware of the leadership of Meacham's first violin, perhaps because the work is written with a more memorable line for it, with the other voices taking off independently in many different dissonant directions. The purpose of the string bass seemed to be more to emphasize the rhythmic beat, as it does in popular music, than participation musically, as it did in the Dvorak quintet.

Except for the final movement, I felt that the music was an example of the rather harsh, dry style that is one among widely differing ones Milhaus uses.

While the Dvorak quintet had plenty of animation and sparkle, it was given an intellectually controlled reading rather than one of fiery Slavonic intensity that is another possibility.

Dvorak's lyric gift revealed especially in the poco andante and finale allegro assai was admirably brought out by the lovely cantabile tone of the cello.

Italian Film Star Is Hurt In Auto Crash

ROME (UPI)—Gina Lollobrigida, proclaiming "it is a miracle we are alive," lay in a hospital today with multiple injuries suffered when the Rolls-Royce she was driving skidded yesterday on ice and slammed into a guardrail that kept the car fom plunging 250 feet.

The voluptuous film star broke her left kneecap and suffered cuts and bruises about her body. Doctors said today they would operate on the knee "in a few days."

Miss Lollobrigida, 40, was driving Italian film director Franco Zeffirelli, a photographer and a critic to a soccer match in Florence when her black limousine hit a patch of ice on Italy's Superhighway of the Sun about 60 miles north of Rome.

The Rolls was heavily damaged.

Lack Of Quorum

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission did not meet as planned Friday because of lack of a quorum, according to chairman Margurite Hahn.

Youths Booked In Theft Probe

Four Southern California youths were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of car theft last night after they were found in a car off Highway 101 in Sausalito, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Booked at Juvenile Hall were Jeffery N. McNorton, 17, of Hollywood, and Steven W. Cole, 16, Jay D. Cook, 15, and Joseph A. Mayers, 16, all of Sun Valley, Los Angeles County.

Three of the boys were found in the car on the Spencer Avenue off-ramp at 8:15 p.m., the highway patrol said, while Cole hid in nearby bushes but surrendered half an hour later.

The car, registered to Floyd V. Smith of Arleta, Los Angeles County, was reported stolen Friday.

Girls Eligible For Livestock Contest

Marin girls in Future Farmers of America and 4-H who are between the ages of 14 to 18 are eligible for the Grand National Junior Livestock Queen contest.

The Junior Grand National will be held March 29 through April 2 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Entries, including name and address, should be sent to Queen Contest Manager, Cow Palace, P. O. Box 34206.

Truck Overturns, Injuring Girl, 17

Carol Wells, 17, of 1821 Marion Avenue, Novato, was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma after she was thrown from a pickup truck which overturned yesterday on the Marshall-Petaluma Road, the California Highway Patrol said.

The hospital did not specify Miss Wells' injuries. The driver of the truck, Lars T. Larsen, 19, of 614 Manuel Drive, Novato, was treated at Hillcrest for scrapes and bruises. The highway patrol said the truck overturned at 4 p.m. on a curve five miles east of Marshall.

Mutiny Sentences Prompt Call For Nixon Review

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Munity convictions and long sentences at hard labor for three Presidio soldiers have prompted a request that President Nixon "begin an impartial review" of the mutiny trials.

Student body presidents and daily newspaper editors at the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford University urged the review in a telegram yesterday to President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

The said, "The recent conviction of three men for munity at the Presidio constitutes a far greater crime than any committed by the defendants.

"Similar if not identical convictions seem certain to follow. This gross miscarriage of justice can arouse only contempt and anger among young Americans of all political persuasions."

The telegram followed the Saturday sentencing of Privates Lawrence Reidel, 21, of Medford, Ore. and Louis Osczepinski, 20, of Florida, N.Y. Reidel received 14 years at hard labor and Osczepinski, 16 years.

On Thursday, the first of the 27 men facing mutiny charges for an October sitdown strike to protest conditions at the stockade and the shotgun killing of a fellow prisoner was sentenced. Pvt. Nesrey Sood, 26, of Oakland, drew 15 years at hard labor.

Trials of four more men were scheduled to open today. Among those awaiting court-martial at a later date is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

Car Is Looted

Mrs. Ethel Anderson reported to Corte Madera police yesterday that someone broke open her car, parked at her home at 83 Pixley Avenue, Apt. 1, and stole two orange and black blankets, some rain clothes, a pillow and a flashlight. Total loss was about $50, she estimated.

Ted Lange, seen with the New Shakespeare Co. as Romeo, comes on as the funniest thing we've seen in a long time with his ingratiating study of Weasel, the little man with big money in his jeans. He also dances with delightful abandon. Backing up his comedic talent are Herschel Burton as the faggot, the Hunter, Bill Parish as Jive and James Garrison as Honey Man.

Anthony Williams, with ACT last season, is magnificently tense as Rubber Band, moving with the sinuous grace of a leather-clad panther. Miss Pace's costumes are colorfully correct.

Phil Moore III at the organ and percussionist Andre Fischer are on top of the action throughout, sparking Brown's music.

"Big Time Buck White" is a great evening of theater, but unless it is presented to audiences of antagonists, I doubt it will do much to change the world. It is being presented Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at 7 and 10:30 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m.

GEORGE J. CORLETT
Wins National Honor

Cadet Gets Top Honors As Officer

George J. Corlett, a senior at the San Rafael Military Academy, has won the Legion of Valor Bronze Star, awarded to the 12 top Junior Reserve Officer Training Corps cadets in the nation.

Corlett, of Boise, Idaho, is a cadet lieutenant colonel and commander of the Corps of Cadets. He was presented the award by retired Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson at a parade in his honor at the school.

The academy also announced the promotions of these cadets:

Stuart Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Howard Good, 243 Poplar Drive, Kentfield, and Tom Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Herold, 26 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmp to lieutenant; Steven Appleby, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Appleby, 51 McNear Drive, San Rafael, to first sergeant; David Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Marshall, 1 Orchard Way, Kentfield, to sergeant first class; Dean Edouarde, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edouarde, 9 Santa Lucia Place, Tiburon, to sergeant, and Charles Kilian, son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Charles J. Kilian, 30 Grande Vista, Novato, to corporal.

Attorney Drafts Charter Ballot

City Atty. David Menary Jr. will present necessary resolutions to the San Rafael City Council 8 p.m. today at city hall for placing charter changes on the ballot for the April 15 election.

The first four charter amendments A, B, C, and D, would make the offices of city clerk, city attorney, chief of police and city treasurer appointive rather than elective.

The council will also discuss the acquisition of property for $2,500 at 2nd and Irwin streets for a pumping station site.

MUSIC REVIEW

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A program of technically challenging works in three very different styles was beautifully performed yesterday by the Marin Arts Quartet and guest artist in the second concert of its current series at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The unusual feature of this concert was that string bassist Carl Modell joined the quartet — violinists Charles Meacham and Michael Erling, violinist Elizabeth Bell and cellist Jean Mitchell — in two quintets. This was something new for most chamber music lovers, since not much chamber music includes the string bass.

The treee works performed were the Quintet No. 2 for String Quarter and String Bass in contemporary idiom by Milhaud; Quarter in D Minor, Opus 76, No. 2, by Haydn, a masterpiece of classical style, and Dvorak's scintillating Quintet in G Major, Opus 77 that glows with romantic fervor, though it has structural solidity.

Of the three works the most nearly perfect realization for me was the Haydn quartet, from the composer's period of supreme mastery, in which all four voices were smoothly functioning in close rapport.

A change in the usual seating of the two low voices was somewhat puzzling. The viola in previous concerts has been in the chair to the right in front of the cello, and this I felt was good since the viola does not have a strong sonority as the cello and Miss Bell is not of extroverted temperament insistent on full equality for the viola.

In the quintets, the cello in front may have served the purpose of avoiding too close duplication of low sound with the string bass, especially in the Dvorak quintet.

In the opening Milhaud quintet, I was very much aware of the leadership of Meacham's first violin, perhaps because the work is written with a more memorable line for it, with the other voices taking off independently in many different dissonant directions. The purpose of the string bass seemed to be more to emphasize the rhythmic beat, as it does in popular music, than participation musically, as it did in the Dvorak quintet.

Except for the final movement, I felt that the music was an example of the rather harsh, dry style that is one among widely differing ones Milhaus uses.

While the Dvorak quintet had plenty of animation and sparkle, it was given an intellectually controlled reading rather than one of fiery Slavonic intensity that is another possibility.

Dvorak's lyric gift revealed especially in the poco andante and finale allegro assai was admirably brought out by the lovely cantabile tone of the cello.

Italian Film Star Is Hurt In Auto Crash

ROME (UPI)—Gina Lollobrigida, proclaiming "it is a miracle we are alive," lay in a hospital today with multiple injuries suffered when the Rolls-Royce she was driving skidded yesterday on ice and slammed into a guardrail that kept the car fom plunging 250 feet.

The voluptuous film star broke her left kneecap and suffered cuts and bruises about her body. Doctors said today they would operate on the knee "in a few days."

Miss Lollobrigida, 40, was driving Italian film director Franco Zeffirelli, a photographer and a critic to a soccer match in Florence when her black limousine hit a patch of ice on Italy's Superhighway of the Sun about 60 miles north of Rome.

The Rolls was heavily damaged.

Lack Of Quorum

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission did not meet as planned Friday because of lack of a quorum, according to chairman Margurite Hahn.

Youths Booked In Theft Probe

Four Southern California youths were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of car theft last night after they were found in a car off Highway 101 in Sausalito, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Booked at Juvenile Hall were Jeffery N. McNorton, 17, of Hollywood, and Steven W. Cole, 16, Jay D. Cook, 15, and Joseph A. Mayers, 16, all of Sun Valley, Los Angeles County.

Three of the boys were found in the car on the Spencer Avenue off-ramp at 8:15 p.m., the highway patrol said, while Cole hid in nearby bushes but surrendered half an hour later.

The car, registered to Floyd V. Smith of Arleta, Los Angeles County, was reported stolen Friday.

Girls Eligible For Livestock Contest

Marin girls in Future Farmers of America and 4-H who are between the ages of 14 to 18 are eligible for the Grand National Junior Livestock Queen contest.

The Junior Grand National will be held March 29 through April 2 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Entries, including name and address, should be sent to Queen Contest Manager, Cow Palace, P. O. Box 34206.

Truck Overturns, Injuring Girl, 17

Carol Wells, 17, of 1821 Marion Avenue, Novato, was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma after she was thrown from a pickup truck which overturned yesterday on the Marshall-Petaluma Road, the California Highway Patrol said.

The hospital did not specify Miss Welis' injuries. The driver of the truck, Lars T. Larsen, 19, of 614 Manuel Drive, Novato, was treated at Hillcrest for scrapes and bruises. The highway patrol said the truck overturned at 4 p.m. on a curve five miles east of Marshall.

Mutiny Sentences Prompt Call For Nixon Review

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Munity convictions and long sentences at hard labor for three Presidio soldiers have prompted a request that President Nixon "begin an impartial review" of the mutiny trials.

Student body presidents and daily newspaper editors at the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford University urged the review in a telegram yesterday to President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

The said, "The recent conviction of three men for munity at the Presidio constitutes a far greater crime than any committed by the defendants.

"Similar if not identical convictions seem certain to follow. This gross miscarriage of justice can arouse only contempt and anger among young Americans of all political persuasions."

The telegram followed the Saturday sentencing of Privates Lawrence Reidel, 21, of Medford, Ore. and Louis Osczepinski, 20, of Florida, N.Y. Reidel received 14 years at hard labor and Osczepinski, 16 years.

On Thursday, the first of the 27 men facing mutiny charges for an October sitdown strike to protest conditions at the stockade and the shotgun killing of a fellow prisoner was sentenced. Pvt. Nesrey Sood, 26, of Oakland, drew 15 years at hard labor.

Trials of four more men were scheduled to open today. Among those awaiting court-martial at a later date is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

Car Is Looted

Mrs. Ethel Anderson reported to Corte Madera police yesterday that someone broke open her car, parked at her home at 83 Pixley Avenue, Apt. 1, and stole two orange and black blankets, some rain clothes, a pillow and a flashlight. Total loss was about $50, she estimated.

STORM-TOSSED OCEAN COMES CALLING

A 6.4 high tide combined with the weekend storm to send the Pacific Ocean lapping at the foundations of homes at Stinson Beach Saturday. Without a boost from storms, there is usually about 20 feet of beach between seaside dwellers and the high tide mark. The skies cleared Saturday night and yesterday was sunny, but today was gray. The forecast is for 30 per cent chance of rain tonight and about a 10 per cent chance tomorrow. (Photo by Doug Smith)

Physical Abuse Of Children Alarms Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A symposium on "the battered child" has turned the spotlight on thousands of children in this country whose parents physically abuse them, sometimes for years.

Three days of sessions disclosed that each year some 30,000 children are tormented badly enough to require medical attention.

Dr. Sidney J. Sussman, associate professor of pediatrics at Temple Medical School, told the seminar this weekend that children who repeatedly turn up at the doctor's with bone, heart, head and internal injuries and skin lesions are usually the victims of abuse.

"Physical abuse is a chronic condition," he said. "It almost never occurs just once."

Guilty Plea Made On Marijuana Sales

Brent Biehl, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty Friday in Marin Superior Court to one charge of selling marijuana in December. A second count was dismissed.

Judge Harold J. Haley ordered Biehl to return to court March 17 for sentencing.

Polka-Dot Dressed Girl Is Identified

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mysterious girl in the polka-dot dress who was sought after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was identified in court today as Valerie Schulte of Santa Barbara.

There was no indication of what her connection, if any, was with Sirhan.

DiPierro had testified on direct examination last Friday that he had noticed Sirhan standing on a tray stacker. Defense attorney Grant B. Cooper asked him on cross-examination today, "What caused you to notice him (Sirhan)?"

A. There was a girl standing in the area.

Q. At that time?

A. It could have been at that time or shortly after.

Q. You observed the girl first, did you?

A. Yes.

Q. You observed the girl because she was a pretty girl, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Then Cooper brought out a statement taken by police from DiPierro on July 1 nearly a month after the shooting in which DiPierro said that he had not seen the girl in the polka-dot dress. By that time the search for the girl had ended.

On the witness stand today DiPierro said he would like to explain.

"As I said, she could have been standing in the area that night," he said. The prosecution then introduced into evidence several pictures of the girl they identified as Valerie Schulte and DiPierro said she was the girl he had seen in the ballroom that night.

Former football star Roosevelt Grier also was expected to testify today. Grier, a 280-pounder who played for the Los Angeles Rams, pounced on the 112-pound Sirhan in the narrow pantry where Kennedy was shot.

State Agency To Be Revamped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Department of Rehabilitation is being reorganized, its director announced yesterday.

Director Robert E. Howard said the aim is to provide better services to the physically and mentally handicapped persons served by the department.

He said no jobs will be eliminated, but the structure of the department will be altered. One change will be establishment of five regions in the state, with each region providing centralized service to those with all types of handicaps.

The department also is eliminating an administrative arrangement between divisions dealing with the blind, and Howard said the change will benefit the blind.

Department programs for the blind have been the target of controversy in recent years, with blind people picketing the Capitol in protest of what they said was an inadequate program.

Shultz Hopeful Of Labor Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George Schultz says the Nixon administration hopes to meet the problems of inflation "without any appreciable rise in unemployment."

Schultz said yesterday the administration will concentrate on solving unemployment among the young—especially young Negroes. He noted unemployment of Negro teen-agers in central city areas runs 25-28 per cent.

"Here is an area where particular government programs with the support of private industry can do something," Shultz said.

Shultz appeared on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

Coats Taken

Romas A. Killian of Santa Rosa told Mill Valley police that someone took two sportscoats, a sweater and a sports cap, valued at $187, from his car between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Friday while it was parked at Sabella's Restaurant.

Club Members Favor More Bay Controls

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An overwhelming majority of Commonwealth Club of California members has balloted in favor of increased regulation over use of San Francisco Bay.

Of those voting in the mail ballot, 3,394 favored greater control, while 154 favored less control than presently provided by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

On the question of what sort of government agency should regulate the use of the bay and shoreline, 2,696 favored a regional governmental agency, 405 a state agency, 279 wanted local existing jurisdictions, and 138 a federal agency.

The ballot followed a three-year study on the subject by the club's city planning section.

Members also voted, 2-447-892, that it is "essential to the desirability" of the Bay Area as a place to live "to preserve the bay in approximately its present area and shoreline."

BCDC has recommended to the 1969 Legislature that it set up a permanent agency to regulate the bay and its shoreline. BCDC is to go out of existence next fall, but legislation has been introduced to continue its life indefinitely.

The 30th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Pearl Anniversary.

At Least 20 Die In Rail Disaster

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A passenger train crowded with African workers became a blazing inferno yesterday when a gasoline tank car jumped the tracks and hit the train. A newsman at the scene estimated 20 persons were killed.

Witnesses said the crash occurred after a freight train and a line of gasoline tank cars collided while being shunted at Langlaagte station about five miles outside Johannesburg. One tanker was derailed, they said, and hit the passenger train.

Club Members Favor More Bay Controls

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An overwhelming majority of Commonwealth Club of California members has balloted in favor of increased regulation over use of San Francisco Bay.

Of those voting in the mail ballot, 3,394 favored greater control, while 154 favored less control than presently provided by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

On the question of what sort of government agency should regulate the use of the bay and shoreline, 2,696 favored a regional governmental agency, 405 a state agency, 279 wanted local existing jurisdictions, and 138 a federal agency.

The ballot followed a three-year study on the subject by the club's city planning section.

Members also voted, 2-447-892, that it is "essential to the desirability" of the Bay Area as a place to live "to preserve the bay in approximately its present area and shoreline."

BCDC has recommended to the 1969 Legislature that it set up a permanent agency to regulate the bay and its shoreline. BCDC is to go out of existence next fall, but legislation has been introduced to continue its life indefinitely.

The 30th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Pearl Anniversary.

At Least 20 Die In Rail Disaster

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A passenger train crowded with African workers became a blazing inferno yesterday when a gasoline tank car jumped the tracks and hit the train. A newsman at the scene estimated 20 persons were killed.

Witnesses said the crash occurred after a freight train and a line of gasoline tank cars collided while being shunted at Langlaagte station about five miles outside Johannesburg. One tanker was derailed, they said, and hit the passenger train.

Project Leads To Project: Case Study In Mill Valley

We spend money to "modernize," then often have to spend more to correct conditions created by the "modernization."

For instance, trees and shrubbery —the growth of nature or the plantings of our forebears — are removed to make way for a widened road; then extensive and expensive landscaping is necessary to cover up the unsightly denuded area. Or a slum neighborhood is cleared for a "redevelopment" project, and the poor families thus evicted — unable to pay the high rents in the "redevelopment" apartments — crowd into an adjoining slum, making it much worse than it was before and spreading the city's decay.

In Marin, the effects of such "modernization" are most noticeable in drainage problems. Even the newest cities have already been faced with major expenses to correct flooding created because someone, for public good or private profit, diverted natural drainage.

A CURRENT EXAMPLE of added expense following modernization is found in the Dipsea Trail steps in Mill Valley.

The steps have climbed the Mill Valley hillside since memory runneth not. They were installed in the first place up a narrow drainage channel — because it provided the easiest route for climbing the hill. At that time, however, the hillside was so heavily covered with trees, grass and brush that relatively little water ran down the steps.

As homes and streets were built on the hill, the amount of runoff increased. It got its last big boost about three years ago when Marin Municipal Water District installed a large storage tank, on a concrete pad, above Edgewood avenue.

MILL VALLEYANS, and other, had been complaining for several years about the dangerous condition of the steps. So, in 1967, the City of Mill Valley undertook a three-stage rebuilding project. City crews replaced the steps from Cascade Way to Marion Avenue; Albert Bidegain, San Rafael contractor, did those from Marion to Hazel Avenue, on a $6,813 contract.

The third stage, however, from Hazel to Edgewood, presents the biggest job — for on that portion, the steps receive a large volume of water from a gutter along Edgewood which in turn takes water from a large pipe installed by the MMWD to drain its storage tank pad.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala estimated last month that it would cost $6,800 to provide underground drainage beside the steps to take that water to Hazel Avenue, plus $5,100 to install new steps. Allowing for engineering fees and contingencies, he recommended that $15,000 be budgeted for the job.

THE WATER DISTRICT contends that the steps are in the natural drainage channel, and that it has not disturbed the drainage pattern by diverting water there from its tank pad. But the increase in runoff from the large concrete pad makes it impractical to replace the steps without providing new drainage.

This is typical of what happens when improvements are installed: a water tank, needed to supply Mill Valley homeowners, forces additional drainage expense.

The $6,800 item for draining the steps is a relatively small one. But similar outlays, much more costly, often result from just such "modernization." Nor can they always be foreseen or prevented.

A Court Trend—We Hope

Although the Ralph M. Brown Act says nothing about closed meetings of a public board with its attorney to discuss pending litigation, California attorneys and courts have generally regarded this as permissable "under the attorney-client relationship."

Down in Arkansas, however, the courts take different view. They believe a law means what it says.

The North Little Rock City Council held a closed meeting with the city attorney to discuss an action pending before the Arkansas Public Service Commission. The weekly North Little Rock Times filed suit.

The city officials contended the council had the same right to confer in private with its attorney as does a private citizenship — attorney-client relationship.

Like the Brown Act, Arkansas' open meeting law makes no mention of an exception for attorney-council discussions.

The district court ruled the council was in violation of the law. The city appealed. And now the Arkansas Supreme Court has upheld unanimously the lower court's ruling.

It is pleasant to find a court saying, as did these, that a law means what it says: We hope the practice will spread.

State College Tuition Due To Be Subject Of More Debate

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Once again, the subject of tuition at the University of California and the California state colleges is to be a matter of debate before the California legislature.

This was one of the prime matters on which Gov. Ronald Reagan campaigned in 1966, on the theory that students should not depend wholly on the taxpayers of California for their college educations but should contribute a fair share of the costs.

The governor was attacked in all parts of the state for this stand, and as yet, the Legislature has not found a satisfactory solution of the tuition problem.

Now Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, comes up with a measure which he says would raise from $35 million to $37 million annually from tuition fees at the state's institutions of higher learning. Should the Legislature adopt his proposal, it still would require imposition of the fees by the regents of the University of California and trustees of the state colleges.

Monagan proposes in his measure, AB468 that graduated fees be charged, ranging from $24 to $780 per year for students in upper income families. The family income range would start at $10,000 a year, and the maximum fee would be imposed on families with incomes in excess of $45,000.

Funds raised in this manner would be used to meet the increasing costs of higher education in California, both operations and capital outlay.

Monagan's proposed measure is a compromise between a straight tuition fee for everyone, regardless of income, and a system of higher education provided by the taxpayers of the state for all persons alike.

Your editorial, "Heroes Become Villains as the Years Roll By" was very good. Write another, "Villains Remain Villains, but are Regarded as Heroes."

In 1979 you may write a news item like this: Strike at San Francisco State is settled on the following terms: The trustees and the union have agreed that:

1. All striking faculty members shall be reinstated without penalty and with full pay for the time on strike.
2. No faculty member shall be prosecuted for any act in connection with the strike, with one exception, the teacher who accidentally killed a student with a ball bat may be prosecuted for misdemeanor assault.
3. At future strikes, faculty members may . . . be assisted on the picket line by teachers from other colleges and high schools, students, and interested citizens.
4. Each peaceful picket may be permitted to carry a ball bat or a pick handle.
5. Campus police shall not be used in any manner during a strike. No other police shall be permitted on campus.
6. All academic employees including the president of the college, shall receive the union scale, $1,000 per week.
7. Persons who continued to teach during the strike shall receive no pay for that period and shall be immediately dismissed with the further stipulation that they may not again be employed by any school, college or university in California which receives any of its income from tax sources.
8. The president of the college is dismissed, retroactive to the beginning of the strike.
9. John J. Jones, A.B., instructor in liberal arts, is appointed president. He is to continue as business agent of the union.
10. Negotiations are to begin immediately looking toward the total elimination of grades, thus implementing the inviolable principle that all persons are equal.

Print this now. Print it again in 1979. It will be an understatement.

Fast Police Work In San Rafael

I should like to take this opportunity to commend Chief of Police Charles Chiesa and the San Rafael Police Department for the outstanding efficiency and service which their officers have rendered to the Peacock Gap Country Club.

On Saturday, Feb. 8, I noticed a suspicious vehicle parked near our maintenance buildings. I drove over to the building and saw a man attempting to hide on the roof. I was able to see the man's face clearly and also obtained the license number of his vehicle.

I telephoned the San Rafael police and at approximately 1:10 p.m. Officer Lee Ahern arrived and forwarded the information I had obtained.

At 2:10 p.m., just one hour later, the man had been picked up and was being held at the police station for identification.

I consider this a wonderful performance, and the efficiency of Officer Ahern and the entire department certainly deserves public recognition.

Again, on Monday morning, Feb. 10, we discovered that the Country Club had been broken into. All the vending machines had been forced open and a new television set stolen.

Officer Arthur Myers responded to our call . . . Before noon Officer Myers telephoned me and reported that two suspects were in custody. At 2:40 p.m. Officer Myers returned the stolen television set to us and the burglars were in jail.

THE DRUMMONDS

No Fancy Slogan For Nixon As He Depends On Performance

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — How do you know who you are if you don't have a name?

Here is this new Nixon administration in power almost a month and it doesn't have one yet.

It's certainly not a Great Society. And it's no New Frontier.

At this stage, the Nixon administration is just the Nixon Administration, nothing more, nothing less — just plain Nixon Administration. There must be a reason. The President doesn't do anything without one.

THERE IS. It's deliberate. Mr. Nixon is not reaching for a Madison Avenue gimmick, for an alluring catch phrase, because he doesn't want one.

It will probably stay that way — and for a purpose.

President Nixon wants a nononsense, efficient, do-something administration. Neither he nor his people go for big, high-sounding slogans. They feel that the very sound of them makes people in need think they are going to get more than they really are. And when people don't get what they are led to believe is their due, they get frustrated and blame the government for not making good.

Mr. Nixon's men figure the country has had too much overpromise and plenty of underdeliver.

ONE CAUSE of the distrust by many people of their government is the baffled feeling that comes when large promise goes largely unfulfilled, when hope is raised too high — higher than the reality of attainment can possibly reach.

It isn't that promises of past administrations were unmeant, just unmet, and when limited progress began to come, more — too much — was expected.

The goal of the Nixon administration is to deliver all it believes it can on promises it isn't making. Thus nearly everything it accomplishes will be unexpected. Expectations which arise out of accomplishments are more realistic than those out of promises.

MR. NIXON is lucky. He lost Congress.

His failure to win a congressional majority, which his party has had only four years out of the last 40, is politically embarrassing but it may well turn out to be a hidden asset. It means that the President will be free of all temptation to bury the nation's problems in a slew of new laws and programs.

The political situation is such that the President will have to do what he most wants to do: perform. He aims to take present programs and make them work better. He aims to demonstrate excellence in execution.

NO ONE KNOWS how Mr. Nixon will do over the long pull, but friends, doubters and critics are just about unanimous that he is making a strong and reassuring start. Strong at these points:

An activist beginning: a crucial trip to Europe and a personal tour of the slums in Washington.

An "open presidency": a band of anti-Vietnam protestors were received by the White House without an appointment. They had been refused such a meeting under President Johnson.

A determination to be credible and to restore faith in the word of the government: Mr. Nixon wisely refused to put any time limit on how long it would take to get peace in Vietnam. He candidly agreed with critics that most Negroes do not consider him their friend and said he could win that friendship only by his actions.

Moves toward negotiation, not confrontation, with the Russians, seeking early action in the nonproliferation treaty and asking for wide-ranging political and arms talks with Moscow.

Sometime Mr. Nixon may earn a slogan. If he does, he would like it to be — performer.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Putting Russian Intentions To The Test

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — With his ambitious foreign policy initiatives, President Nixon is putting the good faith and good intentions of Russian leaders to an early test.

The President is exploring the application of four-power diplomacy in the Middle East. He is going to Europe later this month in what he clearly hopes will serve as prelude for top-level talks with the Kremlin.

President Johnson, on the basis of some small Russian assists, was convinced to the end that Russian leaders sincerely wanted to ease world tensions. Mr. Nixon is now pushing for more graphic illustrations from the Kremlin.

In following this course, Mr. Nixon is exploiting the flexibility available to a new president who is unemcumbered with policy determinations of the past. There are some risks involved, however, and he is well aware of them.

THERE IS, for example, considerable skepticism among experts here about Russia's long-range goals in the Middle East. The experts generally agree that the Kremlin wants to avoid a new shooting war now between the Arabs and the Israelis. Some top authorities doubt, however, that Soviet leaders want to move towards a permanent solution for the problems of the Middle East.

In addition, some officials wonder whether France can play an even-handed four-power role in the Middle East, in view of what they regard as anti-Israel (and even anti-Semitic) attitudes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

THERE ARE RISKS, too, in President Nixon's trip to Europe.

Russia is putting heavy pressure on the Romanian government of party chief Nikolai Ceausescu to make that government conform to the Moscow line.

Escalation of tensions in eastern Europe could be an embarassment for the new President and a blow to his plans. A major flare-up in Berlin could have the same effect.

With increasing speculation, here and in Moscow, about possible changes in the Kremlin's top leadership, there is also the chance that the Soviet Union will have a new set of leaders before Mr. Nixon can complete all of his preliminaries and move toward top-level talks with Moscow.

At this stage, the Nixon administration is just the Nixon Administration, nothing more, nothing less — just plain Nixon Administration. There must be a reason. The President doesn't do anything without one.

THERE IS. It's deliberate. Mr. Nixon is not reaching for a Madison Avenue gimmick, for an alluring catch phrase, because he doesn't want one.

It will probably stay that way — and for a purpose.

President Nixon wants a nononsense, efficient, do-something administration. Neither he nor his people go for big, high-sounding slogans. They feel that the very sound of them makes people in need think they are going to get more than they really are. And when people don't get what they are led to believe is their due, they get frustrated and blame the government for not making good.

Mr. Nixon's men figure the country has had too much overpromise and plenty of underdeliver.

ONE CAUSE of the distrust by many people of their government is the baffled feeling that comes when large promise goes largely unfulfilled, when hope is raised too high — higher than the reality of attainment can possibly reach.

It isn't that promises of past administrations were unmeant, just unmet, and when limited progress began to come, more — too much — was expected.

The goal of the Nixon administration is to deliver all it believes it can on promises it isn't making. Thus nearly everything it accomplishes will be unexpected. Expectations which arise out of accomplishments are more realistic than those out of promises.

MR. NIXON is lucky. He lost Congress.

His failure to win a congressional majority, which his party has had only four years out of the last 40, is politically embarrassing but it may well turn out to be a hidden asset. It means that the President will be free of all temptation to bury the nation's problems in a slew of new laws and programs.

The political situation is such that the President will have to do what he most wants to do: perform. He aims to take present programs and make them work better. He aims to demonstrate excellence in execution.

NO ONE KNOWS how Mr. Nixon will do over the long pull, but friends, doubters and critics are just about unanimous that he is making a strong and reassuring start. Strong at these points:

An activist beginning: a crucial trip to Europe and a personal tour of the slums in Washington.

An "open presidency": a band of anti-Vietnam protestors were received by the White House without an appointment. They had been refused such a meeting under President Johnson.

A determination to be credible and to restore faith in the word of the government: Mr. Nixon wisely refused to put any time limit on how long it would take to get peace in Vietnam. He candidly agreed with critics that most Negroes do not consider him their friend and said he could win that friendship only by his actions.

Moves toward negotiation, not confrontation, with the Russians, seeking early action in the nonproliferation treaty and asking for wide-ranging political and arms talks with Moscow.

Sometime Mr. Nixon may earn a slogan. If he does, he would like it to be — performer.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Putting Russian Intentions To The Test

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — With his ambitious foreign policy initiatives, President Nixon is putting the good faith and good intentions of Russian leaders to an early test.

The President is exploring the application of four-power diplomacy in the Middle East. He is going to Europe later this month in what he clearly hopes will serve as prelude for top-level talks with the Kremlin.

President Johnson, on the basis of some small Russian assists, was convinced to the end that Russian leaders sincerely wanted to ease world tensions. Mr. Nixon is now pushing for more graphic illustrations from the Kremlin.

In following this course, Mr. Nixon is exploiting the flexibility available to a new president who is unemcumbered with policy determinations of the past. There are some risks involved, however, and he is well aware of them.

THERE IS, for example, considerable skepticism among experts here about Russia's long-range goals in the Middle East. The experts generally agree that the Kremlin wants to avoid a new shooting war now between the Arabs and the Israelis. Some top authorities doubt, however, that Soviet leaders want to move towards a permanent solution for the problems of the Middle East.

In addition, some officials wonder whether France can play an even-handed four-power role in the Middle East, in view of what they regard as anti-Israel (and even anti-Semitic) attitudes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

THERE ARE RISKS, too, in President Nixon's trip to Europe.

Russia is putting heavy pressure on the Romanian government of party chief Nikolai Ceausescu to make that government conform to the Moscow line.

Escalation of tensions in eastern Europe could be an embarassment for the new President and a blow to his plans. A major flare-up in Berlin could have the same effect.

With increasing speculation, here and in Moscow, about possible changes in the Kremlin's top leadership, there is also the chance that the Soviet Union will have a new set of leaders before Mr. Nixon can complete all of his preliminaries and move toward top-level talks with Moscow.

Wimp's Car Buried As Deep As Marin County's Finances

You've heard of skiers stranded in Squaw Valley or Donner Summit because cars skidded off the pavement or got stuck in slush or mud.

But did you ever hear of a skier who got up one morning and found his car disappearing into the snow, with just the top showing?

That was the predicament faced by County Personnel Analyst Charles H. Wimp several weeks ago at Squaw Valley Lodge. He had parked his car on firm snow behind the lodge. But rain fell during the night, the packed snow thawed, and his car sank.

WIMP ANALYZED the situation and left it for the week end, hitching a ride back to Marin. Next week end he headed back with shovel and reinforcements, hoping to dig the car out. But this time, not even the top was showing. He's staked out an area where he thinks his car is resting and marked it with a flag.

"It was a 1965 squareback," says Wimp. "But I don't know whether its going to be square, round or flat if and when I ever get it out."

He faces a dilemma. He can't report to his insurance company for a replacement because the car wasn't destroyed in an accident. Nor is it lost or stolen. It's all right, but held in cold storage about six feet under.

Meanwhile, Wimp is looking for a jalopy to use as transportation until the spring thaw.

THE NEW BOARD of supervisors have vowed to hold the line on the county's basic tax rate at the present $2.27 per $100 assessed valuation, and lower if possible.

If they're going to keep the rate anywhere near $2.27, they'll have to do much more than "hold the line;" they'll have to cut back considerably.

County Auditor Michael Mitchell, who did some preliminary figuring, says the outlook is bleak.

In the first place, the contingency reserve fund will be depleted to almost nothing by the end of this fiscal year in June. In June of 1968, the county had a contingency reserve of $291,000. By supplementing that, the county started in July of 1968 with a contingency reserve of $350,000. That reserve is down to about $100,000 now, and will be gone by June.

This means that a tax rate of 6 cents will be needed just to replenish the contingency reserve to the $300,000 level to start the new fiscal year.

IN THE SECOND place, the carryover fund balance in June of last year was $1.2 million (funds appropriated but not used). This year, the carryover will be down to $500,000, Mitchell estimates. So we start the 1969 fiscal year about $700,000 below last year's level. We'll need 12 cents on the tax rate to make up the difference.

Add the two together and we have an 18-cent handicap to begin with, compared with a year ago. Instead of starting with $2.27 tax rate and trying to hold the line, we start with $2.45.

But this is only the beginning when you consider the various pay raises and fringe benefits requested by the employees association and other bargaining units.

A Story Of The Seminoles, A Tribe That Rules Its Own

It happened about 20 years ago, give or take a little. If you're down in Miami someday with enough time on your hands, you can go to the newspaper morgue and read about it yourself. You'll find it there.

I shall rely on my memory, for I was there then.

It is of a young Seminole Indian girl. Each day I followed the course of her story with the intense interest you give to a powerful and moving novel. This, however, was not fiction but a true, living, breathing drama, one actually taking place at that moment.

SHE WAS YOUNG, this Seminole, young and pretty, and her name was Ocana. Her tribe camped in the everglades just beyond the limits of Miami, and living as close in as she did, she got a job in one of the laundry plants on the city's outer fringe.

Early each morning, she and others of her tribe walked together to their jobs; but of all the Indian girls who came to work, Ocana was the only one who made the unforgiveable and fatal mistake of falling in love — with a white boy who also came to the plant.

While she met with him secretly — for such an association was taboo — it was inevitable that her affair would be discovered. And it was. Ocana became pregnant.

A VIOLATED taboo is always the business of the tribe and she was called before it. Patiently and stoically she waited while the elders deliberated. When the matter was decided, a heavy silence fell over the entire tribe. Beyond the circle of men the women sat, faces bronzed and stolid, eyes black and expressionless. The naked children, knowing in their infant wisdom that a solemn moment was before them, ceased their play and stared open-mouthed and blinking-eyed toward the elders.

In the great hush of the everglades night, the sentence was pronounced. The ancient one stood, and for a long time he looked westward beyond the rim of their camp as if to see across the full 100-mile span of the treacherous swampland. Then slowly he turned to Ocana and spoke the dreaded words:

"Walk west!"

FOR AN INSTANT the sonorous sound of his voice hung in the still air, then raced across the flat swamp country making the sawgrass tremble, the diamondback rattlesnake to clatter nervously and the giant bull alligator to slip noiselessly down into his submerged sanctuary.

The day and hour was set. But before her sentence was carried out, the news reached Miami and an angry cry of protest rose. Groups formed quickly, their spokesmen heatedly demanding aid be sent to the young girl. The newspapers featured the story across their front pages, both the Miami Herald and the Daily News giving it extended coverage.

As the day of execution approached, the crescendo of voices suddenly gave way to the commissioner of Indian affairs of the state, who up to that moment had remained silent.

THE SEMINOLES, he told them, belonged to the Seminoles. They were their own people. We had no business interfering and must not. This was a matter that belonged to the tribe.

And that was that.

The awesome sentence would not be stayed. The sullen, Stygian everglades was there ready to carry out its promise.

Early on the morning of that appointed day and at that appointed hour, the young and swollen Seminole girl, Ocana, left her tribe and walked west.

Alabama Sells Coins For Anniversary

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Alabama has minted a set of five coins commemorating its 150th anniversary of statehood. The coins sell for $3 a set in nickel silver and $60 a set in sterling silver.

One side of the souvenir coins carries the sesquicentennial seal and the other depicts a design noting a significant era in the state's history.

Steam Buses Grant Is Given

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, announced yesterday an award of a $450,000 federal grant for testing steam-powered buses in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Foran, chairman of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee, predicted the steam buses would be odorless and smog free.

Steam engines are to be placed in four buses—two to be tested by the San Francisco Municipal Railway and two by the AC Transit Co. in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Foran said the "steam engine will be cheaper, lighter, require less maintanance and is virtually noiseless."

Junior College Plan Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to spur the development of community colleges across the nation was proposed today by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.

The measure would create a Federal Bureau of Community Education and provide funds for the development and implementation of state plans for two-year colleges.

Williams, a member of the Senate education subcommittee, said in a statement community college enrollments have increased 15 per cent each year since 1960.

COED WEEK

University Hosts All-Girl Workshop

By HOLLY SIMS

EDITOR'S NOTE—This past week was coed week at Princeton — experimentally, that is. Among 700 girls who took part was Holly Sims, regularly a sophomore at Wheaton College. Here she describes the experience of a week among Princeton University's males.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—"Princeton coeducation week is one big stage show," a Barnard College sophomore said happily," and the boys are watching it like a spectator sport."

The boys, who were supposed to be the spectators, seemed generally more restrained as to the effect of a weeklong feminine touch on this Ivy League masculine stronghold.

"More like a weekend than a stage show," said one Princetonian, "only longer and drier than usual.

To many coeds, however, the most striking impression from the experiment, which ended Friday, was the ease with which their miniskirts and stockings were absorbed by the Princeton landscape.

Some girls found dates, but the majority found only whistles. Most Princetonians went studiously about their classes or peopled the libraries by night as usual, thereby earning the label of "hostiles" from some ephemeral coeds.

"A lot of girls came looking for dates and have been disappointed," said a visitor from Briarcliff. "They expected to fall in love and be invited back every weekend. I feel sorry for them, because the boys are callous about it."

One Princeton student theorized that politics had crept into the selection of the 700 coeds from more than 2,500 who applied from 30 eastern colleges.

"I see some of the same couples holding hands in midweek that I have been seeing on weekends," he observed. "It must be a great opportunity to have your girl come for a whole week for only ten bucks."

Most of the girls attended full class schedules, but talking in the classroom generally was left to the men. Emerging from a lecture class swollen to nearly 1,000 by addition of 200 visitors, one coed said, "I'm used to small classes where you can say, 'Sir, will you please repeat that' when your mind wanders. I'd never dare do that at Princeton."

The professors generally ignored the presence of the coeds, the experiment being strictly the project of Princeton students rather than a formal university experiment.

One professor muttered as several girls straggled into his classroom, "Well, we have now reached our original enrollment."

Princeton students made room for the girls by moving out of their dormitories or, in some cases, simply to other floors. Bathrooms were designated male, female and, in at least one case, neuter.

"There were boys in there, so we all just brushed our teeth," said a girl emerging from the neuter bathroom. "It was fun."

A few girls grumbled about their spartan quarters, but in general the dorm sharing arrangement worked satisfactorily. The major conflict was between students who wished to study or sleep and those who preferred to socialize.

"Mount Holyoke must be a cemetery," grumbled one Princeton sophomore. "The girls upstairs went to bed at 10 o'clock but complained they couldn't sleep because of our party."

Leon Michel, a Princeton sophomore, said the week hadn't been long enough to tell whether girls should be accepted as a permanent part of the campus scene at Princeton.

"A week is barely long enough for people to drop their weekend faces and really communicate," he said. "The pseudocoeds were too much of a phenomenon to form the basis of judgment. Ask almost anyone around here now, though, and he'll tell you the week has only shown how much we are missing the rest of the year."

'Give Him A Closet For Mail'

One of a series of interviews with wives of Marin County mayors.

By GRACE HENDERSON

What would you do if you were the wife of a prominent mayor of a Marin County town? Would you be deluged with mail and telephone calls you didn't know what to do with? What about the reams of correspondence coming into the house?

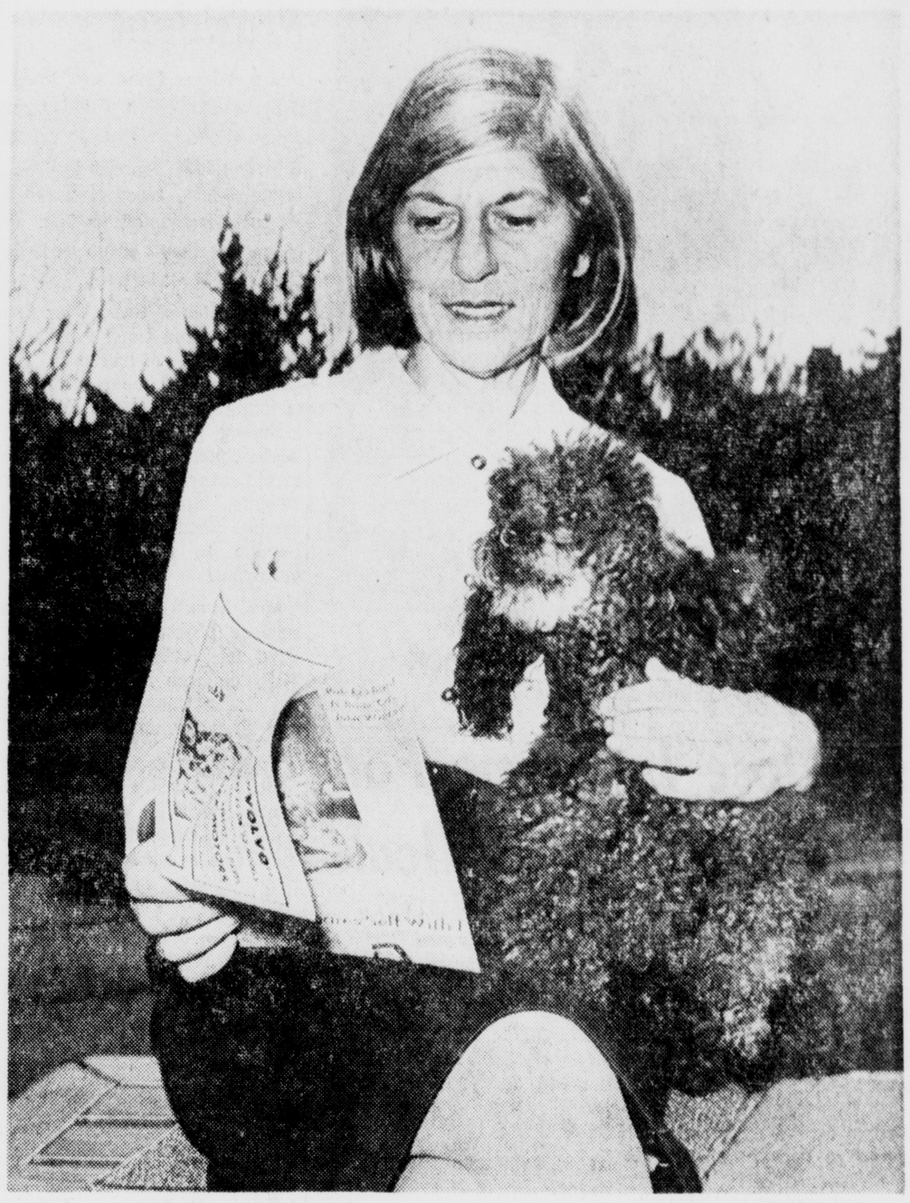
"Just give him a closet for all his mail," said Mrs. Alfred J. Malvino (Rose) of Larkspur. She then explained the Malvino procedure for handling correspondence each day. It is stacked by the kitchen sink — like it has been for 27 years now — and His Honor sorts through it as his first task on arriving home each evening. He is the owner of a furniture store in San Francisco and arrives at their 15-year residence on a typical suburban street by 6:30 p.m.

Why did Mr. Malvino run for the Larkspur city council which led to his being elected mayor? "The interest of the town was there and this is where he lives," was his wife's answer.

ROSE MALVINO, in what was her first interview ever, thought surely there was some mistake in the message that said someone from the Independent-Journal wanted to talk with her. "They must mean my husband," she told of responding.

Rose is the daughter of a couple who for 30 years had a summer place in Woodacre and would spend weekends there. She remembers taking the ferry boat to Sausalito from San Francisco, then a train to Woodacre. In fact, she said, the train ran through the section of Larkspur where her house now stands. Her parents were charter members of the Woodacre Improvement Club.

How does the role of a mayor's wife affect the life of Mrs. Malvino. "You can't get too involved with people's problems, i generally tell them when he will be home and he can return their call," she commented.



MRS. ALFRED MALVINO of Larkspur takes a moment to reflect on her role as wife of the town mayor as her daughter's poodle, Fran, poses for the photographer. The Malvinos have been Larkspur residents the past 15 years, since moving from San Francisco to their home on Dartmouth Drive. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Their home has seen much activity since it was built and the couple moved their family to Marin from San Francisco. Daughter Paula Rita, 21, will be graduating soon from Samuel Merritt Nursing School in Oakland; son, Steven Alfred, 16, is a junior at Redwood High School; and nephew, Joseph Smith, a student at College of Marin, is living with the family this year.

THE MALVINOS are members of the Redwood Bench Warmers Club and are faithful with their support. They are in charge of the group's booth for football and basketball games. They attend all games in which their son plays and as many as possible at COM for their nephew. Rose's principle hobby at home is cooking and she professes a fondness for Italian cooking. "It takes lots of time for Italian dishes," she explained and elaborated by telling of perparation that must be done prior to ball games so that the family may eat quickly on their return.

Mr. Malvino's brother, Louis Malvino, and his family also live in Larkspur, "just across the way," said Rose.

WHEN SHE BECAME Mrs. Malvino, Rose said she was aware of her husband's interest in organization work, and that being mayor was just an extended part of his interest. "He was a member of the Native Sons of Italy, the Boys Club in San Francisco, and active in other work. I was used to his going to meetings prior to going on the city council," she concluded.

"What advice would you give a new bride for getting along with her husband," we asked. "Whatever makes him happy," was her quick response. She clarified her statement by saying some husbands need outside interest in community work. "They're happier persons if they are doing something they really like to do," and her answer spoke more than she could know of the respect she has for her husband.

Frozen Desserts

More sugar and other flavoring agents are needed in frozen desserts than chilled ones because the lower temperatures tend to numb your taste buds. Sugar also improves the texture of frozen desserts, lowers their freezing points and hinders formation of large ice or lactose crystals.

Doesn't Everyone Believe In Ghosts?

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—They've happened to us all. The knowing who will be on the phone before you answer it. Having a premonition something terrible is going to happen at the exact time it actually does happen to someone else. The feeling that you've been there before, lived this experience right down to the last detail before.

What causes these phenomena and the others that you can't explain? Scientists and others interested in the subject are doing much delving and experimenting. And a woman author who's done research on everything from ghosts to ESP (extra-sensory perception) hazards some guesses on why man is so interested in the subconscious, the supernatural, is fascinated with the occult.

"A lot of it, I think ,is man's longing for immortality," says Mrs. Florence Engel Randall, "the longing for something more spiritual in this scientific age. People are so tired of the constant turmoil...man versus man, generation versus generation, black versus white."

Mrs. Randall is more investigator than confirmed believer, however — "I am not the type to go to a seance with a wide open mouth." Yet she admits, "there are things I can't explain...you can't explain. There must be a sixth sense. I remember the morning my father-in-law died suddenly. I woke with a start at 5:45. I asked myself what had awakened me...the phone hadn't rung. When it did, it was with the bad news.

"Spiritualists will tell you that when a spirit passes, there is this great burst of psychic energy affecting us."

"I'm a skeptic," Mrs. Randall continues, "and we all know there are charlatans who claim to contact the deceased, to penetrate the unknown. But you take a group of any 10 people and you'll find one who's had a strange experience he can't explain. Look at Bishop Pike, communicating with his dead son."

What got Mrs. Randall into researching the supernatural was her new novel, "The Place of Sapphires" (Harcourt, Brace & World) in which one of the character is a ghost.

"You can't just open the door and have a ghost walk in," she said, in explanation of why she researched throughly. "I took so many books on the supernatural out of the public library, I thought the librarian might think it strange.

"One day I mentioned this to her and she said, 'Oh, I don't think anything about it. I believe in ghosts.'"

To live in an age in which we demand that everything have a logic, an explanation, "takes some of the magic out of living," she says. "We aren't permitted to have miracles today."

THE SUBURBAN SCENE

Peninsula Debutante Ball Includes San Domenico Student

By MOLLY MARIN

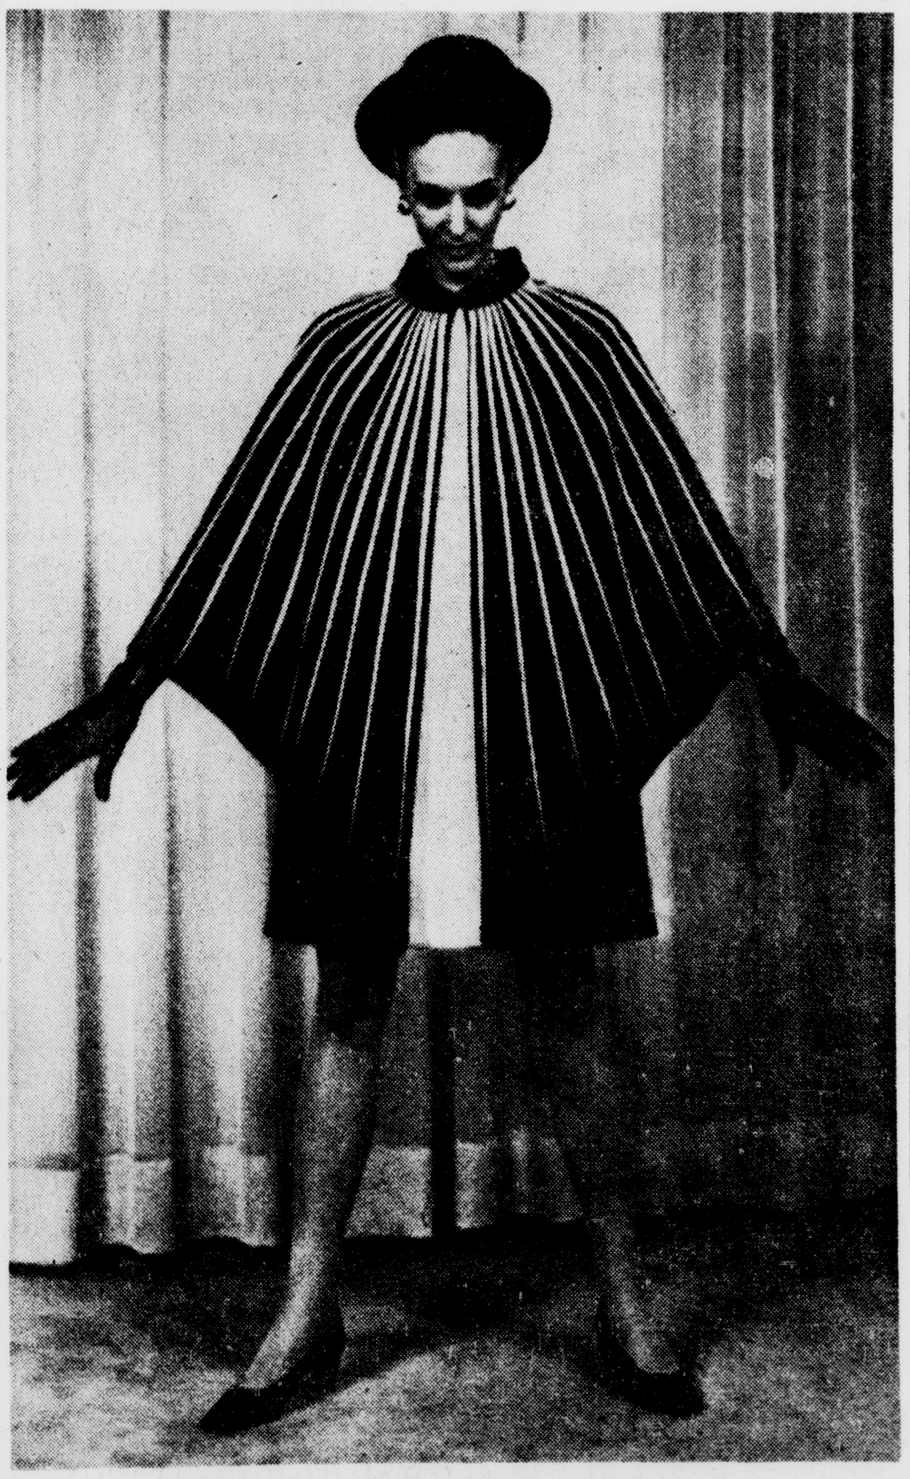
Elisabeth Winter, who attends San Domenico School, is among the debutantes who will bow at the Peninsula Debutante Ball Aug. 23. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Winter of Atherton.

THE TREASURE ROOM of the Fleet Admiral Nimitz Club on Treasure Island was the setting for the cocktail party given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galt of Marin Country Club Estates Saturday night. They invited some 100 guests from North Marin, San Francisco and Portland to the gathering.

MRS. JAMES Atkin, president of St. Stephens Guild, will honor Senora Elena Zelayeta at a luncheon at her home in Belvedere on Feb. 25. The honored guest will give a talk and cooking demonstration for the guild that afternoon.

INTERNATIONALLY KNOWN skier Jean-Claude Killy attended the "Valentine Trip Out" party given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Jan L. Farnsworth of Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lysagt of Tiburon at the Lysagts' home.

Guests were instructed how to dress for the dinner party with the attire ranging from tuxedos to mod fashions. Among the 120 guests were French skiers Claude Beaudiuin and Jean Pierre La Brat and local skiers and tennis players Messrs. Richard Massey, Herb Clark, Ray Turski and Dick Crawford of Tiburon; Bronte Reynolds of San Rafael; Alan Davis of San Francisco; Dr. Steve Walsh of Sausalito; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zelinsky of Tiburon.



DRAMATIC FOR SPRING

This cape and dress combination was presented at the spring and summer style show by the Heinz fashion house of Rome. It's done in navy blue wool with apricot stripes over an apricot wool dress. Hat and shoes are also designed by Heinz. (AP Wirephoto)

Yet she admits, "there are things I can't explain...you can't explain. There must be a sixth sense. I remember the morning my father-in-law died suddenly. I woke with a start at 5:45. I asked myself what had awakened me...the phone hadn't rung. When it did, it was with the bad news.

"Spiritualists will tell you that when a spirit passes, there is this great burst of psychic energy affecting us."

"I'm a skeptic," Mrs. Randall continues, "and we all know there are charlatans who claim to contact the deceased, to penetrate the unknown. But you take a group of any 10 people and you'll find one who's had a strange experience he can't explain. Look at Bishop Pike, communicating with his dead son."

What got Mrs. Randall into researching the supernatural was her new novel, "The Place of Sapphires" (Harcourt, Brace & World) in which one of the character is a ghost.

"You can't just open the door and have a ghost walk in," she said, in explanation of why she researched throughly. "I took so many books on the supernatural out of the public library, I thought the librarian might think it strange.

"One day I mentioned this to her and she said, 'Oh, I don't think anything about it. I believe in ghosts.'"

To live in an age in which we demand that everything have a logic, an explanation, "takes some of the magic out of living," she says. "We aren't permitted to have miracles today."

Peninsula Debutante Ball Includes San Domenico Student

By MOLLY MARIN

Elisabeth Winter, who attends San Domenico School, is among the debutantes who will bow at the Peninsula Debutante Ball Aug. 23. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Winter of Atherton.

THE TREASURE ROOM of the Fleet Admiral Nimitz Club on Treasure Island was the setting for the cocktail party given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galt of Marin Country Club Estates Saturday night. They invited some 100 guests from North Marin, San Francisco and Portland to the gathering.

MRS. JAMES Atkin, president of St. Stephens Guild, will honor Senora Elena Zelayeta at a luncheon at her home in Belvedere on Feb. 25. The honored guest will give a talk and cooking demonstration for the guild that afternoon.

INTERNATIONALLY KNOWN skier Jean-Claude Killy attended the "Valentine Trip Out" party given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Jan L. Farnsworth of Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lysagt of Tiburon at the Lysagts' home.

Guests were instructed how to dress for the dinner party with the attire ranging from tuxedos to mod fashions. Among the 120 guests were French skiers Claude Beaudiuin and Jean Pierre La Brat and local skiers and tennis players Messrs. Richard Massey, Herb Clark, Ray Turski and Dick Crawford of Tiburon; Bronte Reynolds of San Rafael; Alan Davis of San Francisco; Dr. Steve Walsh of Sausalito; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zelinsky of Tiburon.

DRAMATIC FOR SPRING

This cape and dress combination was presented at the spring and summer style show by the Heinz fashion house of Rome. It's done in navy blue wool with apricot stripes over an apricot wool dress. Hat and shoes are also designed by Heinz. (AP Wirephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

Vietnam War Prisoners' Wives Seek Help From General Public

DEAR HELEN:

Four years ago she was a bride, tearfully kissing her husband goodbye as he left for Vietnam. She has not seen him since. She doesn't even know whether he is tortured or safe, sick or well — alive or dead. She only knows that his plane went down in North Vietnam, and others of his crew were captured as prisoners of war. She hopes and prays — but she never hears. In four years she has received no word.

She is one of over 800 wives . . mothers . . . families, who live in a nightmare of fear. North Vietnam has never released the number nor a complete list of the Americans it is holding prisoner. North Vietnam has refused to abide by the Geneva Conventions which it signed, concerning the rights of prisoners of war. Very few families have heard from their husbands or sons. It is as if these young men have been swallowed up. The few who get letters out can say nothing except "I am alive." And these letters are pitifully scarce, perhaps one in two years, sometimes written six months before delivery. Can you imagine the agony suffered by those who wait at home?

I can, as our son is a prisoner of war in North Vietnam. We, at least, know that he is alive; his wife has a treasured letter. It keeps our hopes high, and it makes us doubly sad for all those who don't know. . . .

For this reason I'm asking your help, Helen. Won't you please print the following message:

"TO ALL AMERICANS:

"Our daughter-in-law, as a member of 'The League of Wives of American Vietnam Prisoners of War,' is publicly requesting that our government work harder in securing the rights and release of these Americans. These devoted wives are asking that all interested Americans help by sending telegrams or letters to Washington. The Geneva Conventions should be honored. Our government should demand this of North Vietnam.

"Please ask your friends to help by sending their own personal messages. Write your President, your Congressman, your Senators, your Governor The prisoner of war situation must be kept uppermost in the minds of our leaders.

"This is the first time these courageous young women have asked us to support them. As a mother personally involved I will be most grateful if your messages are sent."—Mother of a Prisoner of War

DEAR MOTHER:

May your touching letter bring support from all America! And may the prisoners of war — and all our servicemen — be home soon!

NOTE TO READERS:

(Photo Shop photo)

San Jose Is Home For Mr. And Mrs. Tadlock

Nancy Anne Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis of San Anselmo became the bride of Terry Guy Tadlock of San Jose Feb. 8 in a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Bradley Busch of San Anselmo served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jeanne Davis, another sister and student at University of California; Marla Tadlock of Bellevue, Wash., the bridegroom's sister; and Mrs. Thomas Biescheuvel of Cupertino.

Michael Tadlock of Sacramento, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were James Miller, Richard Rogers and Robert Watts of San Jose, Dennis Hannigan of San Francisco, Frank Corsello Jr. of Massachusetts and Lawrence Snickles III of Pasadena.

Nancy was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and San Jose State College where she was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is employed by the county of Santa Clara as a juvenile probation officer.

Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Tadlock of Bellevue, Wash., and is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and San Jose State College. He was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and is employed by First National Bank of San Jose.

A reception at the Meadow Club in Fairfax preceded a wedding trip to the Sierra mountains. The couple will live in San Jose.

Pamela Todd - John Hayes Are Wed In San Rafael

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hayes are on a wedding trip to Carmel following their marriage Saturday at St. Sylvester's Church in San Rafael.

The bride is the former Pamela Rae Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Todd of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the son of John W. Hayes of San Rafael and Mrs. John W. Hayes of Santa Rosa.

Karen Berner was maid of honor. Best man was Don Vattuone, and the bride's brother, Bruce Todd, and the bridegroom's brother, William Hayes, ushered. All are residents of San Rafael.

A reception was held at the Marin Art and Garden Center. The couple will make their home in San Rafael.

Pamela is a graduate of San Rafael High School. She attended College of Marin and is employed by Dr. Howard A. Levenson in San Rafael. James Todd is also her brother, and she is the granddaughter of George B. Cunningham of Sebastopol.

The bridegroom was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and College of Marin. He is employed by H. Koch and Sons in Corte Madera. Mrs. John Hayes of San Francisco is his grandmother.

Mill Valley Couple Wed

Hendricka Anna Dalmulder Dickey and Robert J. Vienneau, both of Mill Valley, were married Friday in a ceremony at the Mill Valley home of Mrs. Dee Murphy, a longtime friend of the bride.

Regina Kerns of Mill Valley was maid of honor, and Paul Jacobs of Mill Valley was best man.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jan G. Dalmulder of Lovlundsvagen, Sweden, was educated in Sweden. She has two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Niklasson and Francina Dalmulder, both living in Sweden.

The son of Mrs. Patrick Vienneau and the late Mr. Vienneau of Boston, Mass., the bridegroom is a graduate of Boston Technical High School and the Massachusetts Maritime Agency. He is employed with the Pacific Inland Navigation Company in Stockton.

The couple will live in Mill Valley.

Use Of Tube Tells Soul Says Doctor

BASLE, SWITZERLAND (WMMS) — "The use of color gives an X-ray picture of the soul," according to Dr. Max Leuscher of the Institute of Psycho-Diagnostic Medicine.

Dr. Leuscher said you reveal yourself when you adjust your color television set so as to play up one color more than another. If you heighten the red tones, you exhibit self-confidence and physical vitality, he said. If you mute them, you're probably self-effacing. Intensifying the blue indicates tranquility and impassivity. Turning up the yellow shows an optimistic personality. Preferring violet indicates neuroticism.

In other words, when adjusting the color TV set leads to family squabbles, there's no point in blaming color blindness or color insensitivity. It's a clash of personalities.

Sunny Hills Names New President

Mrs. Walter Unna, new president of Belvedere Guild 2 of Sunny Hills, describes herself as a person who "belongs to many organizations, most of which I support financially, or hold an office and then end up washing the dishes or ash trays."

A member of Guild 2 for five years, Virginia Unna previously held the office of treasurer. The guild members make a variety of items for the Grape Festival, including gift tags, knitted booties, pomander balls, luggage identification tags, paper weights, lapidary jewelry, candles and mosaics. Membership in the guild is invitational.

Mrs. Unna's husband is an insurance broker and they have lived in Marin for six years. Their children are Warren Unna, Roger Unna, Richard Less and Mrs. Norman Asher.

Virginia, a graduate of Mills College, modestly assesses her interests . . . almost everything. accomplishments . . . nil. I like to read; love music; play bridge; and write unsuccessfully."

Other new officers are Mrs. William Main, vice president; Mrs. Milton Kimmel, secretary; and Mrs. Samuel Mann, treasurer.

Lost Luggage

To lessen chances of your luggage getting lost on a trip by air, follow these suggestions from the Air Transport Association: Place identification tags on each bag, put a card with your name and address inside for identification in case tag comes off, remove old destination tags that could confuse baggage handlers.

Alphabetically Speaking Winter Can Be An Adventure

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Winter can be an adventure whether you are playing it cool or warm. There is no reason for any young person to be lonesome, depressed, dejected because he has nothing to do.

Here's an "A to Z" list that may suggest further ideas.

Art — Paint a snowscape or a palm tree.

Antiques — Learn all about something — paperweights, for example.

Bicycle — It's good exercise and a way to meet boys.

Cook — Buy a cookbook and see how much fun the culinary arts can be.

Crochet — Use a No. 19 crochet hook and heavy yarn and you can make a pillow top in a couple of hours.

Entertain — Invite friends for gab or games.

Family — Learn to enjoy their company.

Games — Learning new ones might be fun. Indoor tennis?

Hairbrush — Use it regularly and your hair will shine.

Image — Does yours need improvement?

Junk — You'll feel great when you get rid of it.

Kitten — It may brighten up your life.

Knit — Your own afghan will keep you both warm at the game and boost your stock with him.

Love—Everyone and the world will look rosier.

Makeup — Try a new one for fun.

Nickname — Do you need one to bolster your morale?

Objective — Resist the impulse to drift.

Ornithology — Get to know your fine-feathered friends.

Pray — It may ease some rough spots.

Piano — Lessons may show a latent talent.

Quip — Develop cheerful conversation.

Records — Splurge on a new one.

Sports — Ski, skate, snowshoe, swim.

Travel — Plan that weekend or vacation early and you'll get more mileage out of it.

Umbrella — A new colorful one will liven a dreary day.

Windowshop — Let your imagination run riot.

Walk — It's great for the figure.

Xylophone — Why not?

Yarn — Develop dexterous talents. Embroidery?

Zodiac — It can provide opportunity for study and amusement.

Novato Duo Wed Friday

Patricia Maureen Slater and Charles Cole Ashworth were united in marriage on St. Valentine's day at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Triplett of Novato. She chose as her matron of honor, Mrs. Eric Turner of Novato, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Rita Beitz of Seatttle, and Karla Bender and Diane Duncan of Novato.

Larry Stewart of Novato was best man and Russ Greenfield, Pete Weekly and Ron Halverson, all of Novato, were ushers.

A wedding reception was held at the bride's parents home. The couple will reside in Novato.

Patricia was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is the sister of Mrs. Rita Beitz, William Slater of Novato and Dalton Triplett of Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murphy of Sacramento are the parents of the bridegroom. Charles was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is now serving in the Navy.

Novato Duo Wed Friday

Patricia Maureen Slater and Charles Cole Ashworth were united in marriage on St. Valentine's day at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Triplett of Novato. She chose as her matron of honor, Mrs. Eric Turner of Novato, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Rita Beitz of Seatttle, and Karla Bender and Diane Duncan of Novato.

Larry Stewart of Novato was best man and Russ Greenfield, Pete Weekly and Ron Halverson, all of Novato, were ushers.

A wedding reception was held at the bride's parents home. The couple will reside in Novato.

Patricia was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is the sister of Mrs. Rita Beitz, William Slater of Novato and Dalton Triplett of Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murphy of Sacramento are the parents of the bridegroom. Charles was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is now serving in the Navy.

Novato School Associations Set Founders Day Observances

Several Parent-Teacher Associations plan to honor members in their individual schools in Novato Unified School District this week.

Pacheco School P-TA will have a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. tonight to be followed by a short program and presentation of service awards to several members rather than life memberships.

Olive School P-TA will award an honorary service award at 7 p.m. tomorrow night at the school. The 72nd anniversary of the P-TA, a Dixieland band and a string ensemble from San Marin High School will be featured under the direction of John Yardas.

Marion School P-TA will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school to present honorary memberships. A film depicting the Parent-Teacher Association will be presented. Third grade room mothers will serve refreshments.

Two life memberships will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Loma Verde School P-TA meeting. Children from sixth grade classes will participate in a panel discussion.

At Pleasant Valley School, the P-TA will present a life membership at a meeting to be held at the school at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

A 12-MEMBER committee has been elected at Sinaola Junior High School to discuss the future of a parent-faculty group, its aims and purposes.

Mrs. Julius Lepkowsky was elected chairman and Mrs. J. C. Church, recording secretary for the organization, to be known as Sinaloa Volunteers.

Other members are Mrs. Tom Pilkington, Marion School area; Robert Sherrill and Mrs. Lepkowsky, West Novato area; J. W. Madocks and Alton Fountain, Pleasant Valley; John Crowley and Mrs. Church, Olive area; Harold Gilmore and Mrs. Gilbert Lilly, San Ramon area; Maurice Deny and Mrs. Boyd Brewster, Lu Sutton area; Allen Roberts and W. L. Metteer are Sinaloa faculty representatives, and Marty Larsen and Jay Woods are students' representatives.

The volunteers selected a by-laws committee to report its progress at a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the faculty room of the school in Novato. Members of the committee are Messrs. Roberts, Madocks, Metteer and Mrs. Lilly.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN'S Club of Marin will meet for lunch at 11:45 a.m. at Bob's of Marin, Wednesday. The speaker will be Mrs. J. W. Pearce, wife of a local educator. Special music will be by Mrs. Wayne Jarboe, contralto, and the special feature will be coordinated paintings with home decor.

A PROGRAM on interior design by Dorothee Farber will highlight the luncheon meeting of the Retired Officers' Wives Club on Wednesday at the Windjammer in Tiburon. A social hour at noon will be followed by luncheon at 12:30 p.m. with Mmes. Thomas Gillis and Dovre Jensen as hostesses.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Edward F. Winsor, Harry B. Newhall, Dan Gilmer, Martin W. Steward, Vera S. Church and Clifford R. DeWitt.

THE PARENTS' GROUP of the Marin Country Day School, Corte Madera, announces a workshop on parent effectiveness training to be held on Thursday evening. It will be conducted by Alvin B. Carr, clinical psychologist, assistant professor of psychology at San Francisco State College and consultant to the Dixie School District, San Rafael; and Jack R. Danielson, psychologist to the Dixie School District.

The workshop will be a study of communication between parent and child, with audience participation.

UNA R. WOOD of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be guest speaker at the Novato Newcomers Club luncheon at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base on Wednesday. Miss Wood will discuss fair packaging and labeling laws and the child protection act.

Election of officers will also be held.

A social hour will begin at 11 a.m. followed by luncheon at noon. Mrs. Noel Weaver and Mrs. Thomas Laughlin are reservations chairmen.

LAGUNITAS SCHOOL Parent-Teacher Association will present a founders day program honoring past P-TA presidents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room. Presentation of an honorary life membership will be made to a person selected for outstanding work with youth in San Geronimo Valley.

THE FAMILY Service League of Marin is having a membership tea Wednesday, 2 to 4 p.m. at Mrs. Harry Newhall's, 2 Vasco Drive, Mill Valley. The tea will honor new members, prospective members and past presidents of the Family Service League. This year the league sponsored "A.M." — Marin's cultural and star-studded lecture series; and next year's "A.M." program promises to be even more successful. For further information, please contact Mrs. Thomas Dahlgren of San Anselmo, president of the league.

THE DOMINICAN College Alumnae Association Marin Chapter will have its annual mass celebrated at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael, on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 19, at noon.

A no-host luncheon will follow at Dominic's restaurant, San Rafael. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Richard I. Pera, 15 Pigeon Hollow Road, and Mrs. Robson H. Allen, 877 Greenberry Lane, both of San Rafael.

A LUNCHEON for alumnae of the Anna Head School in Berkeley will be given by Mrs. Eugene S. Kilgore Jr., at her home in Paradise Cove, Tiburon, at noon on Wednesday.

The school's new headmaster, Arthur O'Leary, will be introduced. Mrs. Kilgore is a member of the school's advisory board.

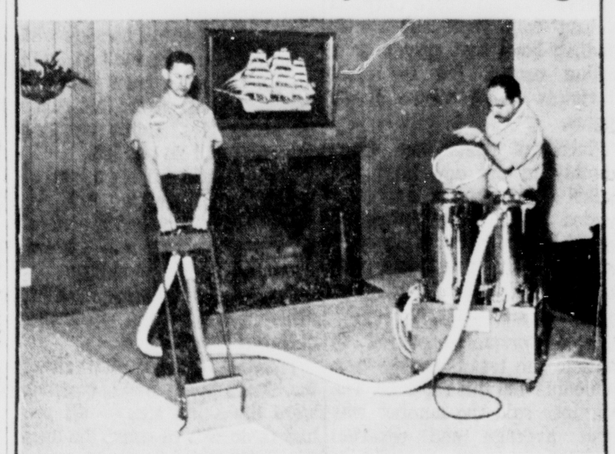
DEEP STEAM Carpet Cleaning



OFFERS YOU:

GENTLE ACTION used no brushes or scrubbing action, so it does not distort the pile of the carpet.

CLEANS DEEP actually removes soil from both the pile of the carpet and the carpet backing.

RESTORES PILE the powerful extraction process removes moisture immediately, thus avoiding shrinkage, and lifts matted pile to "like new" appearance.

SAFE PROCESS scientifically developed specially for the professional carpet cleaner. It is completely safe for all carpet fibers.

ECONOMICAL reduces the need for frequent professional cleaning because it removes the deeply embedded soil and leaves no residue in the carpet fibers to collect dirt.

SOIL RETARDING AND MOTH PROOFING are included at no extra cost.

The DEEP STEAM process is GUARANTEED to be completely safe on all fabrics and under all conditions. PH. 454-1501

REPORTER TAKES EXAMS

Preliminaries Baffle Peace Corps Test Taker

By JOANNE GRANT

Service in the Peace Corps is a long way from the sterile goldfish bowl that serves as a testing center, but for most Marinites that's where it all begins.

Placement tests are given monthly in the downtown San Rafael Post Office, currently located in the Albert Arcade in the 800 block of Fourth Street — convenient to passersby who seem to delight in staring at struggling tests takers.

Three persons appeared to undergo the test Saturday—two applicants and this reporter. The examiner said the number was about average and reported sometines no one appears to take the test. The most he has ever tested in one sitting was 10 and that was about a year ago.

The examiner, a regular post office employee who introduced himself as Louis Thompson, was seated stiffly at a teacher-type desk reviewing a lengthly guide on how to give the test.

Facing him were the applicants at their greenish-grey desks clearly marked as property of the United States Government.

Promptly at 1:30 p.m., the examiner arose, locked the door securely and returned to his desk and the rectangular, heavily wrapped package that rested ominously upon it.

There was dead silence as he slit the package and began the formal explanation of the test preliminaries — how to fill in your name, address, social security number, test number and signature.

He noted types of persons who are not eligible for the test, such as persons who have taken it before, and asked the ineligibles to leave. He didn't mention reporters and no one left.

The test, which lasts a total of one hour not counting time for explanations, included a general knowledge section and another on modern language ability.

The general knowledge section relied heavily on the applicant's ability to count blocks.

The test claimed that all of the blocks in any single question were the same size — all you had to do was to count the ones you could see, imagine the ones you couldn't see, and total them.

It wasn't as easy as it sounds — the invisible blocks were almost impossible to gauge and count.

Interspersed with the blocks were mathematical problems and vocabulary questions.

The Peace Corps was especially interested in how much material costs per yard, how much interest a man made on his investments and similar problems.

Some of the vocabulary questions seemed to be testing the applicant's knowledge of the people with whom the Peace Corps volunteers might work. For example, one of the multiple choice questions asked for the definition of indigenous.

The second half of the test was apparently designed to gauge the applicant's ability to learn foreign languages.

The first section listed words phonetically and asked the applicant to determine which of five definitions matched it most closely. There were 90 to be matched in a five-minute period.

Section two grammar school ability on parts of speech, without calling it that, and the final section involved memorizing a short vocabulary from an obscure language.

Two minutes were permitted for memorizing 24 words, such as roo for art and e for bowl. Then, two minutes were given to match up the words.

The examiner methodically collected the tests and unlocked the door, signalling the formal close of the proceedings.

One of the applicants, a middle-aged woman, indicated she didn't think the exam was particularly relevant.

"Im a doctor," she said, "and I want to help people, not answer mathematical questions."

She will know soon if she will be permitted to help people, but like all of the applicants, will never learn her test score.

That information, along with a 14-page application blank covering every possible facet of one's life, becomes the property of the Peace Corps.

Free Baby Care Course Announced

The American Red Cross is offering a free baby care course between 10 a.m. and noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting March 4 at the chapter house classroom, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Robert Goodell, a registered nurse, will conduct the class.

The lake sturgeon lives to be 50 years old.

$3,000 In Loot Taken By Burglars

Burglars broke into three Kent Woodlands homes Friday taking jewelry and furnishing valued at more than $3,000, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Jewelry and oriental rugs, valued at more than $2,500, were taken from the home of Lorraine Bergin at 7 Tree Top Way, deputies reported.

Serge Gregoriev of 50 Uplands, reported that a record player, valued at $85 and a Beatles album, valued at $8, were taken from his home.

Kay Louise Menton of 5 Buckeye Way, reported that a radiophonograph valued at $41.95, and a ladies watch and costume jewelry, value unlisted, were taken from her home.

Deputies said all three burglaries occurred during daylight hours after 8 a.m.

On Wednesday Harold Watkin of 10 Acorn Way, Kent Woodlands reported the theft of a camera valued at $336, a sander, valued at $80, and a drill, valued at $30, were taken from his home.

Novato Board Seeks Teacher Dress Policy

Policy on teachers' dress will be discussed by Novato Unfied School District trustees at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

The Novato Teachers Association submitted a general policy to the board Feb. 3 which called for "dress in a manner appropriate to the teaching situation and to our responsibilities to the students, community and ourselves."

No policy can be agreed upon by the board and teachers association, in event the grievance would be submitted to the professional relations committee or the grievance committee of teachers. The findings of either of these committees would be binding on the teachers, according to the policy submitted for discussion.

Other items on the agenda include two applications for federal guidance and counseling funds to be matched by the district, one for elementary and the other for secondary counselors, and official acceptance of the completed San Marin High School.

GOP Speaker

Mrs. Carl Hepp of the Mill Valley Republican Women will speak on sensitivity training to the Novato Republican Women at a noon meeting tomorrow at the Lodge in Novato.

Civic Association Will Be Explained

Residents of the Novack subdivision of Petaluma will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Bernard E. Eldredge School to discuss their role in the newly formed East Petaluma Civic Association.

William Youngs, a Novack representative to the association board of directors, will explain the purposes of the group.

GROWING U.S. CRIME

Group Going To Youth To Explain Shoplifting

By ANNE BARDWELL

Shoplifting is a crime.

That's the message a group of Marin women will try to sell to school children throughout the country in a campaign that began today.

During the campaign, the women, all members of tthe American Association of University Women, will distribute more than 40,000 booklets which discuss the causes and prevention of shoplifting to junior high and high school students.

In Novato, aided by extra funds donated by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, the booklets will be distributed to grammar school children as well.

In addition, posters noting that shoplifting is a crime and advertising the booklet are being placed in Marin stores and letters are being sent home to parents. Police departments, chambers of commerce, merchants and individual citizens are joing in the broad-based campaign to get the message across.

Shoplifting is one of the most common crimes in the U.S. today, and a large percentage of shoplifting crimes is committed by youngsters.

A recent national magazine article quoted statistics that more than 100,000 shopliftings are committed each year by teen-agers. Locally, no statsitics are available on shoplifting, mainly because many incidents are handled by individual stores. Organizations such as the chambers of commerce, which might be able to collect such data, have remained generally uninterested.

However, the Novato Chamber of Commerce estimates that stores annually lose 1 to 3 per cent of their merchandise to shoplifters. In shoplifting crimes reported to the Novato police department last year, 38 girls and 102 boys, all under age, stole $310.12 worth of merchandise, Chief Robert J. DiGrazia reported.

DiGrazia said many more shoplifting incidents are thwarted in the stores, with the young criminals reprimanded and sent home, and there's a fantastic amount of shoplifting that goes undetected until inventory at the end of the year.

A variety of items is stolen, ranging from mink coats by the professional adults to candy bars by the kids. But youngsters generally steal records, food, toys, cigarettes and cosmetics, according to DiGrazia.

Grocers and dime or variety stores often are the hardest hit by the youthful thieves, both because of the small size and variety of their wares.

The booklet, "Stealing Is A Crime," said that "taking merchandise is not stealing in the minds of many people" and that many persons who would note consider taking $10 out of a lost billfold or cash register don't hesitate to take a shirt, candy bar or record.

It warns that even a police record for minor shoplifting can affetct someone's future career, especially in the military, such as law or real estate where a special license is required, jobs that require bonding, civil service and those areas where competition is keen for available posts in a particular profession.

In California, the booklet says, shoplifting is considered a theft and is grand theft when the value of the property taken exceeds $200. Grand theft is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail up to one year or in the state penitentiary for one to 10 years.

Petty theft is punishable by a maximum $500 fine and/or six months in the county jail.

Also listed in the booklet are seven hints on what parents can do about juvenile theft.

The campaign was conceived last spring when Mrs. Charles Cutting, president of the Mill Valley branch of the AAUW, read an article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "They Steal for the Hell of It."

Mrs. Cutting also learned that successful campaigns to combat shoplifting had been conducted in Oklahoma City and Champaign, Ill. In Champaign, shoplifting declined 75 per cent following the distribution of a pamphlet similar to the one prepared for Marin students.

Inspired by results in other communities and Mrs. Cutting's enthusiasm, the 600 AAUW women in Marin have enlarged their program to include a follow-up campaign in schools and stores. They have also persuaded Marin police departments to compile statistics on shoplifting to determine what effect their campaign has had.

In addition the women arranged to have four Marin teenagers discuss shoplifting and its prevention at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on Channel 4's "Youth Inquires."

The AAUW women naturally hope for a successful campaign, but note that even if shoplifting declines by only 50 per cent in Marin, an average grocery store owner will save a minimum of $40 a month in pilfering losses.

NO SALE—A brightly colored package of candy is a sweet prize to the young shoplifter. This simulated scene is repeated for real throughout Marin every day and the American Association of University Women is determined to stop it. (Independent-Journal photo)

Judge Gives Synanon A Try

By MARY LEYDECKER

"What about trying Synanon?"

This is a question being heard increasingly in the courtroom of a youthful Marin judge who is as concerned about the welfare of the young drug addicts he sses daily as he is in protecting society.

"Nothing else is working, and I think we have to look for new solutions to today's problems," said Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court in discussing the Synanon approach to addiction.

Judge Roth explained that he doesn't exactly sentence addicts to Synanon, but "I lean on them pretty hard."

"Leaning means in many cases giving a person a choice between a jail sentence and committing himself to Synanon or a state hospital.

"I can't sentence anyone to Synanon — I don't even know whether they will take people," the judge said, "But I often suggest that a person go and talk to Synanon officials to see what they say."

One young man whom Judge Roth "pursuaded" to move into Synanon's new headquarters in Oakland later told the judge that he had lied to him in court.

The youth, now "doing very well" in the drug-free atmosphere at Synanon cheerfully told the judge that he had "conned" him in court about the extent of his addiction.

The 39-year-old judge, who himself is a weekly Synanon "games" player, is now considering a second approach for young people who, he believes don't need to live in the addiction treatment center.

These people, "who can still function in society to some extent," the judge intends to send to Synanon just to play the famous "game," in which a small group of people find group therapy in intense and usually heated dialogues.

What about the attitude of people sent to Synanon more or less against their will?

"There are no wrong reasons for coming to Synanon," said a 37-year-old former woman addict who has lived at Synanon five years. "Some kids come because their parents drag them here, others are looking for various things and many come because the courts insist," she said.

JUDGE HADDEN W. ROTH

Once at Synanon, however, the "no nonsense" attitude of the Synanon people usually forces the addict to take a new look at himself, perhaps for the first time in years.

"If some kid come here because Judge Roth told him to play the game and then he sits and sulks, we tell him, "we don't need any deadbeats like you,'" laughed Michael Kaiser, a Synanon official, said.

Usually, approaches like this work, he said. "We deal in reality here," he added.

The Synanon people felt that it's the game which keeps former addicts and alcoholics away from drugs successfully as well as a very realistic approach as to what to expect from addicts.

For the first three months, new residents are not allowed to leave the building, are given no money and no responsiblity except to make their beds and get to their various jobs on time.

With time, Synanon residents are given responsibility and privileges as they demonstrate they are ready for them.

"We have so many activities to keep young people busy that few leave," said Kaiser in describing the new facility, which is a six-story building which formerly housed the Athens Athletic Club in Oakland.

"We've started a college for the kids and it's the only college in the country no one is picketing or trying to burn down," Kaiser said with a smile.

The bright, cheerful faces of the many young people at the Oakland Synanon facility show their enthusiasm for their new life, but will they ever graduate?

Synanon has been notable for success with alcoholics and addicts in getting them off drugs and into productive lives, but not notable for "graduating" people back into the outside world.

"Most of us will never leave," said Barbara, the former addict, who was a prostitute and burglar in her early life.

But what about the young people?

"We don't know whether they will graduate or not," Kaiser said. "Right now they're having such a good time they don't want to leave."

As a young man walked by Judge Roth and casually called "Hi," the judge said, "That's one of my people."

"I don't know whether sending people to Synanon will work or not but we know jails and hospitals aren't doing much good," he added. "It seems worth a try."

Bolinas Sewage Report Reaches Control Board

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The Bolinas Community Public Utility District, facing an order to build its own sewage facilities if it and the Stinson Beach County Water District did not file a schedule by Saturday to build joint facilities, apparently met the deadline.

The executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, Fred H. Dierker, said today that he had received a schedule from the Bolinas district on Friday, but that his staff had not yet reviewed it to see if it is satisfactory.

The district's schedule, according to the letter to Dierker, promises a start of construction within one year, but provided no cost estimate, he said. The letter said the year would be necessary to arrange financing and conclude joint plans for new facilities.

Dierker said a staff review of the letter will be reported to the water quality board at its next meeting, 10 a.m. on March 13 in the State Building here at 1111 Jackson Street.

The regional board set the Saturday deadline at its Dec. 18 meeting after it was recommended by Dierker. The board agreed to revive a cease and desist order against the Bolinas district at the March 13 meeting if a satisfactory joint schedule was not filed by the deadline.

The cease and desist order, repeatedly postponed by the regional board to encourage the two districts to seek a joint solution to their sewage needs, would require the Bolinas district to schedule immediate construction of its own facilities.

The regional board long has sought to stop the Bolinas district from dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

Stinson Beach is on septic tanks.

Heart Attack Fatal To Inmate

Telesforo Hernandez, 43-year-old inmate at San Quentin Prison, died, apparently of a heart attack, yesterday afternoon shortly after playing handball.

Hernandez had just returned to his office job at 3:20 p.m. when he was fatally stricken, reported George W. Sumner, duty officer.

Hernandez, sentenced from Los Angeles County for parole violation, was returned to prison in March, 1967, for his fifth term, Sumner said.

Hernandez was a native of Texas.

Surviving are his wife, Alice Hernandez, and his mother, Lupe Hernandez, both of Los Angeles.

Age Corrected

The Independent-Journal, as a result of a composing room error, incorrectly reported in Friday's Marin Names column that Dr. D. E. Spencer of San Rafael, a Navy dentist, performed a dental first at the Yokosuka Dental Clinic in Japan by pulling the tooth of a 13-year-old girl. The girl was 13 days old.

Panel's Future To Be Studied

Is the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee really necessary?

This question will be discussed by the committee at a meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza administration building.

The issue was raised at the Jan. 15 meeting by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, who reported that John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin Board of Supervisors had questioned the need for the committee.

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee is composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. Chairman is Jack D. Morrison of San Francisco. Representatives from Marin are Supervisors Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

Another item on the agenda is a discussion of Arthur C. Jenkins' proposal for an $8.5 million bus system financed by the bridge district.

Giving Hitchhiker A Ride Is Expensive

A San Anselmo woman yesterday joined the ranks of kindly motorists who have had cause to regret the generous impulse that leads to picking up hitchhikers.

Sherry Hughes of 43 Cedar Street told police her purse and $125 were missing after she gave a ride about 9 p.m. to a long-haired young man in hippie clothing, picking him up in Lagunitas and dropping him off at Bolinas Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Sonoma Faculty Voting On Chancellor Dumke

The faculty of Sonoma State College joins a statewide confidence vote today on Chancellor Glenn Dumke and his management of the state college system.

Dr. Kenneth Stocking, biology professor and statewide vice president of the California Academic Senate, said the Sonoma State vote will be gathered today and forwarded to San Fernando State College for the statewide tabulation.

Stocking said the Senate has accused Dumke of lacking leadership and of being responsible for many of the problems plaguing San Francisco State College and other campuses.

The academic senate board of directors last May called for Dumke's resignation by a vote of 30 to 10 with two abstaining. Stocking said Dumke at the time called the senate "irresponsible and unrepresentative."

"In taking this poll of all faculty members, we hope to prove that the organization is representative of the feeling of its members," Stocking said, predicting the "no confidence" vote would prevail.

He said the senate is seeking more autonomy from the state college board of trustees. "The principle of the trustees delegating authority to individual campuses has moved very slowly and practically not at all under Chancellor Dumke, he said. The senate seeks more authority in areas such as instruction, curriculum and faculty matters.

Saying he felt the majority of the faculty would vote against Dumke, Stocking said he hoped this would bring about the chancellor's resignation.

"A no-confidence vote would bring dramatic pressure upon him this year," Stocking said. "It would prove his ineffectiveness and show him that it would be well to resign. The trustees are the only ones who can fire him, but we (academic senate) can persuade."

He said the votes will be tallied this week with results known by the middle of next week.

34 On Honors List At School

Thirty-four San Marin High School students received an average of at least 3.5 for the semester, reported Principal Henry Moroski.

Students with a straight A or 4 point averages were Karen Ann Berber and Shirley C. Jordan, juniors, and Peter Sorensen, a sophomore.

Those with a 3.8 or better average are. Christa F. Bretz, Edward D. Freymiller, Valerie Lyons, Alice Nelson, Greg N. Olsen, Michele Oliver and Laureen S. Pisano, juniors, and Paul Hurley, Paul C. Lathrop and Michael A. Van Horn, sophomores.

There is no senior class at San Marin High School.

New Business Ordinance On Corte Madera Agenda

Corte Madera Town Councilmen have on their agenda tonight the proposed new business license ordinance which drew opposition last Thursday from Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce members.

Instead of merchants paying as at present a flat rate for business licenses, the proposed ordinance would require that retail businessmen pay according to gross sales while wholesalers would pay on a basis of the number of employees.

The present ordinance lists no exceptions as to who must have a license, reports Frank Bigley, town finance director.

All persons, companies or corporations doing business in Corte Madera are required to have a license under the current or the proposed ordinances.

Under the proposed ordinance, persons under 18 and over 65 years of age making less than $1,640 per year would be exempt.

Also before the council will be a proposal by volunteer firemen asking that street numbers be painted on curbs and approval of a Village Square landscaping plan.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall.

Driver Facing Three Charges

A 32-year-old San Francisco driver, who attracted the attention of California Highway Patrol officers, early yesterday by driving the wrong way on a freeway off-ramp in San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of three charges.

Eric Girard Jr. of 972 Randolph Street, was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of driving a stolen car, driving under the influence of narcotics and possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Officers said he was driving south on the northbound Highway 101 off-ramp at Francisco Boulevard at 2:15 a.m.

He was held in lieu of $1,200 bail and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Deputies also noted that he was to be held for San Francisco Police Department.

Girard was driving a car, registered to Irwin L. Johnson of 1763 Oak Street, San Francisco, which was reported stolen Saturday in San Francisco, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Tot Is Saved From High Water

A 3-year-old Belvedere girl was rescued from a water-filled ditch behind the Tiburon Fire Station Saturday afternoon by a fireman who was on his way to warn her of the danger.

Fireman Thomas W. Murphy reported that the girl, Eliza Haskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Haskins of 61 Acacia Street, fell into about 30 inches of water just before he reached her at 2:15 p.m.

She was submerged over her head and he pulled her out, he said.

The ditch, about four feet wide and 300 feet long, was filled with water, but was deceptive because it appeared to be the same depth as surrounding water, about six inches deep, Murphy said.

"YOU'RE KIDDING! 10 LESSONS* — $10?"

Bolinas Sewage Report Reaches Control Board

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The Bolinas Community Public Utility District, facing an order to build its own sewage facilities if it and the Stinson Beach County Water District did not file a schedule by Saturday to build joint facilities, apparently met the deadline.

The executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, Fred H. Dierker, said today that he had received a schedule from the Bolinas district on Friday, but that his staff had not yet reviewed it to see if it is satisfactory.

The district's schedule, according to the letter to Dierker, promises a start of construction within one year, but provided no cost estimate, he said. The letter said the year would be necessary to arrange financing and conclude joint plans for new facilities.

Dierker said a staff review of the letter will be reported to the water quality board at its next meeting, 10 a.m. on March 13 in the State Building here at 1111 Jackson Street.

The regional board set the Saturday deadline at its Dec. 18 meeting after it was recommended by Dierker. The board agreed to revive a cease and desist order against the Bolinas district at the March 13 meeting if a satisfactory joint schedule was not filed by the deadline.

The cease and desist order, repeatedly postponed by the regional board to encourage the two districts to seek a joint solution to their sewage needs, would require the Bolinas district to schedule immediate construction of its own facilities.

The regional board long has sought to stop the Bolinas district from dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

Stinson Beach is on septic tanks.

Thirty-four San Marin High School students received an average of at least 3.5 for the semester, reported Principal Henry Moroski.

Those with a 3.8 or better average are. Christa F. Bretz, Edward D. Freymiller, Valerie Lyons, Alice Nelson, Greg N. Olsen, Michele Oliver and Laureen S. Pisano, juniors, and Paul Hurley, Paul C. Lathrop and Michael A. Van Horn, sophomores.

There is no senior class at San Marin High School.

New Business Ordinance On Corte Madera Agenda

Corte Madera Town Councilmen have on their agenda tonight the proposed new business license ordinance which drew opposition last Thursday from Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce members.

Instead of merchants paying as at present a flat rate for business licenses, the proposed ordinance would require that retail businessmen pay according to gross sales while wholesalers would pay on a basis of the number of employees.

The present ordinance lists no exceptions as to who must have a license, reports Frank Bigley, town finance director.

All persons, companies or corporations doing business in Corte Madera are required to have a license under the current or the proposed ordinances.

Under the proposed ordinance, persons under 18 and over 65 years of age making less than $1,640 per year would be exempt.

Also before the council will be a proposal by volunteer firemen asking that street numbers be painted on curbs and approval of a Village Square landscaping plan.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall.

Driver Facing Three Charges

A 32-year-old San Francisco driver, who attracted the attention of California Highway Patrol officers, early yesterday by driving the wrong way on a freeway off-ramp in San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of three charges.

Eric Girard Jr. of 972 Randolph Street, was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of driving a stolen car, driving under the influence of narcotics and possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Officers said he was driving south on the northbound Highway 101 off-ramp at Francisco Boulevard at 2:15 a.m.

He was held in lieu of $1,200 bail and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Deputies also noted that he was to be held for San Francisco Police Department.

Girard was driving a car, registered to Irwin L. Johnson of 1763 Oak Street, San Francisco, which was reported stolen Saturday in San Francisco, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Tot Is Saved From High Water

Fireman Thomas W. Murphy reported that the girl, Eliza Haskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Haskins of 61 Acacia Street, fell into about 30 inches of water just before he reached her at 2:15 p.m.

She was submerged over her head and he pulled her out, he said.

The ditch, about four feet wide and 300 feet long, was filled with water, but was deceptive because it appeared to be the same depth as surrounding water, about six inches deep, Murphy said.

The moon is between its new phrase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1801 after separate ballots, an electorial tie was broken when the House of Representatives named Thomas Jefferson the third President of the United States. Aaron Burr, tied with Jefferson, was named vice-president.

In 1817 Baltimore became the first American city to have a street illuminated with gas lights.

In 1906 Alice Roosevelt, oldest daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, was married in the White House to Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio.

In 1966 a Soviet T-114 crashed, killing 48 persons.

A thought for the day: William James said, "Man lives by habits indeed, but what he lives for is thrills and excitement."

Sometimes Your Partner Faces An 'Unleadable' Combination

When your partner bids one suit but makes his opening lead in another, you may reasonably assume that he has an "unleadable" combination at the head of his bid suit. It is up to you to lead his suit for him in the hope that the lead from your side of the table may be more productive than from his.

AVOID DIAMOND

In today's hand West cannot afford to lead diamonds, the suit he has bid, because that would allow declarer to win a trick with the king. West cannot tell that the missing king of diamonds is in the South hand but he should not risk a diamond lead because the bidding indicates that South is more likely than any other player to have a missing high card.

Fortunately, West has a perfectly normal, attacking lead in one of the unbid suits. When West leads the king of spades, East should signal by playing the ten.

Normally, this kind of signal might encourage West to take the ace of spades and then lead a third spade, but West is expected to use his common sense. East cannot have only two spades, since then South would have a six-card suit which he never bothered to bid. Since this is obviously not the case, East cannot have a doubleton, and his signal must therefore indicate that he has the queen of spades.

INTERPRETS MESSAGE

If West correctly interprets the message he should lead his low spade at the second trick. This enables East to win with the queen of spades, and East can then return a diamond. West takes two diamond tricks, and South is down before he can get started.

If the defenders failed to take their four tricks immediately, South would draw trumps and run the clubs to take 11 tricks.

What do you say?

ANSWER: Bid two spades. Despite the trump length and the singleton, this hand is not strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Scottish Thief Not Very Lucky

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP) — Police spotted a man, 21, stealing from a doctor's car.

He fled with the loot, jumped over a wall and thumbed a lift from a car.

Too late, as the driver opened the car door for him, he realized it was a police car.

He got six months in jail.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Mobile Home Stock For High Riskers

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate information about Monarch Industries. Although I have heard that it shows promise I have been unable to secure any information on the company. — R. R.

A. Monarch, a mobile home producer, since its initial public offering last June at $6.50 has moved up sharply, split two-for-one and is recently quoted in the upper 20s. Prices are reported in weekly over-the-counter lists published in the Wall Street Journal. In the year ended June 30, 1968, the company earned 54 cents per share — adjusted for the split — on sales of $12.5 million. In the first quarter of the current fiscal year, sales reached $4.6 million with earnings of 19 cents.

Three mergers, either completed or in process, could add $16 million to sales and provide plant space needed to meet growing demand.

One of the companies manufactures Kitchen furnishings required in fitting out mobile homes. Shares are priced at about 25x current year's estimated results, a fair P/E for this industry. Nevertheless this is a comparatively small operator in an aggressively competitive industry. Therefore, shares are highly speculative.

Q. I am a widow looking for more income. Dividends on my portfolio work out to a little over 4 per cent. Would you suggest changes to better this rate? — J. S.

A. In order to better your income you will have to sacrifice growth. But with two-thirds of your capital still in common stocks which offer some appreciation potential as well as an adequate dividend, you can afford to switch three of your holdings to straight income issues.

The $690 in annual dividends you now receive can be increased to $1,400 by switching American Home preferred, Corn Products and Woolworth into Baltimore Gas & Electric 7s of 1998 and Florida Power and Light 7s of 1998. This move will give you a yield closer to 5.5 per cent.

Safeway Reports Records For 1968

OAKLAND (BW) — Safeway Stores, Inc., has reported consolidated unaudited sales of $3,685,690,358 for 1968, a new record for the company and an increase of 9.7 per cent over 1967 sales of $3,360,879,991.

Consolidated unaudited net income after taxes for 1968 was $55,054,793, an increase of 8.2 per cent over net income of $50,892,927 for 1967. Net income per share was $2.16 in 1968, compared to $2 per share in 1967.

Dividend Increased On Record Sales

NEW YORK (BW) — Tampax, Inc., posted new highs in sales and earnings in 1968, and has increased its quarterly dividend rate from 65 to 75 cents a share, payable March 17 to shareholders of record Feb. 24.

Consolidated net sales in 1968 were $60,993,912, an increase of 13.3 per cent. Consolidated net earnings in 1968 were $13,595,213, or $4.82 a share — an increase of 10.4 per cent.

Microdot Dividend

NEW YORK (BW) — The board of directors of Microdot, Inc., has voted the first payment in the company's history of a quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents per share on its common stock, on March 20 to shareholders of record on Feb. 26.

Potlatch Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The board of directors of Potlatch Forests, Inc., has authorized payment of the usual quarterly dividend of 27.5 cents per share, on March 17 to stockholders of record Feb. 28.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

New Ruling Is Explained Regarding Property Sale

Did you buy and move into a new home and now have to sell your old home?

You still have maintenance and repair costs and insurance and perhaps a caretaker for your old home and depreciation. You cannot deduct this for residential property unless it is changed to "property held for the production of income."

Wikel

Last year I said.:

The Tax Court repeatedly has said that offering your old home for sale wouldn't change it into income producing property. The Tax Court has just made a different decision.

"When you put your former home up for sale, this alone, immediately converts it into 'property held for the production of income', and you can deduct any repair and maintenance expenses you incur for your old home. You can deduct depreciation on your old home from the time you put it up for sale until you actually sell it."

J. M. Cullen, district director of the IRS wrote to the Independent-Journal and stated in reference to the above:

"Section 212 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that expenses incurred in connection with property held for the production of income are deductible However, the mere offering of a former residence for sale does not convert it from non-business property to property held for the production of income. Inasmuch as a former residence remains non-business property after it has been offered for sale, the expenses incurred, including depreciation, are not deductible for income tax purposes."

I had based my statement on Tax Court Memo Decision 1967-28 Hulet P. Smith, which has, since the above letter from IRS, been upheld by the Ninth Circuit.

Accordingly, I asked the IRS if they would now permit deductions of this type.

The reply, dated Nov. 9, 1968, stated:

"We are aware of the recent decision, Smith, 22 AFTR 2d 5096, as mentioned in your letter of October 18, 1968.

"However, our litigation division has not yet decided whether or not we will appeal this case or issue a decision as to acquiescence or nonacquiescence.

"Therefore, for the present, our position remains unchanged and we will continue to question this type of expenditure."

Market In Steep Declines At Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today took its sharpest downturn since Jan. 6 when it lost more than 15 points.

As with that previous decline, there was no outstanding piece of news that depressed the market. The market started weak and eased through the day in light trading.

Declines led advances by more than 3 to 1 near the close.

Analaysts, while unable to find one factor on which to peg the setack, cited several influences. Most prominent was the possible extension of the surtax beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Paul W. McCracken, President Nixon's top economist, earlier in the day hinted before a Senate-House committee that the tax might have to be extended to slow inflation.

Other factors cited were uncertainty over the duration of the Vietnam war and the continuing tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board.

Gulf & Western topped the most-active list, off more than 3 points after a block of 116,900 shares changed hands at 41½, off 3½.

Other active issues were Twentieth Century Fox, off more than a point. Occidental Petroleum lost two points, Glen Alden was down a fraction and Thrifty Drug was down more than 2. Control Data also lost more than two points.

OTHER PEOPLE'S BUSINESS

By HARRY CRAFT

New Children's Wear Store Will Open Doors On March 1

A new children's wear store called Patina's will open March 1 at 301 Third Street, San Rafael, in the Montecito Shopping Center.

The name is derived from the first names of the owners, Mrs. Ina Burch and her daughter Mrs. Patricia Masseo, both San Rafael residents. Garments will include children's dresses, underclothing, play clothes and socks. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

This is a first venture of this kind for both women, who previously were in office work.

CORRECTION. Office of Westamerica Securities, Inc. to open at 25-35 Mitchell Drive, Northgate Industrial Park next month is not the regional office now located in Tiburon, but a new divisional sales office under the management of William Carroll of Tiburon.

He has been with the company three years, working out of the San Francisco office, and temporarily maintains a temporary office at 45 Mitchell Boulevard until new quarters are ready.

The regional office will continue in Tiburon under John M. Croxall, regional vice president.

SHOE TIQUE, avant garde fashion shoe store opened last July at 936 B Street, San Rafael by William Blanton, has moved to new and larger quarters at 1131 Fourth Street.

THE OFFICE BUILDING at 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, formerly known as the Essex Buildings, is not called the Essex Business and Professional Center. Improvements are under construction, including a hard canopy with appropriate lettering for better identification.

The partnership of Paula Wolper Feingold and Phyllis Steckel Atterbury, which operated under the name of S. and W Properties, has been dissolved. Mrs. Atterbury is now a resident of Connecticut. New ownership is in the name of Essex Properties, a corporation headed by Stanley A. Feingold as president.

This is the business complex that was built with a swimming pool for its tenants. There are now some vacancies in the building.

Brady Hall

SHANE H. BRADY, who is scheduled to be manager of the San Rafael office of Dean Witter and Co., Inc. when it opens in early April, has been elected assistant vice president of the company. He joined the San Francisco office as an account executive in 1957, and was co-manager there before being named San Rafael manager. The new office will be at 1299 Fourth Street, on the ground floor of the Kaehler-Farrar Building.

DR. K. LYNN HALL of San Rafael has been appointed a senior research associate at the Richmond laboratory of Chevron Research Co. He joined the company's radiation chemistry group in 1955. Currently his research has been in the chemistry of corrosion and wear.

ROBERT H. WARREN of Mill Valley has been appointed corporate relations manager of Transamerica Corp. Before joining this company he was account supervisor with Public Relations Pacific, a division of Lennen and Newell, Inc., San Francisco. Previously he held advertising and public relations positions with Union Carbide Corp.

ROYSTON, HANAMOTO BECK AND ABEY, firm of landscape architects, who has three of its principals, Robert Royston, Asa Hanamoto and Eldon Beck, living in Mill Valley, is now under contract with the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency to provide master plan and preliminary design services for the landscaping at the 125-acre Hunters Point redevelopment project.

SUCCESSFUL INVESTING

Mobile Home Stock For High Riskers

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate information about Monarch Industries. Although I have heard that it shows promise I have been unable to secure any information on the company. — R. R.

A. Monarch, a mobile home producer, since its initial public offering last June at $6.50 has moved up sharply, split two-for-one and is recently quoted in the upper 20s. Prices are reported in weekly over-the-counter lists published in the Wall Street Journal. In the year ended June 30, 1968, the company earned 54 cents per share — adjusted for the split — on sales of $12.5 million. In the first quarter of the current fiscal year, sales reached $4.6 million with earnings of 19 cents.

Three mergers, either completed or in process, could add $16 million to sales and provide plant space needed to meet growing demand.

One of the companies manufactures Kitchen furnishings required in fitting out mobile homes. Shares are priced at about 25x current year's estimated results, a fair P/E for this industry. Nevertheless this is a comparatively small operator in an aggressively competitive industry. Therefore, shares are highly speculative.

Q. I am a widow looking for more income. Dividends on my portfolio work out to a little over 4 per cent. Would you suggest changes to better this rate? — J. S.

A. In order to better your income you will have to sacrifice growth. But with two-thirds of your capital still in common stocks which offer some appreciation potential as well as an adequate dividend, you can afford to switch three of your holdings to straight income issues.

The $690 in annual dividends you now receive can be increased to $1,400 by switching American Home preferred, Corn Products and Woolworth into Baltimore Gas & Electric 7s of 1998 and Florida Power and Light 7s of 1998. This move will give you a yield closer to 5.5 per cent.

Safeway Reports Records For 1968

OAKLAND (BW) — Safeway Stores, Inc., has reported consolidated unaudited sales of $3,685,690,358 for 1968, a new record for the company and an increase of 9.7 per cent over 1967 sales of $3,360,879,991.

Consolidated unaudited net income after taxes for 1968 was $55,054,793, an increase of 8.2 per cent over net income of $50,892,927 for 1967. Net income per share was $2.16 in 1968, compared to $2 per share in 1967.

Dividend Increased On Record Sales

NEW YORK (BW) — Tampax, Inc., posted new highs in sales and earnings in 1968, and has increased its quarterly dividend rate from 65 to 75 cents a share, payable March 17 to shareholders of record Feb. 24.

Consolidated net sales in 1968 were $60,993,912, an increase of 13.3 per cent. Consolidated net earnings in 1968 were $13,595,213, or $4.82 a share — an increase of 10.4 per cent.

Microdot Dividend

NEW YORK (BW) — The board of directors of Microdot, Inc., has voted the first payment in the company's history of a quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents per share on its common stock, on March 20 to shareholders of record on Feb. 26.

Potlatch Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The board of directors of Potlatch Forests, Inc., has authorized payment of the usual quarterly dividend of 27.5 cents per share, on March 17 to stockholders of record Feb. 28.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

New Ruling Is Explained Regarding Property Sale

Did you buy and move into a new home and now have to sell your old home?

You still have maintenance and repair costs and insurance and perhaps a caretaker for your old home and depreciation. You cannot deduct this for residential property unless it is changed to "property held for the production of income."

Wikel

Last year I said.:

The Tax Court repeatedly has said that offering your old home for sale wouldn't change it into income producing property. The Tax Court has just made a different decision.

"When you put your former home up for sale, this alone, immediately converts it into 'property held for the production of income', and you can deduct any repair and maintenance expenses you incur for your old home. You can deduct depreciation on your old home from the time you put it up for sale until you actually sell it."

J. M. Cullen, district director of the IRS wrote to the Independent-Journal and stated in reference to the above:

"Section 212 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that expenses incurred in connection with property held for the production of income are deductible However, the mere offering of a former residence for sale does not convert it from non-business property to property held for the production of income. Inasmuch as a former residence remains non-business property after it has been offered for sale, the expenses incurred, including depreciation, are not deductible for income tax purposes."

I had based my statement on Tax Court Memo Decision 1967-28 Hulet P. Smith, which has, since the above letter from IRS, been upheld by the Ninth Circuit.

Accordingly, I asked the IRS if they would now permit deductions of this type.

The reply, dated Nov. 9, 1968, stated:

"We are aware of the recent decision, Smith, 22 AFTR 2d 5096, as mentioned in your letter of October 18, 1968.

"However, our litigation division has not yet decided whether or not we will appeal this case or issue a decision as to acquiescence or nonacquiescence.

"Therefore, for the present, our position remains unchanged and we will continue to question this type of expenditure."

Market In Steep Declines At Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today took its sharpest downturn since Jan. 6 when it lost more than 15 points.

As with that previous decline, there was no outstanding piece of news that depressed the market. The market started weak and eased through the day in light trading.

Declines led advances by more than 3 to 1 near the close.

Analaysts, while unable to find one factor on which to peg the setack, cited several influences. Most prominent was the possible extension of the surtax beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Paul W. McCracken, President Nixon's top economist, earlier in the day hinted before a Senate-House committee that the tax might have to be extended to slow inflation.

Other factors cited were uncertainty over the duration of the Vietnam war and the continuing tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board.

Gulf & Western topped the most-active list, off more than 3 points after a block of 116,900 shares changed hands at 41½, off 3½.

Other active issues were Twentieth Century Fox, off more than a point. Occidental Petroleum lost two points, Glen Alden was down a fraction and Thrifty Drug was down more than 2. Control Data also lost more than two points.

A new children's wear store called Patina's will open March 1 at 301 Third Street, San Rafael, in the Montecito Shopping Center.

The name is derived from the first names of the owners, Mrs. Ina Burch and her daughter Mrs. Patricia Masseo, both San Rafael residents. Garments will include children's dresses, underclothing, play clothes and socks. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

This is a first venture of this kind for both women, who previously were in office work.

CORRECTION. Office of Westamerica Securities, Inc. to open at 25-35 Mitchell Drive, Northgate Industrial Park next month is not the industrial office now located in Tiburon, but a new divisional sales office under the management of William Carroll of Tiburon.

He has been with the company three years, working out of the San Francisco office, and temporarily maintains a temporary office at 45 Mitchell Boulevard until new quarters are ready.

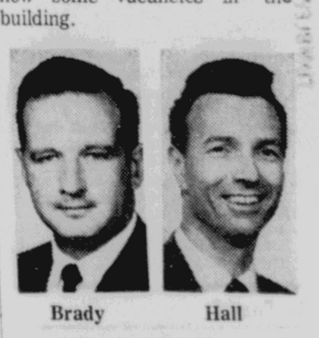
The regional office will continue in Tiburon under John M. Croxall, regional vice president.

SHOE TIQUE, avant garde fashion shoe store opened last July at 936 B Street, San Rafael by William Blanton, has moved to new and larger quarters at 1131 Fourth Street.

THE OFFICE BUILDING at 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, formerly known as the Essex Buildings, is not called the Essex Business and Professional Center. Improvements are under construction, including a hard canopy with appropriate lettering for better identification.

The partnership of Paula Wolper Feingold and Phyllis Steckel Atterbury, which operated under the name of S. and W Properties, has been dissolved. Mrs. Atterbury is now a resident of Connecticut. New onwership is in the name of Essex Properties, a corporation headed by Stanley A. Feingold as president.

This is the business complex that was built with a swimming pool for its tenants. There are now some vacancies in the building.



Brady Hall

SHANE H. BRADY, who is scheduled to be manager of the San Rafael office of Dean Witter and Co., Inc. when it opens in early April, has been elected assistant vice president of the company. He joined the San Francisco office as an account executive in 1957, and was co-manager there before being named San Rafael manager. The new office will be at 1299 Fourth Street, on the ground floor of the Kaehler-Farrar Building.

DR. K. LYNN HALL of San Rafael has been appointed a senior research associate at the Richmond laboratory of Chevron Research Co. He joined the company's radiation chemistry group in 1955. Currently his research has been in the chemistry of corrosion and wear.

ROBERT H. WARREN of Mill Valley has been appointed corporate relations manager of Transamerica Corp. Before joining this company he was account supervisor with Public Relations Pacific, a division of Lennen and Newell, Inc., San Francisco. Previously he held advertising and public relations positions with Union Carbide Corp.

ROYSTON, HANAMOTO BECK AND ABEY, firm of landscape architects, who has three of its principals, Robert Royston, Asa Hanamoto and Eldon Beck, living in Mill Valley, is now under contract with the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency to provide master plan and preliminary design services for the landscaping at the 125-acre Hunters Point redevelopment project.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 18551

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

Estate of PAUL W. RAUGUST, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that on or after February 25, 1969, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Paul W. Raugust, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest net bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, all the right, title, interest, and estate of the decedent at the time of his death and all the right, title and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to the real property commonly known as 115 West Street, Sausalito, California, in the County of Marin, State of California, and more particularly described as follows:

EXCEPTING THEREOUT AND THEREFROM the Westerly 40 feet, as conveyed to Rita Chase by Frances Machado, by Deed recorded October 22, 1936, in Book 332 of Official Records, at page 31, Marin County Records.

The sale shall be subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements and existing encumbrances of record.

The terms and conditions of sale are: cash in lawful money of the United States of America or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the administrator and to the court. Ten per cent (10%) of the amount bid is to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid on the confirmation of sale by the court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and will be received at the offices of Cushing, Cullinan, Hancock & Rothert, attorneys for the administrator, at 100 Bush Street, San Francisco, California, 94104, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making of the sale.

The administrator reserves the right to reject all bids up to the time of actual signing of the order confirming sale.

Dated: February 5, 1969.

ORDER TO SHOW CAUSE
No. 52951

IN THE SUPERIOR COURT OF THE STATE OF CALIFORNIA, IN AND FOR THE COUNTY OF MARIN.

Application of JOAN KOSTBADE GUIMONT for Change of Name.

It appearing that Petitioner, JOAN KOSTBADE GUIMONT, has filed an application with this Court for an Order changing her name from JOAN KOSTBADE GUIMONT to JOAN KOSTBADE RAMSDEN, now therefore:

IT IS HEREBY ORDERED that all persons interested in the above-entitled matter appear before this Court at 2 p.m., on March 10, 1969, in the Courtroom of Department No. 4, at the Courthouse, San Rafael, California, and show cause, if any, why the aforementioned application for change of name should not be granted.

IT IS FURTHER ORDERED that a copy of this Order to Show Cause be published in the San Rafael Independent Journal, a newspaper of general circulation printed in the County of Marin, State of California, once a week for four successive weeks prior to the date set for hearing the application.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 18551

Superior Court of the State of California for the County of Marin.

Estate of PAUL W. RAUGUST, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that on or after February 25, 1969, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Paul W. Raugust, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest net bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, all the right, title, interest, and estate of the decedent at the time of his death and all the right, title and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to the real property commonly known as 115 West Street, Sausalito, California, in the County of Marin, State of California, and more particularly described as follows:

EXCEPTING THEREOUT AND THEREFROM the Westerly 40 feet, as conveyed to Rita Chase by Frances Machado, by Deed recorded October 22, 1936, in Book 332 of Official Records, at page 31, Marin County Records.

The sale shall be subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements and existing encumbrances of record.

The terms and conditions of sale are: cash in lawful money of the United States of America or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the administrator and to the court. Ten per cent (10%) of the amount bid is to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid on the confirmation of sale by the court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and will be received at the offices of Cushing, Cullinan, Hancock & Rothert, attorneys for the administrator, at 100 Bush Street, San Francisco, California, 94104, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making of the sale.

The administrator reserves the right to reject all bids up to the time of actual signing of the order confirming sale.

Dated: February 5, 1969.

JOB NO. 655
MARIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with, the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 P.M., March 3, 1969, for:

Construction of roadway improvements on Mount Lassen Drive between Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek Bridge, Marin County, California; consisting of grading, paving, and other related construction.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Plans, cross sections and Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications, or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Department of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten percent (10%) of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's Check or a Bidder's Bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty.

The bid bonds of bidders, other than the successful bidder, may be retained by the Board of Supervisors for a period of thirty (30) days after award or until the successful bidder executes the contract and furnishes bonds, whichever occurs first. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded fails, or refuses, to execute the contract within fifteen (15) days of notice of award, as herein provided, the Board of Supervisors may award to the next lowest responsible bidder and apply the bid bond of the bidder failing, or refusing, to execute contract, against the County's damages resulting from such failure. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded executes the contract as herein required, the bid bonds of bidders to whom no award was made will be returned upon request.

Said proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room No. 343, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above for receiving bids. Only the total amount bid will be read and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub-total and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for the purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will award the bid at 1:45 P.M. March 4, 1969, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

TIME LIMIT

The Contractor shall commence work on or before the fifteenth (15th) day following the date of written notification by the Director of Public Works that the contract has been awarded by the Board of Supervisors. During this fifteen (15) day interval, the necessary contract documents shall be executed by the Contractor and returned to the Department of Public Works. All work shall be completed on the project within twenty (20) working days counting from and including the said 15th day.

Rev. 1/69

For positions not listed above, the minimum rate paid for skilled, intermediate or unskilled labor shall be not less than minimum wage per hour and shall conform to the particular craft or classification of workmen employed on the project.

The attention of bidders is directed to the provisions of the specifications regarding legal relations and responsibility.

Attention is directed to the correlation of the specifications with the Standard Specifications of the State of California, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, dated January, 1969, as to materials, methods and workmanship.

The contractor whose bid is accepted shall furnish the following bonds to the County (at no expense to the County), executed by a responsible surety acceptable to the County in the prescribed form:

a) Faithful Performance Bond
b) Labor and Materials Bond

The Faithful Performance Bond shall be in an amount equal to one-hundred percent (100%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

The Labor and Materials Bond shall be in an amount equal to fifty percent (50%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

Rev. 2/19

EMPLOYEES AND NON-DISCRIMINATION

Contractors shall not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color or national origin. This shall include employment, demotion or transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertisement, layoff or termination, rates of pay or other compensation, and selection for training and apprenticeship. Contractor shall post, in conspicious places during period of contract and available to applicants for employment, notices setting forth the provisions of this clause. Contractor shall insert the foregoing provision in all subcontracts hereunder, except subcontracts for standard commercial supplies or raw materials. The hiring of all labor for work shall be in accordance with applicable directives of the Fair Employment Practices Commission of the State of California. The contractor shall forfeit, as a penalty, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, to County, the sum of $25.00 for each calendar day, or portion thereof, during which the contractor knowingly allows any conditions of discrimination to exist in connection with the work, provided, however, that such penalty shall not be imposed without a full investigation and determination by the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Contractor shall cooperate fully with Marin County and affected Unions to promote and insure the maximum employment of Negroes and Spanish-speaking minorities, with particular emphasis on residents of Marin County, in all phases and at all levels of the work. Contractor shall encourage maximum utilization of apprenticeship and other on-the-job training programs, to achieve this goal.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

After the holidays, physicians are busy with consultations about rectal trouble. Many of these sufferers have paid the price for excessive eating and too much celebrating.

Those with previous rectal distress suffered the most because excessive holiday revelry aggravates existing conditions.

Alcohol, nuts, spices, and highly-seasoned foods create anal congestion. A blood clot in a small hemorrhoidal vein near the opening produces one of the most painful rectal lesions.

LITTLE MORE THAN heat is required to encourage absorption of blood. In severe discomfort, however, it may be necessary to open the distended vein and allow the clotted blood to escape.

Meticulous clenaliness of the anal area is imperative for anyone with anal itching or hermorrhoids. Many lesions in this area come from infection and residual contamination following a movement. The area should be washed carefully with moistened cotton or cleansing tissues and dried thoroughly.

Soaps and harsh toilet tissue should be avoided. Friction from and the chemicals in the latter irritate this sensitive area. Soaps accumulate in the anal folds during a bath or a shower and irritates the parts unless rinsed away thoroughly. the overly sensitive person may itch for days, even though the soap was in contact with the anal area for only a short time.

HUNDREDS OF rectal ointments, salves, and suppositories are available. All enjoy a certain degree of popularity or they would not be on the druggist's shelf. The best ointments for ordinary irritations contain hydrocortisone, potassium permanganate, gentian violet, or acid mantle.

Ointments with an anesthetic such as procaine may relieve distress but many victims develop a sensitivity to the ingredients.

Men and women with trouble along this line should be careful of what they eat and drink to avoid rectal congestion.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DRY, BURNING LIPS

A reader writes: I am 55 years old and my lips are very dry, chapped and have a burning sensation. I use creams and lip salves but these measures do not seem to help.What would cause this?

REPLY

The dryness may stem from age, overexposure to the elements,

MOUNT LASSEN DRIVE
IMPROVEMENTS
MARIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with, the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 P.M., March 3, 1969, for:

Construction of roadway improvements on Mount Lassen Drive between Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek Bridge, Marin County, California; consisting of grading, paving, and other related construction.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Plans, cross sections and Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications, or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Department of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten percent (10%) of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's Check or a Bidder's Bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty.

The bid bonds of bidders, other than the successful bidder, may be retained by the Board of Supervisors for a period of thirty (30) days after award or until the successful bidder executes the contract and furnishes bonds, whichever occurs first. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded fails, or refuses, to execute the contract within fifteen (15) days of notice of award, as herein provided, the Board of Supervisors may award to the next lowest responsible bidder and apply the bid bond of the bidder failing, or refusing, to execute contract, against the County's damages resulting from such failure. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded executes the contract as herein required, the bid bonds of bidders to whom no award was made will be returned upon request.

Said proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room No. 343, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above for receiving bids. Only the total amount bid will be read and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub-total and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for the purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will award the bid at 1:45 P.M. March 4, 1969, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

TIME LIMIT

The Contractor shall commence work on or before the fifteenth (15th) day following the date of written notification by the Director of Public Works that the contract has been awarded by the Board of Supervisors. During this fifteen (15) day interval, the necessary contract documents shall be executed by the Contractor and returned to the Department of Public Works. All work shall be completed on the project within twenty (20) working days counting from and including the said 15th day.

Rev. 1/69

For positions not listed above, the minimum rate paid for skilled, intermediate or unskilled labor shall be not less than minimum wage per hour and shall conform to the particular craft or classification of workmen employed on the project.

The attention of bidders is directed to the provisions of the specifications regarding legal relations and responsibility.

Attention is directed to the correlation of the specifications with the Standard Specifications of the State of California, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, dated January, 1969, as to materials, methods and workmanship.

The contractor whose bid is accepted shall furnish the following bonds to the County (at no expense to the County), executed by a responsible surety acceptable to the County in the prescribed form:

a) Faithful Performance Bond
b) Labor and Materials Bond

The Faithful Performance Bond shall be in an amount equal to one-hundred percent (100%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

The Labor and Materials Bond shall be in an amount equal to fifty percent (50%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

Rev. 2/19

EMPLOYEES AND NON-DISCRIMINATION

Contractors shall not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color or national origin. This shall include employment, demotion or transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertisement, layoff or termination, rates of pay or other compensation, and selection for training and apprenticeship. Contractor shall post, in conspicious places during period of contract and available to applicants for employment, notices setting forth the provisions of this clause. Contractor shall insert the foregoing provision in all subcontracts hereunder, except subcontracts for standard commercial supplies or raw materials. The hiring of all labor for work shall be in accordance with applicable directives of the Fair Employment Practices Commission of the State of California. The contractor shall forfeit, as a penalty, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, to County, the sum of $25.00 for each calendar day, or portion thereof, during which the contractor knowingly allows any conditions of discrimination to exist in connection with the work, provided, however, that such penalty shall not be imposed without a full investigation and determination by the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Contractor shall cooperate fully with Marin County and affected Unions to promote and insure the maximum employment of Negroes and Spanish-speaking minorities, with particular emphasis on residents of Marin County, in all phases and at all levels of the work. Contractor shall encourage maximum utilization of apprenticeship and other on-the-job training programs, to achieve this goal.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

After the holidays, physicians are busy with consultations about rectal trouble. Many of these sufferers have paid the price for excessive eating and too much celebrating.

Those with previous rectal distress suffered the most because excessive holiday revelry aggravates existing conditions.

Alcohol, nuts, spices, and highly-seasoned foods create anal congestion. A blood clot in a small hemorrhoidal vein near the opening produces one of the most painful rectal lesions.

LITTLE MORE THAN heat is required to encourage absorption of blood. In severe discomfort, however, it may be necessary to open the distended vein and allow the clotted blood to escape.

Meticulous clenaliness of the anal area is imperative for anyone with anal itching or hermorrhoids. Many lesions in this area come from infection and residual contamination following a movement. The area should be washed carefully with moistened cotton or cleansing tissues and dried thoroughly.

Soaps and harsh toilet tissue should be avoided. Friction from and the chemicals in the latter irritate this sensitive area. Soaps accumulate in the anal folds during a bath or a shower and irritates the parts unless rinsed away thoroughly. the overly sensitive person may itch for days, even though the soap was in contact with the anal area for only a short time.

HUNDREDS OF rectal ointments, salves, and suppositories are available. All enjoy a certain degree of popularity or they would not be on the druggist's shelf. The best ointments for ordinary irritations contain hydrocortisone, potassium permanganate, gentian violet, or acid mantle.

Ointments with an anesthetic such as procaine may relieve distress but many victims develop a sensitivity to the ingredients.

Men and women with trouble along this line should be careful of what they eat and drink to avoid rectal congestion.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DRY, BURNING LIPS

A reader writes: I am 55 years old and my lips are very dry, chapped and have a burning sensation. I use creams and lip salves but these measures do not seem to help.What would cause this?

REPLY

The dryness may stem from age, overexposure to the elements, or the use of certain drugs and c

Finch Urges Closer Ties In Handling School Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says the Justice Department filed recent school desegregation suits in the South without consulting him.

Finch wrote off the incident as part of the birth pangs of a new administration, but he called for more coordination in the future.

"We're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation," he said. "But we haven't been in office long enough to get that working relationship established yet."

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed the lawsuits in Louisiana and Houston a few days after Finch had described the cutting off of federal aid as the ultimate weapon in school segregation disputes.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Finch said over the weekend the files on the Southern school districts were turned over to the attorney general. "The timing and the nature and the institution of these actions are intirely under his control, and are not done in relation to this department," he said.

Finch made these other points:

His department is following, but re-examining, school desegregation guidelines inherited from the Democratic administration.

The Supreme Court has prohibited "deliberate discrimination" but not segregation as such.

"If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in fact, is not prohibited by law," Finch said.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination.

"And so you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination.

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Finch said a proposal by a Nixon task force for setting a federal floor under welfare payments was being considered.

"It's not a case of taking over the functions of the states in the welfare field," he said. "It's a case of trying to find a brokerage, or a mean level, between the enormous disparity of an $8 figure in a Southern state or a $70 figure in an industrial state."

Finch said he hoped the welfare changes could be initiated before the end of the Vietnam War.

The secretary held out little hope for a massive block grant program that would pump billions of dollars of federal revenue into state and local economies.

"We're just spread too thin as long as we have the commitments we do abroad," he said.

Finch agreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that states and cities face a major fiscal crisis, but disagreed with Rockefeller's suggestion that the federal surtax be continued to pay for some of the education costs now borne locally.

The cabinet official noted President Nixon called during the campaign for elimination of the surtax as quickly as possible.

Finch went on, "I'm not sure we should get into the business of having a specific federal tax for education. Earmarking is sometimes dangerous, particularly on this scale."

The HEW official also rejected Rockefeller's proposal that the federal government eventually take over all welfare costs.

"I don't propose ... to take all of this $50 billion budget and go into the business of being a Department of the Dole," Finch said.

TV REVIEW

Excellent Experiment In Drama

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"NBC Experiment in Television," which appears mostly on weekend afternoons, illustrated again yesterday why it ought to have a regular prime time spot: this time with a drama about a Negro American teacher who visits his German-born, black nephew in Munich.

There was no major "experiment" in the fine piece of work by writer Manya Starr, who did the original teleplay. It was simply a first-rate contribution to television, far superior to almost anything seen in prime time, and one hopes it gets a rerun outing at night before the mass audience.

A TRUE STORY

The production, in fact, was such a true and affecting story —involving a search for identity by the teacher, the nephew and the youth's white German mother—that one felt it definitely had the makings to be expanded into a full-length motion picture.

There were times that the video compression had a constricting effect on the story, which was fairly bursting—as a living piece of work always will be—to be told in all its proper dimension. It was little surprise, then, to learn that Bavaria Film Atelier, with which NBC-TV collaborated in the production, "will show a longer version in Germany."

The one-hour video drama, "Color Me German," offered three principal characters who were so compelling that one could identify in compassion with all of them. And the location filming in and around Munich contributed greatly to the simple reality that was so winning in the story.

PORTRAYS TEACHER

James Edwards, whom many moviegoers will remember vividly from "Home of the Brave," portrayed the American teacher—a man who is uncomfortable in middle age with the new racial militancy in the United States, and whose doubts about his place in U.S. life have him thinking about staying in Munich.

Ron Williams, as the black 23-year-old German nephew, had the role of a youngster who was sired by an American G.I., and who tries—perhaps too hard—to believe he is truly accepted in Germany, but knows in his heart he is not.

Rosemarie Fendel, as the attractive white woman who lives with her black son, played a brave but tragic lady whose life was ruined by the illegitimate birth, whose family refuses to accept her offspring and whose boyfriend will not marry her so long as the young man is around.

Miss Starr's play, produced and directed with grace and feeling by Victor Vicas, touched feelingly on the problem of the thousands of "mischlings" (children of mixed racial parentage), but never slipped away from its gripping story of three people.

THE SHOWDOWN

The arrival in Munich of the teacher, portrayed with searing restraint by Edwards, precipitates the showdown in the lives of all three. Immediately he becomes a father substitute for the high-spirited, good-natured black youth, whose role was enacted by Williams with a poignant attractiveness that made the play come alive—and stay that way.

The mother and Edwards are attracted to each other, and for a while it looks as though something will come of this—making for a new family of three. But several incidents make all too clear to Edwards the real state of his nephew in Germany.

Two U.S. presidents, Dwight Eisenhower and U. S. Grant, were West Point men.

Student Boom Before Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The school population is rising rapidly in Asia, Africa and Latin America, a UNESCO world review of education says. It predicts an increase of nearly 70 million pupils from 1965 to 1970.

The report from the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization says in the developed countries of Europe and North America enrollment is increasing substantially in high schools and colleges but declining in primary schools.

The review was put before the U.N. Commission for Social Development opening a 16-day session at U.N. headquarters today to make plans for participation in the world organization's second Development Decade, 1971-80.

Finch Urges Closer Ties In Handling School Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says the Justice Department filed recent school desegregation suits in the South without consulting him.

Finch wrote off the incident as part of the birth pangs of a new administration, but he called for more coordination in the future.

"We're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation," he said. "But we haven't been in office long enough to get that working relationship established yet."

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed the lawsuits in Louisiana and Houston a few days after Finch had described the cutting off of federal aid as the ultimate weapon in school segregation disputes.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Finch said over the weekend the files on the Southern school districts were turned over to the attorney general. "The timing and the nature and the institution of these actions are intirely under his control, and are not done in relation to this department," he said.

Finch made these other points:

His department is following, but re-examining, school desegregation guidelines inherited from the Democratic administration.

The Supreme Court has prohibited "deliberate discrimination" but not segregation as such.

"If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in fact, is not prohibited by law," Finch said.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination.

"And so you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination.

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Finch said a proposal by a Nixon task force for setting a federal floor under welfare payments was being considered.

"It's not a case of taking over the functions of the states in the welfare field," he said. "It's a case of trying to find a brokerage, or a mean level, between the enormous disparity of an $8 figure in a Southern state or a $70 figure in an industrial state."

Finch said he hoped the welfare changes could be initiated before the end of the Vietnam War.

The secretary held out little hope for a massive block grant program that would pump billions of dollars of federal revenue into state and local economies.

"We're just spread too thin as long as we have the commitments we do abroad," he said.

Finch agreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that states and cities face a major fiscal crisis, but disagreed with Rockefeller's suggestion that the federal surtax be continued to pay for some of the education costs now borne locally.

The cabinet official noted President Nixon called during the campaign for elimination of the surtax as quickly as possible.

Finch went on, "I'm not sure we should get into the business of having a specific federal tax for education. Earmarking is sometimes dangerous, particularly on this scale."

The HEW official also rejected Rockefeller's proposal that the federal government eventually take over all welfare costs.

"I don't propose . . . to take all of this $50 billion budget and go into the business of being a Department of the Dole," Finch said.

TV REVIEW

Excellent Experiment In Drama

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"NBC Experiment in Television," which appears mostly on weekend afternoons, illustrated again yesterday why it ought to have a regular prime time spot: this time with a drama about a Negro American teacher who visits his German-born, black nephew in Munich.

There was no major "experiment" in the fine piece of work by writer Manya Starr, who did the original teleplay. It was simply a first-rate contribution to television, far superior to almost anything seen in prime time, and one hopes it gets a rerun outing at night before the mass audience.

A TRUE STORY

The production, in fact, was such a true and affecting story—involving a search for identity by the teacher, the nephew and the youth's white German mother—that one felt it definitely had the makings to be expanded into a full-length motion picture.

There were times that the video compression had a constricting effect on the story, which was fairly bursting—as a living piece of work always will be—to be told in all its proper dimension. It was little surprise, then, to learn that Bavaria Film Atelier, with which NBC-TV collaborated in the production, "will show a longer version in Germany."

The one-hour video drama, "Color Me German," offered three principal characters who were so compelling that one could identify in compassion with all of them. And the location filming in and around Munich contributed greatly to the simple reality that was so winning in the story.

PORTRAYS TEACHER

James Edwards, whom many moviegoers will remember vividly from "Home of the Brave," portrayed the American teacher—a man who is uncomfortable in middle age with the new racial militancy in the United States, and whose doubts about his place in U.S. life have him thinking about staying in Munich.

Ron Williams, as the black 23-year-old German nephew, had the role of a youngster who was sired by an American G.I., and who tries—perhaps too hard—to believe he is truly accepted in Germany, but knows in his heart he is not.

Rosemarie Fendel, as the attractive white woman who lives with her black son, played a brave but tragic lady whose life was ruined by the illegitimate birth, whose family refuses to accept her offspring and whose boyfriend will not marry her so long as the young man is around.

Miss Starr's play, produced and directed with grace and feeling by Victor Vicas, touched feelingly on the problem of the thousands of "mischlings" (children of mixed racial parentage), but never slipped away from its gripping story of three people.

THE SHOWDOWN

The arrival in Munich of the teacher, portrayed with searing restraint by Edwards, precipitates the showdown in the lives of all three. Immediately he becomes a father substitute for the high-spirited, good-natured black youth, whose role was enacted by Williams with a poignant attractiveness that made the play come alive—and stay that way.

The mother and Edwards are attracted to each other, and for a while it looks as though something will come of this—making for a new family of three. But several incidents make all too clear to Edwards the real state of his nephew in Germany.

Two U.S. presidents, Dwight Eisenhower and U. S. Grant, were West Point men.

Student Boom Before Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The school population is rising rapidly in Asia, Africa and Latin America, a UNESCO world review of education says. It predicts an increase of nearly 70 million pupils from 1965 to 1970.

The report from the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization says in the developed countries of Europe and North America enrollment is increasing substantially in high schools and colleges but declining in primary schools.

The review was put before the U.N. Commission for Social Development opening a 16-day session at U.N. headquarters today to make plans for participation in the world organization's second Development Decade, 1971-80.

Three Of Nine Jailed In Bombings Beaten

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Fellow prisoners in the San Mateo County Jail beat three of nine persons arrested in connection with a series of bombings on the San Francisco Peninsula.

A monitoring system in the jail's tanks yesterday morning brought San Mateo County sheriff's deputies to rescue Donald Kay Smith, 22, of Palo Alto who was on the floor with a bloody face.

Robert Lake, 23, and Walter Lamar Peddy, 24, both of Redwood City, were treated for cuts and possible rib fractures Saturday.

Deputies said they were investigating the beatings. Two men questioned about Smith were reported to have said he was a Nazi and that they were "tired of those bombings."

The other six held in the bombings and other harassment —mainly of pacifist establishments—are Joseph Cooney, 50, James McGee, 34, his wife, Donna, 32, and Brent McLean, 20, all of Menlo Park; Douglas Naher, 18, of Redwood City, and John Mirto, 24, of Palo Alto.

They were arrested Friday night and Saturday in raids by members of five police departments who also uncovered 75 pounds of black powder, 30 guns, swastika arm bands, pictures of George Lincoln Rockwell and Adolf Hitler and Nazi flags.

Mirto, posted $12,500 bail and was released. The others remained in San Mateo County jail over the weekend.

They are charged with advocating and abetting commission of acts of violence to affect political change, conspiracy to tear gas and bomb and assembly of people and a variety of gun law violations.

Menlo Park and adjacent Palo Alto have been the scene of nearly 40 bombings since October, most directed against peace and antiwar groups and the Midpeninsula Free University.

The nine are all members of a Bible study group called "The Society of Man," police said. Armand Lareau, a 25-year-old Menlo Park police officer, infiltrated the group after intimating he was dissatisified with liberal policies in his department.

To test his loyalty members forced Lareau through a "Russian roulette" session with a carbine while his wife was in the hospital bearing their first child.

Lareau took three tear gas grenades, with permission of his chief, from the police department arsenal. These were to be used to disrupt a church discussion, officers said.

It was illegal in the Hittite civilization around 1500 B.C. to steal swarming bees.

Newton Vows Panther Offensive

"Just as our brothers in Vietnam had the Tet offensive last year, this celebration will only be a prelude for celebration to the offensive that we are going to wage in the not too far future," Newton said.

Charles Garry, attorney who is appealing Newton's voluntary manslaughter conviction, asserted a "racist power structure" is keeping Newton "caged like an animal when he should be free on bail during his appeal."

Newton, co-founder of the militant Negro party, was convicted in the October 1967 fatal shooting of white policeman John Frey in Oakland and sentenced last fall to two to 15 years in prison. He is in the California Men's Colony near San Luis Obispo.

Art Presentation

Frank Milner, a College of Marin art instructor, will present "new visual forms in art" at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Frances Young Gallery in Ross, sponsored by the Marin Society of Artists.

Third, Final Phase Begins On Pueblo Investigation

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "We came out of this thing with amazing morale," said the Pueblo's executive officer. "There was no brainwashing. If anybody was brainwashed, it was the other side."

After the crew's return in December from North Korean imprisonment, Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. also told newsmen: "We had absolute faith in the American government."

Murphy was recalled to testify today before a Navy court of inquiry shifting its focus from the mission and capture of the U.S. intelligence ship to the imprisonment of its men.

This begins the third and final phase of the court's month-long investigation ordered by the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet. Open session of the court was to resume at 4 p.m.

The court of five admirals returned Saturday from what its president, Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., described as an extremely useful inspection of the USS Palm Beach.

The Palm Beach, a sister ship of the Pueblo based at Norfolk, Va., gave the court "an appreciation of the situation on the Pueblo," said the civilian attorney for Pueblo skipper Lloyd M. Bucher.

The lawyer, E. Miles Harvey, told newsmen in Norfolk the tour was the first time any of the five admirals had been aboard an intelligence ship.

Harvey, who accompanied the court, said it made him "more sympathetic with the problems Cmdr. Bucher was faced with . . .

"You could understand the difficulty in going topside . . . the exposure of the gun mounts.

"We had thought the Pueblo's research spaces were larger than they turned out to be. We know how crowded the Pueblo was . . . adding to the confusion" at the time of its capture.

Bucher stayed in San Diego doing administrative work for his crew and spending some time with his family.

Fairfax Trustees To Study Budget

Preliminary budget studies for the Fairfax School District will begin at a meeting of the district board at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow in the district office at 58 Park Road.

Among the items to be studied is the possibility of a tax increase in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

California's first constitution was written at Colton Hall in Monterey.

Fairfax Trustees To Study Budget

Preliminary budget studies for the Fairfax School District will begin at a meeting of the district board at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow in the district office at 58 Park Road.

Among the items to be studied is the possibility of a tax increase in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

California's first constitution was written at Colton Hall in Monterey.

Williams—Baseball's First Million Dollar Manager?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams—baseball's fierce, feuding perfectionist-concedes his first problem as manager of the hapless Washington Senators will be patience.

Attorneys met today to put the wrapping on the rich package of stock that will make Williams the part-owner as well as manager of the Senators in an apparent million-dollar deal.

Although the formal announcement by the Senators at a news conference is not expected before tomorrow, Williams already is itching to get back into the game.

"I'm ready to go," he said. "I'm really getting excited about it."

Williams, baseball's greatest living hitter with a career average of .344, will be taking over a last-place team that hasn't been able to escape the American League's second division for 22 straight years.

The Boston Red Sox slugger, still remembered for historic feuds with fans, admits his nerves may be on trial with the sickly Senators.

"I remember the last few years when I would sit out the second game of doubleheaders. I would be a nervous wreck," Williams said. "The emotional part is going to be the problem. The patience part."

Spring training is only a week away for Washington, and Williams, after eight years outside baseball, is finding not only the rest of the league but even the Senators' roster crowded with strange names he doesn't know.

Williams said he is anxious to take up the challenge, to prove himself again as manager after having been one of the game's greatest players.

The Hall of Fame hitter joked. "I may end up with an ulcer. I've seen these managers and I've asked them how they feel and they say 'fine'—but they look awful."

The Senators are prepared to sign Williams to a long-range contract running from three to five years at something beyond $50,000 annually.

Williams will also get options to buy a bundle of stock in the club—perhaps 10 per cent, or $900,000 worth.

The Senators' new owner, Robert E. Short, who bought the club less than a month ago, wouldn't discuss reports that Williams will be baseball's first million-dollar manager.

"I don't know how they figure it. I don't want to say anything about it now," Short said.

Short, a Minnesota millionaire, was flying back here from his home later today. Williams spent what could be his last peaceful weekend for a long time at his retreat in the Florida Keys.

Williams said, "Even a couple of days ago I couldn't imagine this happening. It had almost gotten to the point where baseball had gotten away from me. But now I'm getting geared up for this thing. I'm really getting excited."

Williams—who said he hasn't mellowed since retiring from baseball "but I've stabilized a little more"—promised no immediate miracles for the Senators.

"I'm no Houdini," he said. "I know I'm going to make mistakes. I think Mr. Short expects a few blunders and he'll get 'em, too. But I think there will be more pluses than minuses with me."

Giddings Tells Good Fish Story Himself

FISH TALE—This is a fish story which isn't a "fish story" because it comes from the most authoritative source in the realm of Marin County outdoors. And when Al Giddings tells you a yarn about the field and stream you'd better believe it because he is a warden for the California Department of Fish and Game; the Bounty County is his beat.

This fish story is all the more enjoyable because it happened to Giddings hisself. Let's go back to the beginning: In February of 1959, Giddings was fishing in San Pablo Bay and hooked onto a whopping sturgeon that took him and his small boat on a joy ride to end all joy rides. Two hours and 55 minutes and several miles later the exhausted Giddings finally boated the ugly beast, which weighed in at 102 pounds.

Which was a pretty fair killing because Giddings was using a Fenwick medium action rod which wasn't designed for such heavyweight action, hence the lengthy battle.

A Heavy Duty Rod Needed

"At the time I happened to mention it to a Fenwick Co. representative who was here at the Marin Rod and Gun Club's sports show," said Giddings, "and he told me he'd send me a heavy duty rod for the next time I tangled with a sturgeon. Which he did, and I've used it many times during the past 10 years.

"Now," he continued, "here is the ironical part of the story. Just last week, almost 10 years to the day after I caught that other sturgeon, I hooked onto another one near the Richmond Bridge. I was using my heavy duty Fenwick and instead of 2 hours and 55 minutes, this one fought me for only 45 minutes and it, too, weighed exactly 102 pounds. Funny thing, though: My heavy duty rod broke, but I still managed to boat the sturgeon."

13½ Pounds Of Cavier

Giddings said his latest six-foot long monster produced 13½ pounds of cavier and about 60 pounds of "beautiful steaks."

So now you know what fish and game wardens do on their days off. And you can probably make a bet that in February of 1979, Al Giddings will go fishing on San Pablo Bay and catch a 102 pound sturgeon.

Littler Wins In Phoenix

The 38-year-old from San Diego won the Phoenix Open a decade ago with a 268 and then captured the title at Tucson where this year's tournament starts on Thursday.

"I'd say it was probably the best 72-holes I've ever played," declared Littler of his tours over the 6,389-yard Arizona Country Club course. On Saturday he equalled the course record with a nine-under-par 62 and he finished the 72 holes 21 strokes below regulation figures.

Littler still came up to the 18th needing a par to win since Miller Barber, Don January and Billy Maxwell each had carded a 265 and waited to see if there would be a play-off. When the three ended up in a tie, they each received $7,733.

Gene's second shot on the the green. He chipped up close par-5 hole landed just short of to the cup and holed out for a birdie to give him a two-stroke bulge over the trio.

To get his $20,000 first prize, Littler shot a 69, 66, 62, 66, and the first prize sent him ahead among golf's money winners for 1969 with $47,902. It also marked his first tournament victory since the 1965 Canadian Open.

Littler won the Phoenix Open in 1955 and 1959.

Tied at 267, a stroke behind the previous tournament record shared by South Africa's Bobby Locke and Littler, in his 1959 victory, were Ray Floyd, Terry Wilcox and Jack Ewing, who finished with 65, 67, 68, respectively.

Barber sank a 10-foot putt for an eagle on the 18th for his 64 to go into the three-way tie for second with January, 66, and Maxwell, 66.

Buttler carded seven birdies and two bogeys on his final round.

Heading for Tucson and play at the Tucson National Golf Club, Littler recalled, "I played well there once, but not so well the other times. The greens are gigantic. I prefer small greens where you can keep your perspective."

Of his final round in Phoenix, he commented, "I putted well, but other than that, I didn't play too well."

Warriors Return Home After Four-Game Split

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Back from a split in four games with strong eastern teams, the San Francisco Warriors entertain Detroit in a National Basketball Association contest tomorrow night at the Civic Auditorium.

Nate Thurmond sparked the Warriors to a 113-106 victory over the Atlanta Hawks yesterday, scoring 36 points — 19 of them in the second half.

The Warriors never trailed and the Hawks tied the score only once.

Jeff Mullins added 25 points for the Warriors, including 15 in the second half. Zelmo Beaty topped Atlanta with 29.

On Saturday night, the Warriors were the 11th straight victims of New York, 98-92. Walt Frazier helped the Knickerbockers gain their 28th victory in 32 starts by scoring 24 points. Thurmond also scored 24 for the Warriors.

In two other road games last week, San Francisco lost to Eastern Division leader Baltimore but beat the Philadelphia 76ers.

Screaming Soccer Fans In Wild Riot

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Screaming and stone throwing fans of Turin's Juventus soccer team staged a wild melee at the local stadium last night after their team tied 2-2 with Rome in a tumultuous premier league match.

Venting their anger at the referee of the game, Antonio Marchi, the fans besieged the dressing room. Marchi had to leave in a police car.

During the four hour battle, one fan forced his way into the Rome's team's bus and spit in the face of Argentine Coach Helenio Herrera.

Another brandished a loaded gun at the Rome players. He was arrested by police, to whom he showed an authorization to bear arms. He was still taken into custody.

Three persons, including a bystander who had not attended the match, were injured in the fray.

The fans threw stones, snowballs and chunks of wood at the buses and television cars leaving the stadium. Five vehicles were badly damaged.

Sonoma State Cage Team Takes A Loss

Sonoma State lost its ninth Far Western Conference game, giving league-leading and unbeaten San Francisco State a good battle before bowing, 51-48, at Rohnert Park Saturday.

Girard Chatman scored more than half of San Francisco State's points, getting 26.

Seals Lose To Philly Skaters

The perennially strong Black Hawks are last in the National Hockey League's East Division. The Seals, 21-27-9, hold second in the West Division.

Philadelphia edged Oakland 3-2 yesterday as Larry Hale scored twice in helping the Flyers snap a nine-game losing streak.

The defenseman, who had scored only once previously in his NHL career, connected on a rebound at 13:11 of the first period and again at 17:19.

The Flyers increased their lead to 3-0 in the first minute of the second period when Andre Lacroix tipped in a shot by Allan Stanley.

The Seals closed to 3-2 on second period goals by Ted Hampson and Earl Ingarfield.

A Philadelphia goal by Brit Selby was disallowed in the third period and goalie Bernie Parent protected the slim lead with a clutch save on a shot by the Seals' Norm Ferguson.

PREP BASKETBALL

Breather, Toughie On Tap

It's a breather for Redwood High and a toughie for Novato in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race that has quietly turned into a two-team affair.

Redwood (9-1) and Novato (8-2) are the front-runners, although technically, Terra Linda and San Rafael, both 6-4, are still alive.

The Giants will undoubtedly take a step closer to the title tomorrow afternoon when they play tail-ender San Marin (1-9) at San Marin High in Novato.

But Novato should be in a battle when it hosts San Rafael, a team that holds an over-time victory over the Hornets.

In other games, Tamalpais (4-6) is at Terra Linda and Drake (4-6) visits Marin Catholic (2-8) in Kentfield.

All games start at 4 p.m.

Redwood shouldn't have any trouble chalking up league victory No. 10 and season victory No. 20 against the novice Mustangs, even though San Marin has added firepower with the addition of junior varsity star Mike Kassenbrock. The Giants won last time out, 81-30.

Novato will have to get a little more versatile to get by San Rafael. In the Hornets' last outing against the Bulldogs, Steve McNally and Ed Hernberger scored 20 and 22 points, respectively, but they lost, 58-61. Herrnberger and McNally are undoubtedly two of the best players in the league, but such concentration of scoring power can backfire.

The Bulldogs are more balanced, headed by Bruce Nave, Roger Thomas, Ray Taylor and Bill Sleezer. There is less pressure on them while the Hornets must win to have a good chance at Redwood.

Terra Linda will be looking for a repeat performance of an earlier win over Tamalpais. Both teams have been inconsistent of late, with the Indians losing one-point decisions to Marin Catholic and Drake.

Marin Catholic is dead dangerous in its own, noisy gym and could provide the surprising up and-down Pirates with avery rough evening.

Drake owns surprise victories

Stanford Frosh Quint Bombs Icy Marin Tars

Stanford University's new basketball palace, Roscoe Maples Pavilion, made a big impression on the College of Marin Tar basketballers Saturday night, but not as big as the one the Stanford freshmen did.

The Papooses nearly ran Marin out of Palo Alto, shooting 55 per cent en route to an 86-39 triumph in the preliminary to the Stanford-Oregon game.

Marin got only 10 field goals all night, two in the second half, when they shot an incredibly cold 8 per cent and went 11 minutes without a basket. Guard Daryl Ravani hit on 12 of 14 throws to lead the Tar scoring without chalking up a single bucket. Pat Schafer had 11 and six rebounds, as the Mariners were beaten off the boards 40 to 26, being particularly outclassed on defensive rebounds.

The Mariners, now 9-12 on the year, must sweep their remaining four games to end up above .500. They play Solano College of Vallejo Wednesday night at Kentfield in a Camino Norte Conference game. Marin is 5-3 in conference play, having lost twice by a point and once to Contra Costa College of San Pablo, the unbeaten (8-0) CNC leader and almost certain champion.

PREP WRESTLING

Novato Second In North Coast

Novato High School, paced by the durable Donaldson twins, won its third straight second-place trophy in the North Coast Section wrestling meet, finishing behind Tennyson High at Chabot College in Hayward, Saturday.

Tennyson, of Hayward, had 90 points, and the Hornets had 63.

TOUGH HORNETS

The Donaldsons, Ken and Kirt, cleaned up and so did another Hornet, Rob McCown.

Ken took home everything but the concession money as he captured the tournament's most outstanding wrestling award and a trophy for recording the most falls in the fastest times en route to gobbling up the 123-pound title.

It still wasn't easy for him. One of the returning champs in the meet, Ken dispatched his first three opponents, champions all, in a total time of seven minutes, but then needed a final period reversal to win, 3-2, in the finals.

SHUTOUTS

Kirt didn't get a single fall, but he won his opener on a forfeit, then won three straight shutout decisions, 10-0, 6-0 and 7-0 to take the 115-pound title.

McCown captured the 148-pound title on a forfeit, a fall, a 2-1 decision overtime verdict and a 5-4 victory in the finals.

Charles McBride of Tamalpais finished second in the heavyweight division.

TWO MORE

Paul Robertson, also of Novato, took a third in the 136-pound division and Tom Zechlin, another Hornet, was fourth in the 194-pound division.

The Donaldsons, McCown, McBride, Robertson and Zechlin all advance to the Northern California Invitational Meet in Stockton, scheduled Saturday.

More Baseball Meetings On Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — After reports of some progress during the weekend, representatives of major league teams and their players were scheduled to meet again today in another effort to settle a boycott that threatens the 1969 season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, was expected to answer the owners' latest pension proposal.

At the same time, the New York Yankees prepared to become the second team to open advance spring training camp, with or without boycotting veterans. Most of the other clubs are scheduled to open camp for pitchers and catchers later in the week.

The latest proposal was not made public, but the players already have rejected an offer by the owners to increase the pension fund by $1 million to $5.1 million.

Boy, 13, Bowls Perfect Game

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year-old Toledo boy became the youngest bowler ever to roll a 300 game in sanctioned competition yesterday.

John Stewart, who bowls in two leagues—averaging 152 in one and 154 in the other—performed the feat in a 165-300-161—626 series.

The American Bowling Congress in Milwaukee, Wis., said John was five days younger when he set the mark than the previous young record holder, Raymond Russaw of Kansas City.

To get his $20,000 first prize, Littler shot a 69, 66, 62, 66, and the first prize sent him ahead among golf's money winners for 1969 with $47,902. It also marked his first tournament victory since the 1965 Canadian Open.

Littler won the Phoenix Open in 1955 and 1959.

Tied at 267, a stroke behind the previous tournament record shared by South Africa's Bobby Locke and Littler, in his 1959 victory, were Ray Floyd, Terry Wilcox and Jack Ewing, who finished with 65, 67, 68, respectively.

Barber sank a 10-foot putt for an eagle on the 18th for his 64 to go into the three-way tie for second with January, 66, and Maxwell, 66.

Buttler carded seven birdies and two bogeys on his final round.

Heading for Tucson and play at the Tucson National Golf Club, Littler recalled, "I played well there once, but not so well the other times. The greens are gigantic. I prefer small greens where you can keep your perspective."

Of his final round in Phoenix, he commented, "I putted well, but other than that, I didn't play too well."

Warriors Return Home After Four-Game Split

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Back from a split in four games with strong eastern teams, the San Francisco Warriors entertain Detroit in a National Basketball Association contest tomorrow night at the Civic Auditorium.

Nate Thurmond sparked the Warriors to a 113-106 victory over the Atlanta Hawks yesterday, scoring 36 points — 19 of them in the second half.

The Warriors never trailed and the Hawks tied the score only once.

Jeff Mullins added 25 points for the Warriors, including 15 in the second half. Zelmo Beaty topped Atlanta with 29.

On Saturday night, the Warriors were the 11th straight victims of New York, 98-92. Walt Frazier helped the Knickerbockers gain their 28th victory in 32 starts by scoring 24 points. Thurmond also scored 24 for the Warriors.

In two other road games last week, San Francisco lost to Eastern Division leader Baltimore but beat the Philadelphia 76ers.

Screaming Soccer Fans In Wild Riot

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Screaming and stone throwing fans of Turin's Juventus soccer team staged a wild melee at the local stadium last night after their team tied 2-2 with Rome in a tumultuous premier league match.

Venting their anger at the referee of the game, Antonio Marchi, the fans besieged the dressing room. Marchi had to leave in a police car.

During the four hour battle, one fan forced his way into the Rome's team's bus and spit in the face of Argentine Coach Helenio Herrera.

Another brandished a loaded gun at the Rome players. He was arrested by police, to whom he showed an authorization to bear arms. He was still taken into custody.

Three persons, including a bystander who had not attended the match, were injured in the fray.

The fans threw stones, snowballs and chunks of wood at the buses and television cars leaving the stadium. Five vehicles were badly damaged.

Sonoma State Cage Team Takes A Loss

Sonoma State lost its ninth Far Western Conference game, giving league-leading and unbeaten San Francisco State a good battle before bowing, 51-48, at Rohnert Park Saturday.

Girard Chatman scored more than half of San Francisco State's points, getting 26.

Seals Lose To Philly Skaters

The perennially strong Black Hawks are last in the National Hockey League's East Division. The Seals, 21-27-9, hold second in the West Division.

Philadelphia edged Oakland 3-2 yesterday as Larry Hale scored twice in helping the Flyers snap a nine-game losing streak.

The defenseman, who had scored only once previously in his NHL career, connected on a rebound at 13:11 of the first period and again at 17:19.

The Flyers increased their lead to 2-0 in the first minute of the second period when Andre Lacroix tipped in a shot by Allan Stanley.

The Seals closed to 3-2 on second period goals by Ted Hampson and Earl Ingarfield.

A Philadelphia goal by Brit Selby was disallowed in the third period and goalie Bernie Parent protected the slim lead with a clutch save on a shot by the Seals' Norm Ferguson.

PREP BASKETBALL

Breather, Toughie On Tap

It's a breather for Redwood High and a toughie for Novato in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race that has quietly turned into a two-team affair.

Redwood (9-1) and Novato (8-2) are the front-runners, although technically, Terra Linda and San Rafael, both 6-4, are still alive.

The Giants will undoubtedly take a step closer to the title tomorrow afternoon when they play tail-ender San Marin (1-9) at San Marin High in Novato.

But Novato should be in a battle when it hosts San Rafael, a team that holds an over-time victory over the Hornets.

In other games, Tamalpais (4-6) is at Terra Linda and Drake (4-6) visits Marin Catholic (2-8) in Kentfield.

All games start at 4 p.m.

Redwood shouldn't have any trouble chalking up league victory No. 10 and season victory No. 20 against the novice Mustangs, even though San Marin has added firepower with the addition of junior varsity star Mike Kassenbrock. The Giants won last time out, 81-30.

Novato will have to get a little more versatile to get by San Rafael. In the Hornets' last outing against the Bulldogs, Steve McNally and Ed Hernberger scored 20 and 22 points, respectively, but they lost, 58-61. Herrnberger and McNally are undoubtedly two of the best players in the league, but such concentration of scoring power can backfire.

The Bulldogs are more balanced, headed by Bruce Nave, Roger Thomas, Ray Taylor and Bill Sleezer. There is less pressure on them while the Hornets must win to have a good chance at Redwood.

Terra Linda will be looking for a repeat performance of an earlier win over Tamalpais. Both teams have been inconsistent of late, with the Indians losing one-point decisions to Marin Catholic and Drake.

Marin Catholic is dead dangerous in its own, noisy gym and could provide the surprising up and-down Pirates with avery rough evening.

Drake owns surprise victories

Stanford Frosh Quint Bombs Icy Marin Tars

Stanford University's new basketball palace, Roscoe Maples Pavilion, made a big impression on the College of Marin Tar basketballers Saturday night, but not as big as the one the Stanford freshmen did.

The Papooses nearly ran Marin out of Palo Alto, shooting 55 per cent en route to an 86-39 triumph in the preliminary to the Stanford-Oregon game.

Marin got only 10 field goals all night, two in the second half, when they shot an incredibly cold 8 per cent and went 11 minutes without a basket. Guard Daryl Ravani hit on 12 of 14 throws to lead the Tar scoring without chalking up a single bucket. Pat Schafer had 11 and six rebounds, as the Mariners were beaten off the boards 40 to 26, being particularly outclassed on defensive rebounds.

The Mariners, now 9-12 on the year, must sweep their remaining four games to end up above .500. They play Solano College of Vallejo Wednesday night at Kentfield in a Camino Norte Conference game. Marin is 5-3 in conference play, having lost twice by a point and once to Contra Costa College of San Pablo, the unbeaten (8-0) CNC leader and almost certain champion.

PREP WRESTLING

Novato Second In North Coast

Novato High School, paced by the durable Donaldson twins, won its third straight second-place trophy in the North Coast Section wrestling meet, finishing behind Tennyson High at Chabot College in Hayward, Saturday.

Tennyson, of Hayward, had 90 points, and the Hornets had 63.

TOUGH HORNETS

The Donaldsons, Ken and Kirt, cleaned up and so did another Hornet, Rob McCown.

Ken took home everything but the concession money as he captured the tournament's most outstanding wrestling award and a trophy for recording the most falls in the fastest times en route to gobbling up the 123-pound title.

It still wasn't easy for him. One of the returning champs in the meet, Ken dispatched his first three opponents, champions all, in a total time of seven minutes, but then needed a final period reversal to win, 3-2, in the finals.

SHUTOUTS

Kirt didn't get a single fall, but he won his opener on a forfeit, then won three straight shutout decisions, 10-0, 6-0 and 7-0 to take the 115-pound title.

McCown captured the 148-pound title on a forfeit, a fall, a 2-1 decision overtime verdict and a 5-4 victory in the finals.

Charles McBride of Tamalpais finished second in the heavyweight division.

TWO MORE

Paul Robertson, also of Novato, took a third in the 136-pound division and Tom Zechlin, another Hornet, was fourth in the 194-pound division.

The Donaldsons, McCown, McBride, Robertson and Zechlin all advance to the Northern California Invitational Meet in Stockton, scheduled Saturday.

More Baseball Meetings On Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — After reports of some progress during the weekend, representatives of major league teams and their players were scheduled to meet again today in another effort to settle a boycott that threatens the 1969 season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, was expected to answer the owners' latest pension proposal.

At the same time, the New York Yankees prepared to become the second team to open advance spring training camp, with or without boycotting veterans. Most of the other clubs are scheduled to open camp for pitchers and catchers later in the week.

The latest proposal was not made public, but the players already have rejected an offer by the owners to increase the pension fund by $1 million to $5.1 million.

Boy, 13, Bowls Perfect Game

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year-old Toledo boy became the youngest bowler ever to roll a 300 game in sanctioned competition yesterday.

John Stewart, who bowls in two leagues—averaging 152 in one and 154 in the other—performed the feat in a 165-300-161—626 series.

The American Bowling Congress in Milwaukee, Wis., said John was five days younger when he set the mark than the previous young record holder, Raymond Russaw of Kansas City.

Good Try, But Kiki Is Second

The 19-year-old Olympian from Bend, Ore., flashed through the 58-gate course in 47-79 seconds yesterday in her second run, the fastest in the field at Yvsoke Tatry.

But Miss Gabl's two runs, totaling 89.27, gave the favored Austrian girl first place overall, with Miss Cutter right behind her at 89.92. Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt., was 12th at 98.30.

The Austrian news agency, APA, said Miss Gabl had times of 41.07 and 48.20. Miss Cutter was timed in 41.07 through the 55 gates of the first course.

Miss Gabl is the leader in the World Cup standings for the slalom with 75 points and second in the over-all standings.

Judy Nagel, Enumclaw, Wash.., is second with 60 followed by Annie Famose of France, 51, and Miss Cutter, 50. Cathy Nagel, Judy's sister, is tied with Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany at 37.

Miss cutter is tied for third place with Miss Mittermaier in the over-all standings for 13 races with 81 points.

In team standings, France leads with 413 points, with Austria second at 293 and the United States third at 257.

Manager King, Perry Lone Giants At Training Camp

COMBINED AP & UPI

The San Francisco Giants open their pre-spring training conditioning camp at the Buckhorn Spa in Arizona today and about the only ones who'll be there are new skipper Clyde King and star pitcher Gaylord Perry.

The Buckhorns stay comes a week before the Giants open their camp at Casa Grande, Ariz., and is designed to help older players concerned about weight problems.

King has been at the Spa almost a week now. He was joined by trainer Leo Hughes Friday and Perry is expected to make an appearance today. All pitchers and several other players were invited to Buckhorn. However, the Players Association strike is expected to limit the attendance to King and Perry.

Perry has not signed his 1969 veteran San Francisco players. However, he said he needs the work at Buckhorn and is going there at his own expense.

Oaks Lose; Barry Out For Season

HOUSTON (AP) — Few People worried when the Oakland Oaks lost a couple of American Basketball Association games back to back.

At the time, they led second-place Denver by 12 games in the Western Division.

But now the Oaks have lost four out of their last five, Rick Barry is out for the season and everybody is worried.

The Oaks fell 119-116 at Dallas yesterday and lost at home Saturday night to New Orleans, 137-122.

The Oaks, now 41-10 and 9½ ahead of Denver, play Houston tonight and go to Denver tomorrow night.

Dallas took advantage of Oakland's cold shooting in the fourthe quarter, scoring 11 points in the final three minutes while holding Oakland scoreless.

The Oaks sorely missed the scoring punch of 6-7 Barry, who said Saturday he will undergo an operation in Los Angeles March 3 to repair ligaments in his left knee. Doctors say he won't play until fall.

Limits All Around For Salmon Anglers

After a day's delay due to ugly weather, the 1969 salmon season got underway yesterday at 6 a.m. under clear and sunny skies, with 15 boats joining the fleet out of Sausalito.

Only about half of the fleet went out yesterday, with earlier bad weather keeping some away. In addition, not all the reservations were filled.

The fishermen, about 20 per cent of whom were Marinites, all bagged three-fish limits, the Sausalito Boat and Tackle Shop reported. Biggest catch was reported to be a 15-pounder.

Most catches averaged from 10 to 12 pounds.

The fishing was especially good between Muir Beach and Slide Ranch, anywhere from one half to two miles out from shore.

Nine boats went out of Caruso's Bait, Tackle and Supplies in Sausalito. All came back with limits, totaling out to 264 salmon.

The six boats that went out of the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop came back with full-limit total of 107 fish.

Some 34 party boats operate out of Sausalito during salmon season. The fee per person is $13, which includes baits.

The fleet didn't make it out Saturday, having to come back because of an exceptionally big sea and rough weather.

The limit per person will remain at three fish until March 1, when it drops to two.

Lee MacPhail Suffers Attack

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) —Lee MacPhail, 51-year-old general manager of the New York Yankees, was stricken by a mild coronary attack yesterday afternoon at his home in Hartsdale, N.Y. just before he was going to depart to the Yankees' spring training camp.

MacPhail, who never lost consciousness, was rushed to the White Plains Hospital. A Yankee spokesman described his condition as "not serious" although he will be hospitalized for from two to three weeks and probably won't be able to return to his duties for two months. He had been scheduled to fly to Fort Lauderdale yesterday because the Yanks open their training camp today.

Swimmers Snap Two Records

Marin Swim Club relay teams broke two national records at the mammoth 12th Annual Alameda Naval Air Station Invitational "A" Age Group Swim Meet Saturday and yesterday.

Some 2,700 swimmers showed up for this rare 50-yard pool meet.

The Marin Swim Club girls 13-14 team of Denise Ham, Anne Engel, Nanette Guthrie and Cooke Arrighi shattered the 400-yard freestyle relay mark clocking in at 4:00.2 to better the 1965 Arden Hills Swim Club record of 4:009.7. Then, Misses Engel, Ham and Arrighi teamed up with Sue Secondo to clip a full ten seconds off the 400 medley relay mark, whizzing in at 4:32.3, to better the old mark if 4:43.0, set by the Commerce, Calif., club in 1964.

Individually, Denise Ham was tops for Marin, getting two firsts, in the 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley, in addition to grabbing a second, a seventh and an eighth.

Cookie Arrighi placed in six events, Maura Campion had five medals, Rick Demont had five place finishes in boys 11-12 and Spencer Eldred placed once in the same division for Marin.

Jo Hislop tipped the San Rafael Swim Club, getting a first in the girls 13-14 500 free and 100 free, and garnering two seconds and a third.

Placing four times for San Rafael were Scott Hislop, boys 10-under, Kathi Hislop 15-17 and Wendy Pederman, girls 15-17.

Tami McDuffie placed twice in girls 11-12 and Nancy Placak, girls eight-under, Peter Behn, boys 10-under, Kimi Fox, girls 11-12 and Leslie Bryans, girls 13-14, placed once each. San Rafael also placed in five relay events.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Be sure your shoulders are parallel to the foul line after you've released the ball (see illustration). It is easy to fall into a habit of having the right shoulder thrust forward, but it is a habit that will cost you in accuracy.

Good Try, But Kiki Is Second

The 19-year-old Olympian from Bend, Ore., flashed through the 58-gate course in 47-79 seconds yesterday in her second run, the fastest in the field at Yvsoke Tatry.

But Miss Gabl's two runs, totaling 89.27, gave the favored Austrian girl first place overall, with Miss Cutter right behind her at 89.92. Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt., was 12th at 98.30.

The Austrian news agency, APA, said Miss Gabl had times of 41.07 and 48.20. Miss Cutter was timed in 41.07 through the 55 gates of the first course.

Miss Gabl is the leader in the World Cup standings for the slalom with 75 points and second in the over-all standings.

Judy Nagel, Enumclaw, Wash.., is second with 60 followed by Annie Famose of France, 51, and Miss Cutter, 50. Cathy Nagel, Judy's sister, is tied with Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany at 37.

Miss cutter is tied for third place with Miss Mittermaier in the over-all standings for 13 races with 81 points.

In team standings, France leads with 413 points, with Austria second at 293 and the United States third at 257.

Manager King, Perry Lone Giants At Training Camp

COMBINED AP & UPI

The San Francisco Giants open their pre-spring training conditioning camp at the Buckhorn Spa in Arizona today and about the only ones who'll be there are new skipper Clyde King and star pitcher Gaylord Perry.

The Buckhorns stay comes a week before the Giants open their camp at Casa Grande, Ariz., and is designed to help older players concerned about weight problems.

King has been at the Spa almost a week now. He was joined by trainer Leo Hughes Friday and Perry is expected to make an appearance today. All pitchers and several other players were invited to Buckhorn. However, the Players Association strike is expected to limit the attendance to King and Perry.

Perry has not signed his 1969 veteran San Francisco players. However, he said he needs the work at Buckhorn and is going there at his own expense.

Oaks Lose; Barry Out For Season

HOUSTON (AP) — Few People worried when the Oakland Oaks lost a couple of American Basketball Association games back to back.

At the time, they led second-place Denver by 12 games in the Western Division.

But now the Oaks have lost four out of their last five, Rick Barry is out for the season and everybody is worried.

The Oaks fell 119-116 at Dallas yesterday and lost at home Saturday night to New Orleans, 137-122.

The Oaks, now 41-10 and 9½ ahead of Denver, play Houston tonight and go to Denver tomorrow night.

Dallas took advantage of Oakland's cold shooting in the fourthe quarter, scoring 11 points in the final three minutes while holding Oakland scoreless.

The Oaks sorely missed the scoring punch of 6-7 Barry, who said Saturday he will undergo an operation in Los Angeles March 3 to repair ligaments in his left knee. Doctors say he won't play until fall.

Limits All Around For Salmon Anglers

After a day's delay due to ugly weather, the 1969 salmon season got underway yesterday at 6 a.m. under clear and sunny skies, with 15 boats joining the fleet out of Sausalito.

Only about half of the fleet went out yesterday, with earlier bad weather keeping some away. In addition, not all the reservations were filled.

The fishermen, about 20 per cent of whom were Marinites, all bagged three-fish limits, the Sausalito Boat and Tackle Shop reported. Biggest catch was reported to be a 15-pounder.

Most catches averaged from 10 to 12 pounds.

The fishing was especially good between Muir Beach and Slide Ranch, anywhere from one half to two miles out from shore.

Nine boats went out of Caruso's Bait, Tackle and Supplies in Sausalito. All came back with limits, totaling out to 264 salmon.

The six boats that went out of the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop came back with full-limit total of 107 fish.

Some 34 party boats operate out of Sausalito during salmon season. The fee per person is $13, which includes baits.

The fleet didn't make it out Saturday, having to come back because of an exceptionally big sea and rough weather.

The limit per person will remain at three fish until March 1, when it drops to two.

Lee MacPhail Suffers Attack

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) —Lee MacPhail, 51-year-old general manager of the New York Yankees, was stricken by a mild coronary attack yesterday afternoon at his home in Hartsdale, N.Y. just before he was going to depart to the Yankees' spring training camp.

MacPhail, who never lost consciousness, was rushed to the White Plains Hospital. A Yankee spokesman described his condition as "not serious" although he will be hospitalized for from two to three weeks and probably won't be able to return to his duties for two months. He had been scheduled to fly to Fort Lauderdale yesterday because the Yanks open their training camp today.

Swimmers Snap Two Records

Marin Swim Club relay teams broke two national records at the mammoth 12th Annual Alameda Naval Air Station Invitational "A" Age Group Swim Meet Saturday and yesterday.

Some 2,700 swimmers showed up for this rare 50-yard pool meet.

The Marin Swim Club girls 13-14 team of Denise Ham, Anne Engel, Nanette Guthrie and Cooke Arrighi shattered the 400-yard freestyle relay mark clocking in at 4:00.2 to better the 1965 Arden Hills Swim Club record of 4:009.7. Then, Misses Engel, Ham and Arrighi teamed up with Sue Secondo to clip a full ten seconds off the 400 medley relay mark, whizzing in at 4:32.3, to better the old mark if 4:43.0, set by the Commerce, Calif., club in 1964.

Individually, Denise Ham was tops for Marin, getting two firsts, in the 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley, in addition to grabbing a second, a seventh and an eighth.

Cookie Arrighi placed in six events, Maura Campion had five medals, Rick Demont had five place finishes in boys 11-12 and Spencer Eldred placed once in the same division for Marin.

Jo Hislop tipped the San Rafael Swim Club, getting a first in the girls 13-14 500 free and 100 free, and garnering two seconds and a third.

Placing four times for San Rafael were Scott Hislop, boys 10-under, Kathi Hislop 15-17 and Wendy Pederman, girls 15-17.

Tami McDuffie placed twice in girls 11-12 and Nancy Placak, girls eight-under, Peter Behn, boys 10-under, Kimi Fox, girls 11-12 and Leslie Bryans, girls 13-14, placed once each. San Rafael also placed in five relay events.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Be sure your shoulders are parallel to the foul line after you've released the ball (see illustration). It is easy to fall into a habit of having the right shoulder thrust forward, but it is a habit that will cost you in accuracy.

Smith Captures Net Title

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI)—Ismael El Shafei Jr. of Egypt, the surprising finalist in the U.S. Indoor tennis championships, became the crowd favorite yesterday and won the Sportsmanship Award.

But he was no match for Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. in the pressure-packed last two sets yesterday as Smith, fighting off a cold, swept to a 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4 victory in the U.S. singles finals.

Smith, overconfident after his key victory over Clark Graebner Saturday night and slightly ill from the cold, seemed to be in a bit of trouble in the second set when El Shafei tied the match at one set apiece and got the crowd cheering for an upset.

Smith, noted as one of the world's best doubles players, then came back to win the last two sets by 6-4 margins to close out the triumph.

Smith made it to the semi-finals of this tournament last year before being beaten by Cliff Richey. This time he was the underdog in the semi-finals because he had never beaten Graebner before in tournament competition.

But once he knocked off Graebner, he was a heavy favorite in his first appearance in the finals and he made it a successful one against the outmanned El Shafei.

Yacht Race Attracts Five Nations

Seven skippers from five nations will head their yachts out of the Golden Gate March 15 in a 6,000-mile nonstop race to Tokyo, the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere said yesterday.

The race, planned for several months, will take at least two months.

The lone American, Jerry Cartwright of Portland, will sail his 29-foot Cascade sloop to San Francisco Bay next week.

He joins two entrants from France, another pair from Japan and single representatives of Germany and Belgium.

Their boats, en route to San Francisco on freighters, range in length from 27 feet to the maximum allowable 35. The minimum allowable length is 24 feet.

The San Francisco Yacht Club, which joins the Slocum Society of New York and the Nippon Ocean Racing Club in sponsoring the race, will provide berthing and has appointed a committee to inspect the boats for seaworthiness.

Among required equipment are provisions for 90 days, 45 gallons of water, radio receiver, radar reflector and repair kits.

Famed Colgate Grid Coach Andy Kerr Succumbs At 90

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Andrew 'Andy' Kerr, fondly known during his 18 years as Colgate University's head football coach as The canny Scot of the Chenango, died yesterday in Tucson, Ariz. He was 90.

The small, wiry protege of Glenn S. 'Pop' Warner led the Colgate Red Raiders to 95 victories, 50 defeats and seven ties. The 95th was on Thanksgiving Day 1946, when they beat Brown, and Kerr, having reached the school's mandatory retirement age of 68, retired after his 152nd game as their coach.

In Tucson, Dr. Delbert Secrist said Kerr apparently died from hardening of the arteries and a leak in his abdominal aorta.

Secrist, who played as a right end for Kerr at Washington and Jefferson, said he had been treating his former coach for diabetis. He said Kerr went into a diabetic coma Wednesday night, but apparently came out of it Saturday.

"I am sure anyone who ever played for Andy would have given him his right arm," Secrist said. "He was a great guy."

Arizona Mortuary said the body would be sent back to Hamilton, N.Y., for services and burial.

Kerr and razzle dazzle football are synonymous. His fascination with the Warner style began in his school days, when his stockman father moved the family from Kerr's native Cheyenne, Wyo., to Carlisle, Pa., Warner's home town.

In 1914 the canny Scot began collegiate coaching at the University of Pittsburgh, becoming freshman football coach the next year under Warner and remaining at Pitt for eight years.

Kerr went to Stanford University as head coach in 1922 to install the Warner double wingback system and direct the teams until his mentor arrived in 1924 to begin a contract he signed in 1921.

Kerr stayed as an assistant and then went to Washington and Jefferson as football and basketball coach—that gridiron team lost one game his first year, in the last 20 seconds. The second year they held Pitt, then the Eastern power, to a scoreless tie.

His next assignment was to introduce the bewildering double wing offense to Colate, tucked away here in the Chenango River Valley, and establish it as one of the most colorful squads on the gridiron.

New Year's Day in 1947 marked the 20th consecutive year Kerr served as head coach of the East in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco, a benefit begun in 1925 for crippled children.

Kerr stayed in retirement six months before he went to coach at the small Pennsylvania college of Lebanon Valley, stipulating in that contract that he be permitted to continue to coach the East eleven.

In 1959, he returned home to Hamilton.

Len Macaluso, John Orsi, Bob Smith, Charles Wasicek and Ernie Nevers were among the several outstanding football players Kerr had a hand in developing.

Teams Tie For First In Golf Tournament

Two teams tied for first place yesterday in the Marin Country Club's best ball foursome golf tournament at the Novato course.

Tied at net 61 each were the quartets of Pat McAlonan, Dick Kaye, Dave Rosenkrantz and Don Stutzman, and Jim Hendricks, Frank King, Bob Rutherford and Ben Munson.

A stroke behind were Don Thompson, Stan Mertel, Ken Harais and Milt Morley.

UCLA, Santa Clara, Move Closer To Cage Showdown

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA's bouncing Bruins and Santa Clara's bucking Broncos keep right on moving along toward an almost certain date in the West Coast Regionals of the post-season NCAA college basketball playoffs. And there is hardly a team in sight capable of upsetting the schedule.

The nationally top-ranked Bruins made it 7-0 in the Pacific 8 Conference race, what there is of it, 19-0 overall and 35 in a row in the league Saturday night with an easy, 83-59 rout of Washington State.

The Broncos kept pace by rolling to a 72-47 victory over the University of San Francisco. That left them at 8-0 in the West Coast Athletic Conference and 21-0 overall. The Broncos are ranked third nationally behind UCLA and North Carolina but could move up a notch this week in the wake of North Carolina's 68-66 loss Friday night to South Carolina.

The race, though, goes on with the Bruins playing Washington at Seattle tonight. In the only other game on tap, crosstown rival Southern California is at WSU. About all that's left at stake in the Pac-8 now is a fight for second place between USC and the two Washington schools.

In the WCAC, it's more of the same with Pacific, San Jose State and Santa Barbara only a game apart in the race for second place.

In Saturday's other games, it went this way:

Oregon State 3-5 dropped California, 79-63; Stanford 3-6 upset Oregon, 81-76, and USC 4-3 whipped Washington, 69-51, in the Pac-8.

In the WCAC, it was Pepperdine (3-5) over Loyola (1-7), 69-64; UOP (6-2) over St. Mary's (2-6), 82-53, and San Jose State (6-2) over Santa Barbara (5-3), 85-77.

Elsewhere, Linfield won its fifth straight Northwest Conference title by beating Whitman, 92-65; Long Beach State clinched a tie for the California Collegiate Athletic Association title by downing Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 106-72; nationally third-ranked small college power Nevada of Las Vegas whipped the University of San Diego, 99-76; nationally ninth-ranked Puget Sound downed Hawaii, 95-84, and San Francisco State stayed atop the Far Western Conference race with a 9-0 mark by beating Sonoma State, 51-48.

Yacht Race Attracts Five Nations

Seven skippers from five nations will head their yachts out of the Golden Gate March 15 in a 6,000-mile nonstop race to Tokyo, the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere said yesterday.

The race, planned for several months, will take at least two months.

The lone American, Jerry Cartwright of Portland, will sail his 29-foot Cascade sloop to San Francisco Bay next week.

He joins two entrants from France, another pair from Japan and single representatives of Germany and Belgium.

Their boats, en route to San Francisco on freighters, range in length from 27 feet to the maximum allowable 35. The minimum allowable length is 24 feet.

The San Francisco Yacht Club, which joins the Slocum Society of New York and the Nippon Ocean Racing Club in sponsoring the race, will provide berthing and has appointed a committee to inspect the boats for seaworthiness.

Among required equipment are provisions for 90 days, 45 gallons of water, radio receiver, radar reflector and repair kits.

Famed Colgate Grid Coach Andy Kerr Succumbs At 90

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Andrew 'Andy' Kerr, fondly known during his 18 years as Colgate University's head football coach as The canny Scot of the Chenango, died yesterday in Tucson, Ariz. He was 90.

The small, wiry protege of Glenn S. 'Pop' Warner led the Colgate Red Raiders to 95 victories, 50 defeats and seven ties. The 95th was on Thanksgiving Day 1946, when they beat Brown, and Kerr, having reached the school's mandatory retirement age of 68, retired after his 152nd game as their coach.

In Tucson, Dr. Delbert Secrist said Kerr apparently died from hardening of the arteries and a leak in his abdominal aorta.

Secrist, who played as a right end for Kerr at Washington and Jefferson, said he had been treating his former coach for diabetis. He said Kerr went into a diabetic coma Wednesday night, but apparently came out of it Saturday.

"I am sure anyone who ever played for Andy would have given him his right arm," Secrist said. "He was a great guy."

Arizona Mortuary said the body would be sent back to Hamilton, N.Y., for services and burial.

Kerr and razzle dazzle football are synonymous. His facination with the Warner style began in his school days, when his stockman father moved the family from Kerr's native Cheyenne, Wyo., to Carlisle, Pa., Warner's home town.

In 1914 the canny Scot began collegiate coaching at the University of Pittsburgh, becoming freshman football coach the next year under Warner and remaining at Pitt for eight years.

Kerr went to Stanford University as head coach in 1922 to install the Warner double wingback system and direct the teams until his mentor arrived in 1924 to begin a contract he signed in 1921.

Kerr stayed as an assistant and then went to Washington and Jefferson as football and basketball coach—that gridiron team lost one game his first year, in the last 20 seconds. The second year they held Pitt, then the Eastern power, to a scoreless tie.

His next assignment was to introduce the bewildering double wing offense to Colate, tucked away here in the Chenango River Valley, and establish it as one of the most colorful squads on the gridiron.

New Year's Day in 1947 marked the 20th consecutive year Kerr served as head coach of the East in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco, a benefit begun in 1925 for crippled children.

Kerr stayed in retirement six months before he went to coach at the small Pennsylvania college of Lebanon Valley, stipulating in that contract that he be permitted to continue to coach the East eleven.

In 1959, he returned home to Hamilton.

Len Macaluso, John Orsi, Bob Smith, Charles Wasicek and Ernie Nevers were among the several outstanding football players Kerr had a hand in developing.

Teams Tie For First In Golf Tournament

Two teams tied for first place yesterday in the Marin Country Club's best ball foursome golf tournament at the Novato course.

Tied at net 61 each were the quartets of Pat McAlonan, Dick Kaye, Dave Rosenkrantz and Don Stutzman, and Jim Hendricks, Frank King, Bob Rutherford and Ben Munson.

A stroke behind were Don Thompson, Stan Mertel, Ken Harais and Milt Morley.

UCLA, Santa Clara, Move Closer To Cage Showdown

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA's bouncing Bruins and Santa Clara's bucking Broncos keep right on moving along toward an almost certain date in the West Coast Regionals of the post-season NCAA college basketball playoffs. And there is hardly a team in sight capable of upsetting the schedule.

The nationally top-ranked Bruins made it 7-0 in the Pacific 8 Conference race, what there is of it, 19-0 overall and 35 in a row in the league Saturday night with an easy, 83-59 rout of Washington State.

The Broncos kept pace by rolling to a 72-47 victory over the University of San Francisco. That left them at 8-0 in the West Coast Athletic Conference and 21-0 overall. The Broncos are ranked third nationally behind UCLA and North Carolina but could move up a notch this week in the wake of North Carolina's 68-66 loss Friday night to South Carolina.

The race, though, goes on with the Bruins playing Washington at Seattle tonight. In the only other game on tap, crosstown rival Southern California is at WSU. About all that's left at stake in the Pac-8 now is a fight for second place between USC and the two Washington schools.

In the WCAC, it's more of the same with Pacific, San Jose State and Santa Barbara only a game apart in the race for second place.

In Saturday's other games, it went this way:

Oregon State 3-5 dropped California, 79-63; Stanford 3-6 upset Oregon, 81-76, and USC 4-3 whipped Washington, 69-51, in the Pac-8.

In the WCAC, it was Pepperdine (3-5) over Loyola (1-7), 69-64; UOP (6-2) over St. Mary's (2-6), 82-53, and San Jose State (6-2) over Santa Barbara (5-3), 85-77.

Elsewhere, Linfield won its fifth straight Northwest Conference title by beating Whitman, 92-65; Long Beach State clinched a tie for the California Collegiate Athletic Association title by downing Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 106-72; nationally third-ranked small college power Nevada of Las Vegas whipped the University of San Diego, 99-76; nationally ninth-ranked Puget Sound downed Hawaii, 95-84, and San Francisco State stayed atop the Far Western Conference race with a 9-0 mark by beating Sonoma State, 51-48.

INEXPERIENCED YOUTHS GET JOBS

Neighborhood Youth Corps Plugs Gap Ignored By Many Private Employers

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

WANTED: Lots of young people for lots of skilled and semi-skilled jobs.

REQUIREMENT: Experience.

PROBLEM: How can a young person get the experience he needs for a job if he can't get a job he needs for experience?

This, as so many young people — particularly those from the lower income ranges — find out every day, is the unhappy dilemma facing them in today's employment picture.

It often doesn't matter how willing they are, or how long they pound the streets job hunting, they are unemployable simply because they are inexperienced.

But things are changing. Ask Sara Smith, a shy but friendly 21-year-old who works for McGraw-Hill in Novato. Or ask Larry Suldickas, a blond, soft-spoken San Rafael High School senior who works after school at the Marin County Health Department.

Both Miss Smith and Suldickas as well as the county, are beneficiarie of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, started five years ago as one battle front in the federal government's War on Poverty. It is three years old in Marin County and has helped nearly 500 young people gain job skills since its inception, according to its director, James McKenna.

"It's great," says Suldickas, who is now doing clerical work 12 hours a week with the health department and previously worked as a janitor for the Red Cross.

Under the program, youth corps members are found jobs at government or non-profit agencies with the Neighborhood Youth Corps paying their salaries. Suldickas earns $1.45 an hour.

SUCCESSFUL GRAD—Sara Smith, 21, processes publications orders at McGraw Hill in Novato where she was hired after getting work experience a a member of the Neighborhood Youth Corps. (Independent-Journal photos by Jim Kean)

"When I first came on this (the corps program), I didn't have a job at all," he said. "I was completely dependent on Mom for money. Now I'm more or less self-sufficient. I'm saving some money for school and I buy all my own clothes and stuff now." The "stuff" includes a better car to get him back and forth to school and work.

He wants to go on to the College of Marin, then the Navy, but suspects it will have to be the other way around because of money. After that, he wants to go to business college with an eye toward gaining experience for more skilled office jobs. Eventually, he wants to be "not just a regular salesman, but higher up."

Like Suldickas, Miss Smith, a 1966 Tamalpais High graduate, looked long and hard for a job without success before turning to the Neighborhood Youth Corps for help. She could pass any of the required tests, she said, but she never got hired because she didn't have experience.

"I didn't have any experience in anything, really," she said during an interview at her two-week-old job in McGraw-Hill's trade order service where she is a product file clerk. "They (the corps) helped get me started and get experience. I don't know where I'd be if they didn't."

Miss Smith got the job with the big publishing firm after gaining needed experience working under the corps program with the county department of rehabilitation and the district attorney's office.

Not only that, she drives to her new job from her parents' home in Marin City in a sporty four-year-old auto she was able to afford after she started working steadily.

She hopes to stay at McGraw-Hill and learn job skills for two or three years, then go on to "something better," like, perhaps, training for the computer field.

James McKenna, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps for Marin, said the current phase of the program — spanning from March 1968 to this July and using $155,000 in federal and $47,000 in county funds — will benefit about 180 Marin youngsters.

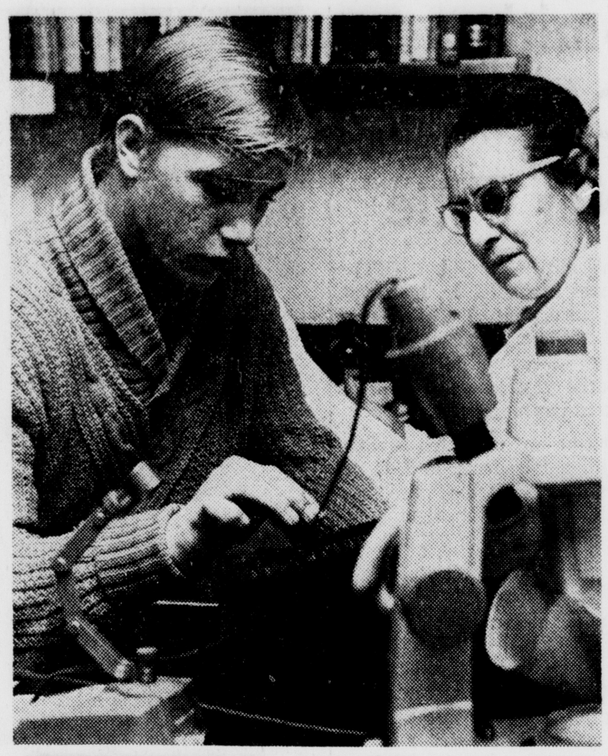
The program's January report showed that 23 of the 41 people involved in the in-school program—requiring 12 hours of work a week along with school —were members of minority groups. Five of the 19 out-of-school corpsmen—who are required to work 32 hours a week —were minority group members, McKenna said.

He said about 120 Marinites will be aided under the corps' summer program.

Of course, the program hasn't been an unqualified success. McKenna said there have been some dropouts from the program — less than 10 per cent who don't stick it out at least four months — but on the other hand, the corps last year got about 25 per cent of its members permanent full-time jobs.

There has been other criticism, too. There are those who object to the program by asking why the government has to do a job that private enterprise could.

"The plain fact is," answers a businessman who hired a former youth corpsman, "that private enterprise isn't doing the job and there are damned few signs that private enterprise — look right here in Marin — is going to do it. You can like it or not."



GETTING EXPERIENCE — Larry Suldickas, 18, a member of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, assists county heath department microbiologist Dora Mercado as part of his corps-sponsored job that is giving him job skills he needs to get a permanent job.

University To Keep Professor Hit By Legion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The University of California at San Diego says it will keep on the faculty Dr. Herbert Marcuse, controversial philosophy professor criticized by the American Legion as an inspiration to rebellious students the world over.

The announcement was made yesterday by Chancellor William McGill.

McGill said it would be the last extension for Marcuse, who at 70 is three years past the normal retirement age.

The decision to retain Marcuse, said McGill, was made after a careful review by a five-member panel of senior faculty members of Marcuse's "academic merits ... (his) writings, his standing among scholars, his teaching and his service to the university."

The action brought strong criticism from the American Legion's 22nd district judge advocate, Harry Foster, who said McGill "evidently disregarded the feeling of not only the vast majority of the people of this community but of also the state."

Man Is Found Slain In Room Atop Nob Hill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A maid checking a room yesterday in the Fairmont Hotel atop Nob Hill found the body of a slain chiropodist.

Homicide detectives identified the victim as Dr. Francis X. Blechinger, 55, of St. Paul, Minn., who was attending a military school for chiropodists at nearby Alameda.

Dr. Blechinger, an Army Reserve officer, had been stabbed twice in the chest and there were strangulation marks on his neck.

His billfold, identification papers and luggage were missing.

Inspectors said they found glasses and bottles in the room, indicating a party may have been held.

The body was discovered at 2:30 p.m. and the coroner's office estimated death had come between 5 a.m. and 7 a.m.

Not A Policeman's Very Best Friend

VIENNA (AP) — A dog and its master took on police and both landed in custody.

The man hit one officer in the face while the dog bit two other policemen. Police said the man will be charged with assaulting a police officer, while the dog will be released from the dog pound after examination proves that it does not have rabies.

The announcement was made yesterday by Chancellor William McGill.

McGill said it would be the last extension for Marcuse, who at 70 is three years past the normal retirement age.

The decision to retain Marcuse, said McGill, was made after a careful review by a five-member panel of senior faculty members of Marcuse's "academic merits ... (his) writings, his standing among scholars, his teaching and his service to the university."

The action brought strong criticism from the American Legion's 22nd district judge advocate, Harry Foster, who said McGill "evidently disregarded the feeling of not only the vast majority of the people of this community but of also the state."

Man Is Found Slain In Room Atop Nob Hill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A maid checking a room yesterday in the Fairmont Hotel atop Nob Hill found the body of a slain chiropodist.

Homicide detectives identified the victim as Dr. Francis X. Blechinger, 55, of St. Paul, Minn., who was attending a military school for chiropodists at nearby Alameda.

Dr. Blechinger, an Army Reserve officer, had been stabbed twice in the chest and there were strangulation marks on his neck.

His billfold, identification papers and luggage were missing.

Inspectors said they found glasses and bottles in the room, indicating a party may have been held.

The body was discovered at 2:30 p.m. and the coroner's office estimated death had come between 5 a.m. and 7 a.m.

Not A Policeman's Very Best Friend

VIENNA (AP) — A dog and its master took on police and both landed in custody.

The man hit one officer in the face while the dog bit two other policemen. Police said the man will be charged with assaulting a police officer, while the dog will be released from the dog pound after examination proves that it does not have rabies.

MUD, MUD MUD

Edith Hofman shovels mud near her Fairfax home at 263 Forest Avenue following a mudslide Saturday night. Behind her is exposed sewer work which Mrs. Hofman claims was improperly installed, thus causing the slide. The work, she said was installed by Baldwin Construction Co. of Marysville and approved by Ross Valley Sanitary District. She said the contractor had left a gaping hole near an oak tree which, after the rains hit, came sliding down with a mass of mud. Mrs. Hofman said she had warned the sanitary district of the slide danger which also affected four other families on her street. (Independent-Journal photo)

FREEDOM CALL SOUNDED

Cause Of Negro Must Prevail

If black militants are successful in their drive for equality, "for the first time this will be the land of the free."

The audience, black and white, had gathered to observe the close of Negro History Week with a program of songs, dancing and talks, sponsored by the Marin Art and Culture Club.

Black and whites have to respect each other and white men have to realize that "black men, red men and yellow and brown men are basically human beings," Taliaferro asserted. "White people and black people are people."

White people have got to understand why the black militants "are here," he said.

They are seeking redress of grievances from the establishment as George Washington sought redress from King George III, Taliaferro contended.

However, he said, their grievances are more serious than those against the king.

Black people live an unequal existence, and it has to stop, Taliaferro said.

The National Association for the Advancement of Colored People tried to get the Constitution enforced and failed, he said. Then there were demonstrations, and a few restaurants and movies were integrated. Then there was rioting and "we're still not free. What is it going to take to bring about freedom, equality and justice?" he asked. "I don't know. Everything has been tried."

This country "has never had a president to uphold the Constitution of the United States," Taliaferro charged. Neither has any governor, any mayor, or

GRAND JURY REPORT

County Workers' Vacations Ripped

The Marin County 1968 Grand Jury, sharply criticizing the board of supervisors for granting county employees three weeks vacation after one year of employment, has urged the supervisors to countermand that policy.

"This committee attempted on several occasions to meet with the board of supervisors for enlightenment and understanding of the plan," the grand jury's county offices committee said in the jury's final report Friday, but, "unfortunately, the board declined to discuss the situation with us."

The three-week vacation was approved, 3-2, by the supervisors last July. Only two of the present supervisors were on the board at that time, with William A. Gnoss voting for the policy and John F. McInnis voting against it.

The old policy gave employees two weeks after the first year, three after five years, and four after 15 years. The new policy also provides four weeks after 10 years.

The grand jury committee figured the cost to the taxpayers of the new policy at $138,580 during the current fiscal year. Former Supervisor Peter H. Behr, who voted for the new policy, estimated at the time that it would cost $41,000, and his figure was not challenged in July.

"As the total of county employment increases, it follows that the amount will be successively larger," warned the grand jury committee. "Over and beyond the county costs generated by this plan," it added, "would be those, through the precedent set, that would have to be borne by the various incorporated areas in the county as well as private enterprises."

The committee noted it was requested to investigate the vacation benefit by numerous businessmen and chambers of commerce.

The committee also urged that the 1969 grand jury, appointed Friday, have the collective bargaining agreement between the county and Social Workers Union Local 535, which sparked the new vacation policy "carefully checked by qualified labor relations experts immediately. Negotiations are now in process," it noted, "and we feel that the county has placed itself in an area in which they are not informed."

These experts also should check the county's salary ordinance, the committee said.

"We would sincerely hope that the board of supervisors, on the basis of the above evaluation, seriously consider re-negotiation this coming year in order to be guided to a firmer attitude on a vacation policy more in line with general practice," the committee concluded.

The criticism of the vacation policy was paralleled by criticism of the county planning and probation departments, reported Saturday in the Independent-Journal.

Among its comments on other departments and offices were:

AUDITOR-CONTROLLER — "Our auditor-controller, Michael Mitchell, is expertly and efficiently carrying out the duties of his office and the grand jury feels that this effort deserves the recognition and praise of the people of the County of Marin."

WELFARE — The grand jury commended the Department of Public Social Services, which handles welfare programs, for reducing auditing errors, but the jury's audit and finance committee "strongly recommended that a representative of the auditor-controller's office be

Aquanaut Dies At Long Beach

Death Halts Sea Test

LONG BEACH (AP) — A U.S. aquanaut died of a heart attack today while checking air leaks on the Sealab 3,610 feet below the surface of the sea, the Navy said today. It suspended diving operations and ordered the undersea habitat brought to the surface.

The victim was Berry L. Cannon, 33, an electronics engineer from Panama City, Fla. The Navy said the experiment would be suspended until an autopsy was performed to determine what caused the heart attack.

The Navy blamed the death, first since the Sealab underwater exploration program began in 1964, on "cardiac arrest."

Cannon was one of four divers who went down early today to investigate air leaks from the 57x12-foot Sealab 3 on the floor of the ocean about a mile off San Clemente Island. They made the trip in a pressurized Personnel Transfer Capsule lowered by cable from the USS Elk River.

SWIMMING OVER

The Navy said Cannon left the capsule and was swimming over to the habitat when stricken. He was returned to the capsule by a companion diver and was immediately lifted to the surface and transferred to a decompression chamber on the deck of the ship.

"First examination of Cannon's diving equipment after return to the surface indicated it was working normally," a spokesman said. "It was also operating normally when he left the diving capsule.

The leak was similar to a minor one in Sealab 2, in which three teams of 10 men spent 15-day periods 205 feet under the surface off La Jolla, Calif. In Sealab 1, four men lived 11 days at a depth of 193 feet off Bermuda in 1964.

In preparation for today's descent, the men of Sealab 3 arranged to spend 24 hours inside two compression chambers aboard the surface support ship, the USS Elk River. The pressure was increased gradually to equal that on the ocean floor.

BOX-LIKE HOME

Their box-like home for 12 days was lowered to the ocean bottom near offshore San Clemente Island. The habitat was pressurized at 19 times normal —about 270 pounds per square inch—just enough to keep it from flooding. The men thus can swim in and out of the diving bells and the habitat without using hatches.

The men are the first of five teams who will spend two months in all, living and working, in 47-degree water under such pressure.

Polls To Be Open 7 A.M. To 8 P.M.

Voters in the San Rafael Elementary School District will go to the polls tomorrow to decide on a $2.1 million bond proposal.

The polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 8 p.m.

The county elections department has reported 16,332 voters are eligible to cast ballots in tomorrow's election, which the San Rafael Board of Education has estimated will add not more than 10 cents per $100 assessed valuation to the tax rate.

The bonds would provide funds for construction of a new middle school in Glenwood and the modernization of Laurel Dell, West End and Santa Venetia schools.

In addition, improvements and correction of safety hazards are planned at Bahia Vista, Davidson, Gallinas, Hartzell, MacPhail, Short and Sun Valley schools.

There is not only a building program but an educational concept involved in the bond issue. That is, if the bonds are passed, there will be three middle schools — schools in which sixth, seventh and eighth graders are grouped together.

Davidson Junior High School would become a middle school; Santa Venetia Middle School has been operating under this system since 1966 and there would be the proposed new school—Glenwood.

The bond proposal envisions relocation of sixth grades at the new Glenwood school to free classrooms at Bahia Vista, Coleman, Glenwood, Laurel Dell Intermediate, San Pedro, Sun Valley and West End schools.

The new middle school, ultimately to handle 900 students, is estimated to cost about $1.9 million, with $428,000 from present bond funds being used in addition to the financing that would be voted tomorrow.

Improvements at other schools are to cost near $600,000.

The Glenwood Middle School plant would contain a resource center including library, surrounded by five classroom buildings which would house 130 pupils each; a gymnasium, a special classroom, an athletic

Bombers Up At End Of Truce

SAIGON (AP) — The thunder of bombs from U.S. B52 bombers reverberated throughout Saigon tonight as U.S. and South Vietnamese forces resumed offensive operations after a 24-hour truce for the start of the lunar new year.

Allied infantrymen resumed some 60 operations they had interrupted briefly for the new year festival known as Tet, and U.S. warplanes went back into action. The aim was to maintain pressure on Viet Cong and North Vietnamese forces so they could not repeat the Tet offensive hich gave the allies such a setback last February.

The allied truce ended at 6 p.m. Saigon time, and 22 minutes later waves of B52s were dropping tons of explosives only 31 miles north of Saigon on the fringes of Communist War Zone D. Seven miles west of the capital, smaller American fighter-bombers attacked a Viet Cong bunker complex.

In the central highlands, American artillery opened fire on enemy troop concentrations near Kontum City 45 seconds after the truce ended.

Military spokesmen said the allies would ignore the rest of the seven-day Viet Cong ceasefire, which runs until 7 a.m. Saturday, just as they ignored the first 35 hours of it.

U.S. headquarters said the enemy violated its own ceasefire and the period of allied truce with at least 170 attacks during the 53 hours from 7 a.m. Saturday until noon today.

Headquarters reported that 128 of these incidents occurred during the first 18 hours of the allied truce, including an attempt early today by hundreds of North Vietnamese to overrun a U.S. Marine artillery base near the Laotian border.

During the allied truce, U.S. headquarters said, eight Americans were killed and 71 wounded, while American forces killed at least 96 of the enemy and captured seven.

Walking Woman Killed By Auto

An Air Force sergeant's wife was killed by a car yesterday as she walked along the shoulder of an Ignacio frontage road and the 17-year-old driver was booked into Juvenile Hall on suspicion of drunken driving and manslaughter.

Dolores Pauline Lanning, 37, of 143 Crescent Drive, Hamilton Air Force Base, was pronounced dead at Marin General Hospital.

According to the highway patrol, Jo Lorraine Ehrmantraut, 17, of 614 I Street, Petaluma, who was arrested, and her sister-in-law left a nearby bar shortly after 2 a.m. and drove erratically along Entrada Drive until the car drifted onto the shoulder and hit Mrs. Lanning.

A witness who stopped a moment later found Mrs. Lanning body pinned under the car apparently lifeless.

Mrs. Ehrmantraut's sister-in-law, Viola P. Tickle, 30, of 18 Wilson Street, Petaluma, was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of being drunk in public, and posted $35 bail to appear tomorrow in Marin Municipal Court.

Mrs. Lanning, wife of M/Sgt. Carl A. Lanning Jr., was walking home when she was killed, the coroner's office said. Her death is the third traffic fatality in Marin County this year. There were none by this date last year.

Mrs. Lanning is also survived by three daughters, Deborah, Donita and Dierdra. She was a native of New York and had lived eight years in California and three years in Marin. Funeral is pending at Harry M. Williams Mortuary, San Rafael.

Chant In Madison: Back Black Demands

MADISON, Wis. (AP) — Several hundred protesting University of Wisconsin students poured into an administration and class building today chanting, "support the black demands, support the black demands."

The students entered Bascom Hall and surged through hallways calling for support for black student demands.

National guardsmen were still on the 33,000-student campus but a peaceful weekend had encouraged Gov. Warren P. Knowles to forecast imminent withdrawal of the troops.

The governor expressed his hope for an early withdrawal during a visit yesterday to an armory where some of the troops were stationed after students began a classroom boycott a week ago in support of Negro demands.

"We've got to maintain law and order, or our democracy will be gone," the Republican governor said.

An estimated 27 persons were taken into custody last week during brief clashes with police and guardsmen. There were few injuries, and demonstration leaders continually urged protesters to avoid conflicts with the officers.

The demonstrations and picketing began with Negroes demanding an autonomous department of Negro affairs, special curriculum and full student control over hiring of instructors for Negro courses.

A Plea Of Celibacy By Pope

VATICAN CITY (UPI)—Pope Paul VI warned today that priests who want to marry or enter into other aspects of ordinary human life have fallen into a "very grave error" that can paralyze the priestly vocation.

The Pope delivered his warning in a speech to Rome Lenten preachers. It came as pressures for ending priestly celibacy are mounting in various parts of the world, especially Holland, and have even reached in to Italy in recent weeks.

The Pope made clear he was not concerned only with the celibacy question, but with the broader problem of priests seeking to take up a life like other men as a means of making contact with modern society.

"Let's be careful," he said. "This desire to insert the priest into society...is good. But from the generous proposal of escaping from the shell of a crystalized and privileged condition, one can fall into a very grave error which can paralyze the priestly vocation ...and can demolish in one blow the edifice of priestly service."

The Pope said that Christ "wants us in the world, but not of the world."

He warned against "wanting to make of the priest a man like any other, in clothing, in profane profession, in attendance at public entertainments, in worldly experience, in social and political activity and in the formation of a family of his own with the abdication of the sacred celibacy."

The Pope also warned against against authority in the church reforms in the church and rebel priests who demand structural reforms in the church and rebel against authority in the church.

HIT ENROLLMENT CHECK

Strikers Go To Classes At San Francisco State

SAN FRANCISCO (UPI)— Striking students and professors attended classes at the opening of San Francisco State College's spring semester today to circumvent an enrollment check system instituted by acting president S. I. Hayakawa.

A handful of teachers picketed at the main campus entrance while most of the 250 striking professors met with their students to keep their courses from being dropped by the administration.

Striking students also went to class to guarantee their status under a registration card system initiated by Hayakawa. The cards must be signed by both student and teacher on the first day of class.

"Our members shall establish their classes by meeting the first (and only the first) section of each course," said a leaflet handed out by members of the striking American Federation of Teachers.

The violence-ridden school reopened after a two-week break with its administration building battered by a bomb-blast and Hayakawa vowing students and faculty will be "protected by whatever means necessary."

Militant student disrupted at least one class by refusing to let the teacher speak. About 30 of the 100 students in a class taught by John Bunzel read "Quotations from Chairman Mao" and yelled for 20 minutes until he gave up and left the room.

The political scientist has been a special target of militants since he publicly criticized

JAMES FARMER
Very optimistic

Farmer Sees Funding To Slum Areas

WASHINGTON (AP) — James Farmer, highest ranking Negro appointee of President Nixon, says he has "every expectation" the Republican administration will support a "black capitalism" proposal being pushed by the Congress of Racial Equality.

Farmer, founder, and longtime director of CORE, will become assistant secretary for administration in the Department of Health, Education and Welfare about April 1.

He said yesterday he expects the administration to back proposed legislation which would cost an estimated $1 billion a year for the first two years. It would set up a national Community Development Bank to back loans for slum redevelopment.

Farmer said he had not discussed specifics with the President but "I do know his thinking and support of economic development of the black community."

WIRE NEWS BRIEFS From Everywhere

After U.S. Aid

UMUAHIA, Biafra (AP) — After getting a measure of support from France, Biafra is going after the diplomatic jackpot — backing from the United States.

The accession of the Nixon administration, a sharp increase in private and government relief aid from the United States for refugees and visits by U.S. congressmen have given the Biafrans the idea that the time is ripe for wooing Washington.

The Biafrans were pleased by the visit of the first offiicial U.S. congressional delegation to go to both sides in the Nigerian civil war. The delegation, headed by Rep. Charles C. Diggs,Jr., D-Mich, left Saturday night after a two-day visit.

Labels Outlawed

LONDON (AP) — British servicemen assigned to the Middle East will be told to cut "-Jewish labels" from their clothing, the Ministry of Defense announced today.

"Arabs are likely to confiscate the clothing if they see the tags," a spokesman said. "A simple matter like a soldier hanging up in public a shirt or jacket with a brand label of a Jewish firm could cause trouble."

"We do not want to inflame the political situation in Arab countries in any way," an army spokesman said.

Warns Of Violence

NEW DELHI (AP) — President Zakir Husain today warned India of the danger of violence "from certain extremist political groups which seek to change the social and political structure by armed insurrection."

In a state of the union message to a meeting of both houses of Parliment which began a three-month budget session, Husain said, "The doctrines propounded by these groups are clearly subversive and area detrimental to orderly government and progress."

Husain apparently was refering to Maoist sects and parochial organizations such as the Shiv Sena in Bombay.

12,401 Deaths

WASHINGTON (UPI)—More people lost their lives in earthquakes around the world last year than in any year since 1960, according to the National Earthquake Information Center. The center said 20 quakes in 13 foreign countries took 12,401 lives.

Changes Names

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Honey Fritz and the Patrick J. are now the Julie and the Patricia. President Nixon announced the name changes for the two presidential yachts during the weekend. The old names were given the cabin cruisers by President Kennedy, in honor of his grandfathers. Nixon decided to rename the boats after his daughters.

Rembrandt Stolen

PORTSMOUTH, England (AP) — A Rembrandt and two other paintings worth an estimated $250,000 were stolen from the Cumberland House art exhibition during the weekend.

Officials discovered the theft when they opened the gallery today. The paintings had been removed from their frames.

The Rembrandt, part of a touring exhibition, is the portrait 'An Old Man Wearing Black." The other pictures stolen were Corot's "Aux Bords de la Riviere" and a painting of the school of Frans Van Mieris.

Borman In Spain

Soon after his arrival from Rome with his family, Borman came to the Plaza Colon to place a wreath at the towering statue of Christopher Columbus, or Cristobal Colon in Spanish.

On hand to greet the American good-will ambassador was Cristobal Colon de Carvajaly Maroto, 17th Duke of Veragua and hereditary Admiral of the Ocean Sea. The title was created in 1537 for Diego Columbus, the explorer's son.

More Firing Claimed By Tuna Boat Owner

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The skipper of the U. S. tuna boat San Juan, one of five tuna vessels fired on Friday by Peruvian gunboats, says he believes shots were fired at him in the harbor at Salinas, Ecuador, as he returned to his vessel aboard an auxiliary craft.

The captain, Vernon Bowman, co-owner of the San Juan, said by radio yesterday he had gone ashore to get clearance for his ship and that, in the presence of two unidentified U.S. representatives, had been told by Salinas port officials he had clearance to leave the harbor.

When the American authorities left, Bowman said he was told he would not be allowed to lift anchor or be allowed to use radio contact with anyone, according to August Felando, manager of the American Tuna Boat Association. Felando said Bowman talked with him by radio.

As he was proceeding to the San Juan aboard a small whaling boat, Bowman said, there were two large splashes near his craft. He said he did not hear cannon fire because of high wind.

Once aboard the San Juan, Bowman pulled anchor and sped to sea, leaving the boat's official documents ashore.

The U.S. State Department had received clearance from Ecuador for the San Juan to enter the port, Felando said.

In Washington, the State Department said it had its consul in Guayaquil looking into the situation.

In the episode Friday 23 miles off the coast of Peru, one of the tuna boats, the Mariner, was captured and taken to the port of Talara, where it was released after the captain paid a $2,000 fine.

John Verissimo, regular captain of the San Juan, had reported by radio-telephone that, after putting men aboard the Mariner, the gunboat "fired more than 50 shots at us. They tried to board us from the stern, but I outmaneuvered them."

The State Department protested to Peru's ambassador in Washington. On Saturday, Peru ordered its ambassador home from Washington for consultations and also recalled its ambassador to the Organization of American States.

Israeli Jets Knock Out Arab Posts

By ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli jets flew over Jordan again today to knock out Arab guerrilla positions that fired bazookas on an Israeli patrol in the southern Beisan Valley, an army spokesman said.

The spokesman said Israeli ground troops returned the fire and "a few planes were called in." There were no Israeli casualties. It was the second time in less than a week that Israeli planes attacked guerrilla positions inside Jordan.

The army also said 16 persons were injured in several explosions yesterday inside Israeli-occupied territory.

Eight Arab civilians were wounded when their car was hit by a grenade aimed at an Israeli military truck in Nablus. Twelve persons were arrested.

Three Arab youths were wounded while examining a piece of iron tubing that exploded, and four Israeli soldiers and a civilian were injured when Israeli army vehicles touched off two mines in the Negev desert.

In Jericho, police fired in the air to disperse 300 rock-throwing students demonstrating against the Israeli occupation.

Chinese Interrupt Hong Kong Cruise

HONG KONG (AP) — A flotilla of Hong Kong yachts was warned not to sail to Macao on a holiday cruise for the Chinese new year. Now the Chinese Reds are believed to have three of the yachts and 15 of the holidayers, including four Americans.

Sources at Hong Kong's Royal Yacht Club said the yachtsmen had been told the cruise "was not a good thing at this particular time." And an official of the Hong Kong Marine Department said only one of the six yachts had cleared its plans with the department.

Two Dutch news photographers sailing one of the yachts that got to Macao said a Chinese army officer who boarded their boat let them go when he saw they were Dutch, were wearing high-neck Mao jackets and had a portrait of Mao Tse-tung hanging in the yacht's lounge.

"I see we are friends," the officer told the Dutchmen in English, then apologized and pinned Mao badges on their jackets.

One of the Dutchmen, Ed Van Kan, said the boarding party came from a gunboat which was later joined by four armed junks.

The yacht club sources said previous holiday cruises to Macao had gone off without incident. But the sailors this year were warned of the strained relations between Peking and the Hong Kong government because of the imprisonment of Communists held responsible for the 1965 anti-British campaign of violence in the colony.

The Portuguese colony of Macao is 40 miles across the mouth of the Pearl River estuary from Hong Kong and on an island just off the Chinese mainland. China claims a 12-mile limit to its territorial waters, and the sea route between the two colonies thus lies in Chinese waters, but ferries sail regularly along the route without interference.

The six yachts set out Saturday, anchored for the night off an island midway between Hong Kong and Macao, and resumed the voyage yesterday. Then they became separated in thick fog. Only three of the yachts, the Nordica, Tolo and Koala, reached the Portuguese colony.

There are more than 18,000 miles of road in Alabama.

Watts Group Still Digging Out White Homeowners

LOS ANGELES (AP)—Weeks after hillside homes were hit by floods and mudslides, a group of Negro volunteers still quietly works to help the white homeowners dig out.

The Negroes call it a "Hands Across the Country" campaign. There is no cost to the owners of the damaged property.

The Watts Labor Community Action Committee provided the 50 workers, who are paid $1.40 an hour by a federal grant. Normally, they work on improvement projects in their own neighborhoods.

"We saw here the means to use our muscle to show the community appreciation for some of the things they have done for us," said Ted Watkins, coordinator of the project.

More than 4,500 man-hours have been spent since last month by workers in exclusive Mandeville and Benedict canyons.

"They did an amazing amount of work while they were here," said one resident, whose basement was flooded with mud and debris. "They're doing a magnificent job of helping people."

"I think what those men are doing is a wonderful thing to break down a lot of prejudices," said one elderly lady whose home was made livable again by the workers.

"They don't know me from Adam."

Jet Returned After Payment

MIAMI (AP) — A Venezuelan airliner hijacked to Cuba last week has returned to Venezuela after payment of $31,466.80 to Cuba for expenses incurred, Havana radio said today.

The broadcast, monitored in Miami, said Cuban investigation showed that "the Aeropostal lines plane which landed in Santiago, Cuba, Feb. 11 was diverted from its route by three Venezuelan guerrillas."

Cuba delayed the plane's return until Venezuela sent another to supply fuel for it. Last December, Venezuela seized a Cuban fishing vessel, the Alecrin, claiming it was supplying help to Castroite anti-government guerrillas. The Alecrin later was released.

Senator To Speak On Foreign Policy

"Needed, a New Foreign Policy for the United States," is the subject of a talk to be given by Sen. Frank Church (D-Idaho) at 8:15 p.m. Friday, in the Fine Arts Building, College of Marin, Kentfield.

Church served nine years on the Senate Foreign Relations Committee. Roger Kent of Kent Woodlands will host a dinner for the senator, a conservationist, and Marin County conservationists prior to the lecture.

California Man Follows Doctors' Advice For Treating Piles

Treatment Shrinks Piles, Relieves Pain In Most Cases

Millbrae, Cal. Mr. C. H. Wahl of Millbrae reports: "I'm 68 years old and been suffering from hemorrhoids. I asked several doctors about it. They said I should continue using Preparation H which I had started to use. I'm very grateful for Preparation H. It has such a soothing effect and it certainly relieved my pain."

(Note: Doctors have proved in most cases—Preparation H® actually shrinks inflamed hemorrhoids. In case after case, the sufferer first notices prompt relief from pain, burning and itching. Then swelling is gently reduced.

There's no other formula for the treatment of hemorrhoids like doctor-tested Preparation H. It also lubricates to make bowel movements more comfortable, soothes irritated tissues and helps prevent further infection. In ointment or suppository form.)

Closed Session Set On County Employees

Marin supervisors will huddle in closed session tomorrow with the county team that is negotiating new contracts with the Marin County Employees Association and other bargaining units.

The county negotiating team, comprised of County Administrator, Alan Bruce, County Counsel, Douglas Maloney, and Personnel Director Robert Elliott, will report on bargaining progress with the employee groups. The supervisors, who have voted to hold the tax rate at the present $2.27 per $100 of assessed valuation, will instruct the team on how firm a stand it should take in the negotiations.

Following the closed meeting, at 9 a.m., supervisors are scheduled to convene at 10:45 a.m. in regular session.

An offer to swap $800,000 worth of land north of the Civic Center for the San Rafael Courthouse will be discussed and John H. Atkinson, director of communications, will ask for reorganization of his staff to make his department function more efficiently.

The Marin County Economic Opportunity Council will seek an additional $15,000 from reserve funds to continue its present program to April 1, while Austin J. Thompson, director of the Human Rights Department, will ask for approval of an application for federal funds to hire two persons to help administer fair employment practices legislation.

County Librarian Bruce D. Bajema wants permission to apply for federal aid to build the Novato Branch Library. Federal funds would cover $186,570 of the $574,000 cost.

Public Works Director Donald R. Frost will recommend award of a contract to extend the runway and install lighting at Gnoss Field to Brownely Co. of San Rafael, which sumitted a low bid of $103,746.

Several planning and zoning hearings are set for the afternoon.

Tennessee is known as the hardwood flooring center of the United States.

In this tire-squealing, torque-out world, is there a place for an automobile that can stop heroically?

Mercedes-Benz thinks so.

At a traffic light, a number of sleek, snarling domestic cars can blast ahead of the sedate Mercedes-Benz 250 pictured at right.

So be it, say Mercedes-Benz engineers. So be it, say Mercedes-Benz 250 owners.

The 250 comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. No domestic sedan does. Something to stop and think about.

A question of emphasis

It's not that the Mercedes-Benz engineers don't know how to build a potent motor car.

Their 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL, for example, recently appraised by Road and Track as "merely the greatest sedan in the world," is the fastest series production sedan ever made.

But that exuberant machine is intended for the autobahns, and other wide open spaces, where high speed driving is relatively safe. And it sells to a rather rarefied clientele at a rather rarefied $14,450*.

For their bread-and-butter models in the $4,500 to $10,000 range —cars for everyday people in everyday traffic—Mercedes-Benz engineers take a much more pragmatic view. Stubbornly refusing to sacrifice a driver's pocketbook to his libido, they insist on striking a sane balance between engine size and fuel economy.

Result: the new 250 is endowed with a 6-cylinder, overhead-cam, 7-main-bearing gem of a powerplant. It can hurtle this 3,000 pound Mercedes-Benz along indefinitely at the highest posted speeds in America—with energy in reserve. Yet fuel consumption rivals that of the lowliest domestic compacts.

Turnabout

The owner of a Mercedes-Benz 250, on the other hand, can confidently challenge the driver of any domestic sedan to a stoplight duel—at stopping.

The blunt fact is that not one domestic sedan, regardless of price, comes with 4-wheel disc brakes. But every Mercedes-Benz, regardless of price—like 200-mph Grand Prix racing cars—comes with a massive disc brake at every wheel.

Why do experts rate discs superior to conventional drum brakes?

Because, in a variety of situations—in rainy weather driving when brakes may get wet, in downhill driving with continual braking, even in one extreme speeds—disc brakes are far better able to dissipate heat and moisture, and thus to resist fading or lock-up, the most common types of brake failure.

Mercedes-Benz engineers believe that the brakes should be the most powerful part of any car. In a Mercedes-Benz, they are.

One-upmanship

As you might expect, the Mercedes-Benz 250 also handles and corners better than all domestic sedans—even the newest 1969 "dreamboats" to roll off the assembly line.

Scrapping the solid rear axle system of conventional cars, the 250 uses an all-independent suspension, plus anti-sway bars front and rear. The result is leech-like roadability—even on rutted and potholed gravel lanes.

There is no sloppy play in the steering, either. You are blessed with the "feel" of the road. When you turn the wheel, the car reacts instantly. Suddenly, you are a more confident driver.

Many cars are designed to win admiration for their owners. Mercedes-Benz cars are designed to win admiration from their owners. Quite a distinction.

The pinnacle of safety

Of all the world's motor cars, concluded Car and Driver magazine after roadtesting the new 250, the current Mercedes-Benz line "represents the present pinnacle in safe car engineering."

This sober judgment is based in part on the remarkable responsiveness of the 250, its almost uncanny ability to evade blundering motorists.

But it reflects, too, the extraordinary measures Mercedes-Benz engineers have taken to provide protective packaging for passengers if the worst happens—measures that go beyond the letter of U.S. safety regulations.

The 250's entire passenger compartment is built as a sturdy "safety zone." Doors are designed to stay shut on impact. The front and rear sections of the car are engineered to crumple in a violent crash at a controlled rate, absorbing shock and reducing the threat of serious injury.

"My car was wrecked," reported a Mercedes-Benz owner after a serious head-on collision, "but thanks to Mercedes-Benz safety engineering, I escaped with my life."

Flat-out in comfort

The 250 is as habitable as it is roadworthy and safe.

Probing with stethoscopes, engineers tracked down and winnowed out irksome harmonic vibrations in the bodywork and drive train. "There is as little inside noise at 100 mph as at a standstill," observed a journalist after test runs on a racing circuit.

Slip into the seat of a 250. It reclines—for catnaps. Check the rear shelf. Carpeted. Nudge the door closed. A satisfying "ka-chunk."

Born to last

Your 250 is built with uncompromising care to make it a durable investment, too. It is not bolted into being, like an ordinary car, but solidified by thousands of welds. After 50,000 miles or so, you may begin to wonder if it will ever rattle.

More than four coats and 44 pounds of paint and primer rust protection are lavished on each car at the factory. The insides of the hubcaps are coated.

Even the lines are designed for durability. Mercedes-Benz scorns planned obsolescence, and deliberately gives all its motor cars the same classic look, free of faddish touches that can readily betray age—and erode your investment.

(Sidelight: While this similarity between Mercedes-Benz models and vintages is a boon to the owner of a 250, it may be a hazard to some drivers. Consider the traffic-light dragster who guns his engine at a "250"—only to writhe in the ignominy of having taunted a 6.3 Mercedes-Benz 300SEL instead.)

If you think the 250 sounds like an unconventional car, you're right. It is. Defiantly so. Mercedes-Benz does not build conventional cars—and never will.

24-page brochure

For more details on the 250, a shrewd $5,299* investment, mail the coupon for a colorful 24-page brochure. Better yet, drop by the showroom and arrange to test the car. Driving is believing.

Other models to ponder:

280SE Sedan—the most roadworthy car you can buy in the luxury class, fuel-injection engine, $6,577*.

280SL Roadster—a sports car for grown-ups, combines soul-stirring performance with comfort, $6,885*.

220 Diesel—the only diesel Mercedes-Benz makes, gives small-car economy in a big, safe sedan that may well endure for decades, $4,780*.

600 Grand Mercedes—the ultimate motor car, $23,759*.

placed in the department." The auditor-controller is fiscally responsible for the department, "but in fact has very little control," the committee noted. "A firm of efficiency experts should be hired to study the time and motions and work flow of the department," it said.

NEW CAREERS AND FAIR-MARIN — The grand jury's county offices committee strongly urged that the 1969 grand jury investigate both the New Careers Program, which is to train minority workers for county jobs, and Fair-Marin, which is to administer the Veterans' Memorial Auditorium and the county fairgrounds, now under construction at the Civic Center.

PURCHASING — The county's purchasing department should not attempt to carry a full line of small office supplies, but instead permit individual offices to continue to order their own supplies. Terming the present system "very logical and efficient," the county offices committee said central purchasing of small supplies would be "clumsy, expensive and time consuming." Bids for services should go to Marin firms if the difference in bids "is small," it added.

RECORDER — Noting that the 1967 grand jury said this department was overstaffed, the offices committee said its staff now is justified because the department now collects the federal property transfer tax.

PERSONNEL OFFICE — "This office (should) be given its own identity as an independent department," the offices committee concluded, and complete personnel records should be kept both in the employing department and the personnel office.

HEALTH — The board of supervisors should act promptly on the Brown-Caldwell plan for county-wide waste disposal, the grand jury's health, welfare and hospital committee said.

SHERIFF'S OFFICE — A proposed central file system so all police chiefs in the county and the sheriff's office can have a record of all arrests was endorsed by the law enforcement committee, which also recommended that a chemist or criminologist be hired for the Marin County Drug Abuse Bureau to eliminate the need to send work to San Francisco aboratories. The committee said a fund should be set up for the bureau so it always would have money to make "buys" of drugs. It commended Sheriff Louis P. Mountanos for "carrying out his duties with the utmost efficiency."

BRIDGE DISTRICT — A 1968 bill by Assemblyman William T. Bagley, R-San Rafael, to add elected officials to the board of directors of the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District and to spell out requirements for competitive bidding, probably "will restore confidence" in the district and "alleviate much of the adverse criticism prevalent during the past few years," the grand jury's municipalities, districts and commissions committee reported.

FIRE DEPARTMENT — A county service area should be formed to provide structural fire protection to Santa Venetia, the Civic Center, Rafael Meadows and Los Ranchitos; Bayside Acres and the golf tract either should annex to San Rafael or form a fire district or county service area for structural fire protection.

PUBLIC WORKS —The county's corporation yards at Mill Valley and Greenbrae should be sold because cities around both have expanded, and the yards no longer are needed, the public works committee said.

Austin W. Little of San Rafael, foreman of the grand jury, also suggested in a cover letter that changes be made in the grand jury system "if it is to accomplish the kind of service for which it was established."

The terms of the 19 jurors should be staggered "so that there is a continuing program," he said, and "instructional seminar" for jury members should be held by the presiding judge of the Superior Court. Jurors should be selected at the beginning of January so they can get to work early enough on the county budget, and a paid secretary should be assigned to the jury.

"Like most grand juries, we discover that about the time we have adequate background and constructive ideas, our term of office is completed," said Little.

Unless these improvements are made, he said, the effectiveness of the grand jury system "will steadily decrease."

SESSION

political leader at any level upheld the Constitution, he said. "We have never been under a system of law and order."

The program's first speaker, Mrs. Mary Adebonojo of San Anselmo, history teacher at Dominican College of San Rafael, stressed that black history began long before slaves were brought to the United states.

She told of social organization in West Africa in the 16th Century, noting that there was intellectual and cultural life and opportunity for education there.

The Marin City Community Choir directed by Rev. Fred Small, pastor of the Marin City Church of God, sang several selections, and was joined by the audience in "Lift Every Voice," and the closing "We Shall Overcome."

The Margot Jones Dance Group, a lively group of youngsters, performed several numbers including African and modern soul dances.

Alma Wells and Beverly Barnes were vocal soloists while pianist Wyna Brown and organist George M. Duke provided accompaniment.

Mrs. Beatrice L. Duke, club founder, explained that the purpose of the club is to promote participation of youth in the arts and that scholarships are awarded to high school graduates from Marin City.

There was an exhibit of art works by local artists in the center lounge.

Werber, Friend Plead Innocent To Drug Counts

Entertainment tycoon Frank N. Werber and his friend Judith Anne Sloper appeared in Marin Superior Court today, holding hands, to enter pleas of innocent to charges they possessed and grew marijuana at their DeSilva Island home.

A one week jury trial for the pair and two other defendants was set by Judge Harold J. Haley for the week of June 23.

The other two charged in the case, Bryce Staples Wilson of Kentfield and Frank J. Mathieson of San Anselmo, also pleaded innocent today to marijuana possession.

Customs and narcotics agents arrested the four on Oct. 14 after 258 pounds of marijuana was left in the garage of the Werber home on Richardson Bay by Stanley Mulligan and Charles Barrett, owners of Latitude 38 in Sausalito.

Werber, Barrett and Mulligan also face federal charges of conspiracy to import marijuana.

More School Candidacy Papers Filed

Eleven more persons have filed candidacy papers for school district boards, the Marin County schools office reported today.

They are:

College of Marin: James Eaquinta, San Rafael, no occupation given.

Dixie: Stanley E. Catoire, Marinwood, insurance consultant and Stanley S. Clawson, San Rafael, self-employed manufacturer.

Fairfax: Laurence G. Hermann, Fairfax, incumbent.

Lagunitas: Audrey A. Miller, Woodacre, incumbent, and John H. Stamas, Woodacre, banker. Incumbent Jess D. Janssen of San Geronimo died Saturday (Obituary, page 4) after having filed Friday for reelection.

Reed: Kenneth G. Wells, Belvedere, manufacturing corporation vice president; James B. Richwagen, Tiburon, corporation regional manager and Mrs. Alyce L. Farkas, Corte Madera, incumbent.

Union: Mrs. Eleanor Pomi, Petaluma, incumbent.

No one has filed yet for vacancies in the Bolinas;Stinson, Lincoln and Nicasio districts.

Filing deadline is Thursday for the April 15 election.

the University of Notre Dame, at South Bend, Ind., threw down the gauntlet to "anyone or any group that substitutes force for rational persuasion, be it violent or non-violent."

Anybody who tries to disrupt the normal activities of the university, Father Hesburgh said, "will be given 15 minutes of meditation to cease and desist."

"They will be told that they are, by their actions, going counter to the overwhelming conviction of this community as to what is proper here," he said. "If they do not, within that time period, cease and desist, they will be asked for their identity cards."

Any student whose card is picked up "will be suspended from this (university) community as not understanding what this community is," the Notre Dame president said. He said anybody who doesn't produce an I.D. card will be considered an outsider and charged with trespass.

Notre Dame has been relatively free of student protests. Students skirmished briefly last week with civil authorities who confiscated a movie being shown during a symposium on pornography. The film had been banned by Father Hesburgh. There was no property damage.

At Durham, N.C., Duke University has announced settlement with Negro students of a dispute that touched off campus disorders last week. A university official said the student protestors "didn't win any concessions."

field and a music-arts-shop building which would have a 300-seat theater area.

Improvements under the bond proposal include acquiring additional land at Laurel Dell School, upgrading of classrooms and shop and ground development at Santa Venetia School and modernization of administration space and classrooms at West End School.

Other improvements: Davidson School, field development; Coleman School, site work and field development; Gallinas School, erosion control and landscaping; Hartzell School, field development; Glenwood School, turfed field and sprinkler system.

MacPhail School, fill, develop and drain new field; San Pedro School, ground development; Short School, develop kindergarten yard; Sun Valley School, field development and fencing.

Council Minus Candidates For Three Vacancies

With the deadline for filing only three days away, vacancies on the San Rafael City Council remain without candidates.

Expiring are the terms of Mayor C. Paul Bettini, Councilman Harry A. Barbier and Fred C. Robbins Jr., who was appointed to replace Louis H. Baar when he became a county supervisor.

Two persons have filed for two slots on the San Rafael Board of Education, but one of them has indicated he may decide not to run.

Lawrence I. Kramer, present chairman of the board of education, has filed for re-election, and Paul L. Jones, who was appointed to the school board in 1967 filed, but said he felt he had not been able to devote enough time to the post. "I would be happy to have someone else take the job," he said.

Candidates must file nomination papers signed by not less than five nor more than 10 voters by noon Thursday at the city clerk's office at city hall to qualify for the ballot.

Three Persons Shaken Up In Two Accidents

Three persons received minor injuries in two separate accidents yesterday in Novato, according to Novato police.

Arthur E. Bick and his wife, Susan C. Bick, both 24, of 777 McClary Road, Novato, sufered face and knee cuts when their motorcycle overturned at 12:10 p.m. Bick, the driver, said that they were turning from Highway 101 onto Atherton Avenue when the motorcycle slipped in the gravel.

Both were treated at Novato General Hospital.

Oliver A. Wallace, 56, of 677 Cherry Street, Novato, was treated for a cut nose at Hamilton Air Force Base Hospital, base officials reported.

Wallace was turning from Chase Street onto Cherry Street at 2:50 p.m. when his foot hit the accelerator instead of the brake and his car lurched forward, hitting a wall in front of the home of Mrs. Frances Farrell of 700 Chase Street, police reported.

the black nationalist philosophy of many of the strikers. The tires on his car were recently slashed.

Leaders of both the Black Students Union and Third World Liberation Front were among those in the classroom. Members of the police tactical squad watched from behind curtains in the small auditorium, but did not interfere. Students spotted them and began to shout "pig" and making oinking sounds.

Off campus, the state attorney general's office went to court seeking to have the student government removed from office and its funds placed into the control of a receiver. The suit charged misuse of funds by the Associated Students.

Hayakawa said yesterday's predawn blast was "characteristic of the neo-Fascist methods used by some of the radical elements around here."

The explosion, which could be heard for several miles, shattered 18 windows around the main entrance of the campus administration building and injured a campus policeman.

The bombing was the second in four days at the college and the latest in a series of violent incidents since the BSU called a strike Nov. 6 to back demands for an autonomous black studies program.

Jury Trial Set

Jury trial for Leonard Paul Jason, 41, of San Francisco, accused of stealing a car in Larkspur Nov. 28 was set today to open tomorrow in Marin Superior Court.

OBITUARIES

Rites Set For Mrs. McGlothlin

Funeral for Mrs. Dorothy A. McGlothlin, 63, Fairfax city treasurer, will be at 2 p.m. tomorrow at the Chapel of the Hills, San Anselmo.

Mrs. McGlothlin, widow of Lloyd McGlothlin, died Saturday at a local hospital after a long illness. She had been a senior clerk in the county assessor's office until she became ill.

A native of San Francisco, Mrs. McGlothlin had been a resident of Fairfax for 34 years. She lived at 150 Meernaa Avenue.

The was first elected city treasurer in 1956 and was serving her fourth term. She had been employed by Marin County on a full-time basis since 1952 after serving three years as a part-time worker.

Mrs. McGlothlin also had worked for the Southern Pacific Co. from 1924 through 1932, for the H. P. Garin Co. in San Francisco, 1933-35, and part time for the City of Fairfax, 1947-52.

The was a past president of Fairfax Parlor 225, Native Daughters of the Golden West, a past president of the Ladies Auxiliary of the Fairfax Fire Department, a past president and life member of the Fairfax Central School Parent-Teacher Association and treasurer of the Fairfax Youth Activities Council.

Surviving are a daughter, Mrs. Linda L. Miller of San Jose, and a son, Bruce D. McGlothlin of Chicago, Ill., and nine grandchildren.

Memorial services will be conducted at 8 p.m. today at the Chapel of the Hills by Fairfax Parlor 225, NDGW. Inurnment will be private.

The family prefers memorial contributions to the American Cancer Society.

Sabella Kidnap Hearing Held

Daniel Thomas Stathos and Kenneth Lee Harnal, both 22, were arraigned today in Marin Superior Court on a charge of robbing and kidnaping restaurant owner Luciano A. Sabella on Nov. 24.

Stathos is also charged with the Oct. 28 robbery of the Greenbrae Lanes in Larkspur.

A third defendant in the Sabella case, Walter John Hoefler, 26, pleaded guilty to lesser charges and was sentenced to a prison term to run concurrently with one he received from a robbery conviction in Sonoma County.

Both the defendants are in Marin County Jail in lieu of $50,000 bail each.

Santa Venetian Injured In Wreck

Robert James Stein, 23, of Battery C, 2nd Battalion 531st Artillery, Santa Venetia, suffered a scalp cut when his car veered off Highway 101, about one mile south of the Sonoma County line, at 4:35 p.m. Saturday, according to the California Highway Patrol.

Stein's car went off the roadway into a ditch about four feet deep, officers said. He said he would seek his own medical care and was not hospitalized.

Warrant Issued In Marijuana Case

A bench warrant with bail set at $1,000 was issued today by Judge Joseph G. Wilson for Michael Louis Brandt, 22, of Novato, who failed to appear in Marin Superior Court.

Brandt is accused of possessing marijuana plants at his apartment on Jan. 18, 1968.

WILLARD JANSSEN

Memorial service for Willard D. (Jess) Janssen, long-time Marin County resident and a member of the Lagunitas school board, will be held at 3 p.m. tomorrow at the San Geronimo Community Presbyterian Church, Sir Francis Drake Boulevard and Nicasio Road.

Janssen, 43, died Saturday of a heart attack. He lived at 125 Meadow Way in San Geronimo.

A native of Nebraska, Janssen spent most of his life in California, the last 15 years in Marin County where he was a general contractor. He served in the U.S. Navy during World War II.

Janssen is survived by his wife, Jacqueline, of San Geronimo; three sons, Lawrence of Portland, Ore.; Martin, on leave from the Army in Vietnam, and Jess D. of the family home; his parents, Mr. and Mrs. Martin Janssen of Colma; three brothers, Llewellyn, of Fairfield, Vaughn, of San Francisco, and Leon, of San Carlos, and a sister, Glea Ann Janssen of Colma.

The family prefers contributions to the Heart Fund.

WILLIAM MORGANTINI

Requiem Mass for William Morgantini, 55, of Sonoma, formerly of San Rafael, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Francis Solano Church in Sonoma with burial in the church cemetery.

Morgantini died Saturday in a Santa Rosa hospital following a long illness.

Morgantini grew up in San Rafael and operated a restaurant in Marin until moving to Sonoma 19 years ago. For the past 19 years, he owned and operated the Sonoma Grove Restaurant in Sonoma.

He was a member of the native Sons of the Golden West, Sonoma Parlor, and the Elks Lodge in Sonoma.

Survivors are his wife, Dorothy Morgantini; two sons, Bill Morgantini of Glen Ellen and Robert Morgantini of Sonoma; and a grandson.

Rosary will be recited at 7:30 p.m. today at Duggan's Mission Chapel, Sonoma.

MRS. GAREISS

Requiem Mass for Mrs. Lillian M. Gareiss, 74, of 1000 C Street, San Rafael, will be offered at 9:30 a.m. tomorrow at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael. Burial will be in Golden Gate National Cemetery.

Mrs. Gareiss died Friday after a fall at a local convalescent hospital. Deputy Coroner Richard W. Madigan said Mrs. Gareiss died of natural causes.

A native of New York, she had been a resident of Marin for 20 years. She was the widow of Frank C. Gareiss.

She is survived by a sister, Mrs. Florence Mauderer of Boca Raton, Fla.

Rosary will be recited at 8 p.m. today at the Keaton Mortuary, San Rafael. Memorial contributions may be made to the donor's favorite charity.

Four Youths Are Nabbed In Marijuana Probe

Four Marin youths were arrested by Tiburon police yesterday on suspicion of marijuana possession after neighbors complained of a loud party in the teen-agers' Hilarita Housing Development apartment at 2:30 a.m.

John Randolph Arbuckle, 18, and Stephen John Papas, 18, both of apartment J56, Hilarita, and Reade Backer, 18, of no known address, were held on suspicion of marijuana possession, maintaining a place for smoking marijuana and contributing to the delinquency of a minor.

The minor, a 17-year-old Kentfield boy, was booked into Marin County Juvenile Hall for investigation of marijuana possession and curfew violations.

Arbuckle and Papas were held in Marin County Jail in lieu of $625 bail and Backer was released to the custody of his parents. The three were to appear at 2 p.m. today in Marin Municipal Court for arraignment.

State Charges Kirby Company With Fraud

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state attorney general accused the makers and sellers of Kirby vacuum cleaners of fraud today and filed a $2 million-plus law suit to "end this swindle throughout the state."

The civil suit, filed in Sacramento Superior Court, is against the Scott & Fetzer Co. of Cleveland, Ohio and its 89 California distributors of Kirby vacuum cleaners.

The firm and its salesmen were accused of using fraudulent sales talks to sell the cleaners.

"This vacuum cleaner operation has been one of the most persistent problems in the consumer fraud area," Atty. Gen. Thomas C. Lynch said in a prepared statement. "We hope that this action will end this swindle throughout the state."

The suit seeks $2 million in damages and civil penalties of $2,500 for each alleged false sales representation made during the past year.

Lynch also asked the court "to enjoin the defendants from further fraudulent activities."

The suit contends that the Cleveland firm directed the "malicious, oppressive and fraudulent" selling practices of Kirby cleaners in California.

A spokesman for the attorney general's office said an investigation had been going on "for some time" in Los Angeles, San Francisco, San Mateo, Sacramento and several other counties.

In the suit, the attorney general said the firm and its representatives made these misleading statements to customers:

Told them they had been selected as a winner in a $1,000 contest "when there is no contest."

Claimed salesmen were "demonstrators" and not salesmen.

Claimed salesmen were competing against each other in sales contests.

Sold used machines as new machines.

Advertised Kirby cleaners at very low prices "which they did not intend to honor."

The suit further said the manufacturer furnishes its outlets "with manuals instructing the distributors in these misleading sales practices."

Heart Patient's Progress Normal

STANFORD (AP) — Stanford University Hospital's latest heart transplant, patient 55-year-old insurance broker Douglas Allan Sr. of Menlo Park was reported recovering normally early today — more than 24 hours after surgery was completed.

Allan's new heart came from an anonymous donor who died at noon Saturday of a brain injury.

Dr. Norman Shumway headed the surgical team which performed the 12th such transplant at the hospital, one patient having received two new hearts.

A hospital spokesman said Allan was in satisfactory condition and making usual progress.

Five Stanford heart transplant recipients are living.

Marin Rates High At Model U.N.

Three Marin high schools rated among the top 10 at the Model United Nations held at the University of California at Berkeley Thursday through Saturday.

Selected from among high schools from throughout Northern California were San Rafael, Terra Linda and Sir Francis Drake high schools.

San Rafael High School, attending the Model U.N. for the first time, represented the West African nation of Sierra Leone and focused its efforts on humanitarianism, according to the delegation's adviser Virginia Franklin.

A resolution offered by the San Rafael delegation was among those accepted by the general assembly. It called for technical and humanitarian aid to victims on both sides of the Biafran-Nigerian war, Mrs. Franklin said.

Delegates from San Rafael were Steve Bacon, chairman, Jeff Godwin, Jon Marlowe, Reagon Wilson and Lee Harris.

Terra Linda High School represented Japan in the Model U.N. Delegates were Ken Downs, chairman, Victor Klebanoff, Robyn Goff, Janice Grau, Kathy Madden and Andy Bollen. Albert Gautraud was adviser to the Terra Linda group.

Drake High School's delegation represented Haiti.

Delegates were George Gray, chairman, Michael Herndon, John Cherry, Annette Lareau, Larry Kirkendall, Dan Schwab, Richmond Young, Deborah Celle, Harvey Wasserman. Faculty adviser was Keith Lesser.

Double-Faced Signs Policy Cleared Up

The size of a double-faced free-standing sign should be calculated on the measurement of one side only, Marin County Planning commissioners decided tentatively today.

The decision was made as the planning commissioners launched into the tedious job of pouring through a lengthy new ordinance on signs paragraph-by-paragraph.

At present, a double-faced sign is calculated as double the size of the structure. For example, if a sign is 12 square feet on one side, it would be a 24-square foot sign if the other side also carries a message.

"Why penalize a double-faced sign?" asked Commissioner Walter F. Freitas. "You see only one side at a time."

Commissioner Niels Schultz Jr. agreed.

Chairman Hugh Dougherty asked the planning director to draft wording in the new sign ordinance that would change the method of calculating a double-faced sign.

Ben R. Farlatti, spokesman for the Marin County Chamber of Commerce and Visitors Bureau, argued that larger signs should be allowed for apartments and similar uses.

The new ordinance would allow a six-foot sign for apartments, 12-foot signs for cemeteries, country clubs, dog kennels, golf courses, riding academies, tennis courts and similar uses. Thirty-six foot signs would be allowed for institutions of an educational, religious, charitable or civic nature; hospitals, rest homes and similar uses.

Farlatti argued that free-standing signs should be allowed for the above uses. He also declared he would settle for 24-foot sign for all of them, instead of 12 for some and 36 for others.

Planning commissioners decided that free-standing signs should be permitted, but the size was still unresolved at the time commissioners took the mid-morning coffee break.

Gun Threat Is Reported After Driving Incident

Petaluma police have reported that a young man threatened a Petaluma resident with a gun after a driving incident on Highway 101 late Friday night.

James Filshie of 1141 Ramona Lane, told police he left Highway 101 at the Washington Street interchange around midnight Friday and pulled into the parking lot of the Petaluma Inn on South McDowell Boulevard.

Filshie said a car parked beside him and the driver began an argument, saying Filshie had cut in front of him on the freeway. As the argument grew heated, Filshie was getting out of his car when the other man drew a handgun from the car seat and waved it at him.

He said when he reached into the car to grab the gun the man drove away and was last seen heading south on Lakeville Highway. Filshie said the man was betwee 18 and 26 years old and driving a white 1956 Chevrolet.

Former FBI Agent Refuses To Answer Plot Question

NEW ORLEANS (AP) — The Justice Department was thrust into Clay Shaw's conspiracy trial today when a witness, a former FBI agent, refused to say when he started working on the investigation of President John F. Kennedy's assassination.

"I think that question is outside the purview of the authority granted me," said Regis L. Kennedy when asked if he had been engaged in the assassination investigation from the start.

Kennedy said he was authorized to testify about his investigation regarding Dean Andrews, a one-time Jefferson Parish assistant district attorney convicted of perjury during Dist. Atty. Jim Garrison's two-year assassination probe.

James L. Alcock, head of the prosecution in Shaw's trial, said that question and several others were referred to the Justice Department in Washington during a long telephone conversation.

For the first time during the nine days of testimony, Garrison took a direct hand in the questioning handling the interrogation of William E. Newman Jr., a Dallas electrical contractor. Newman testfied he was in Dallas' Dealey Plaza when the President was shot Nov. 22, 1963—and that the shots appeared to come from behind him, from the so-called grassy knoll area.

The retired FBI agent, a big white-haired man, was called to the stand after Newman. Kennedy said he went to a hospital to interview Andrews on Nov. 25, 1963, after getting a telephone call from him.

A recess was called when Kennedy balked at this question from Alcock: "Prior to interviewing Dean Andrews, were you personally engaged in the investigation of President Kennedy's assassination?"

The trial, beset by sickness and Mardi Gras, lagged behind schedule today. The prosecution abruptly delayed calling former Texas Gov. John Connally and his wife—and left it uncertain whether they would testify at all.

Anvil Stolen

A 75-pound anvil was stolen from the driveway of Ernie Pierard of 26 Belle Avenue, San Anselmo, Pierard reported to police yesterday.

Three Juveniles Booked On Drugs

Three juveniles from the preplacement center at Marin Juvenile Hall Saturday night were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of possession of marijuana and booked into Juvenile Hall, Novato police reported.

The three were jaywalking at 10:15 p.m. on Novato Boulevard near Tamalpais Avenue when police stopped them. One of them dropped cigarette papers which smelled of marijuana, according to police. At the police station, another dropped a plastic bag with two cigarettes of a substance thought to be marijuana, police reported. As they would not admit who owned the cigarettes, police cited all three.

DRAMA REVIEW

'Buck White' Alive With Today's Issues

By KARL BARRON

SAN FRANCISCO — "Big Time Buck White" was born in the ghetto of Watts, moved on to New York to be hailed as a savage attack on the white man, and is now being presented at the Committee Theater, 836 Montgomery Street, as an exciting and sometimes violent musical.

A good portion of its savagery has disappeared, for a number reasons. For one thing, composer Oscar Brown, Jr., strives to mightily for rhymes instead of following the lead of today's popular music writers and allowing words to tell a story without traditional verse.

Also, the tendency of the rowdy gang on stage to break into song sets up a Brechtian type of alienation, always reminding us that we are in a theater, and thus keeping us from full involvement.

The play is similar to the revolutionary classic, "Waiting For Lefty" except that Lefty never arrived and Big Time, a black power leader does. While waiting for his arrival, his henchmen, members of BAD (Beautiful Alleuiah Days) a "poverty gig" surviving on federal funds. The henchmen are a group of typical opportunists, ready to change their vote for a buck.

During the play's first half these characters squabble, gossip and continually caricature the white man's stereotype of the black. Interjected are such barbs as "We're gonna put you on the white list!."

In the second half, Big Time arrives and the play becomes serious with Big Time revealing that he is the one member of BAD, who is truly sincere in his desire for complete black freedom.

Big Time's dialogue makes it plain the seriousness of his intent. Thus Whitey in the audience becomes uncomfortably aware of his part in the evening's proceedings and from then on is never allowed to forget who he is.

Questions from the audience are invited, but the performance I saw only brought forth the planted ones. There were no spontaneous questions, which could change the whole feeling of the show by challenging the actors to uphold their thesis against white attack.

Staged by Brown and Jean Pace, the show moves at top speed, with half a dozen highly talented performers keeping it that way. Brown's music is good, aside from my objection to the rhyming attempts. Several numbers are outstanding. "Money, Money," "Chains," and "That's All Over Now" are all combinations of exciting melody and meaningful words.

In the latter song, Big Black, the conga drummer who plays Buck White, sings "We don't care no more/And we don't scare no more/We're not turnin' back!" With glasses and a fez, Big Black uses his full voice and drumming ability to project a larger than life character who is tender, yet implacable.

Ted Lange, seen with the New Shakespeare Co. as Romeo, comes on as the funniest thing we've seen in a long time with his ingratiating study of Weasel, the little man with big money in his jeans. He also dances with delightful abandon. Backing up his comedic talent are Herschel Burton as the faggot, the Hunter, Bill Parish as Jive and James Garrison as Honey Man.

Anthony Williams, with ACT last season, is magnificently tense as Rubber Band, moving with the sinuous grace of a leather-clad panther. Miss Pace's costumes are colorfully correct.

Phil Moore III at the organ and percussionist Andre Fischer are on top of the action throughout, sparking Brown's music.

"Big Time Buck White" is a great evening of theater, but unless it is presented to audiences of antagonists, I doubt it will do much to change the world. It is being presented Tuesday through Friday at 8:30 p.m. Saturday at 7 and 10:30 p.m. and Sunday at 4 p.m.

GEORGE J. CORLETT
Wins National Honor

Cadet Gets Top Honors As Officer

Corlett, of Boise, Idaho, is a cadet lieutenant colonel and commander of the Corps of Cadets. He was presented the award by retired Maj. Gen. Daniel H. Hudelson at a parade in his honor at the school.

The academy also announced the promotions of these cadets:

Stuart Good, son of Mr. and Mrs. L. Howard Good, 243 Poplar Drive, Kentfield, and Tom Herold, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clarence R. Herold, 26 Broadmoor Avenue, San Anselmp to lieutenant; Steven Appleby, son of Mr. and Mrs. James L. Appleby, 51 McNear Drive, San Rafael, to first sergeant; David Marshall, son of Mr. and Mrs. Thomas C. Marshall, 1 Orchard Way, Kentfield, to sergeant first class; Dean Edouarde, son of Mr. and Mrs. William Edouarde, 9 Santa Lucia Place, Tiburon, to sergeant, and Charles Kilian, son of M/Sgt. and Mrs. Charles J. Kilian, 30 Grande Vista, Novato, to corporal.

Attorney Drafts Charter Ballot

City Atty. David Menary Jr. will present necessary resolutions to the San Rafael City Council 8 p.m. today at city hall for placing charter changes on the ballot for the April 15 election.

The first four charter amendments A, B, C, and D, would make the offices of city clerk, city attorney, chief of police and city treasurer appointive rather than elective.

The council will also discuss the acquisition of property for $2,500 at 2nd and Irwin streets for a pumping station site.

MUSIC REVIEW

By MAYBELLE SPECKMANN

A program of technically challenging works in three very different styles was beautifully performed yesterday by the Marin Arts Quartet and guest artist in the second concert of its current series at the Outdoor Art Club in Mill Valley.

The unusual feature of this concert was that string bassist Carl Modell joined the quartet — violinists Charles Meacham and Michael Erling, violinist Elizabeth Bell and cellist Jean Mitchell — in two quintets. This was something new for most chamber music lovers, since not much chamber music includes the string bass.

The treee works performed were the Quintet No. 2 for String Quarter and String Bass in contemporary idiom by Milhaud; Quarter in D Minor, Opus 76, No. 2, by Haydn, a masterpiece of classical style, and Dvorak's scintillating Quintet in G Major, Opus 77 that glows with romantic fervor, though it has structural solidity.

Of the three works the most nearly perfect realization for me was the Haydn quartet, from the composer's period of supreme mastery, in which all four voices were smoothly functioning in close rapport.

A change in the usual seating of the two low voices was somewhat puzzling. The viola in previous concerts has been in the chair to the right in front of the cello, and this I felt was good since the viola does not have a strong sonority as the cello and Miss Bell is not of extroverted temperament insistent on full equality for the viola.

In the quintets, the cello in front may have served the purpose of avoiding too close duplication of low sound with the string bass, especially in the Dvorak quintet.

In the opening Milhaud quintet, I was very much aware of the leadership of Meacham's first violin, perhaps because the work is written with a more memorable line for it, with the other voices taking off independently in many different dissonant directions. The purpose of the string bass seemed to be more to emphasize the rhythmic beat, as it does in popular music, than participation musically, as it did in the Dvorak quintet.

Except for the final movement, I felt that the music was an example of the rather harsh, dry style that is one among widely differing ones Milhaus uses.

While the Dvorak quintet had plenty of animation and sparkle, it was given an intellectually controlled reading rather than one of fiery Slavonic intensity that is another possibility.

Dvorak's lyric gift revealed especially in the poco andante and finale allegro assai was admirably brought out by the lovely cantabile tone of the cello.

Italian Film Star Is Hurt In Auto Crash

ROME (UPI)—Gina Lollobrigida, proclaiming "it is a miracle we are alive," lay in a hospital today with multiple injuries suffered when the Rolls-Royce she was driving skidded yesterday on ice and slammed into a guardrail that kept the car fom plunging 250 feet.

The voluptuous film star broke her left kneecap and suffered cuts and bruises about her body. Doctors said today they would operate on the knee "in a few days."

Miss Lollobrigida, 40, was driving Italian film director Franco Zeffirelli, a photographer and a critic to a soccer match in Florence when her black limousine hit a patch of ice on Italy's Superhighway of the Sun about 60 miles north of Rome.

The Rolls was heavily damaged.

Lack Of Quorum

The Cotati Parks and Recreation Commission did not meet as planned Friday because of lack of a quorum, according to chairman Margurite Hahn.

Youths Booked In Theft Probe

Four Southern California youths were cited to juvenile authorities on suspicion of car theft last night after they were found in a car off Highway 101 in Sausalito, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Booked at Juvenile Hall were Jeffery N. McNorton, 17, of Hollywood, and Steven W. Cole, 16, Jay D. Cook, 15, and Joseph A. Mayers, 16, all of Sun Valley, Los Angeles County.

Three of the boys were found in the car on the Spencer Avenue off-ramp at 8:15 p.m., the highway patrol said, while Cole hid in nearby bushes but surrendered half an hour later.

The car, registered to Floyd V. Smith of Arleta, Los Angeles County, was reported stolen Friday.

Girls Eligible For Livestock Contest

Marin girls in Future Farmers of America and 4-H who are between the ages of 14 to 18 are eligible for the Grand National Junior Livestock Queen contest.

The Junior Grand National will be held March 29 through April 2 at the Cow Palace in San Francisco. Entries, including name and address, should be sent to Queen Contest Manager, Cow Palace, P. O. Box 34206.

Truck Overturns, Injuring Girl, 17

Carol Wells, 17, of 1821 Marion Avenue, Novato, was reported in good condition today at Hillcrest Hospital in Petaluma after she was thrown from a pickup truck which overturned yesterday on the Marshall-Petaluma Road, the California Highway Patrol said.

The hospital did not specify Miss Wells' injuries. The driver of the truck, Lars T. Larsen, 19, of 614 Manuel Drive, Novato, was treated at Hillcrest for scrapes and bruises. The highway patrol said the truck overturned at 4 p.m. on a curve five miles east of Marshall.

Mutiny Sentences Prompt Call For Nixon Review

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — Munity convictions and long sentences at hard labor for three Presidio soldiers have prompted a request that President Nixon "begin an impartial review" of the mutiny trials.

Student body presidents and daily newspaper editors at the University of California at Berkeley and Stanford University urged the review in a telegram yesterday to President Nixon and Defense Secretary Melvin Laird.

The said, "The recent conviction of three men for munity at the Presidio constitutes a far greater crime than any committed by the defendants.

"Similar if not identical convictions seem certain to follow. This gross miscarriage of justice can arouse only contempt and anger among young Americans of all political persuasions."

The telegram followed the Saturday sentencing of Privates Lawrence Reidel, 21, of Medford, Ore. and Louis Osczepinski, 20, of Florida, N.Y. Reidel received 14 years at hard labor and Osczepinski, 16 years.

On Thursday, the first of the 27 men facing mutiny charges for an October sitdown strike to protest conditions at the stockade and the shotgun killing of a fellow prisoner was sentenced. Pvt. Nesrey Sood, 26, of Oakland, drew 15 years at hard labor.

Trials of four more men were scheduled to open today. Among those awaiting court-martial at a later date is Pvt. Keith C. Mather of San Bruno, one of the Marin City Nine who chained themselves to clergymen in an antiwar demonstration last summer at St. Andrew United Presbyterian Church.

Car Is Looted

Mrs. Ethel Anderson reported to Corte Madera police yesterday that someone broke open her car, parked at her home at 83 Pixley Avenue, Apt. 1, and stole two orange and black blankets, some rain clothes, a pillow and a flashlight. Total loss was about $50, she estimated.

STORM-TOSSED OCEAN COMES CALLING

A 6.4 high tide combined with the weekend storm to send the Pacific Ocean lapping at the foundations of homes at Stinson Beach Saturday. Without a boost from storms, there is usually about 20 feet of beach between seaside dwellers and the high tide mark. The skies cleared Saturday night and yesterday was sunny, but today was gray. The forecast is for 30 per cent chance of rain tonight and about a 10 per cent chance tomorrow. (Photo by Doug Smith)

State Agency To Be Revamped

SACRAMENTO (AP) — The state Department of Rehabilitation is being reorganized, its director announced yesterday.

Director Robert E. Howard said the aim is to provide better services to the physically and mentally handicapped persons served by the department.

He said no jobs will be eliminated, but the structure of the department will be altered. One change will be establishment of five regions in the state, with each region providing centralized service to those with all types of handicaps.

The department also is eliminating an administrative arrangement between divisions dealing with the blind, and Howard said the change will benefit the blind.

Department programs for the blind have been the target of controversy in recent years, with blind people picketing the Capitol in protest of what they said was an inadequate program.

Shultz Hopeful Of Labor Checks

WASHINGTON (AP) — Secretary of Labor George Schultz says the Nixon administration hopes to meet the problems of inflation "without any appreciable rise in unemployment."

Schultz said yesterday the administration will concentrate on solving unemployment among the young—especially young Negroes. He noted unemployment of Negro teen-agers in central city areas runs 25-28 per cent.

"Here is an area where particular government programs with the support of private industry can do something," Shultz said.

Shultz appeared on the ABC television-radio program "Issues and Answers."

Coats Taken

Romas A. Killian of Santa Rosa told Mill Valley police that someone took two sportscoats, a sweater and a sports cap, valued at $187, from his car between 8:30 and 10:30 p.m. Friday while it was parked at Sabella's Restaurant.

Club Members Favor More Bay Controls

I-J Special Report

SAN FRANCISCO — An overwhelming majority of Commonwealth Club of California members has balloted in favor of increased regulation over use of San Francisco Bay.

Of those voting in the mail ballot, 3,394 favored greater control, while 154 favored less control than presently provided by the San Francisco Bay Conservation and Development Commission.

On the question of what sort of government agency should regulate the use of the bay and shoreline, 2,696 favored a regional governmental agency, 405 a state agency, 279 wanted local existing jurisdictions, and 138 a federal agency.

The ballot followed a three-year study on the subject by the club's city planning section.

Members also voted, 2-447-892, that it is "essential to the desirability" of the Bay Area as a place to live "to preserve the bay in approximately its present area and shoreline."

BCDC has recommended to the 1969 Legislature that it set up a permanent agency to regulate the bay and its shoreline. BCDC is to go out of existence next fall, but legislation has been introduced to continue its life indefinitely.

The 30th wedding anniversary is traditionally known as the Pearl Anniversary.

At Least 20 Die In Rail Disaster

JOHANNESBURG, South Africa (AP) — A passenger train crowded with African workers became a blazing inferno yesterday when a gasoline tank car jumped the tracks and hit the train. A newsman at the scene estimated 20 persons were killed.

Witnesses said the crash occurred after a freight train and a line of gasoline tank cars collided while being shunted at Langlaagte station about five miles outside Johannesburg. One tanker was derailed, they said, and hit the passenger train.

Physical Abuse Of Children Alarms Panel

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A symposium on "the battered child" has turned the spotlight on thousands of children in this country whose parents physically abuse them, sometimes for years.

Three days of sessions disclosed that each year some 30,000 children are tormented badly enough to require medical attention.

Dr. Sidney J. Sussman, associate professor of pediatrics at Temple Medical School, told the seminar this weekend that children who repeatedly turn up at the doctor's with bone, heart, head and internal injuries and skin lesions are usually the victims of abuse.

"Physical abuse is a chronic condition," he said. "It almost never occurs just once."

Guilty Plea Made On Marijuana Sales

Polka-Dot Dressed Girl Is Identified

LOS ANGELES (AP) — The mysterious girl in the polka-dot dress who was sought after the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy was identified in court today as Valerie Schulte of Santa Barbara.

There was no indication of what her connection, if any, was with Sirhan.

DiPierro had testified on direct examination last Friday that he had noticed Sirhan standing on a tray stacker. Defense attorney Grant B. Cooper asked him on cross-examination today, "What caused you to notice him (Sirhan)?"

A. There was a girl standing in the area.

Q. At that time?

A. It could have been at that time or shortly after.

Q. You observed the girl first, did you?

A. Yes.

Q. You observed the girl because she was a pretty girl, didn't you?

A. Yes.

Then Cooper brought out a statement taken by police from DiPierro on July 1 nearly a month after the shooting in which DiPierro said that he had not seen the girl in the polka-dot dress. By that time the search for the girl had ended.

On the witness stand today DiPierro said he would like to explain.

"As I said, she could have been standing in the area that night," he said. The prosecution then introduced into evidence several pictures of the girl they identified as Valerie Schulte and DiPierro said she was the girl he had seen in the ballroom that night.

Former football star Roosevelt Grier also was expected to testify today. Grier, a 280-pounder who played for the Los Angeles Rams, pounced on the 112-pound Sirhan in the narrow pantry where Kennedy was shot.

Project Leads To Project: Case Study In Mill Valley

We spend money to "modernize," then often have to spend more to correct conditions created by the "modernization."

For instance, trees and shrubbery —the growth of nature or the plantings of our forebears — are removed to make way for a widened road; then extensive and expensive landscaping is necessary to cover up the unsightly denuded area. Or a slum neighborhood is cleared for a "redevelopment" project, and the poor families thus evicted — unable to pay the high rents in the "redevelopment" apartments — crowd into an adjoining slum, making it much worse than it was before and spreading the city's decay.

In Marin, the effects of such "modernization" are most noticeable in drainage problems. Even the newest cities have already been faced with major expenses to correct flooding created because someone, for public good or private profit, diverted natural drainage.

A CURRENT EXAMPLE of added expense following modernization is found in the Dipsea Trail steps in Mill Valley.

The steps have climbed the Mill Valley hillside since memory runneth not. They were installed in the first place up a narrow drainage channel — because it provided the easiest route for climbing the hill. At that time, however, the hillside was so heavily covered with trees, grass and brush that relatively little water ran down the steps.

As homes and streets were built on the hill, the amount of runoff increased. It got its last big boost about three years ago when Marin Municipal Water District installed a large storage tank, on a concrete pad, above Edgewood avenue.

MILL VALLEYANS, and other, had been complaining for several years about the dangerous condition of the steps. So, in 1967, the City of Mill Valley undertook a three-stage rebuilding project. City crews replaced the steps from Cascade Way to Marion Avenue; Albert Bidegain, San Rafael contractor, did those from Marion to Hazel Avenue, on a $6,813 contract.

The third stage, however, from Hazel to Edgewood, presents the biggest job — for on that portion, the steps receive a large volume of water from a gutter along Edgewood which in turn takes water from a large pipe installed by the MMWD to drain its storage tank pad.

City Engineer Stanley M. Bala estimated last month that it would cost $6,800 to provide underground drainage beside the steps to take that water to Hazel Avenue, plus $5,100 to install new steps. Allowing for engineering fees and contingencies, he recommended that $15,000 be budgeted for the job.

THE WATER DISTRICT contends that the steps are in the natural drainage channel, and that it has not disturbed the drainage pattern by diverting water there from its tank pad. But the increase in runoff from the large concrete pad makes it impractical to replace the steps without providing new drainage.

This is typical of what happens when improvements are installed: a water tank, needed to supply Mill Valley homeowners, forces additional drainage expense.

The $6,800 item for draining the steps is a relatively small one. But similar outlays, much more costly, often result from just such "modernization." Nor can they always be foreseen or prevented.

A Court Trend—We Hope

Although the Ralph M. Brown Act says nothing about closed meetings of a public board with its attorney to discuss pending litigation, California attorneys and courts have generally regarded this as permissable "under the attorney-client relationship."

Down in Arkansas, however, the courts take different view. They believe a law means what it says.

The North Little Rock City Council held a closed meeting with the city attorney to discuss an action pending before the Arkansas Public Service Commission. The weekly North Little Rock Times filed suit.

The city officials contended the council had the same right to confer in private with its attorney as does a private citizenship — attorney-client relationship.

Like the Brown Act, Arkansas' open meeting law makes no mention of an exception for attorney-council discussions.

The district court ruled the council was in violation of the law. The city appealed. And now the Arkansas Supreme Court has upheld unanimously the lower court's ruling.

It is pleasant to find a court saying, as did these, that a law means what it says: We hope the practice will spread.

State College Tuition Due To Be Subject Of More Debate

By HENRY C. MacARTHUR

SACRAMENTO (CNS) — Once again, the subject of tuition at the University of California and the California state colleges is to be a matter of debate before the California legislature.

This was one of the prime matters on which Gov. Ronald Reagan campaigned in 1966, on the theory that students should not depend wholly on the taxpayers of California for their college educations but should contribute a fair share of the costs.

The governor was attacked in all parts of the state for this stand, and as yet, the Legislature has not found a satisfactory solution of the tuition problem.

Now Assembly Speaker Robert T. Monagan, R-Tracy, comes up with a measure which he says would raise from $35 million to $37 million annually from tuition fees at the state's institutions of higher learning. Should the Legislature adopt his proposal, it still would require imposition of the fees by the regents of the University of California and trustees of the state colleges.

Monagan proposes in his measure, AB468 that graduated fees be charged, ranging from $24 to $780 per year for students in upper income families. The family income range would start at $10,000 a year, and the maximum fee would be imposed on families with incomes in excess of $45,000.

Funds raised in this manner would be used to meet the increasing costs of higher education in California, both operations and capital outlay.

Monagan's proposed measure is a compromise between a straight tuition fee for everyone, regardless of income, and a system of higher education provided by the taxpayers of the state for all persons alike.

WHAT OUR READERS SAY

Shape Of Future As Now Forming

Your editorial, "Heroes Become Villains as the Years Roll By" was very good. Write another, "Villains Remain Villains, but are Regarded as Heroes."

In 1979 you may write a news item like this: Strike at San Francisco State is settled on the following terms: The trustees and the union have agreed that:

1. All striking faculty members shall be reinstated without penalty and with full pay for the time on strike.
2. No faculty member shall be prosecuted for any act in connection with the strike, with one exception, the teacher who accidentally killed a student with a ball bat may be prosecuted for misdemeanor assault.
3. At future strikes, faculty members may . . . be assisted on the picket line by teachers from other colleges and high schools, students, and interested citizens.
4. Each peaceful picket may be permitted to carry a ball bat or a pick handle.
5. Campus police shall not be used in any manner during a strike. No other police shall be permitted on campus.
6. All academic employees including the president of the college, shall receive the union scale, $1,000 per week.
7. Persons who continued to teach during the strike shall receive no pay for that period and shall be immediately dismissed with the further stipulation that they may not again be employed by any school, college or university in California which receives any of its income from tax sources.
8. The president of the college is dismissed, retroactive to the beginning of the strike.
9. John J. Jones, A.B., instructor in liberal arts, is appointed president. He is to continue as business agent of the union.
10. Negotiations are to begin immediately looking toward the total elimination of grades, thus implementing the inviolable principle that all persons are equal.

Print this now. Print it again in 1979. It will be an understatement.

Editorial Sought For Reference

Your recent editorial dealing with the "sensitivity training" classes was most interesting. Could you please give me the date of this editorial as my husband made off with the newspapers before I had a chance to clip it?

Incidentally, many people with whom I have talked missed this editorial, so if you could see fit to reprint it, it would be most appreciated. Or better yet, perhaps you could give us a new editorial with a few more facts about "sensitivity training" and how widely it is being used in public schools and colleges. From what I understand of it now, I am quite alarmed and only hope and pray the medical profession doesn't demand "medical freedom" to experiment on our bodies the way so-called educators are using "education freedom" to experiment with minds.

Thank you for you great editorials. We in Marin County are extremely lucky to have your writings available to us. Keep up the good work.

Fast Police Work In San Rafael

I should like to take this opportunity to commend Chief of Police Charles Chiesa and the San Rafael Police Department for the outstanding efficiency and service which their officers have rendered to the Peacock Gap Country Club.

On Saturday, Feb. 8, I noticed a suspicious vehicle parked near our maintenance buildings. I drove over to the building and saw a man attempting to hide on the roof. I was able to see the man's face clearly and also obtained the license number of his vehicle.

I telephoned the San Rafael police and at approximately 1:10 p.m. Officer Lee Ahern arrived and forwarded the information I had obtained.

At 2:10 p.m., just one hour later, the man had been picked up and was being held at the police station for identification.

I consider this a wonderful performance, and the efficiency of Officer Ahern and the entire department certainly deserves public recognition.

Again, on Monday morning, Feb. 10, we discovered that the Country Club had been broken into. All the vending machines had been forced open and a new television set stolen.

Officer Arthur Myers responded to our call . . . Before noon Officer Myers telephoned me and reported that two suspects were in custody. At 2:40 p.m. Officer Myers returned the stolen television set to us and the burglars were in jail.

I know of no other law enforcement agency in the country that could have acted as swiftly, efficiently or with such outstanding success.

THE DRUMMONDS

No Fancy Slogan For Nixon As He Depends On Performance

By ROSCOE and GEOFFREY DRUMMOND

WASHINGTON — How do you know who you are if you don't have a name?

Here is this new Nixon administration in power almost a month and it doesn't have one yet.

It's certainly not a Great Society. And it's no New Frontier.

At this stage, the Nixon administration is just the Nixon Administration, nothing more, nothing less — just plain Nixon Administration. There must be a reason. The President doesn't do anything without one.

THERE IS. It's deliberate. Mr. Nixon is not reaching for a Madison Avenue gimmick, for an alluring catch phrase, because he doesn't want one.

It will probably stay that way — and for a purpose.

President Nixon wants a no-nonsense, efficient, do-something administration. Neither he nor his people go for big, high-sounding slogans. They feel that the very sound of them makes people in need think they are going to get more than they really are. And when people don't get what they are led to believe is their due, they get frustrated and blame the government for not making good.

Mr. Nixon's men figure the country has had too much overpromise and plenty of underdeliver.

ONE CAUSE of the distrust by many people of their government is the baffled feeling that comes when large promise goes largely unfulfilled, when hope is raised too high — higher than the reality of attainment can possibly reach.

It isn't that promises of past administrations were unmeant, just unmet, and when limited progress began to come, more — too much — was expected.

The goal of the Nixon administration is to deliver all it believes it can on promises it isn't making. Thus nearly everything it accomplishes will be unexpected. Expectations which arise out of accomplishments are more realistic than those out of promises.

MR. NIXON is lucky. He lost Congress.

His failure to win a congressional majority, which his party has had only four years out of the last 40, is politically embarrassing but it may well turn out to be a hidden asset. It means that the President will be free of all temptation to bury the nation's problems in a slew of new laws and programs.

The political situation is such that the President will have to do what he most wants to do: perform. He aims to take present programs and make them work better. He aims to demonstrate excellence in execution.

NO ONE KNOWS how Mr. Nixon will do over the long pull, but friends, doubters and critics are just about unanimous that he is making a strong and reassuring start. Strong at these points:

An activist beginning: a crucial trip to Europe and a personal tour of the slums in Washington.

An "open presidency": a band of anti-Vietnam protestors were received by the White House without an appointment. They had been refused such a meeting under President Johnson.

A determination to be credible and to restore faith in the word of the government: Mr. Nixon wisely refused to put any time limit on how long it would take to get peace in Vietnam. He candidly agreed with critics that most Negroes do not consider him their friend and said he could win that friendship only by his actions.

Moves toward negotiation, not confrontation, with the Russians, seeking early action in the nonproliferation treaty and asking for wide-ranging political and arms talks with Moscow.

Sometime Mr. Nixon may earn a slogan. If he does, he would like it to be — performer.

INSIDE WASHINGTON

Nixon Putting Russian Intentions To The Test

By ROBERT S. ALLEN and JOHN A. GOLDSMITH

WASHINGTON — With his ambitious foreign policy initiatives, President Nixon is putting the good faith and good intentions of Russian leaders to an early test.

The President is exploring the application of four-power diplomacy in the Middle East. He is going to Europe later this month in what he clearly hopes will serve as prelude for top-level talks with the Kremlin.

President Johnson, on the basis of some small Russian assists, was convinced to the end that Russian leaders sincerely wanted to ease world tensions. Mr. Nixon is now pushing for more graphic illustrations from the Kremlin.

In following this course, Mr. Nixon is exploiting the flexibility available to a new president who is unemcumbered with policy determinations of the past. There are some risks involved, however, and he is well aware of them.

THERE IS, for example, considerable skepticism among experts here about Russia's long-range goals in the Middle East. The experts generally agree that the Kremlin wants to avoid a new shooting war now between the Arabs and the Israelis. Some top authorities doubt, however, that Soviet leaders want to move towards a permanent solution for the problems of the Middle East.

In addition, some officials wonder whether France can play an even-handed four-power role in the Middle East, in view of what they regard as anti-Israel (and even anti-Semitic) attitudes of Gen. Charles de Gaulle.

THERE ARE RISKS, too, in President Nixon's trip to Europe.

Russia is putting heavy pressure on the Romanian government of party chief Nikolai Ceausescu to make that government conform to the Moscow line.

Escalation of tensions in eastern Europe could be an embarassment for the new President and a blow to his plans. A major flare-up in Berlin could have the same effect.

With increasing speculation, here and in Moscow, about possible changes in the Kremlin's top leadership, there is also the chance that the Soviet Union will have a new set of leaders before Mr. Nixon can complete all of his preliminaries and move toward top-level talks with Moscow.

Wimp's Car Buried As Deep As Marin County's Finances

You've heard of skiers stranded in Squaw Valley or Donner Summit because cars skidded off the pavement or got stuck in slush or mud.

But did you ever hear of a skier who got up one morning and found his car disappearing into the snow, with just the top showing?

That was the predicament faced by County Personnel Analyst Charles H. Wimp several weeks ago at Squaw Valley Lodge. He had parked his car on firm snow behind the lodge. But rain fell during the night, the packed snow thawed, and his car sank.

WIMP ANALYZED the situation and left it for the week end, hitching a ride back to Marin. Next week end he headed back with shovel and reinforcements, hoping to dig the car out. But this time, not even the top was showing. He's staked out an area where he thinks his car is resting and marked it with a flag.

"It was a 1965 squareback," says Wimp. "But I don't know whether its going to be square, round or flat if and when I ever get it out."

He faces a dilemma. He can't report to his insurance company for a replacement because the car wasn't destroyed in an accident. Nor is it lost or stolen. It's all right, but held in cold storage about six feet under.

Meanwhile, Wimp is looking for a jalopy to use as transportation until the spring thaw.

THE NEW BOARD of supervisors have vowed to hold the line on the county's basic tax rate at the present $2.27 per $100 assessed valuation, and lower if possible.

If they're going to keep the rate anywhere near $2.27, they'll have to do much more than "hold the line;" they'll have to cut back considerably.

County Auditor Michael Mitchell, who did some preliminary figuring, says the outlook is bleak.

In the first place, the contingency reserve fund will be depleted to almost nothing by the end of this fiscal year in June. In June of 1968, the county had a contingency reserve of $291,000. By supplementing that, the county started in July of 1968 with a contingency reserve of $350,000. That reserve is down to about $100,000 now, and will be gone by June.

This means that a tax rate of 6 cents will be needed just to replenish the contingency reserve to the $300,000 level to start the new fiscal year.

IN THE SECOND place, the carryover fund balance in June of last year was $1.2 million (funds appropriated but not used). This year, the carryover will be down to $500,000, Mitchell estimates. So we start the 1969 fiscal year about $700,000 below last year's level. We'll need 12 cents on the tax rate to make up the difference.

Add the two together and we have an 18-cent handicap to begin with, compared with a year ago. Instead of starting with $2.27 tax rate and trying to hold the line, we start with $2.45.

But this is only the beginning when you consider the various pay raises and fringe benefits requested by the employees association and other bargaining units.

A Story Of The Seminoles, A Tribe That Rules Its Own

It happened about 20 years ago, give or take a little. If you're down in Miami someday with enough time on your hands, you can go to the newspaper morgue and read about it yourself. You'll find it there.

I shall rely on my memory, for I was there then.

It is of a young Seminole Indian girl. Each day I followed the course of her story with the intense interest you give to a powerful and moving novel. This, however, was not fiction but a true, living, breathing drama, one actually taking place at that moment.

SHE WAS YOUNG, this Seminole, young and pretty, and her name was Ocana. Her tribe camped in the everglades just beyond the limits of Miami, and living as close in as she did, she got a job in one of the laundry plants on the city's outer fringe.

Early each morning, she and others of her tribe walked together to their jobs; but of all the Indian girls who came to work, Ocana was the only one who made the unforgiveable and fatal mistake of falling in love — with a white boy who also came to the plant.

While she met with him secretly — for such an association was taboo — it was inevitable that her affair would be discovered. And it was. Ocana became pregnant.

A VIOLATED taboo is always the business of the tribe and she was called before it. Patiently and stoically she waited while the elders deliberated. When the matter was decided, a heavy silence fell over the entire tribe. Beyond the circle of men the women sat, faces bronzed and stolid, eyes black and expressionless. The naked children, knowing in their infant wisdom that a solemn moment was before them, ceased their play and stared open-mouthed and blinking-eyed toward the elders.

In the great hush of the everglades night, the sentence was pronounced. The ancient one stood, and for a long time he looked westward beyond the rim of their camp as if to see across the full 100-mile span of the treacherous swampland. Then slowly he turned to Ocana and spoke the dreaded words:

"Walk west!"

FOR AN INSTANT the sonorous sound of his voice hung in the still air, then raced across the flat swamp country making the sawgrass tremble, the diamondback rattlesnake to clatter nervously and the giant bull alligator to slip noiselessly down into his submerged sanctuary.

The day and hour was set. But before her sentence was carried out, the news reached Miami and an angry cry of protest rose. Groups formed quickly, their spokesmen heatedly demanding aid be sent to the young girl. The newspapers featured the story across their front pages, both the Miami Herald and the Daily News giving it extended coverage.

As the day of execution approached, the crescendo of voices suddenly gave way to the commissioner of Indian affairs of the state, who up to that moment had remained silent.

THE SEMINOLES, he told them, belonged to the Seminoles. They were their own people. We had no business interfering and must not. This was a matter that belonged to the tribe.

And that was that.

The awesome sentence would not be stayed. The sullen, Stygian everglades was there ready to carry out its promise.

Early on the morning of that appointed day and at that appointed hour, the young and swollen Seminole girl, Ocana, left her tribe and walked west.

Alabama Sells Coins For Anniversary

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (UPI) —Alabama has minted a set of five coins commemorating its 150th anniversary of statehood. The coins sell for $3 a set in nickel silver and $60 a set in sterling silver.

One side of the souvenir coins carries the sesquicentennial seal and the other depicts a design noting a significant era in the state's history.

Steam Buses Grant Is Given

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Assemblyman John F. Foran, D-San Francisco, announced yesterday an award of a $450,000 federal grant for testing steam-powered buses in the San Francisco Bay Area.

Foran, chairman of the Assembly Transportation and Commerce Committee, predicted the steam buses would be odorless and smog free.

Steam engines are to be placed in four buses—two to be tested by the San Francisco Municipal Railway and two by the AC Transit Co. in Alameda and Contra Costa counties.

Foran said the "steam engine will be cheaper, lighter, require less maintanance and is virtually noiseless."

Junior College Plan Proposed

WASHINGTON (AP) — A bill to spur the development of community colleges across the nation was proposed today by Sen. Harrison A. Williams Jr., D-N.J.

The measure would create a Federal Bureau of Community Education and provide funds for the development and implementation of state plans for two-year colleges.

Williams, a member of the Senate education subcommittee, said in a statement community college enrollments have increased 15 per cent each year since 1960.

COED WEEK

University Hosts All-Girl Workshop

By HOLLY SIMS

EDITOR'S NOTE—This past week was coed week at Princeton — experimentally, that is. Among 700 girls who took part was Holly Sims, regularly a sophomore at Wheaton College. Here she describes the experience of a week among Princeton University's males.

PRINCETON, N.J. (AP)—"Princeton coeducation week is one big stage show," a Barnard College sophomore said happily," and the boys are watching it like a spectator sport."

The boys, who were supposed to be the spectators, seemed generally more restrained as to the effect of a weeklong feminine touch on this Ivy League masculine stronghold.

"More like a weekend than a stage show," said one Princetonian, "only longer and drier than usual.

To many coeds, however, the most striking impression from the experiment, which ended Friday, was the ease with which their miniskirts and stockings were absorbed by the Princeton landscape.

Some girls found dates, but the majority found only whistles. Most Princetonians went studiously about their classes or peopled the libraries by night as usual, thereby earning the label of "hostiles" from some ephemeral coeds.

"A lot of girls came looking for dates and have been disappointed," said a visitor from Briarcliff. "They expected to fall in love and be invited back every weekend. I feel sorry for them, because the boys are callous about it."

One Princeton student theorized that politics had crept into the selection of the 700 coeds from more than 2,500 who applied from 30 eastern colleges.

"I see some of the same couples holding hands in midweek that I have been seeing on weekends," he observed. "It must be a great opportunity to have your girl come for a whole week for only ten bucks."

Most of the girls attended full class schedules, but talking in the classroom generally was left to the men. Emerging from a lecture class swollen to nearly 1,000 by addition of 200 visitors, one coed said, "I'm used to small classes where you can say, 'Sir, will you please repeat that' when your mind wanders. I'd never dare do that at Princeton."

The professors generally ignored the presence of the coeds, the experiment being strictly the project of Princeton students rather than a formal university experiment.

One professor muttered as several girls straggled into his classroom, "Well, we have now reached our original enrollment."

Princeton students made room for the girls by moving out of their dormitories or, in some cases, simply to other floors. Bathrooms were designated male, female and, in at least one case, neuter.

"There were boys in there, so we all just brushed our teeth," said a girl emerging from the neuter bathroom. "It was fun."

A few girls grumbled about their spartan quarters, but in general the dorm sharing arrangement worked satisfactorily. The major conflict was between students who wished to study or sleep and those who preferred to socialize.

"Mount Holyoke must be a cemetery," grumbled one Princeton sophomore. "The girls upstairs went to bed at 10 o'clock but complained they couldn't sleep because of our party."

Leon Michel, a Princeton sophomore, said the week hadn't been long enough to tell whether girls should be accepted as a permanent part of the campus scene at Princeton.

"A week is barely long enough for people to drop their weekend faces and really communicate," he said. "The pseudocoeds were too much of a phenomenon to form the basis of judgment. Ask almost anyone around here now, though, and he'll tell you the week has only shown how much we are missing the rest of the year."

'Give Him A Closet For Mail'

One of a series of interviews with wives of Marin County mayors.

By GRACE HENDERSON

What would you do if you were the wife of a prominent mayor of a Marin County town? Would you be deluged with mail and telephone calls you didn't know what to do with? What about the reams of correspondence coming into the house?

"Just give him a closet for all his mail," said Mrs. Alfred J. Malvino (Rose) of Larkspur. She then explained the Malvino procedure for handling correspondence each day. It is stacked by the kitchen sink — like it has been for 27 years now — and His Honor sorts through it as his first task on arriving home each evening. He is the owner of a furniture store in San Francisco and arrives at their 15-year residence on a typical suburban street by 6:30 p.m.

Why did Mr. Malvino run for the Larkspur city council which led to his being elected mayor? "The interest of the town was there and this is where he lives," was his wife's answer.

ROSE MALVINO, in what was her first interview ever, thought surely there was some mistake in the message that said someone from the Independent-Journal wanted to talk with her. "They must mean my husband," she told of responding.

Rose is the daughter of a couple who for 30 years had a summer place in Woodacre and would spend weekends there. She remembers taking the ferry boat to Sausalito from San Francisco, then a train to Woodacre. In fact, she said, the train ran through the section of Larkspur where her house now stands. Her parents were charter members of the Woodacre Improvement Club.

How does the role of a mayor's wife affect the life of Mrs. Malvino. "You can't get too involved with people's problems, I generally tell them when he will be home and he can return their call," she commented.

MRS. ALFRED MALVINO of Larkspur takes a moment to reflect on her role as wife of the town mayor as her daughter's poodle, Fran, poses for the photographer. The Malvinos have been Larkspur residents the past 15 years, since moving from San Francisco to their home on Dartmouth Drive. (Independent-Journal photo by Jim Kean)

Their home has seen much activity since it was built and the couple moved their family to Marin from San Francisco. Daughter Paula Rita, 21, will be graduating soon from Samuel Merritt Nursing School in Oakland; son, Steven Alfred, 16, is a junior at Redwood High School; and nephew, Joseph Smith, a student at College of Marin, is living with the family this year.

THE MALVINOS are members of the Redwood Bench Warmers Club and are faithful with their support. They are in charge of the group's booth for football and basketball games. They attend all games in which their son plays and as many as possible at COM for their nephew. Rose's principle hobby at home is cooking and she professes a fondness for Italian cooking. "It takes lots of time for Italian dishes," she explained and elaborated by telling of perparation that must be done prior to ball games so that the family may eat quickly on their return.

Mr. Malvino's brother, Louis Malvino, and his family also live in Larkspur, "just across the way," said Rose.

WHEN SHE BECAME Mrs. Malvino, Rose said she was aware of her husband's interest in organization work, and that being mayor was just an extended part of his interest. "He was a member of the Native Sons of Italy, the Boys Club in San Francisco, and active in other work. I was used to his going to meetings prior to going on the city council," she concluded.

"What advice would you give a new bride for getting along with her husband," we asked. "Whatever makes him happy," was her quick response. She clarified her statement by saying some husbands need outside interest in community work. "They're happier persons if they are doing something they really like to do," and her answer spoke more than she could know of the respect she has for her husband.

Frozen Desserts

More sugar and other flavoring agents are needed in frozen desserts than chilled ones because the lower temperatures tend to numb your taste buds. Sugar also improves the texture of frozen desserts, lowers their freezing points and hinders formation of large ice or lactose crystals.

Doesn't Everyone Believe In Ghosts?

By GAY PAULEY

NEW YORK (UPI)—They've happened to us all. The knowing who will be on the phone before you answer it. Having a premonition something terrible is going to happen at the exact time it actually does happen to someone else. The feeling that you've been there before, lived this experience right down to the last detail before.

What causes these phenomena and the others that you can't explain? Scientists and others interested in the subject are doing much delving and experimenting. And a woman author who's done research on everything from ghosts to ESP (extra-sensory perception) hazards some guesses on why man is so interested in the subconscious, the supernatural, is fascinated with the occult.

"A lot of it, I think ,is man's longing for immortality," says Mrs. Florence Engel Randall, "the longing for something more spiritual in this scientific age. People are so tired of the constant turmoil...man versus man, generation versus generation, black versus white."

Mrs. Randall is more investigator than confirmed believer, however — "I am not the type to go to a seance with a wide open mouth." Yet she admits, "there are things I can't explain...you can't explain. There must be a sixth sense. I remember the morning my father-in-law died suddenly. I woke with a start at 5:45. I asked myself what had awakened me...the phone hadn't rung. When it did, it was with the bad news.

"Spiritualists will tell you that when a spirit passes, there is this great burst of psychic energy affecting us."

"I'm a skeptic," Mrs. Randall continues, "and we all know there are charlatans who claim to contact the deceased, to penetrate the unknown. But you take a group of any 10 people and you'll find one who's had a strange experience he can't explain. Look at Bishop Pike, communicating with his dead son."

What got Mrs. Randall into researching the supernatural was her new novel, "The Place of Sapphires" (Harcourt, Brace & World) in which one of the character is a ghost.

"You can't just open the door and have a ghost walk in," she said, in explanation of why she researched throughly. "I took so many books on the supernatural out of the public library, I thought the librarian might think it strange.

"One day I mentioned this to her and she said, 'Oh, I don't think anything about it. I believe in ghosts.'"

To live in an age in which we demand that everything have a logic, an explanation, "takes some of the magic out of living," she says. "We aren't permitted to have miracles today."

Peninsula Debutante Ball Includes San Domenico Student

By MOLLY MARIN

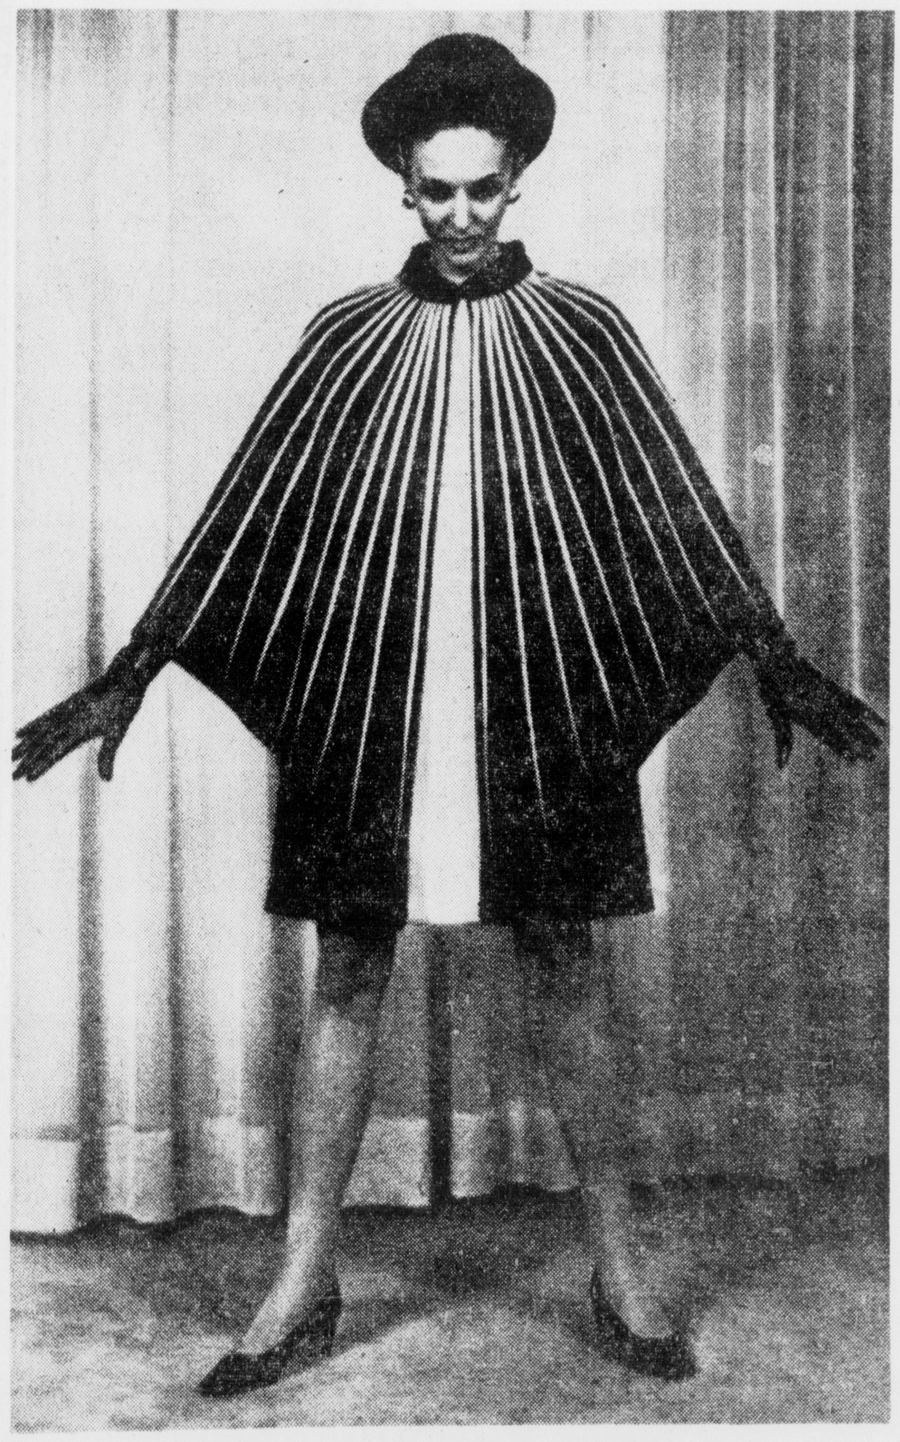
Elisabeth Winter, who attends San Domenico School, is among the debutantes who will bow at the Peninsula Debutante Ball Aug. 23. She is the daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Frank C. Winter of Atherton.

THE TREASURE ROOM of the Fleet Admiral Nimitz Club on Treasure Island was the setting for the cocktail party given by Dr. and Mrs. Charles Galt of Marin Country Club Estates Saturday night. They invited some 100 guests from North Marin, San Francisco and Portland to the gathering.

MRS. JAMES Atkin, president of St. Stephens Guild, will honor Senora Elena Zelayeta at a luncheon at her home in Belvedere on Feb. 25. The honored guest will give a talk and cooking demonstration for the guild that afternoon.

INTERNATIONALLY KNOWN skier Jean-Claude Killy attended the "Valentine Trip Out" party given Friday night by Mr. and Mrs. Jan L. Farnsworth of Ross and Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lysagt of Tiburon at the Lysagts' home.

Guests were instructed how to dress for the dinner party with the attire ranging from tuxedos to mod fashions. Among the 120 guests were French skiers Claude Beaudiuin and Jean Pierre La Brat and local skiers and tennis players Messrs. Richard Massey, Herb Clark, Ray Turski and Dick Crawford of Tiburon; Bronte Reynolds of San Rafael; Alan Davis of San Francisco; Dr. Steve Walsh of Sausalito; and Mr. and Mrs. Walter Zelinsky of Tiburon.



DRAMATIC FOR SPRING

This cape and dress combination was presented at the spring and summer style show by the Heinz fashion house of Rome. It's done in navy blue wool with apricot stripes over an apricot wool dress. Hat and shoes are also designed by Heinz. (AP Wirephoto)

HELEN HELP US!

By HELEN BOTTEL

Vietnam War Prisoners' Wives Seek Help From General Public

DEAR HELEN:

Four years ago she was a bride, tearfully kissing her husband goodbye as he left for Vietnam. She has not seen him since. She doesn't even know whether he is tortured or safe, sick or well — alive or dead. She only knows that his plane went down in North Vietnam, and others of his crew were captured as prisoners of war. She hopes and prays — but she never hears. In four years she has received no word.

She is one of over 800 wives . . mothers . . . families, who live in a nightmare of fear. North Vietnam has never released the number nor a complete list of the Americans it is holding prisoner. North Vietnam has refused to abide by the Geneva Conventions which it signed, concerning the rights of prisoners of war. Very few families have heard from their husbands or sons. It is as if these young men have been swallowed up. The few who get letters out can say nothing except "I am alive." And these letters are pitifully scarce, perhaps one in two years, sometimes written six months before delivery. Can you imagine the agony suffered by those who wait at home?

I can, as our son is a prisoner of war in North Vietnam. We, at least, know that he is alive; his wife has a treasured letter. It keeps our hopes high, and it makes us doubly sad for all those who don't know. . . .

For this reason I'm asking your help, Helen. Won't you please print the following message:

"TO ALL AMERICANS:

"Our daughter-in-law, as a member of 'The League of Wives of American Vietnam Prisoners of War,' is publicly requesting that our government work harder in securing the rights and release of these Americans. These devoted wives are asking that all interested Americans help by sending telegrams or letters to Washington. The Geneva Conventions should be honored. Our government should demand this of North Vietnam.

"Please ask your friends to help by sending their own personal messages. Write your President, your Congressman, your Senators, your Governor The prisoner of war situation must be kept uppermost in the minds of our leaders.

"This is the first time these courageous young women have asked us to support them. As a mother personally involved I will be most grateful if your messages are sent."—Mother of a Prisoner of War

DEAR MOTHER:

May your touching letter bring support from all America! And may the prisoners of war — and all our servicemen — be home soon!

NOTE TO READERS:

Send your letters and telegrams to

The Hon. Henry Cabot Lodge,
c/o The State Department,
Washington, D.C.

as well as to President Richard M. Nixon, the White House, Washington, D.C. and to your Congressman.—H.

Use Of Tube Tells Soul Says Doctor

BASLE, SWITZERLAND (WMMS) — "The use of color gives an X-ray picture of the soul," according to Dr. Max Leuscher of the Institute of Psycho-Diagnostic Medicine.

Dr. Leuscher said you reveal yourself when you adjust your color television set so as to play up one color more than another. If you heighten the red tones, you exhibit self-confidence and physical vitality, he said. If you mute them, you're probably self-effacing. Intensifying the blue indicates tranquility and impassivity. Turning up the yellow shows an optimistic personality. Preferring violet indicates neuroticism.

In other words, when adjusting the color TV set leads to family squabbles, there's no point in blaming color blindness or color insensitivity. It's a clash of personalities.

MR. AND MRS. TERRY TADLOCK
(Photo Shop photo)

San Jose Is Home For Mr. And Mrs. Tadlock

Nancy Anne Davis, the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. William R. Davis of San Anselmo became the bride of Terry Guy Tadlock of San Jose Feb. 8 in a ceremony at the First Presbyterian Church in San Anselmo.

Mrs. Bradley Busch of San Anselmo served as her sister's matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Jeanne Davis, another sister and student at University of California; Marla Tadlock of Bellevue, Wash., the bridegroom's sister; and Mrs. Thomas Biescheuvel of Cupertino.

Michael Tadlock of Sacramento, brother of the bridegroom, was best man and ushers were James Miller, Richard Rogers and Robert Watts of San Jose, Dennis Hannigan of San Francisco, Frank Corsello Jr. of Massachusetts and Lawrence Snickles III of Pasadena.

Nancy was graduated from Sir Francis Drake High School and San Jose State College where she was affiliated with Kappa Alpha Theta sorority. She is employed by the county of Santa Clara as a juvenile probation officer.

Terry is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Guy E. Tadlock of Bellevue, Wash., and is a graduate of Sir Francis Drake High School and San Jose State College. He was affiliated with Sigma Alpha Epsilon fraternity and is employed by First National Bank of San Jose.

A reception at the Meadow Club in Fairfax preceded a wedding trip to the Sierra mountains. The couple will live in San Jose.

Pamela Todd - John Hayes Are Wed In San Rafael

Mr. and Mrs. John F. Hayes are on a wedding trip to Carmel following their marriage Saturday at St. Sylvester's Church in San Rafael.

The bride is the former Pamela Rae Todd, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Byron W. Todd of San Rafael. The bridegroom is the son of John W. Hayes of San Rafael and Mrs. John W. Hayes of Santa Rosa.

Karen Berner was maid of honor. Best man was Don Vattuone, and the bride's brother, Bruce Todd, and the bridegroom's brother, William Hayes, ushered. All are residents ot San Rafael.

A reception was held at the Marin Art and Garden Center. The couple will make their home in San Rafael.

Pamela is a graduate of San Rafael High School. She attended College of Marin and is employed by Dr. Howard A. Levenson in San Rafael. James Todd is also her brother, and she is the granddaughter of George B. Cunningham of Sebastopol.

The bridegroom was graduated from Marin Catholic High School and College of Marin. He is employed by H. Koch and Sons in Corte Madera. Mrs. John Hayes of San Francisco is his grandmother.

Mill Valley Couple Wed

Hendricka Anna Dalmulder Dickey and Robert J. Vienneau, both of Mill Valley, were married Friday in a ceremony at the Mill Valley home of Mrs. Dee Murphy, a longtime friend of the bride.

Regina Kerns of Mill Valley was maid of honor, and Paul Jacobs of Mill Valley was best man.

The bride, who is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Jan G. Dalmulder of Lovlundsvagen, Sweden, was educated in Sweden. She has two sisters, Mrs. Elizabeth Niklasson and Francina Dalmulder, both living in Sweden.

The son of Mrs. Patrick Vienneau and the late Mr. Vienneau of Boston, Mass., the bridegroom is a graduate of Boston Technical High School and the Massachusetts Maritime Agency. He is employed with the Pacific Inland Navigation Company in Stockton.

The couple will live in Mill Valley.

Sunny Hills Names New President

Mrs. Walter Unna, new president of Belvedere Guild 2 of Sunny Hills, describes herself as a person who "belongs to many organizations, most of which I support financially, or hold an office and then end up washing the dishes or ash trays."

A member of Guild 2 for five years, Virginia Unna previously held the office of treasurer. The guild members make a variety of items for the Grape Festival, including gift tags, knitted booties, pomander balls, luggage identification tags, paper weights, lapidary jewelry, candles and mosaics. Membership in the guild is invitational.

Mrs. Unna's husband is an insurance broker and they have lived in Marin for six years. Their children are Warren Unna, Roger Unna, Richard Less and Mrs. Norman Asher.

Virginia, a graduate of Mills College, modestly assesses her interests . . . almost everything, accomplishments . . . nil. I like to read; love music; play bridge; and write unsuccessfully."

Other new officers are Mrs. William Main, vice president; Mrs. Milton Kimmel, secretary; and Mrs. Samuel Mann, treasurer.

Lost Luggage

To lessen chances of your luggage getting lost on a trip by air, follow these suggestions from the Air Transport Association: Place identification tags on each bag, put a card with your name and address inside for identification in case tag comes off, remove old destination tags that could confuse baggage handlers.

Alphabetically Speaking Winter Can Be An Adventure

By VIVIAN BROWN
AP Newsfeatures Writer

Winter can be an adventure whether you are playing it cool or warm. There is no reason for any young person to be lonesome, depressed, dejected because he has nothing to do.

Here's an "A to Z" list that may suggest further ideas.

Art — Paint a snowscape or a palm tree.

Antiques — Learn all about something — paperweights, for example.

Bicycle — It's good exercise and a way to meet boys.

Cook — Buy a cookbook and see how much fun the culinary arts can be.

Crochet — Use a No. 19 crochet hook and heavy yarn and you can make a pillow top in a couple of hours.

Decorate — Give your room a color bath, move the furniture for exercise and a new look.

Entertain — Invite friends for gab or games.

Family — Learn to enjoy their company.

Games — Learning new ones might be fun. Indoor tennis?

Hairbrush — Use it regularly and your hair will shine.

Image — Does yours need improvement?

Junk — You'll feel great when you get rid of it.

Kitten — It may brighten up your life.

Knit — Your own afghan will keep you both warm at the game and boost your stock with him.

Love—Everyone and the world will look rosier.

Makeup — Try a new one for fun.

Nickname — Do you need one to bolster your morale?

Objective — Resist the impulse to drift.

Ornithology — Get to know your fine-feathered friends.

Pray — It may ease some rough spots.

Piano — Lessons may show a latent talent.

Quip — Develop cheerful conversation.

Records — Splurge on a new one.

Sports — Ski, skate, snowshoe, swim.

Travel — Plan that weekend or vacation early and you'll get more mileage out of it.

Umbrella — A new colorful one will liven a dreary day.

Vine — Plant one and enjoy watching it climb up a window.

Windowshop — Let your imagination run riot.

Walk — It's great for the figure.

Xylophone — Why not?

Yarn — Develop dexterous talents. Embroidery?

Zodiac — It can provide opportunity for study and amusement.

Novato Duo Wed Friday

Patricia Maureen Slater and Charles Cole Ashworth were united in marriage on St. Valentine's day at the Good Shepherd Lutheran Church in Novato.

Patricia is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Dalton Triplett of Novato. She chose as her matron of honor, Mrs. Eric Turner of Novato, and bridesmaids were Mrs. Rita Beitz of Seatttle, and Karla Bender and Diane Duncan of Novato.

Larry Stewart of Novato was best man and Russ Greenfield, Pete Weekly and Ron Halverson, all of Novato, were ushers.

A wedding reception was held at the bride's parents home. The couple will reside in Novato.

Patricia was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. She is the sister of Mrs. Rita Beitz, William Slater of Novato and Dalton Triplett of Germany.

Mr. and Mrs. Samuel Murphy of Sacramento are the parents of the bridegroom. Charles was graduated from Novato High School and attended College of Marin. He is now serving in the Navy.

ON THE AGENDA

Novato School Associations Set Founders Day Observances

Several Parent-Teacher Associations plan to honor members in their individual schools in Novato Unified School District this week.

Pacheco School P-TA will have a buffet dinner at 6:30 p.m. tonight to be followed by a short program and presentation of service awards to several members rather than life memberships.

Olive School P-TA will award an honorary service award at 7 p.m. tomorrow night at the school. The 72nd anniversary of the P-TA, a Dixieland band and a string ensemble from San Marin High School will be featured under the direction of John Yardas.

Marion School P-TA will meet at 8 p.m. Thursday at the school to present honorary memberships. A film depicting the Parent-Teacher Association will be presented. Third grade room mothers will serve refreshments.

Two life memberships will be presented at 8 p.m. Wednesday at the Loma Verde School P-TA meeting. Children from sixth grade classes will participate in a panel discussion.

At Pleasant Valley School, the P-TA will present a life membership at a meeting to be held at the school at 8 p.m. tomorrow.

A 12-MEMBER committee has been elected at Sinaola Junior High School to discuss the future of a parent-faculty group, its aims and purposes.

Mrs. Julius Lepkowsky was elected chairman and Mrs. J. C. Church, recording secretary for the organization, to be known as Sinaloa Volunteers.

Other members are Mrs. Tom Pilkington, Marion School area; Robert Sherrill and Mrs. Lepkowsky, West Novato area; J. W. Madocks and Alton Fountain, Pleasant Valley; John Crowley and Mrs. Church, Olive area; Harold Gilmore and Mrs. Gilbert Lilly, San Ramon area; Maurice Deny and Mrs. Boyd Brewster, Lu Sutton area; Allen Roberts and W. L. Metteer are Sinaloa faculty representatives, and Marty Larsen and Jay Woods are students' representatives.

The volunteers selected a by-laws committee to report its progress at a meeting to be held at 8 p.m. Wednesday in the faculty room of the school in Novato. Members of the committee are Messrs. Roberts, Madocks, Metteer and Mrs. Lilly.

CHRISTIAN WOMEN'S Club of Marin will meet for lunch at 11:45 a.m. at Bob's of Marin, Wednesday. The speaker will be Mrs. J. W. Pearce, wife of a local educator. Special music will be by Mrs. Wayne Jarboe, contralto, and the special feature will be coordinated paintings with home decor.

A PROGRAM on interior design by Dorothee Farber will highlight the luncheon meeting of the Retired Officers' Wives Club on Wednesday at the Windjammer in Tiburon. A social hour at noon will be followed by luncheon at 12:30 p.m. with Mmes. Thomas Gillis and Dovre Jensen as hostesses.

Reservations chairmen are Mmes. Edward F. Winsor, Harry B. Newhall, Dan Gilmer, Martin W. Steward, Vera S. Church and Clifford R. DeWitt.

THE PARENTS' GROUP of the Marin Country Day School, Corte Madera, announces a workshop on parent effectiveness training to be held on Thursday evening. It will be conducted by Alvin B. Carr, clinical psychologist, assistant professor of psychology at San Francisco State College and consultant to the Dixie School District, San Rafael; and Jack R. Danielson, psychologist to the Dixie School District.

The workshop will be a study of communication between parent and child, with audience participation.

UNA R. WOOD of the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will be guest speaker at the Novato Newcomers Club luncheon at the Officers Club at Hamilton Air Force Base on Wednesday. Miss Wood will discuss fair packaging and labeling laws and the child protection act.

Election of officers will also be held.

A social hour will begin at 11 a.m. followed by luncheon at noon. Mrs. Noel Weaver and Mrs. Thomas Laughlin are reservations chairmen.

LAGUNITAS SCHOOL P a rent-Teacher Association will present a founders day program honoring past P-TA presidents Wednesday at 7:30 p.m. in the school multi-purpose room. Presentation of an honorary life membership will be made to a person selected for outstanding work with youth in San Geronimo Valley.

THE FAMILY Service League of Marin is having a membership tea Wednesday, 2 to 4 p.m. at Mrs. Harry Newhall's, 2 Vasco Drive, Mill Valley. The tea will honor new members, prospective members and past presidents of the Family Service League. This year the league sponsored "A.M." — Marin's cultural and star-studded lecture series; and next year's "A.M." program promises to be even more successful. For further information, please contact Mrs. Thomas Dahlgren of San Anselmo, president of the league.

THE DOMINICAN College Alumnae Association Marin Chapter will have its annual mass celebrated at St. Raphael's Church, San Rafael, on Ash Wednesday, Feb. 19, at noon.

A no-host luncheon will follow at Dominic's restaurant, San Rafael. Co-chairmen are Mrs. Richard I. Pera, 15 Pigeon Hollow Road, and Mrs. Robson H. Allen, 877 Greenberry Lane, both of San Rafael.

A LUNCHEON for alumnae of the Anna Head School in Berkeley will be given by Mrs. Eugene S. Kilgore Jr., at her home in Paradise Cove, Tiburon, at noon on Wednesday.

The school's new headmaster, Arthur O'Leary, will be introduced. Mrs. Kilgore is a member of the school's advisory board.

REPORTER TAKES EXAMS

Preliminaries Baffle Peace Corps Test Taker

By JOANNE GRANT

Service in the Peace Corps is a long way from the sterile goldfish bowl that serves as a testing center, but for most Marinites that's where it all begins.

Placement tests are given monthly in the downtown San Rafael Post Office, currently located in the Albert Arcade in the 800 block of Fourth Street — convenient to passersby who seem to delight in staring at struggling tests takers.

Three persons appeared to undergo the test Saturday—two applicants and this reporter. The examiner said the number was about average and reported sometines no one appears to take the test. The most he has ever tested in one sitting was 10 and that was about a year ago.

The examiner, a regular post office employee who introduced himself as Louis Thompson, was seated stiffly at a teacher-type desk reviewing a lengthly guide on how to give the test.

Facing him were the applicants at their greenish-grey desks clearly marked as property of the United States Government.

Promptly at 1:30 p.m., the examiner arose, locked the door securely and returned to his desk and the rectangular, heavily wrapped package that rested ominously upon it.

There was dead silence as he slit the package and began the formal explanation of the test preliminaries — how to fill in your name, address, social security number, test number and signature.

He noted types of persons who are not eligible for the test, such as persons who have taken it before, and asked the ineligibles to leave. He didn't mention reporters and no one left.

The test, which lasts a total of one hour not counting time for explanations, included a general knowledge section and another on modern language ability.

The general knowledge section relied heavily on the applicant's ability to count blocks.

The test claimed that all of the blocks in any single question were the same size — all you had to do was to count the ones you could see, imagine the ones you couldn't see, and total them.

It wasn't as easy as it sounds — the invisible blocks were almost impossible to gauge and count.

Interspersed with the blocks were mathematical problems and vocabulary questions.

The Peace Corps was especially interested in how much material costs per yard, how much interest a man made on his investments and similar problems.

Some of the vocabulary questions seemed to be testing the applicant's knowledge of the people with whom the Peace Corps volunteers might work. For example, one of the multiple choice questions asked for the definition of indigenous.

The second half of the test was apparently designed to gauge the applicant's ability to learn foreign languages.

The first section listed words phonetically and asked the applicant to determine which of five definitions matched it most closely. There were 90 to be matched in a five-minute period.

Section two grammar school ability on parts of speech, without calling it that, and the final section involved memorizing a short vocabulary from an obscure language.

Two minutes were permitted for memorizing 24 words, such as roo for art and e for bowl. Then, two minutes were given to match up the words.

The examiner methodically collected the tests and unlocked the door, signalling the formal close of the proceedings.

One of the applicants, a middle-aged woman, indicated she didn't think the exam was particularly relevant.

"Im a doctor," she said, "and I want to help people, not answer mathematical questions."

She will know soon if she will be permitted to help people, but like all of the applicants, will never learn her test score.

That information, along with a 14-page application blank covering every possible facet of one's life, becomes the property of the Peace Corps.

Free Baby Care Course Announced

The American Red Cross is offering a free baby care course between 10 a.m. and noon on Tuesdays and Thursdays, starting March 4 at the chapter house classroom, 712 Fifth Avenue, San Rafael.

Mrs. Robert Goodell, a registered nurse, will conduct the class.

The lake sturgeon lives to be 50 years old.

$3,000 In Loot Taken By Burglars

Burglars broke into three Kent Woodlands homes Friday taking jewelry and furnishing valued at more than $3,000, sheriff's deputies reported yesterday.

Jewelry and oriental rugs, valued at more than $2,500, were taken from the home of Lorraine Bergin at 7 Tree Top Way, deputies reported.

Serge Gregoriev of 50 Uplands, reported that a record player, valued at $85 and a Beatles album, valued at $8, were taken from his home.

Kay Louise Menton of 5 Buckeye Way, reported that a radio-phonograph valued at $41.95, and a ladies watch and costume jewelry, value unlisted, were taken from her home.

Deputies said all three burglaries occurred during daylight hours after 8 a.m.

On Wednesday Harold Watkin of 10 Acorn Way, Kent Woodlands reported the theft of a camera valued at $336, a sander, valued at $80, and a drill, valued at $30, were taken from his home.

Novato Board Seeks Teacher Dress Policy

Policy on teachers' dress will be discussed by Novato Unfied School District trustees at 8 p.m. today in the administration building.

The Novato Teachers Association submitted a general policy to the board Feb. 3 which called for "dress in a manner appropriate to the teaching situation and to our responsibilities to the students, community and ourselves."

No policy can be agreed upon by the board and teachers association, in event the grievance would be submitted to the professional relations committee or the grievance committee of teachers. The findings of either of these committees would be binding on the teachers, according to the policy submitted for discussion.

Other items on the agenda include two applications for federal guidance and counseling funds to be matched by the district, one for elementary and the other for secondary counselors, and official acceptance of the completed San Marin High School.

GOP Speaker

Mrs. Carl Hepp of the Mill Valley Republican Women will speak on sensitivity training to the Novato Republican Women at a noon meeting tomorrow at the Lodge in Novato.

Civic Association Will Be Explained

Residents of the Novack subdivision of Petaluma will meet tomorrow at 8 p.m. at the Bernard E. Eldredge School to discuss their role in the newly formed East Petaluma Civic Association.

William Youngs, a Novack representative to the association board of directors, will explain the purposes of the group.

GROWING U.S. CRIME

Group Going To Youth To Explain Shoplifting

By ANNE BARDWELL

Shoplifting is a crime.

That's the message a group of Marin women will try to sell to school children throughout the country in a campaign that began today.

During the campaign, the women, all members of tthe American Association of University Women, will distribute more than 40,000 booklets which discuss the causes and prevention of shoplifting to junior high and high school students.

In Novato, aided by extra funds donated by the Novato Chamber of Commerce, the booklets will be distributed to grammar school children as well.

In addition, posters noting that shoplifting is a crime and advertising the booklet are being placed in Marin stores and letters are being sent home to parents. Police departments, chambers of commerce, merchants and individual citizens are joing in the broad-based campaign to get the message across.

Shoplifting is one of the most common crimes in the U.S. today, and a large percentage of shoplifting crimes is committed by youngsters.

A recent national magazine article quoted statistics that more than 100,000 shopliftings are committed each year by teen-agers. Locally, no statsitics are available on shoplifting, mainly because many incidents are handled by individual stores. Organizations such as the chambers of commerce, which might be able to collect such data, have remained generally uninterested.

However, the Novato Chamber of Commerce estimates that stores annually lose 1 to 3 per cent of their merchandise to shoplifters. In shoplifting crimes reported to the Novato police department last year, 38 girls and 102 boys, all under age, stole $310.12 worth of merchandise, Chief Robert J. DiGrazia reported.

DiGrazia said many more shoplifting incidents are thwarted in the stores, with the young criminals reprimanded and sent home, and there's a fantastic amount of shoplifting that goes undetected until inventory at the end of the year.

A variety of items is stolen, ranging from mink coats by the professional adults to candy bars by the kids. But youngsters generally steal records, food, toys, cigarettes and cosmetics, according to DiGrazia.

Grocers and dime or variety stores often are the hardest hit by the youthful thieves, both because of the small size and variety of their wares.

The booklet, "Stealing Is A Crime," said that "taking merchandise is not stealing in the minds of many people" and that many persons who would note consider taking $10 out of a lost billfold or cash register don't hesitate to take a shirt, candy bar or record.

It warns that even a police record for minor shoplifting can affetct someone's future career, especially in the military, such as law or real estate where a special license is required, jobs that require bonding, civil service and those areas where competition is keen for available posts in a particular profession.

In California, the booklet says, shoplifting is considered a theft and is grand theft when the value of the property taken exceeds $200. Grand theft is punishable by imprisonment in the county jail up to one year or in the state penitentiary for one to 10 years.

Petty theft is punishable by a maximum $500 fine and/or six months in the county jail.

Also listed in the booklet are seven hints on what parents can do about juvenile theft.

The campaign was conceived last spring when Mrs. Charles Cutting, president of the Mill Valley branch of the AAUW, read an article in the Saturday Evening Post entitled "They Steal for the Hell of It."

Mrs. Cutting also learned that successful campaigns to combat shoplifting had been conducted in Oklahoma City and Champaign, Ill. In Champaign, shoplifting declined 75 per cent following the distribution of a pamphlet similar to the one prepared for Marin students.

Inspired by results in other communities and Mrs. Cutting's enthusiasm, the 600 AAUW women in Marin have enlarged their program to include a follow-up campaign in schools and stores. They have also persuaded Marin police departments to compile statistics on shoplifting to determine what effect their campaign has had.

In addition the women arranged to have four Marin teenagers discuss shoplifting and its prevention at 4:30 p.m. Sunday on Channel 4's "Youth Inquires."

The AAUW women naturally hope for a successful campaign, but note that even if shoplifting declines by only 50 per cent in Marin, an average grocery store owner will save a minimum of $40 a month in pilfering losses.

NO SALE—A brightly colored package of candy is a sweet prize to the young shoplifter. This simulated scene is repeated for real throughout Marin every day and the American Association of University Women is determined to stop it. (Independent-Journal photo)

SENTENCES ADDICTS

Judge Gives Synanon A Try

By MARY LEYDECKER

"What about trying Synanon?"

This is a question being heard increasingly in the courtroom of a youthful Marin judge who is as concerned about the welfare of the young drug addicts he sses daily as he is in protecting society.

"Nothing else is working, and I think we have to look for new solutions to today's problems," said Judge Hadden W. Roth of Marin Municipal Court in discussing the Synanon approach to addiction.

Judge Roth explained that he doesn't exactly sentence addicts to Synanon, but "I lean on them pretty hard."

"Leaning means in many cases giving a person a choice between a jail sentence and committing himself to Synanon or a state hospital.

"I can't sentence anyone to Synanon — I don't even know whether they will take people," the judge said, "But I often suggest that a person go and talk to Synanon officials to see what they say."

One young man whom Judge Roth "pursuaded" to move into Synanon's new headquarters in Oakland later told the judge that he had lied to him in court.

The youth, now "doing very well" in the drug-free atmosphere at Synanon cheerfully told the judge that he had "conned" him in court about the extent of his addiction.

The 39-year-old judge, who himself is a weekly Synanon "games" player, is now considering a second approach for young people who, he believes don't need to live in the addiction treatment center.

These people, "who can still function in society to some extent," the judge intends to send to Synanon just to play the famous "game," in which a small group of people find group therapy in intense and usually heated dialogues.

What about the attitude of people sent to Synanon more or less against their will?

"There are no wrong reasons for coming to Synanon," said a 37-year-old former woman addict who has lived at Synanon five years. "Some kids come because their parents drag them here, others are looking for various things and many come because the courts insist," she said.

JUDGE HADDEN W. ROTH
Worth a try

Once at Synanon, however, the "no nonsense" attitude of the Synanon people usually forces the addict to take a new look at himself, perhaps for the first time in years.

"If some kid come here because Judge Roth told him to play the game and then he sits and sulks, we tell him, "we don't need any deadbeats like you,"' laughed Michael Kaiser, a Synanon official, said.

Usually, approaches like this work, he said. "We deal in reality here," he added.

The Synanon people felt that it's the game which keeps former addicts and alcoholics away from drugs successfully as well as a very realistic approach as to what to expect from addicts.

For the first three months, new residents are not allowed to leave the building, are given no money and no responsiblity except to make their beds and get to their various jobs on time.

With time, Synanon residents are given responsibility and privileges as they demonstrate they are ready for them.

"We have so many activities to keep young people busy that few leave," said Kaiser in describing the new facility, which is a six-story building which formerly housed the Athens Athletic Club in Oakland.

"We've started a college for the kids and it's the only college in the country no one is picketing or trying to burn down," Kaiser said with a smile.

The bright, cheerful faces of the many young people at the Oakland Synanon facility show their enthusiasm for their new life, but will they ever graduate?

Synanon has been notable for success with alcoholics and addicts in getting them off drugs and into productive lives, but not notable for "graduating" people back into the outside world.

"Most of us will never leave," said Barbara, the former addict, who was a prostitute and burglar in her early life.

But what about the young people?

"We don't know whether they will graduate or not," Kaiser said. "Right now they're having such a good time they don't want to leave."

As a young man walked by Judge Roth and casually called "Hi," the judge said, "That's one of my people."

"I don't know whether sending people to Synanon will work or not but we know jails and hospitals aren't doing much good," he added. "It seems worth a try."

Bolinas Sewage Report Reaches Control Board

I-J Special Report

OAKLAND — The Bolinas Community Public Utility District, facing an order to build its own sewage facilities if it and the Stinson Beach County Water District did not file a schedule by Saturday to build joint facilities, apparently met the deadline.

The executive officer of the San Francisco Bay Regional Water Quality Control Board, Fred H. Dierker, said today that he had received a schedule from the Bolinas district on Friday, but that his staff had not yet reviewed it to see if it is satisfactory.

The district's schedule, according to the letter to Dierker, promises a start of construction within one year, but provided no cost estimate, he said. The letter said the year would be necessary to arrange financing and conclude joint plans for new facilities.

Dierker said a staff review of the letter will be reported to the water quality board at its next meeting, 10 a.m. on March 13 in the State Building here at 1111 Jackson Street.

The regional board set the Saturday deadline at its Dec. 18 meeting after it was recommended by Dierker. The board agreed to revive a cease and desist order against the Bolinas district at the March 13 meeting if a satisfactory joint schedule was not filed by the deadline.

The cease and desist order, repeatedly postponed by the regional board to encourage the two districts to seek a joint solution to their sewage needs, would require the Bolinas district to schedule immediate construction of its own facilities.

The regional board long has sought to stop the Bolinas district from dumping raw sewage into the mouth of Bolinas Lagoon.

Stinson Beach is on septic tanks.

Heart Attack Fatal To Inmate

Telesforo Hernandez, 43-year-old inmate at San Quentin Prison, died, apparently of a heart attack, yesterday afternoon shortly after playing handball.

Hernandez had just returned to his office job at 3:20 p.m. when he was fatally stricken, reported George W. Sumner, duty officer.

Hernandez, sentenced from Los Angeles County for parole violation, was returned to prison in March, 1967, for his fifth term, Sumner said.

Hernandez was a native of Texas.

Surviving are his wife, Alice Hernandez, and his mother, Lupe Hernandez, both of Los Angeles.

Age Corrected

The Independent-Journal, as a result of a composing room error, incorrectly reported in Friday's Marin Names column that Dr. D. E. Spencer of San Rafael, a Navy dentist, performed a dental first at the Yokosuka Dental Clinic in Japan by pulling the tooth of a 13-year-old girl. The girl was 13 days old.

Panel's Future To Be Studied

Is the Tri-Partite Transportation Committee really necessary?

This question will be discussed by the committee at a meeting at 10 a.m. Wednesday at the Golden Gate Bridge Toll Plaza administration building.

The issue was raised at the Jan. 15 meeting by Marin Supervisor Michael Wornum, who reported that John F. McInnis, chairman of the Marin Board of Supervisors had questioned the need for the committee.

The Tri-Partite Transportation Committee is composed of representatives from Marin, San Francisco and the Golden Gate Bridge and Highway District. Chairman is Jack D. Morrison of San Francisco. Representatives from Marin are Supervisors Wornum and Peter R. Arrigoni Jr.

Another item on the agenda is a discussion of Arthur C. Jenkins' proposal for an $8.5 million bus system financed by the bridge district.

Giving Hitchhiker A Ride Is Expensive

A San Anselmo woman yesterday joined the ranks of kindly motorists who have had cause to regret the generous impulse that leads to picking up hitchhikers.

Sherry Hughes of 43 Cedar Street told police her purse and $125 were missing after she gave a ride about 9 p.m. to a long-haired young man in hippie clothing, picking him up in Lagunitas and dropping him off at Bolinas Avenue and Sir Francis Drake Boulevard in San Anselmo.

Sonoma Faculty Voting On Chancellor Dumke

The faculty of Sonoma State College joins a statewide confidence vote today on Chancellor Glenn Dumke and his management of the state college system.

Dr. Kenneth Stocking, biology professor and statewide vice president of the California Academic Senate, said the Sonoma State vote will be gathered today and forwarded to San Fernando State College for the statewide tabulation.

Stocking said the Senate has accused Dumke of lacking leadership and of being responsible for many of the problems plaguing San Francisco State College and other campuses.

The academic senate board of directors last May called for Dumke's resignation by a vote of 30 to 10 with two abstaining. Stocking said Dumke at the time called the senate "irresponsible and unrepresentative."

"In taking this poll of all faculty members, we hope to prove that the organization is representative of the feeling of its members," Stocking said, predicting the "no confidence" vote would prevail.

He said the senate is seeking more autonomy from the state college board of trustees. "The principle of the trustees delegating authority to individual campuses has moved very slowly and practically not at all under Chancellor Dumke, he said. The senate seeks more authority in areas such as instruction, curriculum and faculty matters.

Saying he felt the majority of the faculty would vote against Dumke, Stocking said he hoped this would bring about the chancellor's resignation.

"A no-confidence vote would bring dramatic pressure upon him this year," Stocking said. "It would prove his ineffectiveness and show him that it would be well to resign. The trustees are the only ones who can fire him, but we (academic senate) can persuade."

He said the votes will be tallied this week with results known by the middle of next week.

34 On Honors List At School

Thirty-four San Marin High School students received an average of at least 3.5 for the semester, reported Principal Henry Moroski.

Students with a straight A or 4 point averages were Karen Ann Berber and Shirley C. Jordan, juniors, and Peter Sorensen, a sophomore.

Those with a 3.8 or better average are, Christa F. Bretz, Edward D. Freymiller, Valerie Lyons, Alice Nelson, Greg N. Olsen, Michele Oliver and Laureen S. Pisano, juniors, and Paul Hurley, Paul C. Lathrop and Michael A. Van Horn, sophomores.

There is no senior class at San Marin High School.

New Business Ordinance On Corte Madera Agenda

Corte Madera Town Councilmen have on their agenda tonight the proposed new business license ordinance which drew opposition last Thursday from Corte Madera Chamber of Commerce members.

Instead of merchants paying as at present a flat rate for business licenses, the proposed ordinance would require that retail businessmen pay according to gross sales while wholesalers would pay on a basis of the number of employees.

The present ordinance lists no exceptions as to who must have a license, reports Frank Bigley, town finance director.

All persons, companies or corporations doing business in Corte Madera are required to have a license under the current or the proposed ordinances.

Under the proposed ordinance, persons under 18 and over 65 years of age making less than $1,640 per year would be exempt.

Also before the council will be a proposal by volunteer firemen asking that street numbers be painted on curbs and approval of a Village Square landscaping plan.

The council meets at 7:30 p.m. in Town Hall.

Driver Facing Three Charges

A 32-year-old San Francisco driver, who attracted the attention of California Highway Patrol officers, early yesterday by driving the wrong way on a freeway off-ramp in San Rafael, was booked on suspicion of three charges.

Eric Girard Jr. of 972 Randolph Street, was booked at Marin County Jail on suspicion of driving a stolen car, driving under the influence of narcotics and possessing narcotics paraphernalia.

Officers said he was driving south on the northbound Highway 101 off-ramp at Francisco Boulevard at 2:15 a.m.

He was held in lieu of $1,200 bail and scheduled to appear in Marin Municipal Court at 2 p.m. Wednesday. Deputies also noted that he was to be held for San Francisco Police Department.

Girard was driving a car, registered to Irwin L. Johnson of 1763 Oak Street, San Francisco, which was reported stolen Saturday in San Francisco, the California Highway Patrol reported.

Tot Is Saved From High Water

A 3-year-old Belvedere girl was rescued from a water-filled ditch behind the Tiburon Fire Station Saturday afternoon by a fireman who was on his way to warn her of the danger.

Fireman Thomas W. Murphy reported that the girl, Eliza Haskins, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Samuel M. Haskins of 61 Acacia Street, fell into about 30 inches of water just before he reached her at 2:15 p.m.

She was submerged over her head and he pulled her out, he said.

The ditch, about four feet wide and 300 feet long, was filled with water, but was deceptive because it appeared to be the same depth as surrounding water, about six inches deep, Murphy said.

Today is Monday, Feb. 17, the 48th day of 1969 with 317 to follow.

The moon is between its new phrase and first quarter. The morning stars are Mercury, Mars and Jupiter. The evening stars are Venus and Saturn.

On this day in history:

In 1801 after separate ballots, an electorial tie was broken when the House of Representatives named Thomas Jefferson the third President of the United States. Aaron Burr, tied with Jefferson, was named vice-president.

In 1817 Baltimore became the first American city to have a street illuminated with gas lights.

In 1906 Alice Roosevelt, oldest daughter of President Theodore Roosevelt, was married in the White House to Congressman Nicholas Longworth of Ohio.

In 1966 a Soviet T-114 crashed, killing 48 persons.

A thought for the day: William James said, "Man lives by habits indeed, but what he lives for is thrills and excitement."

HOW TO PLAY
WINNING BRIDGE
By ALFRED SHEINWOLD

Sometimes Your Partner Faces An 'Unleadable' Combination

When your partner bids one suit but makes his opening lead in another, you may reasonably assume that he has an "unleadable" combination at the head of his bid suit. It is up to you to lead his suit for him in the hope that the lead from your side of the table may be more productive than from his.

AVOID DIAMOND

In today's hand West cannot afford to lead diamonds, the suit he has bid, because that would allow declarer to win a trick with the king. West cannot tell that the missing king of diamonds is in the South hand but he should not risk a diamond lead because the bidding indicates that South is more likely than any other player to have a missing high card.

Fortunately, West has a perfectly normal, attacking lead in one of the unbid suits. When West leads the king of spades, East should signal by playing the ten.

Normally, this kind of signal might encourage West to take the ace of spades and then lead a third spade, but West is expected to use his common sense. East cannot have only two spades, since then South would have a six-card suit which he never bothered to bid. Since this is obviously not the case, East cannot have a doubleton, and his signal must therefore indicate that he has the queen of spades.

INTERPRETS MESSAGE

If West correctly interprets the message he should lead his low spade at the second trick. This enables East to win with the queen of spades, and East can then return a diamond. West takes two diamond tricks, and South is down before he can get started.

If the defenders failed to take their four tricks immediately, South would draw trumps and run the clubs to take 11 tricks.

ANSWER: Bid two spades. Despite the trump length and the singleton, this hand is not strong enough for a jump to four spades.

Scottish Thief Not Very Lucky

GREENOCK, Scotland (AP) — Police spotted a man, 21, stealing from a doctor's car.

He fled with the loot, jumped over a wall and thumbed a lift from a car.

Too late, as the driver opened the car door for him, he realized it was a police car.

He got six months in jail.

Mobile Home Stock For High Riskers

By ROGER E. SPEAR

Q. I would appreciate information about Monarch Industries. Although I have heard that it shows promise I have been unable to secure any information on the company. — R. R.

A. Monarch, a mobile home producer, since its initial public offering last June at $6.50 has moved up sharply, split two-for-one and is recently quoted in the upper 20s. Prices are reported in weekly over-the-counter lists published in the Wall Street Journal. In the year ended June 30, 1968, the company earned 54 cents per share — adjusted for the split — on sales of $12.5 million. In the first quarter of the current fiscal year, sales reached $4.6 million with earnings of 19 cents.

Three mergers, either completed or in process, could add $16 million to sales and provide plant space needed to meet growing demand.

One of the companies manufactures Kitchen furnishings required in fitting out mobile homes. Shares are priced at about 25x current year's estimated results, a fair P/E for this industry. Nevertheless this is a comparatively small operator in an aggressively competitive industry. Therefore, shares are highly speculative.

Q. I am a widow looking for more income. Dividends on my portfolio work out to a little over 4 per cent. Would you suggest changes to better this rate? — J. S.

A. In order to better your income you will have to sacrifice growth. But with two-thirds of your capital still in common stocks which offer some appreciation potential as well as an adequate dividend, you can afford to switch three of your holdings to straight income issues.

The $690 in annual dividends you now receive can be increased to $1,400 by switching American Home preferred, Corn Products and Woolworth into Baltimore Gas & Electric 7s of 1998 and Florida Power and Light 7s of 1998. This move will give you a yield closer to 5.5 per cent.

Safeway Reports Records For 1968

OAKLAND (BW) — Safeway Stores, Inc., has reported consolidated unaudited sales of $3,685,690,358 for 1968, a new record for the company and an increase of 9.7 per cent over 1967 sales of $3,360,879,991.

Consolidated unaudited net income after taxes for 1968 was $55,054,793, an increase of 8.2 per cent over net income of $50,892,927 for 1967. Net income per share was $2.16 in 1968, compared to $2 per share in 1967.

Dividend Increased On Record Sales

NEW YORK (BW) — Tampax, Inc., posted new highs in sales and earnings in 1968, and has increased its quarterly dividend rate from 65 to 75 cents a share, payable March 17 to shareholders of record Feb. 24.

Consolidated net sales in 1968 were $60,993,912, an increase of 13.3 per cent. Consolidated net earnings in 1968 were $13,595,213, or $4.82 a share — an increase of 10.4 per cent.

Microdot Dividend

NEW YORK (BW) — The board of directors of Microdot, Inc., has voted the first payment in the company's history of a quarterly cash dividend of 10 cents per share on its common stock, on March 20 to shareholders of record on Feb. 26.

Potlatch Dividend

SAN FRANCISCO (BW) — The board of directors of Potlatch Forests, Inc., has authorized payment of the usual quarterly dividend of 27.5 cents per share, on March 17 to stockholders of record Feb. 28.

INCOME TAX FACTS

By PETER JAMES WIKEL, CPA

New Ruling Is Explained Regarding Property Sale

Did you buy and move into a new home and now have to sell your old home?

You still have maintenance and repair costs and insurance and perhaps a caretaker for your old home and depreciation. You cannot deduct this for residential property unless it is changed to "property held for the production of income."

Wikel

Last year I said.:

The Tax Court repeatedly has said that offering your old home for sale wouldn't change it into income producing property. The Tax Court has just made a different decision.

"When you put your former home up for sale, this alone, immediately converts it into 'property held for the production of income', and you can deduct any repair and maintenance expenses you incur for your old home. You can deduct depreciation on your old home from the time you put it up for sale until you actually sell it."

J. M. Cullen, district director of the IRS wrote to the Independent-Journal and stated in reference to the above:

"Section 212 of the Internal Revenue Code provides that expenses incurred in connection with property held for the production of income are deductible However, the mere offering of a former residence for sale does not convert it from non-business property to property held for the production of income. Inasmuch as a former residence remains non-business property after it has been offered for sale, the expenses incurred, including depreciation, are not deductible for income tax purposes."

I had based my statement on Tax Court Memo Decision 1967-28 Hulet P. Smith, which has, since the above letter from IRS, been upheld by the Ninth Circuit.

Accordingly, I asked the IRS if they would now permit deductions of this type.

The reply, dated Nov. 9, 1968, stated:

"We are aware of the recent decision, Smith, 22 AFTR 2d 5096, as mentioned in your letter of October 18, 1968.

"However, our litigation division has not yet decided whether or not we will appeal this case or issue a decision as to acquiescence or nonacquiescence.

"Therefore, for the present, our position remains unchanged and we will continue to question this type of expenditure."

Market In Steep Declines At Close

NEW YORK (AP)—The stock market today took its sharpest downturn since Jan. 6 when it lost more than 15 points.

As with that previous decline, there was no outstanding piece of news that depressed the market. The market started weak and eased through the day in light trading.

Declines led advances by more than 3 to 1 near the close.

Analaysts, while unable to find one factor on which to peg the setack, cited several influences. Most prominent was the possible extension of the surtax beyond its June 30 expiration date.

Paul W. McCracken, President Nixon's top economist, earlier in the day hinted before a Senate-House committee that the tax might have to be extended to slow inflation.

Other factors cited were uncertainty over the duration of the Vietnam war and the continuing tight money policy of the Federal Reserve Board.

Gulf & Western topped the most-active list, off more than 3 points after a block of 116,900 shares changed hands at 41½, of 3½.

Other active issues were Twentieth Century Fox, off more than a point. Occidental Petroleum lost two points. Glen Alden was down a fraction and Thrifty Drug was down more than 2. Control Data also lost more than two points.

New Children's Wear Store Will Open Doors On March 1

A new children's wear store called Patina's will open March 1 at 301 Third Street, San Rafael, in the Montecito Shopping Center.

The name is derived from the first names of the owners, Mrs. Ina Burch and her daughter Mrs. Patricia Masseo, both San Rafael residents. Garments will include children's dresses, underclothing, play clothes and socks. Hours will be from 9:30 a.m. to 5:30 p.m. Mondays through Saturdays.

This is a first venture of this kind for both women, who previously were in office work.

CORRECTION. Office of Westamerica Securities, Inc. to open at 25-35 Mitchell Drive, Northgate Industrial Park next month is not the regional office now located in Tiburon, but a new divisional sales office under the management of William Carroll of Tiburon.

He has been with the company three years, working out of the San Francisco office, and temporarily maintains a temporary office at 45 Mitchell Boulevard until new quarters are ready.

The regional office will continue in Tiburon under John M. Croxall, regional vice president.

SHOE TIQUE, avant garde fashion shoe store opened last July at 936 B Street, San Rafael by William Blanton, has moved to new and larger quarters at 1131 Fourth Street.

THE OFFICE BUILDING at 412 Red Hill Avenue, San Anselmo, formerly known as the Essex Buildings, is not called the Essex Business and Professional Center. Improvements are under construction, including a hard canopy with appropriate lettering for better identification.

The partnership of Paula Wolper Feingold and Phyllis Steckel Atterbury, which has three of its principals, Robert Royston, Asa Hanamoto and Eldon Beck, living in Mill Valley, is now under contract with the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency to provide master plan and preliminary design services for the landscaping at the 125-acre Hunters Point redevelopment project.

now some vacancies in the building.

Brady Hall

SHANE H. BRADY, who is scheduled to be manager of the San Rafael office of Dean Witter and Co., Inc. when it opens in early April, has been elected assistant vice president of the company. He joined the San Francisco office as an account executive in 1957, and was co-manager there before being named San Rafael manager. The new office will be at 1299 Fourth Street, on the ground floor of the Kaehler-Farrar Building.

DR. K. LYNN HALL of San Rafael has been appointed a senior research associate at the Richmond laboratory of Chevron Research Co. He joined the company's radiation chemistry group in 1955. Currently his research has been in the chemistry of corrosion and wear.

ROBERT H. WARREN of Mill Valley has been appointed corporate relations manager of Transamerica Corp. Before joining this company he was account supervisor with Public Relations Pacific, a division of Lennen and Newell, Inc., San Francisco. Previously he held advertising and public relations positions with Union Carbide Corp.

ROYSTON, HANAMOTO BECK AND ABEY, firm of landscape architects, who has three of its principals, Robert Royston, Asa Hanamoto and Eldon Beck, living in Mill Valley, is now under contract with the San Francisco Redevelopment Agency to provide master plan and preliminary design services for the landscaping at the 125-acre Hunters Point redevelopment project.

NOTICE OF SALE OF REAL PROPERTY AT PRIVATE SALE
No. 18551

Estate of PAUL W. RAUGUST, Deceased.

Notice is hereby given that on or after February 25, 1969, the undersigned, as administrator of the estate of Paul W. Raugust, deceased, will sell at private sale to the highest net bidder, subject to confirmation by the above-entitled court, all the right, title, interest, and estate of the decedent at the time of his death and all the right, title and interest the estate has, by operation of law or otherwise, acquired other than or in addition to that of the decedent at the time of his death, in and to the real property commonly known as 115 West Street, Sausalito, California, in the County of Marin, State of California, and more particularly described as follows:

EXCEPTING THEREOUT AND THEREFROM the Westerly 40 feet, as conveyed to Rita Chase by Frances Machado, by Deed recorded October 22, 1936, in Book 332 of Official Records, at page 31, Marin County Records.

The sale shall be subject to current taxes, covenants, conditions, restrictions, reservations, rights, rights of way, easements and existing encumbrances of record.

The terms and conditions of sale are: cash in lawful money of the United States of America or part cash and part credit, the terms of such credit to be acceptable to the administrator and to the court. Ten per cent (10%) of the amount bid is to accompany the offer and the balance to be paid on the confirmation of sale by the court. Taxes, rents, operating and maintenance expenses and premiums on insurance acceptable to the purchaser shall be prorated as of the date of recording of conveyance and any title insurance policy shall be at the expense of the purchaser or purchasers.

Bids or offers are invited for the property and must be in writing and will be received at the offices of Cushing, Cullinan, Hancock & Rothert, attorneys for the administrator, at 100 Bush Street, San Francisco, California, 94104, at any time after first publication of this notice and before making of the sale.

The administrator reserves the right to reject all bids up to the time of actual signing of the order confirming sale.

Dated: February 5, 1969.

JOB NO. 655
MARIN COUNTY DEPARTMENT OF PUBLIC WORKS
SAN RAFAEL, CALIFORNIA
NOTICE TO CONTRACTORS

Sealed Proposals will be received by, and shall be filed with, the Clerk of the Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin, State of California, Room 315, Marin County Civic Center, San Rafael, California, until 2:00 P.M., March 3, 1969, for:

Construction of roadway improvements on Mount Lassen Drive between Lucas Valley Road and Miller Creek Bridge, Marin County, California; consisting of grading, paving, and other related construction.

The work shall be done in accordance with official plans and specifications prepared in reference thereto which may be seen at the office of the Department of Public Works, County of Marin. Request for forms or information shall be addressed to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin, Civic Center, San Rafael, California.

Plans, cross sections and Specifications (but not including Standard Specifications, or other documents included by reference), and Proposal Forms may be obtained by prospective bidders upon payment of a deposit of Ten Dollars ($10.00) (cash or check made payable to the Department of Public Works, County of Marin) to guarantee safe return of the plans and specifications within ten (10) days after bid opening. Failure to so return the plans and specifications will cause forfeiture of the deposit to the County.

All bids must be submitted on the Proposal form obtained from the Department of Public Works and shall be accompanied by a Proposal Guaranty of at least ten percent (10%) of the bid. Guaranties shall be in the form of a certified or Cashier's Check or a Bidder's Bond. Failure of the successful bidder to execute and return the contract, or to file acceptable bond, as required, within the time allotted shall be cause for the annulment of the award and forfeiture of the Proposal Guaranty.

The bid bonds of bidders, other than the successful bidder, may be retained by the Board of Supervisors for a period of thirty (30) days after award or until the successful bidder executes the contract and furnishes bonds, whichever occurs first. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded fails, or refuses, to execute the contract within fifteen (15) days of notice of award, as herein provided, the Board of Supervisors may award to the next lowest responsible bidder and apply the bid bond of the bidder failing, or refusing, to execute contract, against the County's damages resulting from such failure. If a bidder to whom the contract is awarded executes the contract as herein required, the bid bonds of bidders to whom no award was made will be returned upon request.

Said proposals will be opened and read at 2:00 P.M. in Room No. 343, Marin County Civic Center, on the day specified above for receiving bids. Only the total amount bid will be read and not specific items going to make up said total unless written request for reading of each sub-total and individual items of the bid is requested in writing at the time of the submission of proposals. Bidders will be at liberty to inspect and review bids in the Office of the Director of Public Works to which they will be removed for the purpose of checking after the opening and reading of the totals.

The Marin County Board of Supervisors will award the bid at 1:45 P.M. March 4, 1969, or as soon thereafter as the matter may be heard.

Bids are required for the entire work described herein, and neither partial bids nor contingent bids will be considered.

The Board of Supervisors of the County of Marin reserves the right to reject any or all bids.

TIME LIMIT

The Contractor shall commence work on or before the fifteenth (15th) day following the date of written notification by the Director of Public Works that the contract has been awarded by the Board of Supervisors. During this fifteen (15) day interval, the necessary contract documents shall be executed by the Contractor and returned to the Department of Public Works. All work shall be completed on the project within twenty (20) working days counting from and including the said 15th day.

Rev. 1/69

For positions not listed above, the minimum rate paid for skilled, intermediate or unskilled labor shall be not less than minimum wage per hour and shall conform to the particular craft or classification of workmen employed on the project.

The attention of bidders is directed to the provisions of the specifications regarding legal relations and responsibility.

Attention is directed to the correlation of the specifications with the Standard Specifications of the State of California, Department of Public Works, Division of Highways, dated January, 1969, as to materials, methods and workmanship.

The contractor whose bid is accepted shall furnish the following bonds to the County (at no expense to the County), executed by a responsible surety acceptable to the County in the prescribed form:

a) Faithful Performance Bond
b) Labor and Materials Bond

The Faithful Performance Bond shall be in an amount equal to one-hundred percent (100%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

The Labor and Materials Bond shall be in an amount equal to fifty percent (50%) of the total amount bid by the contractor in his proposal.

Rev. 2/19

EMPLOYEES AND NON-DISCRIMINATION

Contractors shall not discriminate against any employee or applicant for employment because of race, religion, color or national origin. This shall include employment, demotion or transfer, recruitment or recruitment advertisement, layoff or termination, rates of pay or other compensation, and selection for training and apprenticeship. Contractor shall post, in conspicious places during period of contract and available to applicants for employment, notices setting forth the provisions of this clause. Contractor shall insert the foregoing provision in all subcontracts hereunder, except subcontracts for standard commercial supplies or raw materials. The hiring of all labor for work shall be in accordance with applicable directives of the Fair Employment Practices Commission of the State of California. The contractor shall forfeit, as a penalty, in addition to any other penalty provided by law, to County, the sum of $25.00 for each calendar day, or portion thereof, during which the contractor knowingly allows any conditions of discrimination to exist in connection with the work, provided, however, that such penalty shall not be imposed without a full investigation and determination by the Fair Employment Practices Commission.

Contractor shall cooperate fully with Marin County and affected Unions to promote and insure the maximum employment of Negroes and Spanish-speaking minorities, with particular emphasis on residents of Marin County, in all phases and at all levels of the work. Contractor shall encourage maximum utilization of apprenticeship and other on-the-job training programs, to achieve this goal.

HOW TO KEEP WELL

By DR. THEODORE R. VAN DELLEN

VAN DELLEN

After the holidays, physicians are busy with consultations about rectal trouble. Many of these sufferers have paid the price for excessive eating and too much celebrating.

Those with previous rectal distress suffered the most because excessive holiday revelry aggravates existing conditions.

Alcohol, nuts, spices, and highly-seasoned foods create anal congestion. A blood clot in a small hemorrhoidal vein near the opening produces one of the most painful rectal lesions.

LITTLE MORE THAN heat is required to encourage absorption of blood. In severe discomfort, however, it may be necessary to open the distended vein and allow the clotted blood to escape.

Meticulous clenaliness of the anal area is imperative for anyone with anal itching or hermorrhoids. Many lesions in this area come from infection and residual contamination following a movement. The area should be washed carefully with moistened cotton or cleansing tissues and dried thoroughly.

Soaps and harsh toilet tissue should be avoided. Friction from and the chemicals in the latter irritate this sensitive area. Soaps accumulate in the anal folds during a bath or a shower and irritates the parts unless rinsed away thoroughly. the overly sensitive person may itch for days, even though the soap was in contact with the anal area for only a short time.

HUNDREDS OF rectal ointments, salves, and suppositories are available. All enjoy a certain degree of popularity or they would not be on the druggist's shelf. The best ointments for ordinary irritations contain hydrocortisone, potassium permanganate, gentian violet, or acid mantle.

Ointments with an anesthetic such as procaine may relieve distress but many victims develop a sensitivity to the ingredients.

Men and women with trouble along this line should be careful of what they eat and drink to avoid rectal congestion.

(Dr. Van Dellen will answer questions on medical topics if stamped, self-addressed envelope accompanies request to the I-J.)

DRY, BURNING LIPS

A reader writes: I am 55 years old and my lips are very dry, chapped and have a burning sensation. I use creams and lip salves but these measures do not seem to help.What would cause this?

"I've been trying to tune in 'The Doctors,' but apparently they aren't making house calls."

Finch Urges Closer Ties In Handling School Issues

WASHINGTON (AP) — Robert H. Finch, secretary of Health, Education and Welfare, says the Justice Department filed recent school desegregation suits in the South without consulting him.

Finch wrote off the incident as part of the birth pangs of a new administration, but he called for more coordination in the future.

"We're going to have to have a greater interface between the two—Justice and HEW—in this whole compliance area and across the nation," he said. "But we haven't been in office long enough to get that working relationship established yet."

Atty. Gen. John Mitchell filed the lawsuits in Louisiana and Houston a few days after Finch had described the cutting off of federal aid as the ultimate weapon in school segregation disputes.

In an interview with the Associated Press, Finch said over the weekend the files on the Southern school districts were turned over to the attorney general. "The timing and the nature and the institution of these actions are intirely under his control, and are not done in relation to this department," he said.

Finch made these other points:

His department is following, but re-examining, school desegregation guidelines inherited from the Democratic administration.

The Supreme Court has prohibited "deliberate discrimination" but not segregation as such.

"If you look at the Supreme Court decision, segregation, in fact, is not prohibited by law," Finch said.

"What is prohibited is deliberate discrimination.

"And so you have to find hard evidence that someone, the people in a community, are deliberately creating situations which lead to discrimination.

"If segregation in fact were prohibited by law, what are you going to do with all the solid Negro schools in solid Negro areas in Northern cities?"

Finch said a proposal by a Nixon task force for setting a federal floor under welfare payments was being considered.

"It's not a case of taking over the functions of the states in the welfare field," he said. "It's a case of trying to find a brokerage, or a mean level, between the enormous disparity of an $8 figure in a Southern state or a $70 figure in an industrial state."

Finch said he hoped the welfare changes could be initiated before the end of the Vietnam War.

The secretary held out little hope for a massive block grant program that would pump billions of dollars of federal revenue into state and local economies.

"We're just spread too thin as long as we have the commitments we do abroad," he said.

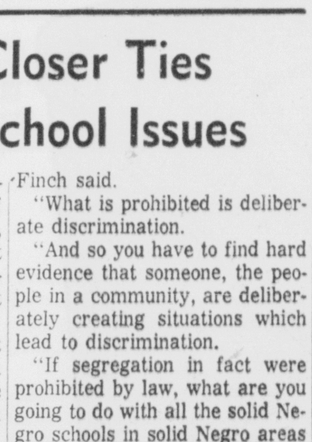
Finch agreed with New York Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller that states and cities face a major fiscal crisis, but disagreed with Rockefeller's suggestion that the federal surtax be continued to pay for some of the education costs now borne locally.

The cabinet official noted President Nixon called during the campaign for elimination of the surtax as quickly as possible.

Finch went on, "I'm not sure we should get into the business of having a specific federal tax for education. Earmarking is sometimes dangerous, particularly on this scale."

The HEW official also rejected Rockefeller's proposal that the federal government eventually take over all welfare costs.

"I don't propose . . . to take all of this $50 billion budget and go into the business of being a Department of the Dole," Finch said.



TV REVIEW

Excellent Experiment In Drama

By RICK DU BROW

HOLLYWOOD (UPI)—"NBC Experiment in Television," which appears mostly on weekend afternoons, illustrated again yesterday why it ought to have a regular prime time spot: this time with a drama about a Negro American teacher who visits his German-born, black nephew in Munich.

There was no major "experiment" in the fine piece of work by writer Manya Starr, who did the original teleplay. It was simply a first-rate contribution to television, far superior to almost anything seen in prime time, and one hopes it gets a rerun outing at night before the mass audience.

A TRUE STORY

The production, in fact, was such a true and affecting story—involving a search for identity by the teacher, the nephew and the youth's white German mother—that one felt it definitely had the makings to be expanded into a full-length motion picture.

There were times that the video compression had a constricting effect on the story, which was fairly bursting—as a living piece of work always will be—to be told in all its proper dimension. It was little surprise, then, to learn that Bavaria Film Atelier, with which NBC-TV collaborated in the production, "will show a longer version in Germany."

The one-hour video drama, "Color Me German," offered three principal characters who were so compelling that one could identify in compassion with all of them. And the location filming in and around Munich contributed greatly to the simple reality that was so winning in the story.

PORTRAYS TEACHER

James Edwards, whom many moviegoers will remember vividly from "Home of the Brave," portrayed the American teacher—a man who is uncomfortable in middle age with the new racial militancy in the United States, and whose doubts about his place in U.S. life have him thinking about staying in Munich.

Ron Williams, as the black 23-year-old German nephew, had the role of a youngster who was sired by an American G.I., and who tries—perhaps too hard—to believe he is truly accepted in Germany, but knows in his heart he is not.

Rosemarie Fendel, as the attractive white woman who lives with her black son, played a brave but tragic lady whose life was ruined by the illegitimate birth, whose family refuses to accept her offspring and whose boyfriend will not marry her so long as the young man is around.

Miss Starr's play, produced and directed with grace and feeling by Victor Vicas, touched feelingly on the problem of the thousands of "mischlings" (children of mixed racial parentage), but never slipped away from its gripping story of three people.

THE SHOWDOWN

The arrival in Munich of the teacher, portrayed with searing restraint by Edwards, precipitates the showdown in the lives of all three. Immediately he becomes a father substitute for the high-spirited, good-natured black youth, whose role was enacted by Williams with a poignant attractiveness that made the play come alive—and stay that way.

The mother and Edwards are attracted to each other, and for a while it looks as though something will come of this—making for a new family of three. But several incidents make all too clear to Edwards the real state of his nephew in Germany.

Two U.S. presidents, Dwight Eisenhower and U. S. Grant, were West Point men.

Student Boom Before Panel

UNITED NATIONS, N.Y. (AP) — The school population is rising rapidly in Asia, Africa and Latin America, a UNESCO world review of education says. It predicts an increase of nearly 70 million pupils from 1965 to 1970.

The report from the U.N. Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization says in the developed countries of Europe and North America enrollment is increasing substantially in high schools and colleges but declining in primary schools.

The review was put before the U.N. Commission for Social Development opening a 16-day session at U.N. headquarters today to make plans for participation in the world organization's second Development Decade, 1971-80.

Three Of Nine Jailed In Bombings Beaten

REDWOOD CITY (AP)—Fellow prisoners in the San Mateo County Jail beat three of nine persons arrested in connection with a series of bombings on the San Francisco Peninsula.

A monitoring system in the jail's tanks yesterday morning brought San Mateo County sheriff's deputies to rescue Donald Kay Smith, 22, of Palo Alto who was on the floor with a bloody face.

Robert Lake, 23, and Walter Lamar Peddy, 24, both of Redwood City, were treated for cuts and possible rib fractures Saturday.

Deputies said they were investigating the beatings. Two men questioned about Smith were reported to have said he was a Nazi and that they were "tired of those bombings."

The other six held in the bombings and other harassment—mainly of pacifist establishments—are Joseph Cooney, 50, James McGee, 34, his wife, Donna, 32, and Brent McLean, 20, all of Menlo Park; Douglas Naher, 18, of Redwood City, and John Mirto, 24, of Palo Alto.

They were arrested Friday night and Saturday in raids by members of five police departments who also uncovered 75 pounds of black powder, 30 guns, swastika arm bands, pictures of George Lincoln Rockwell and Adolf Hitler and Nazi flags.

Mirto, posted $12,500 bail and was released. The others remained in San Mateo County jail over the weekend.

They are charged with advocating and abetting commission of acts of violence to affect political change, conspiracy to tear gas and bomb and assembly of people and a variety of gun law violations.

Menlo Park and adjacent Palo Alto have been the scene of nearly 40 bombings since October, most directed against peace and antiwar groups and the Midpeninsula Free University.

The nine are all members of a Bible study group called "The Society of Man," police said. Armand Lareau, a 25-year-old Menlo Park police officer, infiltrated the group after intimating he was dissatisified with liberal policies in his department.

To test his loyalty members forced Lareau through a "Russian roulette" session with a carbine while his wife was in the hospital bearing their first child.

Lareau took three tear gas grenades, with permission of his chief, from the police department arsenal. These were to be used to disrupt a church discussion, officers said.

It was illegal in the Hittite civilization around 1500 B.C. to steal swarming bees.

Newton Vows Panther Offensive

Each person entering Berkeley Community Theater for the party celebrating Newton's 27th birthday, was searched at the door by a Black Panther.

"Just as our brothers in Vietnam had the Tet offensive last year, this celebration will only be a prelude for celebration to the offensive that we are going to wage in the not too far future," Newton said.

Charles Garry, attorney who is appealing Newton's voluntary manslaughter conviction, asserted a "racist power structure" is keeping Newton "caged like an animal when he should be free on bail during his appeal."

Newton, co-founder of the militant Negro party, was convicted in the October 1967 fatal shooting of white policeman John Frey in Oakland and sentenced last fall to two to 15 years in prison. He is in the California Men's Colony near San Luis Obispo.

Art Presentation

Frank Milner, a College of Marin art instructor, will present "new visual forms in art" at 8 p.m. Tuesday at the Frances Young Gallery in Ross, sponsored by the Marin Society of Artists.

Third, Final Phase Begins On Pueblo Investigation

CORONADO, Calif. (AP) — "We came out of this thing with amazing morale," said the Pueblo's executive officer. "There was no brainwashing. If anybody was brainwashed, it was the other side."

After the crew's return in December from North Korean imprisonment, Lt. Edward R. Murphy Jr. also told newsmen: "We had absolute faith in the American government."

Murphy was recalled to testify today before a Navy court of inquiry shifting its focus from the mission and capture of the U.S. intelligence ship to the imprisonment of its men.

This begins the third and final phase of the court's month-long investigation ordered by the commander-in-chief of the Pacific Fleet. Open session of the court was to resume at 4 p.m.

The court of five admirals returned Saturday from what its president, Vice Adm. Harold G. Bowen Jr., described as an extremely useful inspection of the USS Palm Beach.

The Palm Beach, a sister ship of the Pueblo based at Norfolk, Va., gave the court "an appreciation of the situation on the Pueblo," said the civilian attorney for Pueblo skipper Lloyd M. Bucher.

The lawyer, E. Miles Harvey, told newsmen in Norfolk the tour was the first time any of the five admirals had been aboard an intelligence ship.

Harvey, who accompanied the court, said it made him "more sympathetic with the problems Cmdr. Bucher was faced with . . .

"You could understand the difficulty in going topside . . . the exposure of the gun mounts.

"We had thought the Pueblo's research spaces were larger than they turned out to be. We know how crowded the Pueblo was . . . adding to the confusion" at the time of its capture.

Bucher stayed in San Diego doing administrative work for his crew and spending some time with his family.

Fairfax Trustees To Study Budget

Preliminary budget studies for the Fairfax School District will begin at a meeting of the district board at 7:45 p.m. tomorrow in the district office at 58 Park Road.

Among the items to be studied is the possibility of a tax increase in the 1969-70 fiscal year.

California's first constitution was written at Colton Hall in Monterey.

Williams—Baseball's First Million Dollar Manager?

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ted Williams—baseball's fierce, feuding perfectionist-concedes his first problem as manager of the hapless Washington Senators will be patience.

Attorneys met today to put the wrapping on the rich package of stock that will make Williams the part-owner as well as manager of the Senators in an apparent million-dollar deal.

Although the formal announcement by the Senators at a news conference is not expected before tomorrow, Williams already is itching to get back into the game.

"I'm ready to go," he said. "I'm really getting excited about it."

Williams, baseball's greatest living hitter with a career average of .344, will be taking over a last-place team that hasn't been able to escape the American League's second division for 22 straight years.

The Boston Red Sox slugger, still remembered for historic feuds with fans, admits his nerves may be on trial with the sickly Senators.

"I remember the last few years when I would sit out the second game of doubleheaders. I would be a nervous wreck," Williams said. "The emotional part is going to be the problem. The patience part."

Spring training is only a week away for Washington, and Williams, after eight years outside baseball, is finding not only the rest of the league but even the Senators' roster crowded with strange names he doesn't know.

Williams said he is anxious to take up the challenge, to prove himself again as manager after having been one of the game's greatest players.

The Hall of Fame hitter joked. "I may end up with an ulcer. I've seen these managers and I've asked them how they feel and they say 'fine'—but they look awful."

The Senators are prepared to sign Williams to a long-range contract running from three to five years at something beyond $50,000 annually.

Williams will also get options to buy a bundle of stock in the club—perhaps 10 per cent, or $900,000 worth.

The Senators' new owner, Robert E. Short, who bought the club less than a month ago, wouldn't discuss reports that Williams will be baseball's first million-dollar manager.

"I don't know how they figure it. I don't want to say anything about it now," Short said.

Short, a Minnesota millionaire, was flying back here from his home later today. Williams spent what could be his last peaceful weekend for a long time at his retreat in the Florida Keys.

Williams said, "Even a couple of days ago I couldn't imagine this happening. It had almost gotten to the point where baseball had gotten away from me. But now I'm getting geared up for this thing. I'm really getting excited."

Williams—who said he hasn't mellowed since retiring from baseball "but I've stabilized a little more"—promised no immediate miracles for the Senators.

"I'm no Houdini," he said. "I know I'm going to make mistakes. I think Mr. Short expects a few blunders and he'll get 'em, too. But I think there will be more pluses than minuses with me."

Giddings Tells Good Fish Story Himself

FISH TALE—This is a fish story which isn't a "fish story" because it comes from the most authoritative source in the realm of Marin County outdoors. And when Al Giddings tells you a yarn about the field and stream you'd better believe it because he is a warden for the California Department of Fish and Game; the Bounty County is his beat.

This fish story is all the more enjoyable because it happened to Giddings hisself. Let's go back to the beginning: In February of 1959, Giddings was fishing in San Pablo Bay and hooked onto a whopping sturgeon that took him and his small boat on a joy ride to end all joy rides. Two hours and 55 minutes and several miles later the exhausted Giddings finally boated the ugly beast, which weighed in at 102 pounds.

Which was a pretty fair killing because Giddings was using a Fenwick medium action rod which wasn't designed for such heavyweight action, hence the lengthy battle.

A Heavy Duty Rod Needed

"At the time I happened to mention it to a Fenwick Co. representative who was here at the Marin Rod and Gun Club's sports show," said Giddings, "and he told me he'd send me a heavy duty rod for the next time I tangled with a sturgeon. Which he did, and I've used it many times during the past 10 years.

"Now," he continued, "here is the ironical part of the story. Just last week, almost 10 years to the day after I caught that other sturgeon, I hooked onto another one near the Richmond Bridge. I was using my heavy duty Fenwick and instead of 2 hours and 55 minutes, this one fought me for only 45 minutes and it, too, weighed exactly 102 pounds. Funny thing, though: My heavy duty rod broke, but I still managed to boat the sturgeon."

13½ Pounds Of Cavier

Giddings said his latest six-foot long monster produced 13½ pounds of cavier and about 60 pounds of "beautiful steaks."

So now you know what fish and game wardens do on their days off. And you can probably make a bet that in February of 1979, Al Giddings will go fishing on San Pablo Bay and catch a 102 pound sturgeon.

OUI OUI SKI—Jean Pierre Le Brat of the French national ski team was a house guest of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Lysagt at 220 Martinique Avenue, Paradise Cay, Tiburon, Friday night. His teammates, the fantastic Jean-Claude Chevy — I mean Killy — and Claude Beaudiuin didn't show up as expected. Le Brat, a long-time friend of the Lysagts, left at 3 a.m. Saturday for Aspen, Colo. slopes.

Littler Wins In Phoenix

The 38-year-old from San Diego won the Phoenix Open a decade ago with a 268 and then captured the title at Tucson where this year's tournament starts on Thursday.

"I'd say it was probably the best 72-holes I've ever played," declared Littler of his tours over the 6,389-yard Arizona Country Club course. On Saturday he equalled the course record with a nine-under-par 62 and he finished the 72 holes 21 strokes below regulation figures.

Littler still came up to the 18th needing a par to win since Miller Barber, Don January and Billy Maxwell each had carded a 265 and waited to see if there would be a play-off. When the three ended up in a tie, they each received $7,733.

Gene's second shot on the the green. He chipped up close par-5 hole landed just short of to the cup and holed out for a birdie to give him a two-stroke bulge over the trio.

To get his $20,000 first prize, Littler shot a 69, 66, 62, 66, and the first prize sent him ahead among golf's money winners for 1969 with $47,902. It also marked his first tournament victory since the 1965 Canadian Open.

Littler won the Phoenix Open in 1955 and 1959.

Tied at 267, a stroke behind the previous tournament record shared by South Africa's Bobby Locke and Littler, in his 1959 victory, were Ray Floyd, Terry Wilcox and Jack Ewing, who finished with 65, 67, 68, respectively.

Barber sank a 10-foot putt for an eagle on the 18th for his 64 to go into the three-way tie for second with January, 66, and Maxwell, 66.

Buttler carded seven birdies and two bogeys on his final round.

Heading for Tucson and play at the Tucson National Golf Club, Littler recalled, "I played well there once, but not so well the other times. The greens are gigantic. I prefer small greens where you can keep your perspective."

Of his final round in Phoenix, he commented, "I putted well, but other than that, I didn't play too well."

Warriors Return Home After Four-Game Split

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — Back from a split in four games with strong eastern teams, the San Francisco Warriors entertain Detroit in a National Basketball Association contest tomorrow night at the Civic Auditorium.

Nate Thurmond sparked the Warriors to a 113-106 victory over the Atlanta Hawks yesterday, scoring 36 points — 19 of them in the second half.

The Warriors never trailed and the Hawks tied the score only once.

Jeff Mullins added 25 points for the Warriors, including 15 in the second half. Zelmo Beaty topped Atlanta with 29.

On Saturday night, the Warriors were the 11th straight victims of New York, 98-92. Walt Frazier helped the Knickerbockers gain their 28th victory in 32 starts by scoring 24 points. Thurmond also scored 24 for the Warriors.

In two other road games last week, San Francisco lost to Eastern Division leader Baltimore but beat the Philadelphia 76ers.

Screaming Soccer Fans In Wild Riot

TURIN, Italy (AP) — Screaming and stone throwing fans of Turin's Juventus soccer team staged a wild melee at the local stadium last night after their team tied 2-2 with Rome in a tumultuous premier league match.

Venting their anger at the referee of the game, Antonio Marchi, the fans besieged the dressing room. Marchi had to leave in a police car.

During the four hour battle, one fan forced his way into the Rome's team's bus and spit in the face of Argentine Coach Helenio Herrera.

Another brandished a loaded gun at the Rome players. He was arrested by police, to whom he showed an authorization to bear arms. He was still taken into custody.

Three persons, including a bystander who had not attended the match, were injured in the fray.

The fans threw stones, snowballs and chunks of wood at the buses and television cars leaving the stadium. Five vehicles were badly damaged.

Sonoma State Cage Team Takes A Loss

Sonoma State lost its ninth Far Western Conference game, giving league-leading and unbeaten San Francisco State a good battle before bowing, 51-48, at Rohnert Park Saturday.

Girard Chatman scored more than half of San Francisco State's points, getting 26.

Seals Lose To Philly Skaters

OAKLAND (AP) — Looking for a victory after a tie and a loss in successive days, the Oakland Seals catch the Chicago Black Hawks in one of their rare down years Wednesday night at the Oakland Arena.

The perennially strong Black Hawks are last in the National Hockey League's East Division. The Seals, 21-27-9, hold second in the West Division.

Philadelphia edged Oakland 3-2 yesterday as Larry Hale scored twice in helping the Flyers snap a nine-game losing streak.

The defenseman, who had scored only once previously in his NHL career, connected on a rebound at 13:11 of the first period and again at 17:19.

The Flyers increased their lead to 3-0 in the first minute of the second period when Andre Lacroix tipped in a shot by Allan Stanley.

The Seals closed to 3-2 on second period goals by Ted Hampson and Earl Ingarfield.

A Philadelphia goal by Brit Selby was disallowed in the third period and goalie Bernie Parent protected the slim lead with a clutch save on a shot by the Seals' Norm Ferguson.

The Seals gained a 4-4 tie at Pittsburgh Saturday night on a screen slapshot by Hampson with 1½ minutes left.

PREP BASKETBALL

Breather, Toughie On Tap

It's a breather for Redwood High and a toughie for Novato in the Marin County Athletic League basketball race that has quietly turned into a two-team affair.

Redwood (9-1) and Novato (8-2) are the front-runners, although technically, Terra Linda and San Rafael, both 6-4, are still alive.

The Giants will undoubtedly take a step closer to the title tomorrow afternoon when they play tail-ender San Marin (1-9) at San Marin High in Novato.

But Novato should be in a battle when it hosts San Rafael, a team that holds an over-time victory over the Hornets.

In other games, Tamalpais (4-6) is at Terra Linda and Drake (4-6) visits Marin Catholic (2-8) in Kentfield.

All games start at 4 p.m.

Redwood shouldn't have any trouble chalking up league victory No. 10 and season victory No. 20 against the novice Mustangs, even though San Marin has added firepower with the addition of junior varsity star Mike Kassenbrock. The Giants won last time out, 81-30.

Novato will have to get a little more versatile to get by San Rafael. In the Hornets' last outing against the Bulldogs, Steve McNally and Ed Hernberger scored 20 and 22 points, respectively, but they lost, 58-61. Herrnberger and McNally are undoubtedly two of the best players in the league, but such concentration of scoring power can backfire.

The Bulldogs are more balanced, headed by Bruce Nave, Roger Thomas, Ray Taylor and Bill Sleezer. There is less pressure on them while the Hornets must win to have a good chance at Redwood.

Terra Linda will be looking for a repeat performance of an earlier win over Tamalpais. Both teams have been inconsistent of late, with the Indians losing one-point decisions to Marin Catholic and Drake.

Marin Catholic is dead dangerous in its own, noisy gym and could provide the surprising up and-down Pirates with avery rough evening.

Drake owns surprise victories

Stanford Frosh Quint Bombs Icy Marin Tars

Stanford University's new basketball palace, Roscoe Maples Pavilion, made a big impression on the College of Marin Tar basketballers Saturday night, but not as big as the one the Stanford freshmen did.

The Papooses nearly ran Marin out of Palo Alto, shooting 55 per cent en route to an 86-39 triumph in the preliminary to the Stanford-Oregon game.

Marin got only 10 field goals all night, two in the second half, when they shot an incredibly cold 8 per cent and went 11 minutes without a basket. Guard Daryl Ravani hit on 12 of 14 throws to lead the Tar scoring without chalking up a single bucket. Pat Schafer had 11 and six rebounds, as the Mariners were beaten off the boards 40 to 26, being particularly outclassed on defensive rebounds.

The Mariners, now 9-12 on the year, must sweep their remaining four games to end up above .500. They play Solano College of Vallejo Wednesday night at Kentfield in a Camino Norte Conference game. Marin is 5-3 in conference play, having lost twice by a point and once to Contra Costa College of San Pablo, the unbeaten (8-0) CNC leader and almost certain champion.

PREP WRESTLING

Novato Second In North Coast

Novato High School, paced by the durable Donaldson twins, won its third straight second-place trophy in the North Coast Section wrestling meet, finishing behind Tennyson High at Chabot College in Hayward, Saturday.

Tennyson, of Hayward, had 90 points, and the Hornets had 63.

TOUGH HORNETS

The Donaldsons, Ken and Kirt, cleaned up and so did another Hornet, Rob McCown.

Ken took home everything but the concession money as he captured the tournament's most outstanding wrestling award and a trophy for recording the most falls in the fastest times en route to gobbling up the 123-pound title.

It still wasn't easy for him. One of the returning champs in the meet, Ken dispatched his first three opponents, champions all, in a total time of seven minutes, but then needed a final period reversal to win, 3-2, in the finals.

SHUTOUTS

Kirt didn't get a single fall, but he won his opener on a forfeit, then won three straight shutout decisions, 10-0, 6-0 and 7-0 to take the 115-pound title.

McCown captured the 148-pound title on a forfeit, a fall, a 2-1 decision overtime verdict and a 5-4 victory in the finals.

Charles McBride of Tamalpais finished second in the heavyweight division.

TWO MORE

Paul Robertson, also of Novato, took a third in the 136-pound division and Tom Zechlin, another Hornet, was fourth in the 194-pound division.

The Donaldsons, McCown, McBride, Robertson and Zechlin all advance to the Northern California Invitational Meet in Stockton, scheduled Saturday.

More Baseball Meetings On Schedule

NEW YORK (AP) — After reports of some progress during the weekend, representatives of major league teams and their players were scheduled to meet again today in another effort to settle a boycott that threatens the 1969 season.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association, was expected to answer the owners' latest pension proposal.

At the same time, the New York Yankees prepared to become the second team to open advance spring training camp, with or without boycotting veterans. Most of the other clubs are scheduled to open camp for pitchers and catchers later in the week.

The latest proposal was not made public, but the players already have rejected an offer by the owners to increase the pension fund by $1 million to $5.1 million.

Boy, 13, Bowls Perfect Game

TOLEDO, Ohio (AP) — A 13-year-old Toledo boy became the youngest bowler ever to roll a 300 game in sanctioned competition yesterday.

John Stewart, who bowls in two leagues—averaging 152 in one and 154 in the other—performed the feat in a 165-300-161—626 series.

The American Bowling Congress in Milwaukee, Wis., said John was five days younger when he set the mark than the previous young record holder, Raymond Russaw of Kansas City.

Good Try, But Kiki Is Second

The 19-year-old Olympian from Bend, Ore., flashed through the 58-gate course in 47-79 seconds yesterday in her second run, the fastest in the field at Yvsoke Tatry.

But Miss Gabl's two runs, totaling 89.27, gave the favored Austrian girl first place overall, with Miss Cutter right behind her at 89.92. Marilyn Cochran of Richmond, Vt., was 12th at 98.30.

The Austrian news agency, APA, said Miss Gabl had times of 41.07 and 48.20. Miss Cutter was timed in 41.07 through the 55 gates of the first course.

Miss Gabl is the leader in the World Cup standings for the slalom with 75 points and second in the over-all standings.

Judy Nagel, Enumclaw, Wash.., is second with 60 followed by Annie Famose of France, 51, and Miss Cutter, 50. Cathy Nagel, Judy's sister, is tied with Rosi Mittermaier of West Germany at 37.

Miss cutter is tied for third place with Miss Mittermaier in the over-all standings for 13 races with 81 points.

In team standings, France leads with 413 points, with Austria second at 293 and the United States third at 257.

Manager King, Perry Lone Giants At Training Camp

COMBINED AP & UPI

The San Francisco Giants open their pre-spring training conditioning camp at the Buckhorn Spa in Arizona today and about the only ones who'll be there are new skipper Clyde King and star pitcher Gaylord Perry.

The Buckhorns stay comes a week before the Giants open their camp at Casa Grande, Ariz., and is designed to help older players concerned about weight problems.

King has been at the Spa almost a week now. He was joined by trainer Leo Hughes Friday and Perry is expected to make an appearance today. All pitchers and several other players were invited to Buckhorn. However, the Players Association strike is expected to limit the attendance to King and Perry.

Perry has not signed his 1969 veteran San Francisco players. However, he said he needs the work at Buckhorn and is going there at his own expense.

Oaks Lose; Barry Out For Season

HOUSTON (AP) — Few People worried when the Oakland Oaks lost a couple of American Basketball Association games back to back.

At the time, they led second-place Denver by 12 games in the Western Division.

But now the Oaks have lost four out of their last five, Rick Barry is out for the season and everybody is worried.

The Oaks fell 119-116 at Dallas yesterday and lost at home Saturday night to New Orleans, 137-122.

The Oaks, now 41-10 and 9½ ahead of Denver, play Houston tonight and go to Denver tomorrow night.

Dallas took advantage of Oakland's cold shooting in the fourth quarter, scoring 11 points in the final three minutes while holding Oakland scoreless.

The Oaks sorely missed the scoring punch of 6-7 Barry, who said Saturday he will undergo an operation in Los Angeles March 3 to repair ligaments in his left knee. Doctors say he won't play until fall.

Limits All Around For Salmon Anglers

After a day's delay due to ugly weather, the 1969 salmon season got underway yesterday at 6 a.m. under clear and sunny skies, with 15 boats joining the fleet out of Sausalito.

Only about half of the fleet went out yesterday, with earlier bad weather keeping some away. In addition, not all the reservations were filled.

The fishermen, about 20 per cent of whom were Marinites, all bagged three-fish limits, the Sausalito Boat and Tackle Shop reported. Biggest catch was reported to be a 15-pounder.

Most catches averaged from 10 to 12 pounds.

The fishing was especially good between Muir Beach and Slide Ranch, anywhere from one half to two miles out from shore.

Nine boats went out of Caruso's Bait, Tackle and Supplies in Sausalito. All came back with limits, totaling out to 264 salmon.

The six boats that went out of the Sausalito Bait and Tackle Shop came back with full-limit total of 107 fish.

Some 34 party boats operate out of Sausalito during salmon season. The fee per person is $13, which includes baits.

The fleet didn't make it out Saturday, having to come back because of an exceptionally big sea and rough weather.

The limit per person will remain at three fish until March 1, when it drops to two.

Lee MacPhail Suffers Attack

WHITE PLAINS, N.Y. (UPI) —Lee MacPhail, 51-year-old general manager of the New York Yankees, was stricken by a mild coronary attack yesterday afternoon at his home in Hartsdale, N.Y. just before he was going to depart to the Yankees' spring training camp.

MacPhail, who never lost consciousness, was rushed to the White Plains Hospital. A Yankee spokesman described his condition as "not serious" although he will be hospitalized for from two to three weeks and probably won't be able to return to his duties for two months. He had been scheduled to fly to Fort Lauderdale yesterday because the Yanks open their training camp today.

Swimmers Snap Two Records

Marin Swim Club relay teams broke two national records at the mammoth 12th Annual Alameda Naval Air Station Invitational "A" Age Group Swim Meet Saturday and yesterday.

Some 2,700 swimmers showed up for this rare 50-yard pool meet.

The Marin Swim Club girls 13-14 team of Denise Ham, Anne Engel, Nanette Guthrie and Cooke Arrighi shattered the 400-yard freestyle relay mark clocking in at 4:00.2 to better the 1965 Arden Hills Swim Club record of 4:009.7. Then, Misses Engel, Ham and Arrighi teamed up with Sue Secondo to clip a full ten seconds off the 400 medley relay mark, whizzing in at 4:32.3, to better the old mark if 4:43.0, set by the Commerce, Calif., club in 1964.

Individually, Denise Ham was tops for Marin, getting two firsts, in the 100 butterfly and the 200 individual medley, in addition to grabbing a second, a seventh and an eighth.

Cookie Arrighi placed in six events, Maura Campion had five medals, Rick Demont had five place finishes in boys 11-12 and Spencer Eldred placed once in the same division for Marin.

Jo Hislop tipped the San Rafael Swim Club, getting a first in the girls 13-14 500 free and 100 free, and garnering two seconds and a third.

Placing four times for San Rafael were Scott Hislop, boys 10-under, Kathi Hislop 15-17 and Wendy Pederman, girls 15-17.

Tami McDuffie placed twice in girls 11-12 and Nancy Placak, girls eight-under, Peter Behn, boys 10-under, Kimi Fox, girls 11-12 and Leslie Bryans, girls 13-14, placed once each. San Rafael also placed in five relay events.

BOWLING TIPS

By DON CARTER

Be sure your shoulders are parallel to the foul line after you've released the ball (see illustration). It is easy to fall into a habit of having the right shoulder thrust forward, but it is a habit that will cost you in accuracy.

Smith Captures Net Title

SALISBURY, Md. (UPI)—Ismael El Shafei Jr. of Egypt, the surprising finalist in the U.S. Indoor tennis championships, became the crowd favorite yesterday and won the Sportsmanship Award.

But he was no match for Stan Smith of Pasadena, Calif. in the pressure-packed last two sets yesterday as Smith, fighting off a cold, swept to a 6-3, 6-8, 6-4, 6-4 victory in the U.S. singles finals.

Smith, overconfident after his key victory over Clark Graebner Saturday night and slightly ill from the cold, seemed to be in a bit of trouble in the second set when El Shafei tied the match at one set apiece and got the crowd cheering for an upset.

Smith, noted as one of the world's best doubles players, then came back to win the last two sets by 6-4 margins to close out the triumph.

Smith made it to the semi-finals of this tournament last year before being beaten by Cliff Richey. This time he was the underdog in the semi-finals because he had never beaten Graebner before in tournament competition.

But once he knocked off Graebner, he was a heavy favorite in his first appearance in the finals and he made it a successful one against the outmanned El Shafei.

Yacht Race Attracts Five Nations

Seven skippers from five nations will head their yachts out of the Golden Gate March 15 in a 6,000-mile nonstop race to Tokyo, the San Francisco Yacht Club of Belvedere said yesterday.

The race, planned for several months, will take at least two months.

The lone American, Jerry Cartwright of Portland, will sail his 29-foot Cascade sloop to San Francisco Bay next week.

He joins two entrants from France, another pair from Japan and single representatives of Germany and Belgium.

Their boats, en route to San Francisco on freighters, range in length from 27 feet to the maximum allowable 35. The minimum allowable length is 24 feet.

The San Francisco Yacht Club, which joins the Slocum Society of New York and the Nippon Ocean Racing Club in sponsoring the race, will provide berthing and has appointed a committee to inspect the boats for seaworthiness.

Among required equipment are provisions for 90 days, 45 gallons of water, radio receiver, radar reflector and repair kits.

Famed Colgate Grid Coach Andy Kerr Succumbs At 90

HAMILTON, N.Y. (AP) — Andrew 'Andy' Kerr, fondly known during his 18 years as Colgate University's head football coach as The canny Scot of the Chenango, died yesterday in Tucson, Ariz. He was 90.

The small, wiry protege of Glenn S. 'Pop' Warner led the Colgate Red Raiders to 95 victories, 50 defeats and seven ties. The 95th was on Thanksgiving Day 1946, when they beat Brown, and Kerr, having reached the school's mandatory retirement age of 68, retired after his 152nd game as their coach.

In Tucson, Dr. Delbert Secrist said Kerr apparently died from hardening of the arteries and a leak in his abdominal aorta.

Secrist, who played as a right end for Kerr at Washington and Jefferson, said he had been treating his former coach for diabetis. He said Kerr went into a diabetic coma Wednesday night, but apparently came out of it Saturday.

"I am sure anyone who ever played for Andy would have given him his right arm," Secrist said. "He was a great guy."

Arizona Mortuary said the body would be sent back to Hamilton, N.Y., for services and burial.

Kerr and razzle dazzle football are synonymous. His facination with the Warner style began in his school days, when his stockman father moved the family from Kerr's native Cheyenne, Wyo., to Carlisle, Pa., Warner's home town.

In 1914 the canny Scot began collegiate coaching at the University of Pittsburgh, becoming freshman football coach the next year under Warner and remaining at Pitt for eight years.

Kerr went to Stanford University as head coach in 1922 to install the Warner double wingback system and direct the teams until his mentor arrived in 1924 to begin a contract he signed in 1921.

Kerr stayed as an assistant and then went to Washington and Jefferson as football and basketball coach—that gridiron team lost one game his first year, in the last 20 seconds. The second year they held Pitt, then the Eastern power, to a scoreless tie.

His next assignment was to introduce the bewildering double wing offense to Colate, tucked away here in the Chenango River Valley, and establish it as one of the most colorful squads on the gridiron.

New Year's Day in 1947 marked the 20th consecutive year Kerr served as head coach of the East in the East-West Shrine game at San Francisco, a benefit begun in 1925 for crippled children.

Kerr stayed in retirement six months before he went to coach at the small Pennsylvania college of Lebanon Valley, stipulating in that contract that he be permitted to continue to coach the East eleven.

In 1959, he returned home to Hamilton.

Len Macaluso, John Orsi, Bob Smith, Charles Wasicek and Ernie Nevers were among the several outstanding football players Kerr had a hand in developing.

Teams Tie For First In Golf Tournament

Two teams tied for first place yesterday in the Marin Country Club's best ball foursome golf tournament at the Novato course.

Tied at net 61 each were the quartets of Pat McAlonan, Dick Kaye, Dave Rosenkrantz and Don Stutzman, and Jim Hendricks, Frank King, Bob Rutherford and Ben Munson.

A stroke behind were Don Thompson, Stan Mertel, Ken Harais and Milt Morley.

UCLA, Santa Clara, Move Closer To Cage Showdown

By U.P. INTERNATIONAL

UCLA's bouncing Bruins and Santa Clara's bucking Broncos keep right on moving along toward an almost certain date in the West Coast Regionals of the post-season NCAA college basketball playoffs. And there is hardly a team in sight capable of upsetting the schedule.

The nationally top-ranked Bruins made it 7-0 in the Pacific 8 Conference race, what there is of it, 19-0 overall and 35 in a row in the league Saturday night with an easy, 83-59 rout of Washington State.

The Broncos kept pace by rolling to a 72-47 victory over the University of San Francisco. That left them at 8-0 in the West Coast Athletic Conference and 21-0 overall. The Broncos are ranked third nationally behind UCLA and North Carolina but could move up a notch this week in the wake of North Carolina's 68-66 loss Friday night to South Carolina.

The race, though, goes on with the Bruins playing Washington at Seattle tonight. In the only other game on tap, crosstown rival Southern California is at WSU. About all that's left at stake in the Pac-8 now is a fight for second place between USC and the two Washington schools.

In the WCAC, it's more of the same with Pacific, San Jose State and Santa Barbara only a game apart in the race for second place.

In Saturday's other games, it went this way:

Oregon State 3-5 dropped California, 79-63; Stanford 3-6 upset Oregon, 81-76, and USC 4-3 whipped Washington, 69-51, in the Pac-8.

In the WCAC, it was Pepperdine (3-5) over Loyola (1-7), 69-64; UOP (6-2) over St. Mary's (2-6), 82-53, and San Jose State (6-2) over Santa Barbara (5-3), 85-77.

Elsewhere, Linfield won its fifth straight Northwest Conference title by beating Whitman, 92-65; Long Beach State clinched a tie for the California Collegiate Athletic Association title by downing Cal Poly of San Luis Obispo, 106-72; nationally third-ranked small college power Nevada of Las Vegas whipped the University of San Diego, 99-76; nationally ninth-ranked Puget Sound downed Hawaii, 95-84, and San Francisco State stayed atop the Far Western Conference race with a 9-0 mark by beating Sonoma State, 51-48.

INEXPERIENCED YOUTHS GET JOBS

Neighborhood Youth Corps Plugs Gap Ignored By Many Private Employers

By LARRY D. HATFIELD

WANTED: Lots of young people for lots of skilled and semi-skilled jobs.

REQUIREMENT: Experience.

PROBLEM: How can a young person get the experience he needs for a job if he can't get a job he needs for experience?

This, as so many young people — particularly those from the lower income ranges — find out every day, is the unhappy dilemma facing them in today's employment picture.

It often doesn't matter how willing they are, or how long they pound the streets job hunting, they are unemployable simply because they are inexperienced.

But things are changing. Ask Sara Smith, a shy but friendly 21-year-old who works for McGraw-Hill in Novato. Or ask Larry Suldickas, a blond, soft-spoken San Rafael High School senior who works after school at the Marin County Health Department.

Both Miss Smith and Suldickas as well as the county, are beneficiarie of the Neighborhood Youth Corps, started five years ago as one battle front in the federal government's War on Poverty. It is three years old in Marin County and has helped nearly 500 young people gain job skills since its inception, according to its director, James McKenna.

"It's great," says Suldickas, who is now doing clerical work 12 hours a week with the health department and previously worked as a janitor for the Red Cross.

Under the program, youth corps members are found jobs at government or non-profit agencies with the Neighborhood Youth Corps paying their salaries. Suldickas earns $1.45 an hour.

"When I first came on this (the corps program), I didn't have a job at all," he said. "I was completely dependent on Mom for money. Now I'm more or less self-sufficient. I'm saving some money for school and I buy all my own clothes and stuff now." The "stuff" includes a better car to get him back and forth to school and work.

He wants to go on to the College of Marin, then the Navy, but suspects it will have to be the other way around because of money. After that, he wants to go to business college with an eye toward gaining experience for more skilled office jobs. Eventually, he wants to be "not just a regular salesman, but higher up."

Like Suldickas, Miss Smith, a 1966 Tamalpais High graduate, looked long and hard for a job without success before turning to the Neighborhood Youth Corps for help. She could pass any of the required tests, she said, but she never got hired because she didn't have experience.

"I didn't have any experience in anything, really," she said during an interview at her two-week-old job in McGraw-Hill's trade order service where she is a product file clerk. "They (the corps) helped get me started and get experience. I don't know where I'd be if they didn't."

Miss Smith got the job with the big publishing firm after gaining needed experience working under the corps program with the county department of rehabilitation and the district attorney's office.

Not only that, she drives to her new job from her parents' home in Marin City in a sporty four-year-old auto she was able to afford after she started working steadily.

She hopes to stay at McGraw-Hill and learn job skills for two or three years, then go on to "something better," like, perhaps, training for the computer field.

James McKenna, director of the Neighborhood Youth Corps for Marin, said the current phase of the program — spanning from March 1968 to this July and using $155,000 in federal and $47,000 in county funds — will benefit about 180 Marin youngsters.

The program's January report showed that 23 of the 41 people involved in the in-school program—requiring 12 hours of work a week along with school —were members of minority groups. Five of the 19 out-of-school corpsmen—who are required to work 32 hours a week —were minority group members, McKenna said.

He said about 120 Marinites will be aided under the corps' summer program.

Of course, the program hasn't been an unqualified success. McKenna said there have been some dropouts from the program — less than 10 per cent who don't stick it out at least four months — but on the other hand, the corps last year got about 25 per cent of its members permanent full-time jobs.

There has been other criticism, too. There are those who object to the program by asking why the government has to do a job that private enterprise could.

"The plain fact is," answers a businessman who hired a former youth corpsman, "that private enterprise isn't doing the job and there are damned few signs that private enterprise — look right here in Marin — is going to do it. You can like it or not."

University To Keep Professor Hit By Legion

SAN DIEGO (AP) — The University of California at San Diego says it will keep on the faculty Dr. Herbert Marcuse, controversial philosophy professor criticized by the American Legion as an inspiration to rebellious students the world over.

The announcement was made yesterday by Chancellor William McGill.

McGill said it would be the last extension for Marcuse, who at 70 is three years past the normal retirement age.

The decision to retain Marcuse, said McGill, was made after a careful review by a five-member panel of senior faculty members of Marcuse's "academic merits . . . (his) writings, his standing among scholars, his teaching and his service to the university."

The action brought strong criticism from the American Legion's 22nd district judge advocate, Harry Foster, who said McGill "evidently disregarded the feeling of not only the vast majority of the people of this community but of also the state."

Man Is Found Slain In Room Atop Nob Hill

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — A maid checking a room yesterday in the Fairmont Hotel atop Nob Hill found the body of a slain chiropodist.

Homicide detectives identified the victim as Dr. Francis X. Blechinger, 55, of St. Paul, Minn., who was attending a military school for chiropodists at nearby Alameda.

Dr. Blechinger, an Army Reserve officer, had been stabbed twice in the chest and there were strangulation marks on his neck.

His billfold, identification papers and luggage were missing.

Inspectors said they found glasses and bottles in the room, indicating a party may have been held.

The body was discovered at 2:30 p.m. and the coroner's office estimated death had come between 5 a.m. and 7 a.m.

Not A Policeman's Very Best Friend

VIENNA (AP) — A dog and its master took on police and both landed in custody.

The man hit one officer in the face while the dog bit two other policemen. Police said the man will be charged with assaulting a police officer, while the dog will be released from the dog pound after examination proves that it does not have rabies.

Don't fight it.

Let's face it, wet wash is a real monster. Why fight it? Without a dryer you're the victim.

It means that every year you lug 2,000 pounds 40 miles in round trips from house to clothesline. You pinch and unpinch about 10,000 clothespins. And you spend needless hours ironing the press back into permanent press clothes. So why fight it? See your appliance dealer about a new clothes dryer. PG and E
